KHARTOUM (DEC. 17) - Sudan and Zaire have agreed to cooperate to register Sudanese refugees who fled to Zaire after the escalation of the war between the government and the Sudan People's Liberation Army (Spla) in Western Equatoria province, southern Sudan.

Brigadier Dominic Kasiano, member of the ruling Revolution Command Council, told the Sudan News Agency (Suna) Monday that the Sudanese team would be based at the northern Zairean town of Isiro.

He added that a similar arrangement had been made between Sudan and the Central African Republic to register all Sudanese who fled across the border. The brigadier did not say whether there would be repatriation of the refugees after the registration.

No official statistics are yet available but private sources put the estimates at over 10,000 in each of the two countries.

Kasiano returned Sunday from a visit to Zaire and the Central African Republic.

The Spla intensified its attack on Western Equatoria in late November and now claims to control the whole province including the headquarters, Yambio.

The government has made no comment on the Spla claim.

Dresden (DEC. 17) - Beer breweries in western Germany will produce a record 103 million hectolitres of beer this year, ten to eleven per cent over the 1989 level, amid a surge in sales to eastern Germany, a top industry official said here Monday.

German Brewers' Association president Josef Hattig said that the gains had been made at the expense of eastern German brewers, who lost one-third of their sales volume to the West German breweries.

The West German breweries had ''used the opportunities (presented by) the unified German economic region'', Hattig said.

A further factor behind the rise in West German beer production had been that breweries had boarded the ''train of innovation'' by meeting a rising demand for light and non-alcoholic beers, he said. A total of 4 million hectolitres of such beers were produced.

Hattig said eastern German brewers could survive but they must ''quickly become knowledgeable about western know-how and about the variety of types and tastes'' in the beer market.

The 1990 beer production growth has put a stop to the decline or stagnation in West German beer brewing which has gone on since 1976, he said.

VIENNA (DEC. 17) - Austrian President Kurt Waldheim Monday accepted the formation of the country's new government, a revival of the ''grand coalition'' of social democrats and conservatives led by Chancellor Franz Vranitzky.

Vranitzky's Socialist Party of Austria (Spa) and the Austrian People's Party (App) of Vice-Chancellor Josef Riegler will share power again for a four-year period following their victory during general elections on October 6.

The Spa then clinched 80 seats in the 183-seat National Council, or parliament and the App won 60 seats. The opposition right-wing Freedom Party of Austria got 33 seats and the ecological Greens ten.

The two ruling coalition parties will nominate each two state ministers and seven ministers, while the justice minister would be an independent.

Before Waldheim gave the new government his blessing, the Spa and the App agreed to reform electoral laws, the tax system and the state-owned Austrian Federal Railways.

Lusaka (DEC. 17) - President Kenneth Kaunda Monday signed a constitution amendment bill allowing formation of other political parties, ending 17 years of one-party rule.

''Today I am signing bills that are going to change the political structure of the nation from one party to multi-party,'' the president said at a briefing here. ''Those who want to form small political parties are welcome.''

Kaunda dismissed the idea of having an interim government during the transition period saying, ''Unip (United National Independence Party) is a democratically elected government. We will be in power until October 1991 (when elections are held).''

He warned that he would not tolerate violent campaigns.

Reacting to Kaunda's remarks, the Movement for Multi-party Democracy (mmd) chairman, Arthur Wina, said, ''They (the ruling party) are threatening violence indirectly. They are playing with a dangerous situation.

''The patience of pluralists has been stretched too far. We are in institutions, we are in factories, we are in the university, we are in the army. This is a very dangerous force to fight.''

The Mmd, which has retained its name as a newly-formed political party, has said it would give priority to an open market economy, privatisation, local government and parliament, in adoption of its draft republican and party constitutions Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the registrar of societies, George Chaila, told the German Press Agency (dpa) the registration of parties may take a long time.

''There is no estimated time. It will depend on how long police investigations will take,'' Chaila said.

NICOSIA (DEC 17) - Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid arrived in Tripoli Monday, the official Libyan JANA news agency said in a dispatch monitored here.

Mr. Chadli, who flew in from Cairo, was also expected late Monday in Tunis, at the end of an Arab peace mission to avert war in the Gulf, Algerian diplomats in Tunis said.

He is expected to meet his Tunisian counterpart Zine el-Abdine ben Ali whom he had consulted by telephone before embarking on his trip.

The Algerian president said earlier in Cairo that a completely Arab solution in the Gulf was not likely, adding that he could travel to Saudi Arabia on a second tour in the next few days or weeks.

In a statement before leaving the Egyptian capital he stressed that Algerian diplomatic efforts were intended to seek a formula for a peaceful resolution to the crisis, sparked by Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait.

The Algerian leader said he was convinced that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein was interested in talks with the United States.

A U.S.-Iraqi dialogue proposed by President George Bush is now in doubt, with the two sides bickering over dates.

Mr. Chadli has already visited Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, Iraq, Iran and Oman on what had originally been described as a mission to secure an Arab-brokered settlement in the Gulf, notably through a Saudi-Iraq summit.

But he acknowledged Sunday in Damascus that only an "international solution" was now feasible.

PARIS (DEC. 17) - The Paris Bourse gave way on Monday to discouragement about the Gulf situation and the U.S. economy, operators said, and the CAC-40 stock price index lost 1.79 per cent on the day to finish at 1,606.23.

The index was off a hefty 1.42 per cent at the opening, and down more than two per cent in the early afternoon, before recovering a bit of ground.

The loss means that the December trading month, which finishes on Tuesday, has a net loss of 2.04 per cent to date.

Since last January 1, stock prices have dropped by 19.73 per cent.

Investors are also concerned about the prospects of the French economy, which risks stagnation, according to Bourse experts. Business profitability is declining, and companies are already reducing investments.

Trading was active on Monday in Suez, with 511,000 shares changing hands. The stock was off 1.1 per cent at the close, to 302.20 francs (about 60 dollars).

Lima (DEC. 17) EFE - Peruvian Prime Minister Juan Carlos Hurtado Miller has announced adjustments in the country's anti-inflation austerity plan which will send the price of fuel soaring by more than 50 per cent.

Hurtado, who is also economy and finance minister, made the announcement Sunday on television just hours before traveling to Washington for talks with the International Monetary Fund (IMF) aimed at improving relations with the international financial community.

The original austerity plan introduced August 8 has already led to 300 per cent hikes in the price of bread and milk and a 3,000 per cent rise in the price of gasoline, causing considerable hardship in a country where 55 per cent of the population - some 12 million people - live in extreme poverty.

The latest price rises, the first since August, will affect the cost of gasoline, domestic gas and kerosene, and are due to increase prices by more than 50 per cent, Hurtado said Sunday.

The hikes were aimed at bringing an extra dlrs 400 million per year into the coffers of the state-run petroleum company PETROPERU, which is currently running a monthly deficit of dlrs 31 million, Hurtado said.

The cost of electricity will also rise, the prime minister added.

Hurtado said in January he would announce the privatization of specific state-run companies and cuts in the state bureaucracy which currently employs around one million people.

Inflation for November was 5.9 per cent, Hurtado said, down from 397 per cent in August.

He predicted that christmas spending and the latest adjustment measures would send inflation up again in December and January, but it would begin to fall in February.

President Alberto Fujimori is anxious to improve Peru's relations with the international financial community and has encouraged the resumption of talks with the IMF.

Fujimori, who took office in July, has pledged to resume interest payments on the dlrs 20 billion foreign debt after five years of isolation caused by the decision of former president Alan Garcia to limit debt payments to 10 per cent of export earnings.

London (DEC. 17) EFE - The last two British diplomats in Kuwait have left their posts and are to return to London soon, the Foreign Office said Monday.

Ambassador Michael Weston and consul Larry Banks arrived in Baghdad from Kuwait late Sunday, four months after the Iraqi government ordered all embassies in Kuwait to close and foreign diplomats to leave the emirate.

Iraqi authorities had cut off water and electricity supplies to the diplomatic missions to force them to shut.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the two diplomats were ordered out because there were hardly any Britons left in Kuwait after Iraqi President Saddam Hussein allowed all foreign hostages to go home earlier this month.

Some 40 Britons have decided to stay on in Kuwait but the British government has let them know through BBC World Service radio broadcasts that it is now in no position to help them.

The spokesman said that the diplomats' withdrawal did not mean that Britain recognized the Iraqi occupation of Kuwait.

U.S. ambassador to Kuwait Nathaniel Howell arrived home on Friday after defying Iraq for months and keeping his embassy open.

Guatemala City (DEC. 17) EFE - Five people travelling in two vehicles died when guerrillas blew up a bridge early Monday, Guatemalan police said.

First reports said that a private car and trailer had been crossing the bridge over the River Moca, close to the town of Rio Bravo in western Guatemala, when it was destroyed by dynamite.

Although no group claimed responsibility for the attack, the leftist Guatemalan National Revolutionary Union (URNG) rebel umbrella group is known to be active in the region.

The URNG has been involved in a series of talks in search of a peace formula, with opposition groups, the Roman Catholic Church, and business and social groups.

Meanwhile, in Guatemala City a bomb exploded close to police headquarters, damaging surrounding property. There were no reports of injuries.

More than 100,000 people have died in political violence in Guatemala since the rebels took up arms three decades ago.

THIS REPRESENTED A 109 PERCENT INCREASE OVER 3.62 BILLION DOLLARS FOR THE SAME PERIOD OF LAST YEAR.

ACCORDING TO THE TURKISH STATE INSTITUTE OF STATISTICS (SIS), IMPORT IN THE JANUARY-OCTOBER PERIOD TOTALLED 17.5 BILLION DOLLARS, UP 37.9 PERCENT. EXPORT, HOWEVER, ROSE BY MERELY 4.7 PERCENT.

EXPERTS ATTRIBUTE THE GROWING TRADE DEFICIT TO LACK OF GOVERNMENT INCENTIVES TO THE EXPORT SECTOR.

EARLY THIS YEAR, THE GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCED A SCHEME TO REDUCE THE TAXES ON ALMOST ALL IMPORTED ITEMS.

EXPERTS THEN URGED THE GOVERNMENT TO RENEW THOSE EXPORT- ORIENTED POLICES ABANDONED DUE TO RELIANCE ON THE BALANCE OF PAYMENT SURPLUS OVER THE PAST TWO YEARS.

BUT FAILURE OF THE GOVERNMENT TO COMPLY, PLUS A 50 PERCENT INFLATION, HAS CAUSED THE TRADE DEFICIT TO SNOWBALL, SAID THE EXPORTS.

FROM THE BULLS:

"I think there's a fair chance that in the next two weeks we can get back close to even for the year," says EDDIE BROWN. "I think the driving force - overcoming the negative numbers will see in corporate profits for the fourth quarter [and] negative GNP - is going to be that interest rates have come down and, I think, will continue to come down. That will drive the market higher." ("Wall Street Week", 12/15)

FROM THE BEARS:

"So far I'm comfortable with my forecast, which is a negative one," says BERNADETTE MURPHY. "I've been negative since the beginning of the year. I think it is a bear market rally. I think it probably has some more to go ... but investors don't like uncertainty and last week we seemed to hit a little bit of a momentum peak. That doesn't mean the market can't go on to new highs but it means it's weakening and a lot of the drive that has carried it the last couple of months may have petered out." ("Wall Street Week", 12/15)

"Earnings are almost falling as fast as interest rates and that's why the dramatic fall in rates has not had the effect on stock prices it normally does " says HENRY VAN DER EB, president of the MATHERS FUND, which is 92% in cash

now. (WSJ, 12/17)

STOCK MARKET:

The resiliency of the Dow in the face of last week's bad economic news suggests there is more upside in the bear market rally, says ROBERT WALBERG of MMS INTERNATIONAL in New York this morning. "Given the slew of bad news last week, I don't think the overall position of the market is very negative. I think we're positioned for a nice rally into the end of the year." Walberg is looking for a quarter point reduction in the fed funds rate and a half point reduction in the discount rate because of the weakening economy and the decline in the M-2 money supply. (FNN "Business A.M.", 12/17)

"Deals are starting to surface again and it is giving investors an incentive to look more closely at stocks," says CHUNG LEW, head trader at KLEINWORT BENSON NORTH AMERICA. "There's a real sense that there are still some values to be found in the market," says JACK CONLON, managing director at ROTHSCHILD. THOMAS GALLAGHER at OPPENHEIMER says recent and pending big deals broke the market's bearish "tunnel vision." (WSJ, 12/17)

"Lower-than-expected fourth-quarter earnings are going to force Wall Street to reevaluate 1991 earnings estimates," says JEFFREY SHAMES, chief equities officer at MASSACHUSETTS FINANCIAL SERVICES. "In the very short term, the market appears to be a function of the Mideast crisis in conjunction with interest rates." ("Investor's Daily", 12/17)

"I'd say that investors are feeling a little more confident about going back into the market," says ROBERT FREEDMAN, chief portfolio manager for JOHN HANCOCK mutual funds. (NYT, 12/15)

ABBY COHEN at GOLDMAN SACHS says: "Normally in a recession the equity market gets undervalued. There are certainly some stocks that are undervalued right now, but the market itself is not." (WSJ, 12/17)

"I think the bond market is a good place to hide for about the next six months " says DEBORAH ALLEN. "The stock market ... is going to continue to reflect some of the negative news that is still to come out about the economy ... but positive pressure on the bond market because they do help pull interest rates down." ("Wall Street Week", 12/15)

STOCK TIPS:

"If you can look out six or twelve months, I think you're going to make a fabulous amount of money from a low [in the large cap stocks] that will be reached sometime between January and March," says JAMES AWAD, president of BMI CAPITAL. Look for companies with growing international earnings plus little or no debt, and buy them into weakness, says Awad: "Have greed when others have fear." He likes APPLE which has $8 per share in cash, a 30% return on equity and successful new products. Another pick is BERGEN BRUNSWIG, a drug wholesaler which should benefit from the greying of America, says Awad. (CNN "Business Day", 12/17)

GREGG JAHNKE, head of JKE EQUITY RESEARCH in Texas, lists his firm's favorite stocks in "Barron's" in an article that emphasizes the so- called "value" approach that attempts to pick stocks for long-term appreciation without focusing on quarter-by-quarter results or trying to predict the ups and downs of the overall market. The recommended stocks: ANALOG DEVICES, ARVIN, CUMMINGS ENGINE, DYNATECH, ECHLIN, FLEETWOOD, HARTMARX, JAMES RIVER, LaFARGE, OUTBOARD MARINE and WHIRLPOOL. ("Barron's", 12/17)

CISCO SYSTEMS is a hot stock that "Investor's Daily" says "clearly represents the upper crust of a new niche emerging in the computer networking business." GEORGE KELLY at MORGAN STANLEY says Cisco "made a preemptive move on this market and gained significant market share and customer attention early on. They've been able to continue to deliver products that are very customer-focused." JOSEPH BELLACE at MERRILL LYNCH says, "We're in the first inning of a nine-inning ballgame on inter-networking, and right now Cisco [is] the best- positioned independent company." ("Investor's Daily", 12/17)

"On a long-term basis, I think virtually all of the major entertainment companies are attractive, because I really believe that, over the long-term, we are going to see lots of demand building up of the middle-classes around the world," says HAROLD VOGEL, first vice president at MERRILL LYNCH. "But on a near-term basis, there are some problems in terms of maintaining margins. Of the stocks that are left, I would say PARAMOUNT makes the most sense because it is likely to continue to grow over the longer term in both publishing and entertainment products. ... It is indeed a potential takeover target. He says DISNEY is a good long-term company, but will have some attendance problems during a recession "that will tend to keep the stock price a little bit on edge, a little bit down or depressed from where it normally would be." ("Wall Street Week", 12/15)

QUAKER OATS is featured in a "Barron's" article that examines the cereal company's decisions over recent years to diversify and then return to its core business. Despite some lingering problems, the article concludes that "Quaker now seems back in fighting trim and in good shape to take on all comers." ("Barron's", 12/17)

ASHTON-TATE stock plunged 1 3/8 to 6 1/4 last Friday after a federal judge eliminated the company's copyright protection for its 'dBASE' computer language. "Ashton-Tate is the drowning victim who asks someone to throw them a life vest and instead someone [the judge] threw them a box of lead weights," says analyst CHRISTOPHER MORTENSON at ALEX. BROWN & SONS. ("Investor's Daily" 12/17)

manager of the IDS DISCOVERY FUND. Still, he says: "I believe this is a rally in a bear market. In that kind of an environment, health care is a good place to be." (WSJ, 12/17)

UNILEVER N.V., the multinational holder of such brand names as Lipton and Birds Eye and other well-known businesses like Elizabeth Arden and Calvin Klein, is a favorite stock of WILLIAM CORNELIUSON, who is beginning to move his STRONG INVESTMENT FUND back into stocks. He says the company is "relatively immune" to economic cycles because of its food and personal-came holdings. He also thinks it is well positioned to take advantage of new markets in East Germany. He says that although it might take a decade for the markets to mature, "those people have gained their freedom and typically when you have freedom the first things you take care of are diet and health care." ("Barron's", 12/17)

CITICORP is a bellwether company and its discussions with regulators are fraught with implications for the industry," says banking analyst CHARLES PEABODY at KIDDER, PEABODY. He expects regulators "will continue to wield a stock" and force the company to increase its reserve for loan losses and cut its dividend. (NYT, 12/17)

MAX ANSBACHER at BEAR STEARNS notes that the historical pattern of the market going up in the first few days of January - the so-called January effect - offers an opportunity for options traders. "So for my clients who are in my option trading program I will be going in probably the day before Christmas, buying OEX options, and selling them out a few days after the beginning of the new year." FALLS CHURCH, VA (DEC. 17) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

MONEY & CREDIT:

"I do not see a commonality of interest" in buttressing the dollar, says HUNG TRAN at DEUTSCHE BANK CAPITAL CORP. There is increasing talk of a meeting of the GROUP OF SEVEN - perhaps next month in Washington - but PETER PERKINS at DRI/McGRAW-HILL says: "You won't get anything firm. You may get some sort of vague commitment on the part of the U.S. to pay attention to the level of the dollar." (WSJ, 12/17)

BILL WOLMAN, chief economist at "BusinessWeek" and "CNBC" says he finds it "totally implausible" that the Fed will not decide to lower interest rates at its FOMC meeting this week. "Industrial production plunged and we will really get a very severe recession if the Fed doesn't ease, so I think the Fed will ease. Inflation isn't really there any more. ... The only question is whether the bank regulators will so foul things up that easing won't work." On the other hand, he notes that people sometimes commit suicide "even though it's a terribly irrational act. Similarly, it's not inconceivable for members of the Federal Open Market Committee to sort of commit suicide in monetary policy. ... I just hope their suicidal tendencies are overcome by Tuesday because not easing right now would really be a dangerous policy." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 12/15)

PATRICK ROTHSTEIN at MERRILL LYNCH says he does not see how the Fed can reduce interest rates aggressively in the months ahead, because of rising prices. "Year-over-year, inflation could be 6% or 7%," he notes. "That is not great. Soon, investors will start to worry about stagflation." (WSJ, 12/17)

"The U.S. economy's balance sheet is rapidly deflating," says ROBERT McGEE at TOKAI BANK. "Under these circumstances, the Fed's and the market's focus on GNP and inflation numbers is analogous to a driver concentrating on the road ahead while forces underneath the road are building to earthquake proportions." (NYT, 12/17)

"I don't think we have seen the bottom in interest rates, but we may have to wait a few weeks before the [bond] rally resumes," says chief economist LAWRENCE KUDLOW at BEAR, STEARNS. "I don't think there is a lot of downside to buying bonds between now and the end of the year, because the economy is weak," says ROGER CRAIG at BANC ONE ASSET MANAGEMENT. "You have to look to these selloffs as opportunities to add to your positions." (NYT, 12/17)

JAMES CAPRA at LEHMAN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES looks for the bond market to "go right back up again" as soon as fresh economic data shows the economy continues to weaken. (WSJ, 12/17)

"The bond appears to have stumbled in its mission to reach 8%," says THOMAS SOWANICK at MERRILL LYNCH CAPITAL MARKETS. "The market may be growing tired. More aptly, the market may be running out of fresh buyers, given the latest reading in market sentiment and the relatively low cash positions held by many portfolio managers." SUSAN HERING at SALOMON BROTHERS says: "Prospects that within one year, the unemployment rate will exceed 7% and inflation will fall below 3.5% eventually will drive 30-year Treasury bond yields to test the lows near 7.75% reached in late 1989. Intensifying credit- quality concerns further enhance prospects for a renewed rally in Treasuries." ("Investor's Daily", 12/17)

THE ECONOMY:

"I have been a little slow to declare a national recession day," says TREASURY SECRETARY NICHOLAS BRADY. "I think it is quite clear that economic activity in the fourth quarter of this year has slowed down. How much we don't know yet. I don't think it's the end of the world even if we have a recession.

We'll pull back out of it again. No big deal." (NBC "Meet The Press", 12/16)

"This was a double dose of deadly news," ALLEN SINAI of THE BOSTON CO. says of Friday's producer price and industrial production reports. "The production decline was very widespread. It was almost scary. The inflation worry has to go away before the central bank can act." ("The Washington Post", 12/15)

"The good news is probably already at hand" on inflation, says MICHAEL NIEMIRA an economist at MITSUBISHI BANK. He notes that Friday's producer price report shows a third straight monthly decline in the core inflation rate for crude goods and says these trends get passed through quickly. ("Investor's Daily", 12/17)

"Weakness in the consumer spending is radiating back through to the manufacturing sector very quickly," says LYLE GRAMLEY, chief economist for the MORTGAGE BANKERS ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA. He says the economy should turn up by the middle of next year "so long as we do not get into a shooting war." ("Investor's Daily", 12/17)

"The economy looks even gloomier than it did a week ago," says HUGH JOHNSON at FIRST ALBANY. ("The Washington Post", 12/15)

"I still think that it's going to be a soft landing," says EDDIE BROWN. "The fourth quarter is going to be pretty awful in terms of negative GNP ... and I think by mid-1991 we will see the turn." ("Wall Street Week", 12/15)

DAVID WYSS at DRI/McGRAW HILL says strong export demand is "not large enough to prevent a recession [but] it is big enough to limit the size." He says "we are clearly in a recession" and the Fed "will be willing to tolerate these inflation numbers" and cut interest further. Wyss finds it "encouraging that industrial production is dropping so sharply because it suggests that people are controlling their inventories very tightly. The way this is developing makes it look like we will have a mild recession." ("Investor's Daily" and NYT, 12/17)

GAIL FOSLER, chief economist at the CONFERENCE BOARD, says businesses have been making "preemptive" reductions in their payrolls. "Employment has taken a disproportionate cut," she tells columnist HOBART ROWEN of "The Washington Post." "Business has been sitting there waiting for a recession and Iraq galvanized the pessimism. So business protected itself before seeing anticipated cuts in demand." She sees a gain in first-quarter 1991 GNP after a 1.3% decline this quarter, but believes unemployment will continue to rise next year. "I don't have a recession [in my forecast] but I also don't have a recovery," she says. ("The Washington Post", 12/16)

"The recession now has a life of its own," writes RICHARD BERNER in a SALOMON BROTHERS report. "The economic harm done by proliferating job losses would overwhelm any positive fallout from any peace- related drop in oil prices.

And plunging disposable income and mounting unemployment are more real threats to consumption and confidence than prospects of war in the Mideast." (NYT, 12/17)

"Consumers are not in a borrowing mood," says pollster ALBERT SINDLINGER. "I don't think consumers are interested in adding to their debt." ("The Washington Post", 12/16)

IN WASHINGTON:

FDIC CHAIRMAN WILLIAM SEIDMAN says the government fund that insures bank deposits probably will lose $5 billion next year, moving it closer to insolvency. "It's a fund that's so weak that it needs to be recapitalized," he says. "Nineteen ninety-one is not going to be a good year." (NBC "Meet The Press", 12/16)

Programming includes 24-hour forecasting as well as weather-related news, features, consumer tips and documentaries on a local, regional and national basis.

"As The Weather Channel has grown, we've enhanced our product significantly," said Joe Conboy, director of production for The Weather Channel. "SISCOM has assisted us in upgrading and modernizing our broadcast facilities so that we can get our program enhancements on the air more efficiently.

"NewsPro is a great tool for our producers," Conboy added. "It has distinct advantages over competing newsroom systems because the software was flexible enough to share a Digital Equipment Corp. The Weather Channel is committed to offering the best product available, and NewsPro can certainly help them accomplish that."

PALO ALTO, CA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Syntex Corporation (NYSE: SYN) said today that an Advisory Committee to the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has recommended that the Agency grant Syntex permission to market Ticlid(R) (ticlopidine hydrochloride) in the United States to reduce the risk of strokes in patients who cannot take aspirin.

Ticlid is the first prescription anti-platelet agent to be recommended for approval for marketing in the United States.

Stroke is the third leading cause of death in the United States and one of the major causes of disability. Approximately 500,000 Americans suffer strokes each year. Nearly 2 million Americans are survivors of a stroke. Many of them currently receive some form of custodial care -- at home, in nursing homes, or in hospitals.

Syntex plans to meet with FDA officials in the near future to begin discussions concerning the precise wording of prescribing instructions to physicians. Syntex officials cautioned, however, that an Advisory Committee's findings are not binding on the FDA, and that Ticlid will not be available to patients or their physicians until the FDA accepts the Committee's recommendation and approves the drug for marketing in the United States. Syntex is unable to predict when or if final marketing approval will be granted.

Syntex submitted a New Drug Application (NDA) to the FDA on June 26, 1989. The FDA assigned a "Subpart E" designation to Ticlid July 25, 1989. The "Subpart E" designation is intended to expedite the development, evaluation and marketing of new therapies with the potential to treat life-threatening and severely debilitating diseases for which no satisfactory therapies currently exist.

Ticlid is a platelet aggregation inhibitor that interferes with the action of platelets in the formation of blood clots. In patients with vascular disease, such clots (thrombi) may form in the arteries of the brain or heart where they

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Genus Inc. (NASDAQ: GGNS) announced today that AT&T Bell Laboratories, Allentown, Pa., has fully accepted a Genus 8720ST blanket tungsten chemical vapor deposition system installed in that development facility earlier this year. The system has undergone rigorous testing by AT&T Bell Laboratories and has met their specification criteria for acceptance.

The Genus 8720ST exceeded AT&T's specifications in may respects. The system proved to be very clean in operation, adding fewer than 0.2 particles greater than 0.5 microns in size per square centimeter of wafer surface. No wafers were broken in the system throughout the tests, which is indicative of the efficiency of the 8720ST wafer handler. The stress factor of the deposited film was less than 3-5E9 dynes per square centimeter. AT&T Bell Laboratories also reported that during the acceptance testing, the 8720ST operated with greater than 85 percent system availability. All of the above tested performances of the 8720ST are better than accepted industry standards for similar equipment.

Michael W. McCann, Vice President of Sales and Tactical Marketing, said, "We are very pleased to count AT&T Bell Laboratories, a major semiconductor development laboratory, among our tungsten CVD equipment customers. Although the qualification tests were done with an 850 mTorr process, AT&T is currently characterizing their new 8720ST system with the Genus 30 Torr process. AT&T's decision to purchase the system was based on criteria particularly important to the production of high quality, low cost wafers. The 8720ST has proved again that it can meet these needs."

NASHUA, NH (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - NFS Financial Corp. (NASDAQ: NFSF) today reported an $8.3 million special addition to its provision for possible loan losses and a $1.1 million write-down of foreclosed real estate. The actions will result in a loss for the quarter and the entire year 1990.

The special addition will increase NFS's reserve coverage to approximately 50 percent of nonperforming loans from 28 percent at Sept. 30.

James H. Adams, president and CEO, said the special reserve addition is based on the worsening economy and real estate market. "The economy is now clearly in recession, both locally and nationally. There has been no bottoming out of the poor real estate market, particularly the commercial sector. We continue to be very cautious in classifying individual loans and, as such, have seen a significant rise in nonperforming loans this quarter."

The company also said that it is increasing reserve allocations for all loan classifications. "Fortunately, NFS is in a strong financial position to take this decisive action," Adams said.

NFS also reported it has decreased the carrying value of foreclosed real estate by $1.1 million in response to recent declines in market values.

Consolidated stockholder's equity at NFS on Sept. 30, 1990 was $52.4 million, or 10.3 percent of total assets, which is substantially in excess of all fully-phased in capital requirements. The company anticipates remaining in compliance with all capital requirements.

NFS added $2.8 million to its provision for loan losses and reported a net loss of $920,000 for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990. Operating results for the full year are expected to be announced in late January.

ENCINO, CA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Nu-Med Inc. (NASDAQ: NUMSC) today reported a net loss of $3,318,000, equal to $.38 a share, for the second fiscal quarter ended Oct. 31, 1990. In the corresponding prior year period, the company recorded a net loss of $2,890,000, or $.34 a share. Included in results for the current reporting period was an extraordinary item of $866,000, representing a gain of $1,239,000 from the purchase of Senior Subordinated Sinking Fund Debentures, partially offset by the reversal of an income tax benefit of $373,000, reported in the previous quarter.

Net revenues for the current second quarter declined to $60,783,000 from $65,509,000. The decrease was attributable to the absence of revenues from Pembroke Pines General Hospital, which was sold in the fourth quarter of last year.

The company said lower occupancy rates and an unfavorable patient mix at two acute care hospitals accounted for a substantial portion of the second quarter loss.

For the six months ended Oct. 31, Nu-Med registered a net loss of $2,360,000, or $.28 a share, compared with a net loss for the first half of last year of $1,846,000 or $.23 a share. Net revenues totaled $127,036,000 vs. $139,442,000 in the prior year period which included operations of Pembroke Pines.

Continued progress was made in reducing interest expense, which declined to $17,926,000 from $21,365,000 in the first half of last year. The announcement also noted that incremental benefits from a major reduction in corporate overhead should have a positive effect on operating costs in the third and fourth quarters.

The company said it is continuing to actively pursue the disposition of selected assets in accordance with its previously announced restructuring program.

HOUSTON (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Seitel, Inc. (AMEX: SEI) announced today that it has elected E. McCall Rotan as a director of Seitel, Inc.

Rotan has held various senior marketing and management positions with Rotan Mosle, Inc., a leading Southwestern regional brokerage firm. For a 3 year period in the early 1980s, Rotan was the assistant to the president of a private oil and gas exploration company in Houston, Texas, where he orchestrated the funding of a 3 year, $150 million plus exploration program. In 1983 he returned to Rotan Mosle, then a subsidiary of Paine Webber, leaving such employment in November of 1990 as Rotan Mosle prepared to become a division of the parent company.

Throughout his stock brokerage career, Rotan has specialized in marketing to the professional institutional money management community in the United States. In this capacity, he was heavily involved with Rotan Mosle's investment banking and corporate finance clients. "During the 1970s Rotan Mosle had a concentrated analytical presence in the energy industries, and with its Texas-based operations, was allowed frequent and personal access to these companies' management ranks," commented Rotan. He added that "My business relationships have kept me involved during the dramatic changes in the 1980's energy environment, and have allowed me a broad base of contacts for the already volatile 1990s."

Paul Frame, president of Seitel, Inc., announced that he was "particularly pleased to have Rotan join the company's board of directors as an independent director, since he brings to us a wealth of experience, expertise and knowledge of the Southwestern energy sector, as well as many acquaintances within the company's institutional stockholder base."

DAYTON, OH (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Mead Corporation (NYSE: MEA) announced today that its board of directors has approved a series of actions as part of a continuing program to enhance shareholder value and better position the company for the 1990s.

The steps announced today are expected to result in estimated 1991 cost savings of approximately $33 million after tax, or $.50 per share. They include:

- Repositioning the Mead Imaging division to limit the company's financial exposure in its color imaging business while establishing a reserve to fund commitments to its hardware partners.
- Writing off certain nonproductive assets.
- Implementing corporate-wide cost reduction and performance improvement programs.
- Reducing 1991 capital spending by $150 million (30 percent).

Mead estimates its actions will net out to a one-time charge to Mead's 1990 earnings of approximately $95 million after tax, or $1.45 per share. That figure includes an extraordinary gain of $.10 per share, resulting from early repayment of debt. Most of the gain was recorded in the third quarter.

"The positive effects of these steps will be evident in Mead's financial results in 1991 and beyond," said Burnell R. Roberts, Mead's chairman and chief executive officer.

"Before these special items and before the $.05 charge for a legal settlement taken in the third quarter, earnings from operations would be approximately $2.20 per share for 1990," Roberts said.

He further indicated that fourth quarter earnings will be negatively affected compared to last year, primarily by market-caused downtime at Mead's Northwood Pulp affiliate and interest costs which are no longer capitalized due to the startup of Mead Coated Board's expansion in Alabama.

"Given the uncertain state of the economy, we believe it is prudent to initiate these steps now, rather than allow economic conditions to jeopardize our long-term strategies," Roberts stated. "Mead remains committed to building long-term value, while improving operating performance in the near-term. These steps will contribute to improving operating earnings in 1991 and subsequent years."

As one key step, Mead will take a one-time charge to 1990 earnings of approximately $49 million after tax, or $.74 per share to reflect a write-down of assets in its Mead Imaging division and to establish a reserve to fund ongoing commitments to its hardware partners.

This action follows a comprehensive study which was undertaken earlier this year when the company reported that the market for color imaging was not developing as rapidly as originally anticipated.

HIGH POINT, NC (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - LADD Furniture, Inc. (NASDAQ-MNS: LADF) chairman Don A. Hunziker announced today that the company plans to take a 1990 fourth quarter noncash accounting charge related to previously-announced manufacturing consolidations at a number of LADD operating companies.

Hunziker said the exact amount of the restructuring charge will not be determined until mid-January, but estimated that it will be in the range of $8.0-$9.0 million pretax, or approximately $.25-$.30 per share on an aftertax basis. He said the charge includes reserves and charges relating to the planned sale of certain furniture factories which have been idled by LADD's 1990 manufacturing consolidation program.

"Throughout 1990," Hunziker said, "each of our 11 furniture businesses conducted a thorough review of its anticipated manufacturing capacity needs during the coming 3-5 years. As a result of this collective process, seven of our furniture plants have been or will be closed.

"At the same time, we plan to make substantial capital investments in our remaining 25 factories. For example, LADD's directors recently approved $3.5 million in new capital spending for the expansion of our Monroe, N.C., and Martinsville, Va., factories. Restructuring moves such as these will significantly enhance LADD's long-term manufacturing efficiency.

"However," Hunziker concluded, "even after this restructuring charge, we anticipate that uncertainties in the overall U.S. economy and resulting softness in furniture demand will continue to put pressure on LADD's earnings well into 1991."

Headquartered in High Point, N.C., LADD is one of the largest U.S. producers of residential and contract furniture, marketing its broad range of wood, upholstered and metal furniture under the major brand names American Drew, American of Martinsville, Barclay, Brown Jordan, Clayton Marcus, Daystrom, Design Horizons, Lea Industries and Pennsylvania House.

LADD also owns and operates two support companies - Lea Lumber & Plywood and LADD Transportation - and its stock is traded on the over-the-counter National Market System under the NASDAQ symbol LADF.

PHILADELPHIA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - CP Rail and Consolidated Rail Corp. (NYSE: CRR) today announced the successful conclusion of negotiations regarding the use of Conrail tracks by CP Rail's new subsidiary, D&H Corp., and other related issues raised by CP Rail's pending purchase of the Delaware & Hudson Railway.

The announcement was made by I.B. Scott, CP Rail's chairman and chief executive officer, and James A. Hagen, Conrail's chairman, president and chief executive officer.

The agreement calls for a direct link of CP Rail and the D&H using Conrail's tracks between Buffalo and Niagara Falls, N.Y., and revises the terms of all of D&H's operating rights over Conrail's lines.

As a result of the agreement, Conrail will withdraw its request for arbitration of D&H's operating rights between Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

The agreement also provides an option for CP Rail to purchase that portion of Conrail's Southern Tier Line running between Buffalo and Binghamton, N.Y.

Both parties expressed appreciation for the encouragement and assistance of New York State Commissioner of Transportation Franklin White and his staff in helping resolve this issue and reach a negotiated agreement.

Scott said: "The resolution of the Buffalo-Niagara Falls link removes the last remaining significant obstacle to completing CP Rail's purchase of the D&H. We expect to begin service through the Niagara gateway in about a week and to achieve final closing of the purchase within the next few weeks. This negotiated settlement also provides for direct D&H service to the South Philadelphia port area over Conrail lines, and D&H looks forward to playing a role in the recovery of the port."

Hagen said: "Conrail looks forward to the stability CP Rail will bring to the D&H's operations, and to new opportunities made possible by coordinating Conrail and strengthened D&H services. We welcome a revitalized D&H both as a significant connection to Conrail and through. D&H's contribution to Conrail's costs as a user of Conrail's lines. The negotiated settlement establishes a sound commercial basis for our relationship."

White said: "I congratulate CP, Conrail and the New York State Department of Transportation's Commercial Transport Division for their strong spirit of cooperation in the joint development of the best commercial solution to meet the needs of the business community in New York state and the Northeast region."

HOUSTON (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Petrotechnical Open Software Corporation (POSC), a not-for-profit, membership corporation founded by five major oil companies, is in the start-up phase of operations in Houston.

POSC intends to build a worldwide partnership between the customers and the suppliers of technical software for the oil industry. POSC's mission is to develop and deliver a software integration platform that will be the common reference of the international exploration and production industry. The benefit for all members will be the opening and extension of the E&P software market and the ability to focus on business added value.

"The formation of POSC will provide a cooperative vehicle for applications suppliers and consumers to achieve the most effective and efficient platform to serve the industry," said Dan Turner, president and chief executive officer of POSC.

The corporation will focus on the specifications of an integrated logical data model, an application programming interface, a common look and feel user front-end, and a set of test suites to certify compliance branding of vendor software. POSC will work with the industry through an open, independent process to achieve this goal, and will promote relevant research and development.

"The purpose of POSC is to help make the industry more efficient by allowing companies to allocate their resources on their own, independent E&P efforts, rather than on integrating different software packages," said Turner.

"As the industry has increased its use of technical computing systems, the need to develop a single standard platform has grown. The oil industry is one of several industries going through similar standardization processes."

The founding sponsors of POSC, BP Exploration, Chevron, Elf Aquitaine, Mobil Exploration and Producing, and Texaco, have appointed representatives to the POSC board of directors and the board has elected the corporations officers.

Membership in POSC is open to all, including corporations, business entities, not-for-profit organizations, government agencies, and academic institutions. Membership fees are tiered to allow small companies to pay less than large companies, with the intent of encouraging broad representation within POSC.

Two levels of membership exist, sponsors and members. Sponsors make a multi-year commitment to participation while members can join on a year-to-year, renewable membership. For information on membership in POSC, contact Dan N. Turner, chief executive officer, 10777 Westheimer, Suite 275, Houston, TX 77042.

MINNEAPOLIS (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Norwest Corporation (NYSE: NOB) announced today that it has completed the acquisition of First Minnesota Savings Bank, adding assets of $3 billion and 31 locations statewide. With the acquisition, Norwest now has 123 banking locations throughout Minnesota, banking assets in the state of $13.8 billion and total assets of $29.6 billion. The acquisition is the single largest banking expansion in Norwest history.

Norwest also announced its plans today for consolidating the Twin Cities seven-county metro area offices of First Minnesota, effective Monday, Feb. 4, 1991.

The plans call for: -- keeping open 27 locations of First Minnesota in the Twin Cities area as offices of Norwest Bank Minnesota;

-- consolidating 11 First Minnesota offices into nearby Norwest Bank Minnesota offices in the Twin Cities; and consolidating one Norwest office into a nearby First Minnesota office.

"This plan, the result of months of analysis, was done with the needs of our customers, employees and communities uppermost in our minds," said Wes Hein, Norwest's regional president for Twin Cities community banking. "With the combined strength and convenient locations of Norwest and First Minnesota, we'll be able to provide better service than ever before to all of our customers throughout the Twin Cities area."

With the merger of First Minnesota, the number of Norwest locations in the Twin Cities increases from 51 to 78 and in all of Minnesota from 93 to 123.

Norwest announced in June it will consolidate First Minnesota offices into Norwest locations in Marshall, Red Wing, Rochester and St. Cloud, and convert First Minnesota offices into Norwest locations in Duluth, New Ulm and Willmar.

Because a Minnesota law generally prohibits a bank from entering communities of less than 10,000 population with a branch without the consent of other banks in those communities, Norwest will sell the First Minnesota office in Luverne, close First Minnesota offices in Canby and Olivia and intends to establish a banking office just outside the city limits of Waseca.

Norwest Corporation is a $29.6 billion diversified financial services organization providing banking, banking-related and specialized financial services through 1,386 offices in 47 states and internationally.

HOUSTON (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Seagull Energy Corporation (NYSE: SGO) announced today that it will not proceed with its previously announced plans to acquire a portfolio of natural gas and oil producing properties, reserves, and leasehold acreage from Mesa Limited Partnership (NYSE: MLP).

FORT LAUDERDALE, FL (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Sports-Tech International, Inc. (NASDAQ: STXL) today announced the introduction of three additions to its complete line of video-editing and analysis systems:

STVE2 The advantage of the Sports-Tech Video Editor-2 (STVE2) is that it has most of the benefits of Sports-Tech's large computer-based video editor (STVE) -- but with a significantly lower price tag. STVE2's computer also has "memory" -- once a game is edited, it remains in the system for as long as the coach wants it.

STVE2 also accepts data directly from most game analysis programs, allowing each coach to provide each member of his staff with a custom breakdown tape matching his specific game analysis requirements. STVE2 will allow coaches of small colleges and high schools to edit their games like the pros do on their big-price-tag systems.

The 3-in-One The 3-in-One is an all-inclusive manual system that allows coaches to simultaneously tape and edit three separate situations on the field. Immediately after the game, the coach has five tapes: two master game tapes, offensive play, defensive play and special teams. The innovative LX-25 remote control -- designed by Sports-Tech engineers -- allows tapes to be broken down right on the field.

The 3-in-One opens up new markets for video-editing. Golf and tennis are good examples of sports which would benefit from the addition of motion analysis.

The VA-10 Sports-Tech's exclusive VA-10 manual video-editor provides a sophisticated application of video-editing and makes a new level of technology accessible to every sports program. It offers all the advantages of Sports-Tech's low-cost VA-1 system and much more.

The VA-10 edit control panel is capable of controlling up to nine output VCRs and one input VCR at the same time -- a coach can create up to nine different tapes with a single pass. And the VA-10 is adaptable to almost all sports -- allowing teams to share expenses.

Sports-Tech chairman, Michael Levy states: "We feel the addition of STVE2, the 3-in-One and the VA-10 to our existing product line has given us the ability to address the video-editing needs of every team and almost every sport. We now have a system that can fit within any school or team's budget. These new systems confirm our leadership in the high-tech video-editing industry at all levels of competition: professional, collegiate and high school."

Sports-Tech International, based in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., develops and markets proprietary high-tech video-editing and game analysis systems to the collegiate, high school and professional sports coaching markets.

Sports-Tech video-editing and analysis systems are used by 14 NFL, nine NBA and over 100 NCAA teams, including the San Francisco 49ers, Notre Dame, Portland Trail Blazers and UNLV. Additonally, 26 college football teams playing in 18 out of 19 holiday bowl games this year use Sports-Tech systems.

GLENVIEW, IL (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Zenith Electronics Corporation (NYSE: ZE) and AT&T (NYSE: T) today announced they are developing a high-performance, all-digital high-definition television system that would solve the fundamental problems of digital simulcast HDTV.

The Zenith/AT&T system introduces novel digital technologies to transmit HDTV signals without interference and to compress HDTV signals with full high-definition resolution. The system would:

-- Provide true high-definition, movie-theater quality pictures and four-channel compact-disc-quality digital audio -- transmitted to the same service area as today's TV signals, without noise, even in fringe reception areas;

-- Offer interference-free and noise-free high-definition signals not only for terrestrial broadcasting, but also for cable, satellite, fiber and VCRs;

-- Transmit 1,575 horizontal picture lines each 1/30th of a second -- for higher resolution HDTV images than competing systems based on 1,125 or 1,050 lines; and

-- Use progessive scan with square pixels to make it easier to interface with computer workstations and to eliminate the jagged edges and other motion artifacts that degrade TV picture performance of other proposed interlaced-scan HDTV systems.

Based on 18 months of cooperative team research by Zenith, AT&T Bell Laboratories and AT&T Microelectronics, the system expands the capabilities of Zenith's original partially digital "Spectrum Compatible" (SC-HDTV) simulcast system, and is designed to incorporate techniques based on AT&T's research in digital video compression, channel equalization (ghost canceling) and advanced high-speed processors.

Zenith is responsible for the system definition and transmission technology, AT&T Bell Laboratories for the design and implementation of a new video compression system, and AT&T Microelectronics for the semiconductor technology.

The all-digital transmission system builds on key elements of the partially digital "Spectrum Compatible" HDTV simulcast system that would allow use of the taboo channels by eliminating interference between HDTV signals and current NTSC television signals.

SHAWNEE, OK (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of Barton Industries Inc. (NASDAQ: BART) has formed a special committee to the board to consider a shareholder proposal and to review certain matters pertaining to actions of its law firm, it was announced today by the company. The special committee indicates that two prior releases of Dec. 10 and Dec. 14 were incorrect and unauthorized by management and the board.

The company expected to report a good operating profit for 1990, although corporate non-cash charges unrelated to operations will reduce the reported results. The reported 1990 results will show considerable improvement from the prior 1989 levels, and the operating comparison will be even stronger. Analysts estimate fiscal 1990 revenues at $27 million. Revenue rose from $4.5 million in 1987 to $13.7 million in 1989. Analysts' 1991 estimates show $80-110 million for revenue, $17-20 million or $0.85-1.00 per share for income and $20-22 million or $1.00-1.10 per share for cash flow.

In response to inquiry, Chairman Johnson stated, "We know of no comparable oil service company trading at multiples of 2.2-2.5 times analysts' estimates of 1991 earnings and 2.0-2.2 times their estimates of operating cash flow, as Barton is currently." Several comparable companies are in the range of 6-10 times analysts' 1991 earnings estimates, and larger oil service companies are generally at 10-15 times analysts' 1991 earnings estimates.

The company does expect to take certain charges in connection with corporate matters in closing out the 1990 fiscal year, as had been indicated. These are non-cash charges and do not pertain to operations. A significant charge involves expensing shares issued in connection with the employee stock incentive plan, where these had previously been amortized over five years. Additional charges for expensing start-up costs on the Service Centers and certain software development costs will benefit future comparisons.

Johnson detailed the "manufacturing problem" that had been referred to on Dec. 10. This did not involve Barton's own manufacturing operations, which have experienced no variance from expectations. Barton's Shawnee, Okla., plant has been running at 20 hours per day since shortly after the invasion of Kuwait. A supplier experienced delays in delivering circuit boards to Barton's specifications for use in Barton's Pump-Off Control (POC) units on two occasions. The effect on Barton's fourth quarter financials was to increase inventory and reduce cash by some $3 million, while postponing sales of completed POCs by some 120 days until the unaccepted inventory was repaired and returned. The supplier's delay did reduce Barton's revenues and earnings. The most significant effect involves cancellation of a sale which will result in restatement of the third quarter whereby $1 million of revenue and $0.6 million of profit will be reversed. The supplier corrected its problem in mid-September and no further interruption in sales of Barton's POC units is expected.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Integrated Resources, Inc., today announced it has entered into an agreement to sell its subsidiaries' general partnership interests in and advisory agreements with the four American Insured Mortgage Investors (AIM) series of limited partnerships to AIM Acquisition Corporation, a new company that includes The Goldman Sachs Group, L.P., parent of the international investment banking and brokerage firm, and Broad Inc., the diversified financial services company.

"This agreement fulfills the objectives we had when we began a search for a qualified buyer to manage the AIM Partnerships," said Stephen D. Weinroth, Integrated's chairman. "We wanted to assure investors that their partnerships would continue in the hands of capable, well respected managers, and that they could rest easy that the integrity of their partnerships would be preserved. This agreement does just that."

AIM Acquisition Corporation will pay a purchase price of $32.5 million to Integrated and its subsidiaries. As part of the transaction, Integrated will receive various additional fees payable by the AIM Partnerships for services rendered through the closing date.

The agreement is subject to certain conditions, including approval by AIM Unitholders of AIM Acquisition Corporation as the new managing general partner plus related proposals which will be voted on at a special meeting of unitholders. The date for the meeting has not yet been set.

In addition, the agreement is subject to approval by the Bankruptcy Court. Integrated Resources is operating in Chapter 11. However, the AIM Partnerships and AIM Capital Management, the Integrated subsidiary which manages them, along with Integrated Funding, Inc., the advisory subsidiary, are not in bankruptcy. The Bankruptcy Court hearing to approve the transaction is expected to be held on Jan. 7, 1991.

Included in the proposed AIM amendments to be considered at the special unitholders meeting is a reduction to 0.95 percent in the annual asset management fees payable by the four partnerships to their advisor, as well as other amendments to the Partnership Agreement. The latter includes a proposal aimed at protecting the partnerships against roll- ups without an 80 percent unitholder vote, and amendments which would limit the removal of the new managing general partner -- in this case, AIM Acquisition Corporation -- and termination of its advisory agreement, other than for cause, for a five-year period.

Under the agreement, unitholders of at least three of the four partnerships must approve the assignment of the general partnerships to AIM Aquisition Corporation. If only three partnerships approve, the sale would take place with those three, and the purchase price would be adjusted accordingly.

MELVILLE, NY (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Herbert Lindo, president of Kenilworth Systems Corporation (NASDAQ: KENS), announced today that the world's first Cashless Casino, officially opened by Joan Kirner, the premier of Victoria, Australia, on Nov. 27, 1990, in Melbourne, has experienced a highly successful public acceptance.

Lindo, who recently returned from several weeks in Australia, indicated that during the first two weeks of its operation the casino had a handle of $4.78 million (Australian) from a new generation touch screen slot machine that offers interactive sporting games of golf, tennis, football, basketball and bowling in addition to the traditional casino games of poker, blackjack, keno, reel and roulette. He noted that the foregoing amount translates into a net win in U.S. terms of about $320 on each machine per day. In contrast, a typical slot machine in the United States will net about $235 per day. Net win is casino revenue before cost of operation and gaming taxes.

Lindo pointed out that the hardware, software and the unique multiple game interface for the Cashless Wagering System was developed and provided by Kenilworth for this casino. The slot machines are activated with plastic debit cards which identify a player "account" instead of cash and tokens and offer selections of different wagers from $0.20 to $5 which can be varied at will during play giving excitement up until now only available at table games. He also stated that the new system enabled a 60 percent reduction in labor costs from elimination of the cash handling. A reduction of costs of this magnitude becomes a cost imperative that the U.S. casino industry can no longer afford to ignore.

According to Lindo, the Australian State Government Agency, which operates the casino, plans to establish many additional cashless casinos throughout the state of Victoria and Kenilworth expects to benefit from the expanded use of its cashless wagering system as these plans materialize. In addition, the success of the Cashless Wagering System has attracted serious interest on the part of other state Governments throughout Australia, which are being actively pursued.

RINGWOOD, N.J. (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Some years ago, it was predicted that check usage would diminish rapidly with the advent of the "paperless society." However, to borrow a phrase from Mark Twain, rumors of the personal check's demise have been greatly exaggerated.

On the contrary, personal check usage has continued to grow over the past decade, expanding from $768 billion in 1980 to an estimated $1.66 trillion in 1990, according to the Nilson Report, a newsletter for credit and debit card executives.

What's more, the personal check is the single most popular non-cash payment option in the United States. According to Nilson Report data, personal checks will snare 52 percent of the estimated $979 billion spent in non-cash transactions at the point of sale in 1990 -- as compared with 48 percent for credit and debit cards.

Carl J. Williams, president of Ringwood, N.J.-based JBS Associates, one of the nation's largest check guarantee companies, attributes checks' positions as the consumer's favorite non-cash payment form to a number of factors, including the phasing out of federal income tax deductions for interest payments on credit card balances.

"That was a big disincentive to credit card users," he says. "At the same time, baby boomers are becoming disenchanted with debt in general. They're trying to pay for expenses out of cash flow instead of credit, thereby avoiding interest payments. They already have car and mortgage payments hanging over them -- they don't need any others."

Finally, Williams maintains, "Consumers have a wild array of credit card options now and they're confused. One card will offer lower interest rates but with a high annual fee. Another will waive the fee but charge higher rates. One even gives bonus dollars back at year-end. Checks are still confusion-free. In many ways, they're more user- friendly than bank cards."

Against this background and an environment of increased competition, "no retailer can afford to ignore this trend and turn away checkwriting customers " Williams asserts. However, check acceptance has its pitfalls, as well. Inevitably, a certain percentage of bad checks turn up. At best, they're a headache and a drain on manpower; at worst, they're a total loss.

"For increasing numbers of retailers and other businesses dealing with the general public, check guarantee or verification services are becoming the solution to the check acceptance dilemma," Williams says.

PHILADELPHIA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Since 1985, Philadelphia Electric Co. (NYSE: PE) has endorsed 13,000 new homes with the "EEE" designation, portraying Excellence in Energy Efficiency.

Now, EEE means more than simply quality and energy efficiency for potential homebuyers. The National Association of Home Builders has determined that a new house that meets PE's EEE standards is eligible for liberalized lending guidelines in accordance with the regulations and procedures of Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. (Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac are acronyms for two quasi-governmental agencies that provide the major share of funding for residential mortgages.)

James A. Smith, energy programs manager for the National Association of Homebuilders, in his notification to the company, said, "We would commend Philadelphia Electric Company for developing its EEE Program in support of efforts of the home building industry to promote the construction of energy-efficient new homes."

The liberalized mortgage guidelines provide for higher monthly housing expense-to-income ratios. Thus, the new approval would make the difference between a person's ability to obtain a mortgage or not, or it could make it easier to get a larger mortgage for the house a buyer really wants.

The Excellence in Energy Efficiency Program was implemented to foster maximum efficiencies for heating, cooling, and water heating systems and to control infiltration in new residential construction.

Standards, which exceed state and federal regulation, are stated for heating and cooling equipment, ductwork and pipes, building envelopes, insulation options, and other appliances.

Barbara L. Sands, PE's EEE Program manager, said PE works closely with home builders in its service territory advocating energy efficiency construction standards, and the company hopes to keep expanding its list of program partners.

"Having the EEE designation helps in selling a new home and adds value later in the resale market. The liberalized lending now available to the next buyer makes it even better since the energy cost savings allows more flexibility in financing," Sands said. "Someone buying a EEE home would qualify for a larger mortgage than a conventional home buyer." "The program has worked. The quality construction is such that utility bills are lower, and the homeowners are comfortable," she said.

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Jack E. Thompson, President of North American Metals Corp. (''NAM''), today announced that the company will take a fourth quarter write-down of approximately Cdn $24 million or $3 per share. The decision was made after a review of revenues and expenses projected over the remaining known reserves of the company's principal asset, a 50 percent joint venture interest in the Golden Bear mine located in northwestern British Columbia. The review concluded that, based upon known proven and probable reserves and projected operating costs, a substantial increase in gold prices above current levels would be required to permit recovery of the company's remaining investment in property, plant and equipment. The charge will increase the company's operating loss for the year to approximately Cdn $32 million.

Golden Bear has been plagued with a series of cost overruns, start-up delays and technical production problems in the mill, including design defects in the roaster. NEW YORK (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has proposed a $33,300 penalty against Burlington Bio- Medical Corporation of Farmingdale, N.Y., for violations of regulations governing pesticides, it was announced today.

EPA found that the corporation produced a pesticide before registering with EPA as required under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA). In addition, Burlington Bio- Medical failed to include its establishment registration number on its product packaging. This is the largest civil penalty ever proposed within EPA Region 2's pesticide program.

"Our pesticide regulations are designed to protect the health of our citizens and the environment," said EPA Regional Administrator Constantine Sidamon-Eristoff. "It is essential that firms manufacturing pesticides alert EPA to their activities and correctly label their products. This firm clearly did not follow our regulations."

Burlington Bio-Medical registered with EPA as a pesticide-producing establishment in August 1989. However, an EPA review of the firm's production records found five instances in which the company manufactured the pesticide "RO-PEL" prior to this time. EPA also found the firm distributed its product to four separate companies without meeting EPA labeling requirements.

RO-PEL is a pesticide used primarily to repel nuisance animals.

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Glaxo Inc. has asked the Food and Drug Administration for approval to market a tablet form of its drug to treat migraine headaches, the pharmaceutical firm announced today.

The new drug application for the tablet form of Imitrex(TM) (sumatriptan succinate) follows by less than six months the NDA for the injectable form, which the pharmaceutical company filed in June.

Like the injectable form, the oral formulation was subjected to rigorous clinical trials, said Anthony W. Fox, M.D., Glaxo's associate director of cardiovascular clinical studies.

In two U.S. multicenter, double-blind studies of about 240 migraine sufferers, 55 percent reported mild pain or no pain at all two hours after taking a 100 mg Imitrex tablet, compared to 23 percent of patients taking a placebo, Fox said. After four hours, 73 percent of the Imitrex group was pain-free or reported only mild pain, compared to 30 percent in the placebo group.

Around the world similar studies have tested sumatriptan tablets in about 2,500 patients, Fox said, and about 80 percent have had a significant reduction in pain.

"In the clinical studies we found that the efficacy of oral Imitrex was very similar to the efficacy of the subcutaneous formulation," Fox said, "with the main difference being the length of time for onset of action."

This is consistent, Fox said, with the longer time period associated with absorption of oral medicines through the stomach and intestinal tract.

In addition, he said, certain types of patients, like those with resistant hypertension and ischemic heart disease, will be advised to use the drug with caution.

Glaxo Inc., researches, develops, manufacturers and markets prescription medicines, including those for the treatment of gastrointestinal disorders, respiratory ailments, cardiovascular diseases, infectious diseases and diseases of the skin. The rejection of the offer was conveyed to Edward L. Moyers, chairman and chief executive officer of Illinois Central Corporation, in a letter from Mark M. Levin, chairman of MidSouth's board. The full text of the letter follows:

The board of directors of MidSouth Corporation has carefully considered your

December 3 proposal and, after consultation with our financial and legal advisors, has concluded that your offer is grossly inadequate and would therefore not be in the best interests of our shareholders. The board has determined that this is not an appropriate time at which to sell the company since, among other reasons, the company has strong earnings growth prospects and we are in the midst of efforts to implement a refinancing plan to improve the company's capital structure. We can only agree with the views of your chief financial officer, as quoted in published reports, that our stock is currently "cheap."

Our board is also of the view that, due to a fundamental difference of management philosophy, a merger of our two companies would not be in the best interests of our employees nor of the communities and customers we serve.

DETROIT (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - In a filing made with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, ANR Pipeline Company (ANR) is seeking authorization for new sales, transportation and storage services designed to enhance market competition in ANR's service area.

The new services, which will replace ANR's existing pipeline sales tariffs, reflect extensive negotiations with ANR's major sales customers. The new services have a targeted in-service date of Nov. 1, 1991. Contracts will run from five to 10 years, with renewal rights.

The new sales service will incorporate gas prices, which will be capped by a spot market index, and a gas inventory charge (GIC), a demand-based monthly charge customers will pay to ensure long-term reliable supplies.

As part of the new service options, customers will have a monthly option to convert up to one-half of their sales service entitlement to transportation, which will give them the ability to move spot gas supplies.

"We believe that our proposed sales service is the most innovative in the industry," said William P. Vititoe, president and chief executive officer of ANR Pipeline.

"It provides our customers with real flexibility and meaningful options, including the ability to arrange their gas supply portfolios to meet their own competitive market requirements."

Vititoe added that the proposed sales service will also provide ANR with the ability to maintain a supply portfolio that will support reliable peak-day service.

ANR Pipeline Company is a subsidiary of The Coastal Corporation (NYSE: CGP), a Houston-based energy holding company with $8 billion in assets and subsidiary operations in natural gas transmission and storage, oil and gas exploration and production, coal and chemicals and independent power production.

DETROIT (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The retirement of Patrick J. Coletta following a career of more than 40 years in the manufacture of cars and trucks for General Motors was announced today by GM Chairman Robert C. Stempel. Coletta will retire as vice president of General Motors and director of operations for the Truck & Bus Group on Jan. 1, 1991.

"Pat Coletta brought a wealth of manufacturing experience to our newly organized truck group in the mid-80s," Stempel said, "and helped them launch several new product programs on an extremely ambitious timetable. The customer response, to our new full-size truck in particular, is testimony to their outstanding accomplishments."

A native of Malvern, Pa., Coletta, 64, began his GM career in 1950 on the production floor of the General Motors assembly plant in Wilmington, Del., after receiving a B.S. in electrical engineering from Villanova College. He held a number of jobs in production supervision before becoming a Sloan Fellow at MIT, where he earned an M.S. in management in 1956.

He then served as production manager at GM assembly plants in South Gate, Calif., and Linden, N.J., before moving to the headquarters of the former GM Assembly Division (GMAD) in 1967 as director of production engineering. The following year he returned to plant supervision and subsequently managed GMAD operations in Kansas City, Kan., Kansas City, Mo., and St. Louis. In 1973 he was promoted to regional plant manager with responsibility for nine GMAD operations in the Midwest and East.

Coletta was promoted again in 1977 when he became vice president in charge of the GM Manufacturing Staff. He returned to GMAD the following year as general manager, and assumed his present position when GM's North American manufacturing operations were restructured in 1984.

Until a successor to Coletta has been named, the operations that reported to him will report directly to Clifford J. Vaughan, GM vice president and group executive in charge of the Truck & Bus Group.

ATLANTA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Although the Christmas season is usually a festive and gala time of year, holiday safety is often taken for granted.

Each year approximately 4,000 people are treated in hospital emergency rooms for injuries associated with holiday decorations. Many suffer burns due to home Christmas tree fires.

Georgia Power Co. urges customers to heed the following advice when using electrical holiday decorations:

On Trees -- Look for freshness in a natural tree. The higher the moisture content, the less likely it will become a serious fire hazard. If the needles break when bent or fall off when the tree is tapped lightly on the ground, the tree is too dry.

-- Keep the tree base in water several inches above the cut line. Cut trees get thirsty; add water every day.

-- Set the tree up far from any heat source.

-- Be careful when using metal trees, especially if electric lights are attached. Sharp metal edges may cut the cord insulation; the metal needles might touch an electrically charged component. Either way, the whole tree will become electrically charged, and anyone touching the tree and a grounded object at the same time could receive a severe shock.

-- When using an artifical tree, look for a statement specifying the tree as fire resistant.

On Lighting -- Check to be sure lights are safety approved and have an Underwriters Laboratories (UL) label attached.

-- Check lights each year. Look for frayed wires, loose connections, broken or cracked sockets and spots where bare wire is exposed. Any damaged set should be thrown out or repaired.

-- All lights should be fastened securely to the tree and shouldn't come into direct contact with needles or branches.

-- Don't overload extension cords. Don't put more than three sets of lights on any extension cord. Keep connection joints away from the water supply of a live tree.

-- Outdoor lights should be weatherproof and clearly identified. Don't use indoor lights outdoors because they are not designed to stand up to the elements. Remove outdoor lights as soon as the season is over; even they are not designed to withstand prolonged weather exposure.

-- Always turn the lights off before leaving home. Disconnect from the wall outlet by grasping the plug, not by pulling on the cord.

Georgia Power also encourages adults to supervise small children and pets playing near electrical holiday decorations.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Daily News today filed a major lawsuit against striking unions under Section 303 of the Labor Management Relations Act. The News is seeking damages in excess of $50 million. Today's suit is the second filed by the News against the striking unions. "This action is in response to the continuing pattern of violence, intimidation and harassment being committed against our dealers and advertisers," said News spokesman John Sloan. "We will continue to pursue this and every other appropriate legal remedy to the violence which is being committed against innocent people."

The complaint, which is based on the federal law prohibiting unions from taking action against neutral third parties uninvolved in a labor dispute, said, "During their strike against the New York Daily News, the defendants and agents acting on their behalf have mounted a campaign of violence and intimidation against the News' dealers and advertisers in an effort to disrupt the publication and sale of the newspaper. This unlawful campaign has included many hundreds of incidents of arson, assault, vandalism, threats, intimidation and harassment against innocent third parties."

Nine striking unions and the Allied Printing Trades Council, an umbrella organization representing all of the striking unions, were named in today's suit which seeks damages for revenues lost by the News through diminished sales of the newspaper and lost advertisements as a result of the unions' unlawful actions.

The suit charged that the unions, acting individually and in conspiracy with the Allied Trades Council, have carried out a campaign of intimidation, threats and acts of both physical injury and damage to the property of news dealers. The suit alleges that, "the unlawful activities include incidents of threats of broken windows, of physical injury, and of unlawful picketing or handbilling designed to disrupt or destroy the businesses of advertisers."

The News suit sites the objects of the union violence as "to threaten, coerce or restrain the dealers" in order to force or require them not to carry the newspaper, and "to threaten, coerce or restrain the advertisers" in order to force or require the advertisers not to do business with the News.

On Nov. 29, the News filed a suit seeking treble damages in excess of $150 million from the Drivers Union, the Allied Printing Trades Council, and individuals. That suit charged the defendants with violations of federal racketeering laws (RICO).

MIAMI BEACH, FLA. (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Non-Invasive Monitoring Systems Inc. (NIMS) (NASDAQ: NIMU) today announced unaudited results for the quarter ended Oct. 31, 1990.

Revenues for the first quarter of fiscal 1991 were approximately $262,000 as compared to $318,000 for the first quarter of last year. For the three months ended Oct. 31, 1990, the company reported a loss of approximately $485,000 as compared to a loss of approximately $148,000 for the first quarter of fiscal 1990.

The decrease in sales and increased loss is due to the company's focusing a large part of its efforts on expanding its present product line by completing development of and planning initial marketing efforts for its new Respitrace Plus and Respicardio Central products. Such products, which combine both pulmonary and cardiac monitoring functions, are pending receipt of Food and Drug Administration permission to market. Subject to receipt of such permission, the company anticipates that it will begin to market and sell these products during the second half of fiscal 1991, although no assurance can be given in this regard.

DETROIT (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Mayor Coleman A. Young today accepted a $150,000 check for the Mayor's Emergency Relief Fund from the Chrysler Corporation Fund and immediately disbursed checks totaling $110,000 to 18 Detroit soup kitchens.

The check was presented to the mayor by Chrysler Executive Director of Government Affairs Michael Glusac, and brought to $1 million the amount the Chrysler Fund has contributed to aid the hungry in Detroit in the past eight years. Chrysler has made contributions to the fund in each of the last eight years.

"On behalf of the people of Detroit, I want to thank Chrysler Corporation for this generous contribution to help those who are less fortunate," the mayor said.

"Chrysler's commitment to Detroit is clear. On East Jefferson, a new $1 billion assembly plant is under construction and should be open in about a year. That guarantees Chrysler's continued presence as a major employer in Detroit well into the 21st century.

"This contribution also indicates an ongoing commitment to be a good corporate citizen of Detroit. I welcome it and congratulate Chrysler."

The Mayor's Emergency Relief Fund was established by Mayor Frank Murphy during the Depression and was reactivated in 1982 by Mayor Young during a particularly difficult economic time in Detroit.

Soup kitchens in Detroit provide an average of about 50,000 meals each month and the city's emergency hotline responds to an average of about 200 calls each week -- with 80 percent of those calls related to a food emergency.

During the past year, an average of approximately 330,000 persons received public assistance of some form each month in Detroit. Approximately 230,000 persons receive Aid to Dependent Children benefits and approximately 106,000 households in the City of Detroit receive food stamps monthly.

Official unemployment figures for the city show about 14 percent of the work force out of work, but the mayor said the actual unemployment total is in excess of 23 percent.

"Clearly, there are major needs in this city and many people need the type of assistance Chrysler's check makes possible," the mayor said. "Because of their generosity, many hungry people will be fed."

The mayor distributed checks totaling $110,000 to 18 organizations today. The remaining $40,000 will be used to defray costs of food storage and food purchases for soup kitchens and the emergency hotline operation.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The V-22 Osprey development program achieved a key milestone by successfully completing initial shipboard compatibility tests aboard the USS Wasp (LHD-1).

Two V-22s, designated Aircraft Nos. 3 and 4, performed the tests after being ferried from the Naval Air Test Center at Patuxent River Naval Air Station, Md. The shipboard tests were conducted from Dec. 4 to Dec. 7, 1990, as the primary event in the government's second V-22 developmental-test period.

Both aircraft were configured for the Marine Corps combat-assault mission and were equipped with an updated automatic flight-control system (AFCS) that greatly reduces pilot workload.

The V-22s used in the tests were piloted by joint military/Bell Boeing flight crews. On Dec. 4, Maj. Gerald Hammes (USMC), piloting Aircraft No. 4, made the first shipboard landing. Hammes was assisted by Boeing Helicopters' chief test pilot Dick Balzer. On Dec. 7, Maj. Robert Price (USMC) landed Aircraft No. 3 and Bell test pilot Dick Peasely landed on the Wasp. Peasely left the aircraft after several landings and Price was joined by Lt. Cmdr. Peter LeVoci (USN).

The LHD is a fully functioning aircraft carrier having enormous logistics and command and control capabilities. It is about the same size as a World War II aircraft carrier and has a rectangular flight deck, but no catapults or arresting gear that would permit conventional aircraft operations.

The LHD's primary role is to provide for the embarkation, deployment, landing and support of all elements of a U.S. Marine Corps landing force by using the ships' aircraft, helicopters, landing craft, and amphibious vehicles. The LHD can accommodate 30 helicopters, or a combination of helicopters and AV-8 Harriers, some 2,000 combat-equipped troops, and about 200 vehicles.

The Bell Boeing Team is comprised of Bell Helicopter Textron Inc., of Fort Worth, Texas, and Boeing Helicopters, of Philadelphia. Bell is a fully owned subsidiary of Textron Inc. (NYSE: TXT) of Providence, R.I. Boeing Helicopters is a division of the Boeing Defense & Space Group of The Boeing Co. (NYSE: BA) whose headquarters are in Seattle.

PHILADELPHIA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Motorworks, the nation's first franchised remanufactured engine installation company, announced today that it has been registered to sell franchises in California. The move effectively opens the chain to the nation's largest automotive market.

Joseph A. Robinson, the company's president, commented, "California has long been regarded as one of the most difficult states in which to register a franchise. We are pleased that Motorworks passed this stringent review, and believe that we will offer an invaluable service to the California motorist."

With the addition to California -- one of 13 states requiring individual registration -- Motorworks is now licensed to sell franchises in all 50 states. Upwards of 30 franchised units are currently in operation or preparing to open in 10 states, with agreements in progress for approximately 20 more shops in 11 additional states. The chain installs nationally warrantied remanufactured car and light truck engines at a price that can be one-tenth the cost of a new car.

Motorworks is beginning a major marketing drive in California, targeted at the large population centers of Los Angeles, Orange County, San Diego and San Francisco.

"With over 16 million automobiles, California represents a tremendous opportunity for Motorworks," Robinson noted. "Given current economic conditions and the high cost of buying a new car, we believe that demand for remanufactured engines will continue to escalate here as it has throughout the rest of the United States."

Robinson explained, "The smaller, higher revving engines and hotter- running engines in today's cars can wear out after as little as 35,000 to 40,000 miles. Very often this happens when the rest of the car is still in good working order. Motorists are then faced with the choice of bearing the expense of buying a new car or getting their engine replaced."

Robinson went on to say that a Motorworks franchise can be especially important in California, where mild weather keeps car bodies from rusting and, thus, outlasting the life of the original engine.

Motorworks, which was founded in 1987, is an affiliates of JARCO, one of the nation's largest engine remanufacturing companies. Both companies are based in Philadelphia.

DETROIT (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Detroit Edison (NYSE: DTE) today reported November electricity sales to commercial customers were 1.1 percent above 1989 marking the highest November commercial sales in the company's history.

All three customer segments -- residential, commercial and industrial -- showed gains, with total November sales of 3.2 billion kilowatthours (kWh), up 1.3 percent from last year.

Despite warmer November weather, residential sales rose to 878 million kWh, an increase of 1.2 percent from a year earlier. The increase was due primarily to an increase of 19,600 customers and a slightly longer billing period than in 1989.

The record commercial sales of 685 million kWh last month also were attributed to a longer billing period and an increase of 3,000 customers.

November industrial sales were 1.5 billion kWh, up 0.7 percent from 1989. Increased production by steel manufacturers contributed to the increase.

On a year-to-date basis, the company's total sales for the first 11 months of the year were 0.5 percent above 1989. Commercial sales for the 11-month period were 2.1 percent higher, residential sales were up 0.6 percent, and industrial sales were virtually unchanged.

The article, appearing in the Jan. 15, 1991 issue of PC Magazine reviewed 26 computer systems based on Intel's 33MHz 80386 processor, the most powerful of the 80386 family. In addition to ZEOS, one other company, Dell Computer of Austin, Texas, also received the award.

In a related development, the company also announced its 80386SX- based computer system has been voted Best Buy of the Year by the readers of Computer Shopper magazine. Computer Shopper, a publication which caters to direct marketing buyers of computer systems and products, annually circulates a ballot to its readers asking them to vote for their favorite products in a number of categories. The ZEOS 30386SX- based system also has been the recipient of a previous PC Magazine Editor's Choice award.

Greg Herrick, president of ZEOS International, noted, "Receiving these two awards back to back is a great honor. Clearly, the 80386SX product is quite important as it is the first point of entry for customers seeking 80386-based systems. The Editor's Choice Award for our ZEOS '386-33 demonstrates that we are also a leader in high end 80386 machines designed to meet the needs of corporate and power users.

"I particularly liked PC Magazine's observation that '... the Dell System 333D and Zeos 386-33 show that you needn't be among the most expensive to be the best.' That's the same message that we direct marketers have been sending to corporate and volume buyers for some time. It's great to see it in print."

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - As part of a major worldwide thrust to strengthen its water treatment activities, W.R. Grace & Co. (NYSE: GRA) today announced a subsidiary has completed the acquisition of The Dexter Corporation's Mogul Water Treatment Systems Europe business. Grace's mold release business, which was part of Grace Specialty Chemicals Co., was sold to Dexter as part of the transaction.

Separately, Grace also announced the purchase of two other water treatment companies that will provide Grace with a strong position in the European market. The purchase price for all three companies was approximately $30 million. Grace currently has more than $200 million in worldwide sales to the water treatment industry.

The companies Grace has purchased are Mogul, the European water treatment business of The Dexter Corporation; Denac, N.V., a private Belgian corporation; and Sachtleben GmbH, a wholly owned subsidiary of Metallgesellschaft GmbH in Germany.

Grace's water treatment businesses operating primarily under its Dearborn Chemical banner consist of specialized chemicals and technical consulting services for the treatment of water used in boilers, cooling towers and water systems. It also provides similar products and services for the treatment of wastewater effluent to the paper and petroleum refining industries.

The additional sales generated as a result of these acquisitions will allow the company to better leverage its technology, as well as the research that is being conducted at its technical centers around the world. At the same time this will be complemented by new technology obtained from the acquired companies.

Grace operates in the water treatment industry around the world but has been seeking to increase its presence in certain strategic geographic markets, particularly Europe. "These acquisitions will accelerate the development of Grace's water treatment businesses in Europe," according to Donald H. Kohnken, president of Grace Specialty Chemicals Co. Kohnken noted that this geographic market is undergoing a dramatic change as a result of the collapse of the Communist system and the coming of the single EEC market in 1992.

The new units will operate as part of Grace Specialty Chemicals Co., the more-than-$3 billion operating unit of Grace. W.R. Grace & Co. is an international specialty chemicals company with interests in energy, manufacturing and service businesses with sales in excess of $6 billion.

HOUSTON (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Enron Gas Marketing Inc., a subsidiary of Enron Corp. (NYSE: ENE), announced today that it has signed a 23-year contract to supply the New York Power Authority with more than 33 million cubic feet (MMcf) of natural gas per day. Over the 23-year period, the contract is valued at approximately $1.3 billion.

Enron Gas Marketing negotiated the first 10 years of the contract at fixed prices. This portion is under the company's successful Gas Bank(SM) program whereby Enron has marketed approximately 540 billion cubic feet (Bcf) of natural gas, which is fully balanced by long-term producer commitments at fixed prices. The remaining 13 years of the contract provide for prices to be adjusted monthly based on current market conditions.

"We are extremely pleased to be able to serve the New York Power Authority," said John J. Esslinger, president of Enron Gas Marketing. "This contract exemplifies the success Enron has achieved in committing to long-term firm supply arrangements for new gas projects in an environment that has been dominated by short-term spot gas contracts."

According to New York Power Authority Chairman Richard M. Flynn, the long-term of this contract and its fixed price provisions are particularly attractive features that will benefit electricity consumers in New York State and primarily Long Island.

Gas will begin flowing under the contract beginning Jan. 1, 1991. The New York Power Authority will use capacity rights it holds with a number of east coast pipelines to transport the gas. The gas will be used to fuel power plants built or operated by the New York Power Authority. In particular, the gas contract eventually could fuel a 150,000 kilowatt power plant that the New York Power Authority has proposed to build for Long Island Lighting Co. in Holtsville, in Suffolk County, N.Y. The plant is planned for completion in early 1994.

Enron Gas Marketing is a non-jurisdictional supplier of natural gas to numerous direct-use and resale customers throughout the United States. Enron Corp., America's leading natural gas company with approximately $11 billion in revenues and $9 billion in assets, operates the nation's largest natural gas transmission system; markets natural gas, gas liquids, crude oil and refined products nationally and worldwide; owns 84 percent of Enron Oil & Gas Co., one of the country's largest independent (non-integrated) natural gas exploration and production companies; and also is one of the largest independent producers of electricity in the United States, with extensive experience in combined heat and power installations.

DENVER (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Royal Gold Inc. (NASDAQ: RGLD) today announced that its wholly-owned subsidiary, Royal Long Valley Inc., and its co-venturer Standard Industrial Minerals Inc. have signed an exploration and joint venture agreement with Battle Mountain Exploration Co., a subsidiary of Battle Mountain Gold Co. (NYSE: BMG), on Royal Gold's Long Valley gold prospect, located in Mono County, Calif. Royal Gold, through its wholly-owned subsidiary, Royal Long Valley, is earning an interest in the Long Valley property from Standard Industrial Minerals under the terms of a pre-existing joint venture agreement.

Under terms of the new agreement, which is cancellable at any time, Battle Mountain will make an initial cash payment to Royal and Standard, and will perform the assessment work requirements on the property. The agreement provides for a mining joint venture to be formed between Royal Gold and Battle Mountain should exploration result in discovery of significant gold mineralization.

Battle Mountain will pay Royal and Standard $230,000 on the first anniversary of the date upon which it receives all necessary permits required to conduct its planned Phase I drilling program. Royal and Standard will each receive half of this payment which is anticipated early in 1992.

Battle Mountain will earn up to a 70 percent interest in the property if it adds a stated quantity of proven and probable gold ore to the reserves that have been proven by Royal and Standard. The percentage of ownership is based upon a sliding scale and increases in proportion to the number of ounces of added reserves.

Battle Mountain will pay Royal and Standard $1.5 million within 30 days following a decision by Battle Mountain to mine a commercially mineable reserve of precious metals on the property. The $1.5 million payment will be divided $.875 million to Standard and $.625 million to Royal.

Royal and Standard have agreed to suspend the deadline for Royal's earn in under the original joint venture agreement to permit Battle Mountain to carry out its exploration program.

Royal and Standard have also agreed that the residual participating interest in the joint venture, if Battle Mountain earns in, will be divided equally, provided that Standard's participating interest may not be reduced below 18.75 percent.

Royal Gold is a Denver-based, publicly held corporation. Royal Gold has a controlling interest in two mines in California, is developing another mine in California, and has three exploration properties: two located in Nevada and one in Arizona. Royal Gold is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol RGLD.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation Limited (HongkongBank) and Midland Group have decided, following full and careful consideration, that this is not the right time for a closer structural association between the two groups, HongkongBank announced today.

The business cooperation between the two groups which began at the end of 1987 when HongkongBank made a 14.9 percent investment in Midland, has made considerable progress and the two groups now cooperate closely in a wide range of activities. However, the difficult economic conditions affecting most of the world's major banks, and the uncertain state of financial markets, do not at present provide a sufficiently stable environment in which to consider a fundamental change in the relationship between Midland and HongkongBank.

The two groups consider that it would be imprudent to divert managerial and other resources to the creation of a new larger structure embracing both banking groups at this challenging time for the banking industry. To be sure of success, such an enlarged operation would require a very considerable number of senior management initiatives in order to exploit the synergies available, integrate financial and risk management controls and maximize cost savings.

Both groups intend to maintain and build on their partnership which has already yielded significant benefits during the last three years, for example, through the rationalization of overseas networks, cross- referral of business, staff secondments and the exploitation of electronic banking opportunities.

HongkongBank intends to remain a supportive and long-term shareholder in Midland, after the agreement relating to its investment expires on Dec. 22. Each bank will remain represented on the board of the other.

SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has reached an agreement with Inertia Dynamics Corp., settling an administrative enforcement action which charged the company with failure to estimate and report releases of toxic chemicals from its facility at 7125 West Galveston St., Chandler, Ariz.

Failure to submit annual toxic release inventory reports is a violation of the federal Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act (EPCRA). In addition to submitting the required reports, the company must pay $30,600.

"Companies should not confuse this requirement to report total chemical releases with other provisions of the law that focus on emergency planning," said David P. Howekamp, director of the air and toxics division of EPA's western regional office.

A complaint filed by EPA's regional office in San Francisco cited the facility for failure to submit reports estimating its releases of tetrachloroethene during 1987 and 1988. The chemical is a known animal carcinogen and may cause birth defects. The company manufactures gas-driven, piston-powered products such as garden trimming equipment. The facility uses the solvent as a metal cleaner.

EPCRA requires toxic release inventory reports every year to EPA and state agencies from manufacturers with more than 10 employees that manufacture, process or use certain toxic chemicals over a specified threshold amount. The reports provide estimates of the amounts of each toxic chemical released, both accidentally and routinely, to the environment, or transferred to another facility or publicly owned wastewater treatment works for treatment and disposal during the previous calendar year. The next reports, covering 1990, are due by July 1, 1991.

All of the information contained in the toxic release inventory reports is available to the public through a computerized database accessible from home computers. In addition, the entire national database can be reviewed on microfiche at selected libraries throughout the country. For copies of the reports submitted by facilities in Arizona contact the Arizona Division of Emergency Services at 602-244-0504.

SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has issued a complaint against Pageant Spas Inc. for an alleged violation of the Emergency Planning and Community Right- to-Know Act (EPCRA).

The complaint was issued against the company's facility at 4850 Felspar St., Glen Avon, Calif., for failing to report releases of styrene to the environment. Styrene is a mutagen and is highly flammable and reactive.

The alleged violation was discovered during a routine inspection by EPA. "Companies should not confuse the requirement to report total chemical emissions with other provisions of the law that focus on emergency planning," said David P. Howekamp, director of the air and toxics division of EPA's western regional office.

The complaint alleges failure to report emissions for 1987 and 1988 and assesses a penalty of $34,000. The facility manufactures spas. Styrene is a component of the resin used in the manufacturing process.

The company has 20 days from receipt of the complaint to respond to the complaint and to request a hearing.

EPCRA requires reports every year to EPA and the state from manufacturers with more than ten employees that manufacture, process or use certain chemicals, over a specified threshold amount. These reports provide estimates of the amounts of each toxic chemical released, both accidentally and routinely, to the environment, or transferred to another facility or publicly-owned wastewater treatment works for treatment and disposal during the previous calendar year. More than 320 chemicals are subject to the reporting requirement. The next reports, covering 1990, are due July 1, 1991.

"Companies that violate the law will be penalized and must suffer the financial consequences. The proposed penalty has been assessed against this facility because it failed to estimate and report releases of toxics to the air, land and water," Howekamp said.

All of the information contained in these toxic release inventory reports is available to the public. ATLANTA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - BellSouth Corp. (NYSE: BLS) today became the first of the seven regional Bell holding companies to achieve a totally electronic network, enabling the company to provide state-of-the-art communications technology throughout its nine-state region.

The milestone was reached when the last two electromechanical central offices in the BellSouth region were retired and replaced with new electronic switching equipment. BellSouth's operating companies have invested $6.2 billion in this sophisticated electronic equipment, which is known as stored program control switching.

BellSouth officials utilized the technology today in a three-way conference call to inform Alfred Sikes, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), of the company's achievement. Participating in the three-way conference call in Birmingham, Ala., and Atlanta were the presidents of BellSouth's two operating telephone companies, Carl F. Bailey, president of South Central Bell and B. Franklin Skinner, president of Southern Bell, and the president of BellSouth Services, Hugh B. Jacks.

An all-electronic network will allow each of BellSouth's customers served by Southern Bell and South Central Bell to do everything from automatically forwarding calls to conducting three-way conference calls. It also allows customers to reach their choice of interexchange carrier without having to dial extra numbers.

BellSouth offers a wide variety of services that put the modern telephone network to work for the customer. NEW YORK (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation Limited (HongkongBank) intends to put before shareholders the following proposals to reorganize the structure of the HongkongBank group:

(a) -- There will be a new group holding company, headquartered in Hong Kong, of which HongkongBank will become a wholly owned subsidiary. It is proposed to use an existing group company as the holding company. This company, which will change its name to "HSBC Holdings plc," is at present a wholly owned subsidiary of HongkongBank, and is a non-resident Uk-incorporated company managed and controlled in Hong Kong.

(b) -- The existing issued shares in HongkongBank will be transferred to HSBC Holdings plc and shareholders will become shareholders in HSBC Holdings plc. Shareholders of HongkongBank will receive one new ordinary share of HK$10 in HSBC Holdings plc in exchange for four existing shares of HK$2.50 in HongkongBank.

replaced by listings of HSBC Holdings plc on those exchanges. The primary listing will be on the stock exchange in Hong Kong.

It is intended to implement the proposal by a Scheme of Arrangement under section 166 of the Companies Ordinance of Hong Kong.

It is an essential feature of the proposals that management and control of the HongkongBank group will remain in Hong Kong. The head offices of HSBC Holdings plc and HongkongBank will be in Hong Kong. MINNEAPOLIS (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Telident, Inc. (Local OTC), a manufacturer of dedicated telephone networks for the public safety market, today announced the sale of a 9-1-1 STS (Station Translation System) to be used with the PBX network for the state of Iowa offices.

Telident's 9-1-1 STS interfaces the state's 8,000-line Rolm PBX network with the Enhanced 9-1-1 public telephone network. The system, which was installed earlier this month, enables the enhanced 9-1-1 network to route emergency calls from state offices to the proper PSAP (public safety answering point). It also enables an emergency 9-1-1 call-taker to identify the location of an individual state office station from which an emergency call is placed. Prior to the installation of Telident's STS, if a state employee made a direct 9-1-1 call from his or her station, immediate identification of the exact location of the call was not possible without the caller's input.

"We consider Telident's product to be a part of the solution to provide state employees with the same level of 9-1-1 service they have when at home. We hope to set an example for other PBX operations in Iowa, as well as across the nation," said Glen D. Anderson, director of general services communications for the state of Iowa.

The first Telident STS was sold to the city of Minneapolis for use on a PBX serving 1,800 stations in five buildings. Installation costs depend on the number of emergency trunk lines involved.

HIGHLAND PARK, MI (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Chrysler Corporation's minivans, which have commanded a "Best in Class" reputation in the auto industry, are further strengthening their position in 1991.

Chrysler announced today a new program in which it is increasing the value and appeal of its 1991 model Plymouth Voyager, Dodge Caravan and Chrysler Town & Country minivans with equipment and incentive packages for customers while also introducing a driver air bag, a minivan industry first.

"Chrysler is moving another giant step ahead," Chairman Lee A. Iacocca said. "Our minivan competitors have taken their best shots, but we're still No. 1 and now we're extending our safety leadership to minivans as well as cars."

In a national satellite telecast to dealers, Chrysler announced several phases of the minivan program which go into effect between now and February, when minivan driver airbags will become available in limited but increasing production quantities.

For openers, Chrysler is offering a $500 customer cash incentive on the purchase of any 1991 model minivan delivered between today, Dec. 17, through Jan. 31. The new allowance can be coupled with $500 cash certificates from Chrysler's recent direct mail program to its 1984-89 minivan owners if applied to replacement vehicles delivered or ordered before Jan. 1, 1991.

Effective Feb. 1 and through March 31, customers will have the choice of a minivan with free $500 airbag, or the $500 rebate on a non- airbag minivan.

Further emphasizing its safety leadership, Chrysler also will introduce a Security Package on 3.3-liter powered minivans. The package includes driver airbag and anti-lock brake system (ABS), for a net price of $499. The package is listed at $1,299, but will be discounted $800. The net price for this outstanding value is $300 less than ABS alone.

Chrysler also is enhancing its "Family Value" discount package for entry level minivan buyers. This optional package with air conditioning, rear defroster, dual horns, deluxe insulation, light package and power liftgate release had been discounted $300 for a net price of $1,102. The discount now is increased to $857, reducing the net to $545 or essentially providing air conditioning free. In February, with a free airbag added to the package, the "Family Value" short wheelbase miniwagon with four-cylinder engine will be available for as low as $13,760.

Details on successive programs will be covered in extensive advertising campaigns.

HUDSON, OH (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of Fabri-Centers of America, Inc. (NYSE: FCA) today authorized a 3-for-2 split of the company's common stock. The split will be carried out by paying a 50 percent stock dividend on Jan. 25, 1991 to shareholders of record on Dec. 28, 1990.

Today's action will result in the distribution of one new share of Fabri-Centers' common stock for every two shares now outstanding, increasing by 50 percent the number of issued and outstanding shares. SEATTLE (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The following was released today by Boeing Aerospace & Electronics:

Put yourself in the shoes of a military mission planner in a troubled spot overseas:

-- You received high-altitude photographic data just hours ago revealing large tank formations moving rapidly toward a strategic location.

-- The area is remote and air defenses have had precious little opportunity to familiarize themselves with the foreign landscape.

-- Do you risk sending valuable personnel and equipment into the airspace? And can you give those airborne defenders the added information they need to more accurately complete their mission and return home?

A Boeing innovation and its recent upgrade will assist military planners in quickly getting that information to the command centers. Boeing Defense & Space Group has delivered to the U.S. Army a modification to a real-time computer-image generator (CIG) that will significantly accelerate the process of identifying potential targets and then simulating them in a realistic, three-dimensional video format.

The Display group at the Aerospace & Electronics Division has connected the CIG system with two-dimensional electronic maps on a Sun workstation to produce precise, top-quality computerized imagery with the efficiency and ease provided by a personal computer, according to Main Tonkin, the project's manager.

A real-time CIG system delivered by Boeing two years ago to the Army displays 3-D digital map data on a computer image generation screen.

But while this system has been a significant asset to mission planners, setting up and determining attack flight paths with keyboard inputs of required data for practice exercises often took hours.

A recent upgrade to that system now enables mission planners to select commands and objects, and control map and target placement, orientation and movement, as well as control viewer position and placement. Most significantly, those procedures now take less than 5 minutes -- rather than the usual hour -- to accomplish.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Responding to the need for practical experience in business education, Madison National Bank of Virginia, a banking subsidiary of Washington-based bank holding company James Madison Limited, and the Virginia public schools have announced a new program for high school business students who wish to learn more about the banking industry by serving as an advisory director to an actual bank.

To inaugurate the program for the fall semester, Madison National Bank of Virginia has appointed Sandy Dubay of Langley High School and Brian Borden of McLean High School to be the first "student advisory directors" to the bank. In the future, the bank expects to appoint additional students from the other high schools in its market area.

"I'm very excited about being appointed a student advisory director," commented Dubay. "This is a terrific opportunity for me to learn about the business world in general and banking in particular." An enthusiastic Borden agreed, "Having the opportunity to meet and work with people actually in the banking field allows me to look at banking from many different perspectives."

Madison National Bank of Virginia is the first area bank to offer such an opportunity to high school students. During their semester in the program, Dubay and Borden will spend approximately 25 hours participating in advisory board meetings, observing bank operations and working as interns in a variety of bank departments. Although the position will not entitle them to vote as directors, the students will be permitted to attend advisory board meetings; and their input will be encouraged.

"We expect to benefit from this program as much as the students do," commented Frank L. Cerutti, president of Madison National Bank of Virginia and a member of the Area III Business Education Advisory Committee for Fairfax County Public Schools serving as an adivsor for Langley High School. "We are particularly interested in the students' insights into how well certain products and services will meet community credit needs in their respective neighborhoods. We are also interested in inculcating in students the savings ethic as well as a better understanding of banking issues."

In a related area, Langley High School has recently made a request to the Fairfax County Public School Board for permission to offer a new course titled "Money and Banking" in its Business Education curriculum for the 1991-92 school session. The course would be designed to provide students with an overview of the American monetary and banking system, including study into the role of money in the economic system; the functions of the Federal Reserve; the various types of financial institutions and the organization and historical development of the banking system; various banking products such as checking and savings accounts, loans, and investments along with exploring careers in banking.

In addition to Madison National Bank of Virginia, the James Madison Limited financial family includes: Madison National Bank; Madison Bank of Maryland; United National Bank of Washington; and James Madison Mortgage Company. James Madison Limited's Class A Common Stock is listed on the American Stock Exchange (JML) and its Common Stock is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System (JMLC).

SOMERVILLE, NJ (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Hoechst-Roussel Pharmaceuticals Inc. and The Upjohn Company (NYSE: UPJ) have signed an agreement to jointly market Hoechst-Roussel's angiotensin converting enzyme (ACE) inhibitor for the treatment of hypertension (high blood pressure) in the United States.

The announcement was made jointly today by Hoechst-Roussel, based in Somerville, and Upjohn, based in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Both companies will market the drug under the name Altace(TM) capsules (ramipril). Hoechst-Roussel filed a New Drug Application with the FDA in late-1988 for approval to market Altace capsules.

"In an industry where research and development costs are so high, it makes good sense to enlist the expertise of our colleagues in the marketing of new products," said Victor J. Bauer, Ph.D., president, Hoechst-Roussel. "By combining resources, we can make Altace capsules available more quickly and easily to patients."

"Upjohn is pleased to have the opportunity to market this important cardiovascular medication," said Theodore Cooper, M.D., Ph.D., Upjohn chairman president and chief executive officer. "Hypertension remains a serious national problem, and Upjohn is delighted to be able to offer this medication."

ACE inhibitors are a first-line therapy for hypertension. Known as the silent killer, hypertension usually has no specific symptoms and no early warning signs.

More than 60 million Americans have high blood pressure, and of these, nearly half are undiagnosed, according to the American Heart Association (AHA). Almost 70 percent of all hypertensives are not on therapy (special diet or drugs), another 20 percent are on inadequate therapy, and only 10 percent are being treated effectively, according to AHA figures.

The cause of high blood pressure is known in only 10 percent of diagnosed cases, the AHA said. However, hypertension is easily detected and usually controllable through diet, lifestyle changes and drug therapy.

In addition to being under FDA review for treating hypertension, Altace is being studied in clinical trials for effectiveness in treating congestive heart failure.

Hoechst-Roussel Pharmaceuticals Inc. is part of the Life Sciences Group of Hoechst-Celanese Corporation. Hoechst Celanese is a wholly owned subsidiary of Hoechst AG of Germany, with leading positions in chemicals, fibers, advance materials and technologies and life sciences. Its 1989 sales were $6 billion, placing Hoechst-Celanese 77th on the Fortune 100 list.

DENVER (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - EAC Industries Inc. (AMEX: EAC) today reported a profit from continuing operations of $717,000 or $.36 per share on sales of $12,014,000 for the third quarter ended Oct. 31, 1990 compared to a loss of $673,000 or $.34 per share on sales of $14,224,000 for the prior year. For the current quarter there was no loss or gain from discontinued operations as compared to a loss of $341,000 or $.17 per share for the prior year. The total profit for the quarter was $717,000 or $.36 per share for 1990 as compared to a loss of $1,014,000 or $.51 per share for the prior year's quarter.

For the nine month period ended Oct. 31, 1990 the company lost $4,170,000 or $2.13 per share on continuing operations as compared to a loss of $1,031,000 or $.53 per share for the same period last year. There was no gain or loss from discontinued operations for the current nine month period as compared to a loss of $772,000 or $.39 per share for the prior year's nine month period. The total loss for the nine month period was $4,170,000 or $2.13 per share as compared to a total loss of $1,803,000 or $.92 per share for the same period last year.

The profit improvement for the quarter reflects improved manufacturing margins which mostly offset the reduction in sales, and a reduction in selling, general and administrative expenses. Also, interest and other expenses were down as the result of the disposition of the St. Paul plant in the first quarter as well as reduced borrowings for working capital purposes as a result of reduced sales and improved inventory levels.

The substantial operating loss for the nine month period primarily occurred in the first quarter ($3,127,000) and to a lesser extent in the second quarter ($790,000) and was the result of Ideal's inability to obtain raw materials (due to late payment of trade creditors in April and May) resulting in production cutbacks and resultant lower sales. Also, a loss on the St. Paul building and provisions for costs relating to changing management and inventory valuation provisions contributed to the loss.

EAC is a holding company serving the hardware and point-of-purchase advertising markets through its subsidiary companies, Ideal Security Hardware and Goodren Products Corporation.

PHILADELPHIA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The members of the Philadelphia Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union, AFL-CIO, by acclamation, have re-elected Jon Fox to serve another three-year term as the union's manager.

This is the second time that Fox has run unopposed for the top leadership spot of the union representing 8,500 active members in the clothing manufacturing industry in Philadelphia and eastern Pennsylvania up to Allentown.

In addition to running the union and acting as its chief negotiator, Fox also oversees, as a trustee of a board made up of representatives of labor and management, the Sidney Hillman Medical Center in Philadelphia. He also serves on the board of the Reuben Block Medical Center in Allentown.

In a statement accepting his election on Dec. 10, Fox detailed the primary challenges facing the union in the coming decade.

"Our primary objective will be to work towards reviving the health of the industry as a whole," he said. "We will also be looking to shore up the benefit structure for our members and we will be continuing our campaign against non-union, foreign imports."

The Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union that Fox heads has suffered greatly in the current recession as well as in the general economic decline in recent years. Fox said that his re-election symbolized the resilience of the people working in the apparel industry.

CRANFORD, NJ (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - United Auto Workers Region 9 today announced a victory in a landmark decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. In a decision given by the Washington court Harvard Industries was ordered to reinstate the members of UAW Local 726 to their jobs with full back pay plus interest and bargain a new collective bargaining agreement with the union. Harvard fired 252 members of UAW Local 726 on April 15, 1985, when it purchased the plant from Amerace Corporation.

The case has gone before an administrative law judge, the full National Labor Relations Board and finally to the Court of Appeals in Washington, as a violation of the National Labor Relations Act. All the above upheld the union's claim of unfair labor practices.

"This has the potential of being the largest back pay settlement in the history of the NLRB," said Pete Mershon, UAW Local 726 president. "We are not surprised; we knew we were right."

UAW Region 9 Director Tom Fricano called the decision "a clear case of justice." "It is comforting to know that the system works," Fricano said. "It is sad, however, that corporate management can delay justice for so long."

The company is liable for a back pay settlement which may reach as high as $30 million. If the figure reaches that amount, it will be the largest settlement ever for a wrongful discharge case.

ROCKVILLE, MD (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The chairman of CRI Insured Mortgage Association, Inc. (CRIIMI MAE) (NYSE: CMM), and AIM Liquidating REIT, Inc. (NYSE: CFR) said today that the bid by the Broad, Inc. (NYSE: BRO) group to take over management of four American Insured Mortgage (AIM) partnerships is "tainted with conflicts of interest and fails to provide meaningful benefits to investors."

"The investors receive no economic benefit from this bid," said William B. Dockser, the chairman of CRIIMI MAE and AIM Liquidating REIT. "The multi-million dollar buyout payment for the general partner's interests goes into the hands of bankrupt Integrated Resources, not the AIM investors."

Dockser also called the proposed Broad fees "simply too high." He said the AIM investors could expect lower fees under the revised exchange offer to be made by CRIIMI MAE and AIM Liquidating REIT to AIM investors -- though tenders are not being solicited under the offer at this time, and will not be accepted until the new prospectus is cleared by the Securities and Exchange Commission and available to investors.

Dockser also said the Broad bid puts "several parties close to the AIM funds into a compromising conflict of interest."

Earlier this year, Broad acquired from Integrated Resources (NYSE: IRE) both the broker dealer firm that sold all of the original AIM units to investors, Royal Alliance, Inc., and a firm that acts as the trustee, Resources Trust Company, holding units for approximately one-third of the AIM investors.

The Royal Alliance brokerage firm continues to represent a significant portion of investors in the AIM partnerships.

Despite the apparent conflict between Broad and Royal Alliance, Dockser said he is "confident individual brokers will overcome any conflict of interest and provide their investors with the best advice."

BALTIMORE (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Baltimore Gas & Electric Co. (NYSE: BGE) today announced that it has been authorized by the Maryland Public Service Commission (PSC) to file new base rates for electricity.

The new rates, effective today, will increase annual electric revenues by $77 million, or 4.7 percent.

For the typical residential customer using 600 kilowatt hours per month, the average bill will rise about $2.96 per month. More than half of BG&E's residential customers use 600 kilowatt hours or less per month.

The rate adjustment compares to a $198 million request filed by BG&E last May. Part of that request was to cover future higher operating and maintenance expenses, including expenditures at the Calvert Cliffs Nuclear Power Plant, where BG&E is continuing its program to meet rising expectations for safety and performance in the nuclear industry. Additionally, new capital investments such as expansion of BG&E's electric distribution and transmission system, were reflected in the request.

Another facet of BG&E's request was a $45 million component to be used as the first phase of a three-part adjustment for Brandon Shores Unit 2, BG&E's new 640 megawatt coal burning unit which will be placed in service next May. Although the PSC agreed that Brandon Shores Unit 2 was a prudent and timely investment, it rejected the phase-in approach, and instead elected to adjust electric rates effective next June.

While acknowledging that rate increases will never please consumers, BG&E officials pointed out that they are necessary to insure electric service reliability. However, BG&E rates have increased at a much lower rate than inflation. "BG&E rates, even with this latest increase, are still among the lowest on the East Coast," said Art Slusark, BG&E's director of public information.

Between 1984 and 1990, BG&E residential rates have risen an average of about 1.2 percent annually, compared to an average increase in the Consumer Price Index of almost 4 percent annually. In fact, BG&E's residential prices, when adjusted for inflation, have actually declined approximately 14.5 percent during that period.

CHICAGO (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Each year, as many as half of the 17,000 pages in 15 volumes of specifications for Intel Corp. products are revised. Now, a new CD-ROM publishing technology developed by R.R. Donnelley and Sons Co. is making updates as convenient and reliable as changing a compact disk.

Intel Corp. calls its new CD-ROM publishing product "Data on Demand." This capability will enable Intel's 90 sales offices worldwide to provide design engineers with up-to-date data specifications, application notes, and reliability and engineering reports on 750 microprocessors, semiconductors and other products.

Thorn said CD-ROM demand publishing has significant potential not only for companies in such fast-evolving industries as electronic components, but also among companies that publish extensive catalogs of frequently changing inventory or pricing such as medical instrumentation, tools and parts, and office supplies.

Consumers are familiar with CD-ROM technology as the silver colored compact disks now popular for enhanced stereo sound reproduction. Information on a CD-ROM disk is retrieved by an optical beam head moving across its rotating surface. Data placed on a CD-ROM disk can be read but not altered, making it more reliable than floppy or hard disk memory.

Each month, Donnelley will produce and distribute to Intel sales offices an updated CD-ROM disk containing all the product information currently found in the company's catalogs, which Donnelley prints, along with notes on any revisions made to each product entry.

As customers request data, updated and revised pages, complete with text, charts, graphs, schematics and photographs formatted to read and look exactly like those in Intel's printed handbooks, will be identified through a computer search and printed as required.

Data on Demand dramatically reduces the turnaround time for customer requests by eliminating many of the inventory and delivery tasks associated with paper document management. Moreover, the CD-ROM system allows users to survey the entire catalog on-line in a problem-solving context to identify peripherals, memory and other products appropriate to the design challenge.

R.R. Donnelley and Sons Co. is the world's foremost printer of catalogs, newspaper advertising inserts, magazines, books, directories, computer documentation and financial printing.

SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Phoenix Network Inc. (NASDAQ: PHXN) today announced record revenues for its second quarter ended Oct. 31, 1990. Revenues increased 110 percent to $3,360,757 from $1,600,005 in the year earlier period. The net loss for the quarter was $16,287 compared to a loss of $70,410 for the prior year's second quarter.

Commenting on the results, Marc Goyette, president and chief operating officer noted that the company is seeing a clear reversal of the widening losses last year. Operating results have improved from a loss of $475,886 in the quarter ended April 30, 1990, to a loss of $324,186 in the quarter ended July 31, 1990 to a loss of $16,287 in this quarter. "The impressive revenue growth experienced in the last six months would have been much greater if not for the significant delays in order processing by the company's vendors this year. These delays resulted in higher levels of distributor turnover and order cancellations. Performance by the company's vendors has improved in the last 90 days."

The company signed a new agreement with US Sprint which will further reduce its costs, expand its offered services to include 800 numbers and additional dedicated services, and reduce processing time for new customer activations.

The company is continuing to improve its service to its customers and is nearing completion of an enhanced invoicing system which will offer one of the most sophisticated invoicing packages available to long distance telecommunications customers. A number of new marketing programs are being launched in December and January and the company expects the next 12 months to show continued increases in revenue and improved operating results.

MIAMI (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Ed McCabe announced that he would leave Beber Silverstein McCabe & Partners, Miami, and open McCabe & Company Inc. in New York.

"The last eight months have shown me two things," McCabe said. "That I really love being back in advertising. And that I want to build a company of my own."

He added that his affiliation with BSM&P had proved to be "an energizing experience. We were doing some wonderful work and growing. I have great fondness and respect for Joyce and Elaine and many other people at BSM&P. I'm sure they will continue to do well."

"We've all benefited greatly from Ed McCabe," said Elaine Silverstein. "Ed's a tough task master and has sharpened our creative skills. We wish him well."

McCabe said that he was referring to his new venture as a "communications company" because "advertising agency" was too narrow a definition to cover the scope of services needed by major clients today.

"Agencies have been buying their ways into other communications areas," McCabe said, "but that's not the way to do it. To work effectively, they must be joined at birth and adhere to a common set of principles."

Asked whether the timing of his new venture, in a recession, might be difficult, McCabe replied, "On the contrary. It is the time of greatest need."

McCabe stated that he could not say more about his associates or client prospects at the present time but would divulge more in "the next few weeks."

Silverstein said the agency plans to begin talks with several distinguished creative directors.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Operating results for the fiscal first quarter ended Oct. 31, 1990, were reported today by New Plan Realty Trust (NYSE: NPR), the country's largest publicly owned equity trust.

New Plan said revenues totaled $13,936,000 versus $13,557,000 for the comparable quarter last year.

Net income for the recent three months amounted to $8,630,000 equal to $.25 per share compared with $8,730,000 also equal to $.25 per share in the prior-year period. First quarter figures for the prior year include a one-time recovery amounting to $360,000 or $.01 per share.

Elaborating, he stated, "We're in the midst of the best buyer's market for quality real estate I've seen in nearly two decades, and on top of that we're fortunate enough to have over $137 million in cash to acquire the 'pick' of these properties." The trust's aim, he pointed out, is to build an extensive portfolio of shopping center properties that will enhance NPR's revenues and long-term profitability.

EDMONTON, ALBERTA (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Echo Bay Mines Ltd. (AMEX: ECO) announced today that it has exchanged its working interest in an 11-year gold mining lease at the Robinson mine in Nevada for a royalty on future gold production at the property plus US$2.0 million in cash from Alta Gold Co. (NASDAQ: ALTA) and Magma Copper Co. (AMEX: MCU)

Alta Gold has been Echo Bay's joint venture partner in the production of gold at Robinson since mid-1988, under a lease from Kennecott Corp. Robinson is by far the largest property involved in the Alta Bay Joint Venture, in which Echo Bay has a 40 percent non-operating interest and Alta Gold holds the 60 percent controlling interest. Alta Gold and Magma Copper are currently in the process of purchasing the 12,000-acre Robinson gold and copper property from Kennecott, primarily for its copper production potential. Alta Gold and Magma Copper contemplate building a concentrating plant to process 30,000 to 35,000 tons of ore per day.

Under the terms of the royalty, Echo Bay will receive a net smelter return royalty of 6 percent of all the gold produced in future gold operations at Robinson and 2 percent of all the gold produced in future copper operations at Robinson. The 2 percent royalty is subject to a maximum of US$12.5 million.

Magma Copper also assumes the property reclamation and certain environmental liabilities of Echo Bay.

The Robinson mine has been operating at a net loss for nearly two years. For the first nine months of this year, cash production costs were US$330 per ounce of gold produced, and royalties paid to Kennecott were US$39 per ounce. Echo Bay's share of the gold produced at Robinson was 24,251 ounces, about 4 percent of Echo Bay's total gold production.

Echo Bay is one of the largest gold producers in North America. The company's shares are traded principally on the Toronto and American stock exchanges and on other major exchanges in North America and Europe.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Veronex Resources Ltd. (AMEX: VX; Vancouver Stock Exchange: VEO) reported on Dec. 14, 1990, that a decision had been rendered in the arbitration involving its disagreement with Triton Indonesia Inc.

Veronex had declared Triton, the operator of the Enim Oil Project, in default in December 1989. In January 1990, Veronex demanded an arbitration to resolve the disagreements regarding certain cash obligations, accounting procedures and other matters. Subsequently, Triton made certain counterclaims against Veronex.

The decision rendered by the American Arbitration Association Panel on Dec. 13 1990, is adverse to the company. The decision reduced Nordell's interest in the Enim Oil Project to a 5 percent net profits interest and awarded damages of approximately $1 million to Triton. The decision of the Arbitration Panel in its current form, could have a material adverse effect on the operations and financial condition of the company.

The decision appears to be inconsistent with the facts and evidence as presented in the testimony during the arbitration hearing. Further, the decision, in certain aspects, is unclear and it appears that the Arbitration Panel acted beyond the scope of its authority as well as outside the terms of the Farmout Agreement issues presented. Management is meeting with counsel to investigate various alternatives, including court action to have the decision of the Arbitration Panel overturned or modified.

TULSA, OKLA. (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Lowrance Electronics Inc. (NASDAQ: LEIX) today reported first quarter sales of $10,267,000 for the three months ended Oct. 31, 1990, an increase of 34 percent from sales of $7,688,000 during the same period last year. Net loss for the quarter was $743,000, or minus 22 cents per share, compared to a net loss of $992,000, or 29 cents a share, last year.

Company President Darrell Lowrance attributed the higher sales to a significant increase in sales of Eagle products, particularly the new widescreen FISH I.D.-II and ULTRA models, and a three percent increase in the average unit selling price. "Continuing momentum from last year's record sales, and the early availability of four new products, allowed us to achieve unusually high sales in the first quarter," said Lowrance.

First quarter sales of Lowrance products, which are primarily sold to boat and motor dealers and boat manufacturers, declined from last year's levels due to the continued downward trend in new boat sales and growing concern about the United States economy.

The outlook for 1991 sales remains clouded by unrest in the Persian Gulf, foreseeability of a United States recession, and a 40 percent decline in new boat sales in the United States during the past two years. Lowrance cautioned that "we foresee a reduction in consumer spending and the likelihood of significantly lower sales during the second quarter, compared to last year. Backlog in orders for the quarter ended Oct. 31, 1990 are $16 million, compared to last year's record backlog at the same time, which was in excess of $28 million.

Lowrance Electronics Inc. manufactures sonar and navigational instruments and accessories for sport fishing and recreational boating markets under the brand names "Lowrance" and "Eagle." The company's common stock is listed on the National Market and trades in the Over- the-Counter Market under the NASDAQ symbol LEIX.

SEATTLE (DEC. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Royal Air Maroc, flag carrier for the North African kingdom of Morocco, has taken delivery of a new Boeing 737-500 to become the first airline in Africa and the Middle East to operate the advanced-technology twinjet, Boeing said today.

Earlier this year, Royal Air Maroc became the first airline in the region to introduce the Boeing 737-400. It was also the first in North Africa to operate the 757D200 and the 727-200.

The airline has ordered 10 new-generation 737s and holds options on an additional 10. The 737-500 just delivered is leased from Ansett Worldwide and is not included in this order count. Of the 10 on firm order, Royal Air Maroc has selected three 737-400s and three 737D500s for its first six deliveries. Type selection of the remaining aircraft will be decided at a later date.

As configured for Royal Air Maroc, the new 737D500 will seat 123 passengers in an all-economy arrangement. The advanced-technology twinjet is powered by CFM 56D3C-1 engines built by CFM International, a joint venture of General Electric of the U.S. and SNECMA of France. These quiet but powerful engines allow the 737D500 to be a good community neighbor at even the most noise-sensitive airports. The aircraft is certified for a maximum takeoff weight of 125,000 lbs. (56,700 kg).

Royal Air Maroc's 737-500 has a range of 2,054 statute miles (3,306 km) with a full passenger payload, permitting the airline to fly Casablanca-Copenhagen nonstop.

By selecting the family of new-generation 737s, Royal Air Maroc achieves significant cost savings because of the common pilot type rating for all 737 models and because of commonality in maintenance and spare parts for the 737-400 and D500. In addition, the airline benefits from the flexibility in being able to schedule any size 737 and still use the same flight crew. Further savings come from integrating the new-generation 737s into its existing fleet of 737-200s.

To date, 66 customers worldwide have ordered 1,734 of the new-generation Boeing 737s. Total orders for the entire 737 program amount to 2,878, making it the most popular commercial airplane in history.

MOSCOW (DEC. 17) TASS - THE FIRST SPEAKERS AFTER PRESIDENT MIKHAIL GORBACHEV'S STATE OF THE UNION SPEECH TO THE FOURTH CONGRESS OF SOVIET PEOPLE'S DEPUTIES, CLEARLY HELD OUT NO PROMISE OF PEACE AND QUIET.

MORE THAN 430 DEPUTIES HAVE ASKED TO ADDRESS THE CONGRESS THE FIRST TO SPEAK SET THE TONE FOR SHARP CRITICISM THE LEADERS MUST RECEIVE IN THE NEXT FEW DAYS.

PRESIDENT NURSULTAN NAZARBAYEV SAID THAT, WHILE SHARING GORBACHEV'S STRATEGY ON THE WHOLE, HE THOUGH IT EXPEDIENT TO "CHANGE TACTICS WITHIN THE COUNTRY AND TAKE DECISIVE ACTION ALONG MAJOR LINES".

HE WAS SHARPLY CRITICAL OF THE ACTIVITY OF THE COUNTRY'S PRESENT GOVERNMENT HEADED BY NIKOLAI RYZHKOV, AND CALLED FOR THE RETURN TO THE SHATALIN-YAVLINSKY PLAN FOR ECONOMIC REFORM.

TWO OTHER OPPOSITION FACTIONS -- THE INTER-REGIONAL DEPUTY GROUP AND THE SOYUZ GROUP -- ALSO AIRED THEIR VIEWPOINTS.

MOSCOW MAYOR GAVRIIL POPOV, WHO ADDRESSED THE CONGRESS ON BEHALF OF THE INTER-REGIONAL DEPUTY GROUP, WAS NOTABLY MORE RESERVED THAN IN SOME OF HIS RECENT PRONOUNCEMENTS. HE CALLED FOR RALLYING THE EFFORTS OF ALL SOVIET REPUBLICS IN ORDER TO OVERCOME THE CRISIS. HE CRITICISED THE "CENTRALIST POWER MODEL" PROPOSED BY THE FEDRAL LEADERSHIP FOR OVERCOMING THE CRISIS, BUT FAVOURED A STRONG CENTRAL AUTHORITY. HE CALLED FOR MONETARY REFORM IN THE COUNTRY AS A HIGH PRIORITY MEASURE AND URGED THE FORMATION OF A COALITION GOVERNMENT.

YURI BLOKHIN, THE LEADER OF THE SOYUZ GROUP, WAS MUCH MORE AGGRESSIVE IN HIS CRITICISM. HE DECLARED THAT PERESTROIKA HAD TURNED INTO COUNTER-PERESTROIKA SOMEWHERE ALONG THE ROAD. INSTEAD OF BRINGING ABOUT THE RENEWAL OF THE FEDERAL STATE, IT HAS BROUGHT ABOUT ITS DISINTEGRATION, THE ECONOMY HAS NOT BEEN MODERNIZED, INSTEAD, ALL SUSTENANCE SYSTEMS ARE COLLAPSING.

THE SOYUZ GROUP IS AGAINST RETREATING TO PAST POSITIONS, BUT IT IS ALSO AGAINST COUNTER-PERESTROIKA PROCESSES POSING AS PERESTROIKA, BLOKHIN SAID.

BLOKHIN FAVOURED A MORATORIUM ON ALL REPUBLICAN LEGAL ACTS, WHICH CONTRADICT THE EFFECTIVE SOVIET CONSTITUTION AND FEDERAL LAWS, AND SUPPORTED THE IDEA OF REFERENDA ON PRIVATE PROPERTY AND THE FUTURE OF THE UNION.

MOSCOW (DEC. 17) TASS -- THE SITUATION IN THE GULF AND THE MIDDLE EAST AS A WHOLE WAS HIGHLIGHTED DURING THE BRIEFING AT THE SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTRY PRESS CENTRE HERE TODAY.

FOREIGN MINISTRY SPOKESMAN VITALY CHURKIN TOLD JOURNALISTS THAT 751 SOVIET CITIZENS HAD RETURNED HOME FROM IRAQ BETWEEN DECEMBER 7 AND 17. ANOTHER 2,565 SOVIET NATIONALS ARE STILL IN IRAQ. THEY WILL BE LEAVING THAT COUNTRY IN LINE WITH THE PREPARATION OF EXIT DOCUMENTS.

THE IRAQI SIDE'S STANCE ON THE DEADLINE FOR ITS CONTACTS WITH THE U.S. ADMINISTRATION "APPEARS DIFFICULT TO DEFEND AND CAUSES DOUBT AS TO IRAQ'S FURTHER INTENTIONS," CHURKIN SAID.

THE SOVIET SIDE IS CONVINCED, HE STRESSED, THAT THE DISRUPTION OF THE PLANNED DIALOGUE BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND IRAQ WILL SERIOUSLY COMPLICATE EFFORTS TO PREVENT THE "NON- PEACEFUL" DEVELOPMENT OF EVENTS AFTER THE PEACE PAUSE ENDS.

ASKED IF IRAQ CAN COUNT ON GUARANTEES OF ITS TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY AND SOVEREIGNTY IF IT ANNOUNCED WITHDRAWAL FROM KUWAIT, CHURKIN CITED SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER EDUARD SHEVARDNADZE'S STATEMENT DURING HIS NEW CONFERENCE AT ANKARA.

ACCORDING TO SHEVARDNADZE, THE POSSIBILITY OF GUARANTEEING IRAQ'S TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY AND SOVEREIGNTY COULD BECOME A SUBJECT OF SERIOUS DISCUSSION IF BAGHDAD SHOWED READINESS TO PULL OUT OF KUWAIT.

CHURKIN POINTED OUT THE POSITIVE EMPHASIS IN THE SOVIET MINISTER'S STATEMENT.

ASKED ABOUT THE SOVIET STANCE WITH REGARD TO THE CONVOCATION OF AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON THE MIDDLE EAST SETTLEMENT, CHURKIN SAID THAT MOSCOW FAVOURED ANY DIPLOMATIC AND POLITICAL EFFORTS, INCLUDING BILATERAL AND MULTILATERAL CONTACTS, AS WELL AS THE ACTIVITY OF U.N. SECRETARY-GENERAL'S ENVOYS AND CONSULTATIONS BY THE FIVE PERMANENT SECURITY COUNCIL MEMBERS.

ALL THESE CONTACTS AND CONSULTATIONS, HE NOTED, CAN LEAD TO THE CONVOCATION OF AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON THE MIDDLE EAST SETTLEMENT. THE SOVIET UNION CONTINUES TO BELIEVE THAT A FORUM OF THIS KIND CAN BE USEFUL FOR THE SOLUTION OF THIS INTRICATE PROBLEM.

CHURKIN TOLD THE BRIEFING THAT LAST WEEK, THE SOVIET PARLIAMENT'S INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE BEGAN DISCUSSION OF THE TREATY ON THE FINAL SETTLEMENT AROUND GERMANY, AS WELL AS A NUMBER OF OTHER SOVIET-GERMAN, SOVIET-FRENCH AND SOVIET-ITALIAN DOCUMENTS.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS WILL RESUME THE DISCUSSION OF THESE DOCUMENTS AS SOON AS THE CONGRESS OF SOVIET PEOPLE'S DEPUTIES ENDS AND SUBMIT THEM FOR RATIFICATION THEREAFTER.

MOSCOW (DEC. 17) TASS - SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTRY SPOKESMAN VITALY CHURKIN TOLD A BRIEFING HERE TODAY THAT THE DECISION BY THE ISRAELI OCCUPATION ADMINISTRATION TO DEPORT FOUR PALESTINIANS FROM GAZA WAS "A FRESH VIOLATION OF THE INTERNATIONAL LAW".

THE ISRAELI AUTHORITIES HAVE DEPORTED 58 PALESTINIAN FROM THE OCCUPIED PALESTINIAN LANDS SINCE INTIFADA BEGAN.

THE SOVIET SPOKESMAN NOTED THAT THE DECISION ON THE DEPORTATIONS CONTRADICTS ARTICLE 49 OF THE 1949 GENEVA CONVENTION, SIGNED BY ISRAEL, WHICH PROHIBITS DEPORTATION OF PEOPLE FROM OCCUPIED TERRITORIES.

"WE EXPECT ISRAEL TO STRICTLY ABIDE BY INTERNATIONAL LAW AND RESPECTIVE RESOLUTIONS BY THE UNITED NATIONS AND THE UN. SECURITY COUNCIL," CHURKIN STRESSED.

ONLY IF ALL PARTIES TO THE ARAB-ISRAELI CONFLICT STRICTLY ADHERE TO THE SPIRIT AND THE LETTER OF THE GROUND-LAYING NORMS AND RULES OF CIVILIZED COMMUNICATION BETWEEN STATES AND NATIONS, HE POINTED OUT, IT IS POSSIBLE TO COUNT ON THE ESTABLISHMENT OF DURABLE PEACE IN THE MIDDLE EAST.

(DEC. 17) UPI - Secretary of States Baker today told NATO foreign ministers the alliance should stand firm against partial solutions to the Persian Gulf crisis. Baker warned Saddam Hussein will likely try to undercut the international community's will to force him out of Kuwait.

In Washington, President Bush says he determined there will be NO negotiations with Iraq and NO concessions. Bush told diplomats from 28 countries that Iraq must withdraw from- quote- ''every square inch of Kuwait.''

President Bush says the man he's tapped to head the education department will give education reform a needed boost in his administration. Bush picked former Tennessee Governor Lamar Alexander, a highly regarded activist educator, to replace Lauro Cavazos, who was dumped last week.

In a related development, President Bush has asked the Education Department to review its controversial ruling outlawing scholarships earmarked exclusively for minority students. White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says Bush was ''very disturbed about the ruling.''

International observers says Jean Bertrand Aristide Zhawn-BAYR'-trahn Ah-rees-TEED', a charismatic 37-year-old Catholic priest, is the apparent winner of yesterday's presidential race in Haiti. With one percent of the ballots counted, Aristide is ahead with 70-point-six percent of the vote.

Also today, witnesses and news reports say a victory celebration by Aristide supporters turned bloody as soldiers fired into a crowd of revelers outside a church in Port-au-Prince. A pregnant woman reportedly was killed and several other people wounded.

Snow plastered the northern half of the nation today from the Northwest to the Great Lakes. A cold front moving southward from Canada is expected to drop temperatures significantly across northern states by tomorrow. Elsewhere, warm winds swept the South, equaling or breaking high temperature records in four states.

(DEC. 17) - Two NFL playoff spots were filled Sunday, leaving eight berths clinched and four up for grabs.

The Los Angeles Raiders and Philadelphia Eagles sealed postseason spots with victories over other playoff hopefuls. That leaves three playoff berths open in the AFC and one in the NFC with two weeks remaining in the regular season.

The Raiders' 24-7 rout of Cincinnati put them a game ahead of Kansas City in the AFC West, and gave them their first playoff spot since 1985. The Chiefs were crushed 27-10 by the Houston Oilers, who received a 527- yard passing day from Warren Moon.

At Los Angeles, Bo Jackson's 88-yard run set up one of three Jay Schroeder touchdown passes to lift the Raiders. Jackson finished with 117 yards on eight carries.

''This is my first playoff ever in any sport and I'm looking forward to it,'' said Jackson, who also plays outfield for the Kansas City Royals. ''I don't know what to expect. You'll have to ask the older guys like Marcus (Allen) and Howie (Long). I'm going to contribute as much as I can and do whatever I can to help the Raiders win.''

Tim Brown caught two of Schroeder's scoring passes.

The Raiders lead the division at 10-4, with the Chiefs at 9-5. The Bengals, 7-7, dropped out of a tie for the AFC Central lead.

At Kansas City, Mo., Moon kept the Oilers, 8-6, tied for first with Pittsburgh in the AFC Central. He completed 27 of 45 passes for three TDs and no interceptions. Moon fell 27 yards short of the NFL single- game record set by Norm Van Brocklin in 1951.

''When you have a 500-yard day against anybody, you have to be proud, '' Moon said. ''I'm very proud of myself and of the people around me who allowed it to happen.''

Haywood Jeffires caught nine passes for 245 yards, including an 87- yard TD pass.

''This is something receivers dream about,'' Jeffires said. ''I wish I could have done it before the home crowd and my mother.''

The Raiders follow Buffalo and Miami from the AFC East into the AFC playoffs. Miami edged Seattle 24-17 Sunday to improve to 11-3 and remain one game behind the Bills in the division race entering their showdown Sunday in Buffalo.

At Miami, Dan Marino threw touchdown passes of 4 yards to James Pruitt and 8 yards to Ferrell Edmunds to lift the Dolphins. Miami, 11-3, also scored on a 6-yard run by Troy Stradford and a 32-yard field goal by Pete Stoyanovich. The Seahawks, in contention for a wild-card spot, slipped to 7-7.

The Eagles' 31-0 rout of Green Bay at home made Philadelphia the fifth NFC playoff team, and third from the NFC Central. The New York Giants have clinched the division title, and Washington, 9-5, sealed a berth with a 25-10 victory over New England Saturday.

At Philadelphia, quarterback Randall Cunningham threw for one TD and ran for another, running back Keith Byars caught a scoring pass and threw for another, and the Eagles recorded their first shutout of the season.

''I'm happy and proud to make the playoffs,'' Cunningham said. ''I'm also happy with the shutout.''

Cunningham, who completed 13 of 27 passes for 241 yards and ran four times for 56 yards, threw to Byars for a 12-yard score and ran 17 yards for a touchdown.

The Eagles held Green Bay, 6-8, to 158 yards in offense. Philadelphia recorded five sacks and an interception to dampen the Packers' playoff hopes.

Another NFC East team, Dallas, 7-7, leads the race for the final conference wild-card spot. The Cowboys crushed Phoenix 41-10 at home Sunday to move a game ahead of Green Bay, Minnesota, New Orleans and Tampa Bay - all 6-8 - in the wild-card hunt.

At Irving, Texas, Emmitt Smith gained 103 yards on 24 carries and tied a club record with four touchdowns to help the Cowboys to their most lopsided victory in four years. The Cardinals, 5-9, had a three- game winning streak snapped.

The Buccaneers won Richard Williamson's debut as interim head coach, crushing Minnesota 26-13 at Tampa, Fla. Vinny Testaverde scrambled 48 yards for a TD and rushed for 105 yards and the Vikings committed eight turnovers.

At New Orleans, Gary Anderson's third field goal of the game, a 43- yarder with 1:44 left, lifted the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 9-6 victory over the Saints. Morten Andersen kicked two field goals for New Orleans.

In other games Sunday, Denver clipped San Diego 20-10, Indianapolis dumped the New York Jets 29-21 and Cleveland shaded Atlanta 13-10.

Detroit upset Detroit 38-21 in Sunday night's game. On Monday night, the San Francisco 49ers visit the Los Angeles Rams.

Broncos 20, Chargers 10

At Denver, John Elway threw for 248 yards and two TDs to help the Broncos snap a six-game losing streak. The Broncos, 4-10, damaged the Chargers' playoff hopes. San Diego dropped to 6-8.

Colts 29, Jets 21

At East Rutherford, N.J., Eric Dickerson rushed for 117 yards and scored two third-quarter TDs to rally the Colts, 6-8, who are trying to avoid their first losing season under coach Ron Meyer. The Jets fell to 4-10 despite two TD receptions by rookie Rob Moore.

Browns 13, Falcons 10

At Cleveland, Kevin Mack rushed for 80 yards and a TD to help the Browns snap an eight-game losing streak. The Falcons, 3-11, lost their seventh straight and 18th in a row on the road. The Browns, 3-11, won for the first time in five games under interim coach Jim Shofner.

Lions 38, Bears 21

At Pontiac, Mich., Rodney Peete threw a career-best four touchdown passes, including three in the second quarter, to lead the Lions to an upset of the Bears. The triumph was only the second in the last seven games for the Lions, 5-9. The Bears, 10-4, who lost quarterback Jim Harbaugh to a separated shoulder in the third quarter, dropped their second straight game.

(DEC. 17) UPI - President Bush isn't saying whether his proposed talks with Iraq are dead. Upon his return to the White House Sunday from Camp David, Maryland, Bush simply waved off questions from reporters about the high- level meetings. The White House also declined comment on an Iraqi statement reaffirming Baghdad's determination to stay in Kuwait.

The president of Algeria paid a short visit to Lebanon Sunday for talks with Lebanese leaders. It was the first such diplomatic gesture by a head of state towards the war-battered nation in more than seven years. Officials say the Algerian leader came by land in a heavily- guarded motorcade from Syria and was received by Lebanon's Prime Minister Selim Hoss.

In Brazil, a cattle rancher and his son were convicted Sunday in the 1988 murder of labor leader and Amazon rain forest environmentalist Francisco ''Chico'' Mendes. Both were sentenced to 19 years in prison. Mendes, who led efforts by rubber tappers to preserve the Brazilian jungle, was shot 40 times at his home, sparking protests around the world.

Justice Department statistics show the number of drug trafficking convictions has jumped 50 percent in just two years. A Bureau of Justice Statistics study also found that 41 percent of those convicted in 1988 received prison sentences... up from 37 percent two years earlier. It says most of the felons, 91 percent, pleaded guilty.

Most Americans, or 70 percent, are willing to pay an extra 200- dollars a year in taxes to help clean up the environment. That's according to a poll by Time magazine and Cable News Network. The survey also found that 64 percent of the respondents regularly return cans or bottles to their recycling center.

Pope John Paul is calling on Central American presidents to make concrete advances toward peace and freedom. The leaders gathered in Costo Rica Sunday in their ninth summit aimed at ending regional civil strife and revitalizing their economies. The pontiff issued the appeal in a statement read at the end of a mass attended by the presidents of Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua and Panama.

(DEC. 17) UPI - The way Brett Hull sees it, he better be scoring goals or he isn't much of a hockey player.

Hull scored his second goal of the game and league-leading 33rd of the season early in the third period Sunday night, leading the St. Louis Blues to a 5-3 victory over the Buffalo Sabres, who have lost five straight.

With the score tied 3-3, Hull skated the length of the ice before unleashing a slap shot that beat Buffalo goaltender Clint Malarchuk 1:48 into the third period.

''I try to go out and do the best I can every night,'' Hull said. ''If I'm going to help the team I'm scoring goals. That's what it's all about for me. I don't do a lot else good so I just try to go out there and help the club.''

Adam Oates added a goal and two assists for the Blues, who extended their unbeaten streak to six games (5-0-1).

''He played like he always does. He was awesome,'' Hull said of Oates, who was playing in his first game after missing 18 with an abdominal muscle pull. ''He's heart and soul (of the club). We missed him for 18 games and we're going to be tough to stop with him back.''

Pierre Turgeon had a goal and an assist and Uwe Krupp had two assists for the Sabres.

Mike Ramsey gave Buffalo a 1-0 lead in the first period with his first goal of the season. With a penalty upcoming to the Blues, Ramsey moved in from the left point and blasted a 35-foot shot past Blues goaltender Vincent Riendeau.

Geoff Courtnall tied the score for the Blues at 15:40 when he tipped Paul MacLean's centering pass off Malarchuk and into the net.

Turgeon regained the lead for Buffalo with a power-play goal at 7:34 of the second period. Uwe Krupp took a shot from the point that was stopped, but Turgeon swept in the rebound from 15 feet for his 100th career goal.

Hull evened the score with his 32nd goal on a power play at 13:52. Hull lunged to take a Cliff Ronning pass in the slot, deked Malarchuk and put in a backhander.

''There's a tremendous amount of pressure surrounding our hockey club,'' Buffalo Coach Rick Dudley said. ''I think they've worked very hard. I don't know why we can't win. I don't know why we always manage to give up goals in inopportune times, but we do.''

Dale Hawerchuk gave Buffalo a 3-2 lead with a power-play goal two minutes later, swatting in a third rebound past Riendeau.

Oates tied it with 34 seconds left in the second period when his slap shot from the faceoff dot to the left of Malarchuk went off the goalie's shoulder and under the crossbar.

In other games, Calgary downed Vancouver 5-2, Chicago defeated Minnesota 5-2, Philadelphia overcame Winnipeg 4-2 and Pittsburgh battered Detroit 4-1.

-- AROUND THE NHL --

Flames 5, Canucks 2

At Vancouver, Stephane Matteau scored a short-handed goal in the third period to lead Calgary. Jamie Macoun knocked Trevor Linden off the puck by cross-checking him in the back and into the boards. The ensuing turnover sent Matteau on a breakaway, who scored his sixth of the season at 2:31.

Blackhawks 5, North Stars 2

At Chicago, Jeremy Roenick scored two of three power-play goals in the second period and added an empty-net goal, helping the Blackhawks avenge a loss to Minnesota the night before. The power-play goals were the seventh and eighth for Roenick this season, while the hat trick was the third of his career.

Flyers 4, Jets 2

At Winnipeg, Manitoba, Rick Tocchet snapped a tie with a second- period goal and set up another score in the third period to lift the Flyers. With the score tied 2-2 in the second period, Tocchet staked the Flyers to a 3-2 lead at 19:09, completing a two-on-one break by knocking home Kjell Samuelsson's rebound for his 22nd goal of the season.

Penguins 4, Red Wings 1

At Pittsburgh, Bryan Trottier scored one goal and assisted on another and Tom Barrasso made 40 saves to lead the Penguins to their third straight victory. The Red Wings saw their three-game winning streak snapped.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 17) UPI - If all had gone as planned, President Bush and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz were to meet at the White House Monday in an effort to avert war.

But it's now doubtful the two will ever get together and it's growing more questionable each day if the Persian Gulf crisis can be resolved without bloodshed.

The United States and Iraq, despite the release last week of all remaining hostages in Iraq and Kuwait, can't seem to agree on anything. Both say their positions, backed up by hundreds of thousands of troops, are firm.

Baghdad restated Sunday that Kuwait will remain part of Iraq. The United States has maintained that Iraq must withdraw from the oil-rich nation by Jan.

Bush, with his schedule Monday suddenly wide open, arranged to meet with h Rep. Lynn Martin, R-Ill., who he nominated Friday to replace Elizabeth Dole as labor secretary. The nomination is subject to Senate confirmation.

The president put his talk with Aziz on hold Friday due to Saddam Hussein's refusal to meet by Jan. 3 in Baghdad with Secretary of State James Baker.

On Saturday, Iraq formally canceled Aziz's trip to Washington and refused to budge on its position that Baker and Saddam meet Jan. 12 - just three days before the U.N. deadline.

''Iraq alone sets the proper appointments for its president to meet foreign officials,'' said the official Iraqi news agency, INA.

The statement drew a swift response from the White House and a stiff warning from European Community leaders meeting in Rome.

''Today's public announcement is just a reaffirmation of the Iraqi unwillingness to deal seriously with the issue,'' said White House spokesman John Herrick.

French President Francois Mitterrand said at a European Community summit in Rome, ''I believe Iraq's position of putting back to a very late date ... an exchange of views, which could be very profitable, is very damaging to peace.''

''If there is no movement, we will reach Jan. 15 (the effective date of the U.N. resolution authorizing the use of force to expel Iraqi troops) and I cannot believe that Iraq is not seriously considering the fate it is risking.''

Bush, upon returning to the White House Sunday from a weekend at Camp David, Md., waved off questions from reporters on whether the proposed talks were dead.

Herrick said, however, he was aware of no immediate attempt to reschedule or revive them.

The president spent Sunday hosting a private Christmas party for members of his family. Earlier in the day, he was interviewed by David Frost for broadcast Jan. 2 on the Public Broadcasting System.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) UPI - Most Americans are willing to pay an additional $200 a year in taxes to help clean up the environment, but many people are confused over how to deal with the messy problem, a new survey shows.

The Time magazine and Cable News Network survey, released Sunday, found that 80 percent of those asked agree with the statement: ''There are so many contradictory things said about the environment that it is sometimes confusing to know what to do.''

It also found that 64 percent of the respondents regularly return cans or bottles to their recycling center, while 17 percent never do. Only 29 percent of those questioned said they avoid products from companies with poor environmental records.

Seventy percent said they would be willing to pay $200 more in taxes each year to help clean up the environment, while 25 percent said they wouldn't. And 44 percent said they'd be willing to pay and extra $500 in taxes earmarked for environmental projects.

Time and CNN questioned 1,000 adults in the survey, which was conducted Nov. 27 and 28. It had a sampling error of plus or minus 3 percent.

The majority of those surveyed - 64 percent - admitted that they ''should be doing more'' to clean up the environment.

Only 18 percent said they regularly contributed to environmental groups, while 50 percent said they regularly save newspapers for recycling.

Almost half the respondents, 48 percents, said they think the nation should ''go full speed ahead in spending money to clean up the environment. Forty-seven percent, however, said that given other national problems, it would be better to ''go slow,'' the survey found.

SEOUL, South Korea (DEC. 17) UPI - President Roh Tae-woo returned home Monday from a historic four-day visit to the Soviet Union, saying he and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev agreed to work together for peaceful reunification of South and North Korea.

Roh landed at Seoul Air Base at 10:20 a.m. from Leningrad with his wife and a 15-member entourage.

In an arrival statement at the air base, Roh said he met the Soviet leader four times in Moscow and shared the view that peace on the Korean peninsula is essential to the peace of northeast Asia and the world.

''The summits of the two countries pledged to make joint efforts to liquidate the Cold War on and achieve peace and reunification of the Korean peninsula standing on the principle that the question of the peninsula will be solved peacefully,'' Roh said.

Roh said he and Gorbachev signed a joint declaration in Moscow affirming that all the legacies of the Cold War - confrontation and war, hostility and discord, and the barriers that divided the world and nations - should be buried.

''In this declaration, the Soviet Union made it clear that it supports a peaceful and democratic settlement of the Korean question based on the intention of our people,'' Roh said.

While Roh was in Moscow, the two governments signed agreements on bilateral trade, investment protection, double taxation avoidance and scientific and technolgical cooperation.

Roh said his visit let him confirm the possibility for unlimited cooperation which will bring common prosperity and mutual benefits to the two countries. ''Combinging merits the two nations have, we will push substantive relations that help mutual progress,'' he said.

Roh was the first South Korean head of state to visit the Soviet Union which set up full diplomatic ties with the Seoul government on Sept. 30.

(DEC. 17) UPI - Around the world... Around the clock... U-P-I brings the latest news.

Iraq says it still wants dialogue with the United States on the Persian Gulf crisis. But Baghdad says it must set the dates for the meeting. That word comes amid the apparent collapse of the proposed Iraqi-U-S talks. President Bush yesterday waved off questions from reporters on whether the talks were dead.

In another development, the Iraqi information minister reportedly says Iraq is capable of ''defeating all forces of evil,'' including foreign troops deployed in Saudi Arabia. The Iraqi news agency quotes the minister as saying that Iraq wants peace but- ''NOT at the expense of its dignity.''

President Bush meets with his new nominee for labor secretary... Lynn Martin... at the White House this morning. Bush nominated the Illinois congresswoman Friday to replace Elizabeth Dole, who recently resigned. The president spent yesterday hosting a private Christmas party for members of his family.

Soviet lawmakers gathered in Moscow this morning for a 10-day conclave. The Congress of People's Deputies is expected to revamp the government, including creating a post of vice president. But deputies from five of the 15 Soviet republics are boycotting some, or all of the meetings in opposition to President Gorbachev's proposed pact to keep the Soviet Union together.

Trans World Airlines has renewed its bid to take over financially ailing Pan Am. T-W-A says the latest offer is an improvement over last month's bid because with the sale of most of Pan Am's U-S-London routes to United Airlines the debt-plagued carrier now has fewer assets.

T-W-A Chairman Carl Icahn in a letter, urged Pan Am Chairman Thomas Plaskett to meet with him to discuss the renewed bid, saying it offers both parties the opportunity to compete with the three major U-S airlines.

BILLIONAIRE Kirk Kerkorian's purchase of 272-Million dollars, or nearly 10 percent, of stock in Chrysler Corporation has many people baffled. Some analysts say it's either a passive investment, or a prelude to a hostile takeover. The United Auto Workers union, which represents about 60-thousand Chrysler workers, say they're ''just going to keep watching.''

(DEC. 17) UPI - The Los Angeles Lakers once were virtually untouchable at home, but that has changed.

The Lakers, who surrendered a near-record 23 overtime points to Dallas in their previous Forum game, came perilously close to a second straight home loss Sunday night, but held on for a 115-112 victory over the Indiana Pacers.

Los Angeles, owners of the NBA's best home record last year at 37-4, led by 17 points with 16 minutes left and by 14 with 6 1-2 minutes remaining. But the Pacers, who snapped an 0-11 season-opening road losing streak Saturday night at Utah, almost dealt the Lakers their fifth home loss this season.

''A 14-point lead was nice, but it's not the end of the ballgame,'' said James Worthy, who had 26 points for the Lakers. ''We started to play too cautiously and tried to take time off the clock instead of playing aggressively.''

Magic Johnson collected 21 assists and a season-high 29 points, including two foul shots with 8.3 seconds left, to allow Los Angeles to weather the Indiana comeback.

The Lakers managed just two field goals in the final 6:23. Sam Perkins, who had 18 points, had a basket with 78 seconds left and Worthy connected for one with 11.3 seconds remaining.

Micheal Williams had all 14 of his points in the fourth quarter, the last two coming on a layup that brought the Pacers to within 109-106 with 96 seconds remaining.

Perkins hit a jumper with 68 seconds to play, but Reggie Miller sank a 3-pointer to make it 111-109. After Worthy's basket, Miller, who had 24 points nailed another basket from long range to get Indiana to 113- 112.

Johnson then sank two foul shots with 8.3 seconds to play. The Pacers had a chance to tie, but Chuck Person missed a 3-pointer. Johnson got the rebound and dribbled out the final three seconds.

Said Miller: ''I was more of a decoy on that (last) play. We got a good shot but we just did not hit it.''

Person had 22 points for the Pacers.

A 12-3 burst handed Los Angeles its largest lead at 82-65 with four minutes to play in the third quarter. However, Rik Smits scored 6 points in Indiana's 12-3 run, putting the Pacers within 85-77 entering the final period.

Indiana had led 45-42 midway through the second quarter, but Johnson had a pair of 3-point plays and four assists in a 17-5 spurt that gave Los Angeles a 59-50 lead.

With Miller hitting his first five shots, the Pacers hit 64 percent from the field in the first quarter - and trailed 38-35. The Lakers connected on 61.9 percent and received 12 points and seven assists from Johnson in the opening period.

In the only other NBA game Sunday night, Portland knocked off Orlando 126-107.

-- AROUND THE NBA --

Blazers 126, Magic 107

At Portland, Ore., Clyde Drexler scored 31 points and Buck Williams added 26 points and 20 rebounds to help the Trail Blazers overcome a 9 1-2 minute drought midway through the second half. The Magic ran off 16 straight points, but it was not enough. Scott Skiles and Nick Anderson led the comeback with 7 points each during Orlando's run.

PUNTARENAS, Costa Rica (DEC. 17) UPI - Pope John Paul II urged Central American presidents to make advances toward peace and freedom during their ninth summit aimed at ending regional civil strife and revitalizing their economies.

''As Christmas approaches, perhaps the people of the region can be told through concrete deeds that peace and hope are coming,'' the pope Sunday said in a message read by Monsignor Pierre Giacomo de Nicolo.

The message was read at the end of a mass attended by presidents Rafael Angel Calderon of Costa Rica, Alfredo Cristiani of El Salvador, Vinicio Cerrezo of Guatemala, Rafael Leonardo Callejas of Honduras, Violeta Chamorro of Nicaragua and Panama's Guillermo Endara - who is attending the summit as an observer.

The summit opened Saturday in the Pacific resort town of Puntarenas, about 70 miles west of San Jose. Topics on the summit agenda inlcude ongoing civil wars in El Salvador and Guatemala, the region's $20 billion foreign debt, Central America's economic integration into an economic bloc with Mexico, the United States and eventually Canada, and the environment.

''We feel optimistic, full of willingness and desire that Central America will meet objectives that allow it to develop stronger brotherly and economic ties '' Callejas said.

The decade-old civil war between rebels of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, or FMLN, and the Salvadoran military has claimed more than 72,000 lives, mostly civilians. About 100,000 people have died or disappeared in Guatemala during almost 30 years of civil strife.

''The people of the region have great courage and therefore should construct a more dignified tomorrow,'' Giacomo read from the pope's message.

The pope said each presidential summit must make a firm advance toward resolving problems in the area. He said he hoped Central American leaders would find ways to reduce hostilities in a region whose people, united by the same culture and faith, seek justice and liberty.

A joint declaration from the presidents was expected Monday morning.

Sources close to the talks said Chamorro would request a meeting with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev. Nicaragua's former Sandinista-led government received substantial Soviet aid before Chamorro won presidential elections earlier this year. Nicaragua currently is in an economic crisis.

MOSCOW (DEC. 17) UPI - The Congress of People's Deputies, Mikhail Gorbachev's handmaiden that created a new Parliament and presidency, opened Monday to revamp the government, accept Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov's resignation and debate a new Union Treaty.

A top aide to Gorbachev, Georgi Shakhnazarov, confirmed as the 10-day Congress opened that the embattled Ryzhkov would resign during the session, the official Tass news agency said.

Deputies from five republics - the three Baltic states, Armenia and Georgia - either totally or partially boycotted the conclave because of opposition to Gorbachev's proposed union pact to keep the Soviet Union together.

The congress opened with voting on the body's presidium - including Gorbachev and his rival, Russian republic leader Boris Yeltsin - who were seated side by side on the podium at the front of the Kremlin Congress hall.

During debate on the agenda for the Congress, Deputy Saji Umalatova, from the Chechen region in southern Russia, proposed holding a vote of no-confidence in Gorbachev, saying, ''To the applause of the West, Mikhail Sergeivich (Gorbachev) has forgotten his own country; the country is dying.''

The motion was defeated by a 1,128-426 vote.

Gorbachev, Soviet president and head of the Communist Party, was to address the Congress at its afternoon session, outlining the new powers he wants to trim the industrial ministries he blames for retarding economic reforms.

Because of the boycotts, only 1,979 of the 2,250 deputies elected in 1988 in Gorbachev's first reform to democratize the Soviet Union attended the Congress the fourth session in less than two years.

The first Congress in May 1989 elected a standing Parliament, or Supreme Soviet, of 542 members, and the second in December 1989 condemned the invasion of Afghanistan and recognized the existence of the 1939 Hitler-Stalin pact. The third session last March approved a multi-party system, created the new executive presidency and elected Gorbachev to the post in a suprisingly close vote.

The present conclave will be asked to create the new post of vice president. It will also elect from its own ranks at least 180 new members to the Supreme Soviet under a rotation system mandating that one-third of the body be changed every two years.

In the the most substantive shakeup, the Congress deputies will vote on Gorbachev's plan to replace the unwieldy Council of Ministers of some 65 members with a smaller Cabinet responsible to Gorbachev.

The government reform will all but eliminate Ryzhkov's job as premier after five years in the post as Gorbachev's right-hand man and chief trouble-shooter.

''The thing is that every politician has some definite term, and new people should come now,'' Shakhnazarov said.

He added that if the Congress approved Gorbachev's proposed reforms as expected a new government would be formed quickly.

Ryzhkov has run into criticism for his insistence on a go-slow approach to a market reform from Yeltsin and more tacitly from Gorabchev.

Ryzhkov previously refused to resign, saying only the Congress could compel his removal because revamping the government is a constitutional question.

Tass speculated last week that Ryzhkov's replacement could be Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze or Arkady Volsky, the tough administrator who ranthe disputed enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh in Azerbaijan.

At past congresses, the deputies representing every major territorial district in the nation have assailed Gorbachev for dictatorial and sly methods but then approved every reform he sought, often denouncing him as they voted yes.

But this time fissures have occurred over Gorbachev's proposed draft treaty to remake the Soviet Union into a union of sovereign states and replace the 1922 pact that turned the 15 republics into vassals of Moscow.

''The debates on the treaty will be feverish, and reduced to a common denominator, you can say it is the 'Soviet Union - to be or not to be?''' the daily Pravda Communist Party newspaper said Sunday.

Deputies from Armenia and Lithuania boycotted the meeting, and while partial delegations from Latvia, Estonia and Georgia attended, they said they would not participate fully because they consider their republics independent of the Soviet Union.

The Congress can give Gorbachev only a moral vote of support on the union compact, because ultimately the parliaments of the 15 republics will decide either to join a revamped Soviet Union or secede.

(DEC. 17) UPI - Secretary of State Baker has NOT given up hope that the United States and Iraq can meet before the U-N deadline of January 15th for Iraqi troops to be withdrawn from Kuwait. The government reform will all but eliminate Ryzhkov's job as premier. Ryzhkov reportedly will resign.

CAIRO, EGYPT (DEC. 17) UPI - Doctors from a Nobel Prize-winning peace group that plans to warn President Saddam Hussein of the horrors of a gulf war said Monday they know their trip to Baghdad may be used for Iraqi propaganda purposes, but that they have a moral duty to try to prevent an armed conflict.

A war between Iraq's million-strong army and the U.S.-led multinational force in the region would be a medical catastrophe, they said, resulting in tens of thousands of seriously injured and overcrowding inadequate medical facilities.

''There are always people who will pin the label of dupes and propaganda tools on an organization such as ours, but the label has not stuck,'' said American Dr. John O. Pastore, a spokesman for the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War.

''The truth is the medical consequences of this conflict are something none of the countries involved is prepared to deal with,'' he said. ''It is our moral responsibility as physicians to deliver that message as loudly and eloquently as we can.''

Members of the group, which won the 1985 Nobel Peace Prize, were in Cairo Monday on a Middle East tour that will take them to Baghdad, where they hope to meet personally with Saddam.

The Iraqi president has met with other Americans and Western groups that have promoted a peaceful settlement to the gulf crisis, using the opportunity to promote his contention world leaders allied against him do not have the support of their people.

Iraq faces a U.N.-imposed Jan. 15 deadline to withdraw from Kuwait or face possible military action from hundreds of thousands of multinational troops deployed in the region.

Pastore and other doctors belonging to the physicians' group said in an interview that there were not enough medical facilities in the Middle East to handle the massive number of injured that would result from conventional armed warfare. If Iraq were to use its deadly arsenal of chemical weapons, the toll would be catastrophic, they said.

''The number of beds for treatment is miniscule compared to the number of injured we are going to see on the first and second day,'' he said. ''Many of these injuries will be burns, which are very difficult to treat and need to be treated immediately.''

He said the United States' largest overseas hospital, in Wiesbaden, Germany, had only 240 beds and emergency provisions for 500 more, while U.S. hospital ships such as the USS Mercy can handle up to 72 casualties over 24 hours.

''And we are talking about a war that is estimated to result in 5,000 to 20,000 killed in the first 10 days,'' he said. ''We can not even estimate the wounded, but it would be far higher.''

The doctors said some medical facilities in Saudi Arabia and other gulf countries are excellent, but far too limited to handle massive numbers of civilian casualties.

''You must remember also that many of the victims will be children,'' said Dr. Sergei Kolesnikov, a member of the group from the Soviet Union. ''In Iraq, 45 percent of the population is under the age of 15.''

The doctors said they were aware the Iraqi president, who has used chemical weapons on people in his own country, may not heed their warning.

''Maybe we are Don Quixotes tilting at windmills,'' Pastore said. ''But how naive can you be to launch a war without planning for it medically.

''Not only leaders, but the people must also address this question because you are paying for those weapons.''

LAFAYETTE, IND. (DEC. 17) UPI - A slight earthquake shook central Indiana early Monday but no injuries or serious damaged were reported.

The National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., said the quake hit at 12:25 a.m. EST and measured 3 on the Richter scale. Its epicenter was about 15 miles north of Lafayette.

People in the area had been sensitive to earthquakes because of predictions by New Mexico climatologist Iben Browning, who said the Midwest would experience a major earthquake around Dec. 3 along the New Madrid fault. Officials said Monday's tremor apparently was unrelated to Browning's prediction.

Many people in the Lafayette and Crawfordsville areas called police to report the quake. Some callers reported cracked ceilings but no injuries or major damage were reported.

Some people also reported being awakened by the shaking and said objects fell off their walls.

''It popped my cooler doors so I know it happened,'' Patricia Blue said from the gas station-convenience store where she was working just north of Crawfordsville.

''It wasn't as shocking as I anticipated,'' Susan Harmon of Crawfordsville said. ''It was a slight shaking of the house. My sister ran out and said that it was an earthquake.'' Harmon said it grew gradually more intense and subsided in six or eight seconds.

As she felt it, she said, she thought: ''Get in the doorway.''

''We were waiting for a big earth jolt,'' she said.

There were reports of tremors later in the morning in northwest Indiana, in Lake, LaPorte and Porter counties and near Chicago. However, Willis Jacobs, a geophysicist at the quake information center, said those reports probably were due to a sonic boom, because there was no record of seismic activity.

ATHENS, Greece (DEC. 17) UPI - Two rockets fired from across the street struck the first-floor office of the European Community Sunday night, causing extensive damage to the office and slightly injuring two passers-by.

The left-wing terrorist group ''November 17'' claimed responsibility.

According to the police, the rockets were fired from a second floor of a building on the opposite side of the street by remote control.

Witnesses said the explosions caused panic in the area. The prime minister's office, the presidential palace and the parliament are only yards away from the building.

Two women passers-by were slightly injured, but released from a hospital after receiving treatment.

The attack came only three days after the Greek parliament passed a law that provides for life prison sentences for terrorists, prohibits the publication of proclamations by terrorist groups and enables the authorities to intercept telephone messages and open the mail of suspects.

Opposition parties and the press sharply condemned the new law.

The 17 November group has carried out more than 20 bombing attacks and assassinations, including three U.S. servicemen, since it began its activities in 1975. No member of the group has been arrested.

(DEC. 17) UPI - Doctors from a Nobel Prize-winning peace group plan to warn President Saddam Hussein of the horrors of a gulf war, even though they say they know their trip to Baghdad may be used for Iraqi propaganda purposes. Members of the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War are in Cairo today on a Middle East tour that will take them to Baghdad, where they hope to meet personally with Saddam. The group won the the 1985 Nobel Peace Prize.

There are reports this morning of minor tremors in the Midwest. The U-S Geological Survey says an earthquake measuring three on the Richter scale shook west-central Indiana from Lafayette to Crawfordsville. There were NO reports of damage or injuries, but State Police received calls saying that the tremor shook pictures off walls.

There also were reports of tremors later in the morning in northwest Indiana and near Chicago. However, Willis Jacobs, a geophysicist at the quake information center, said those reports probably were due to a sonic boom, because there was no record of seismic activity. Jacobs said his information was that possible military activity caused a sonic boom.

Romanian Prime Minister Petre Roman has told Romanians he will not be moved by demonstrators calling for his resignation and that of President Ion Iliescu. About 900 delegates from 23 countries met today in Bangkok, Thailand, to begin an International Congress on AIDS. The conference started despite the withdrawal of the World Health Ogranization. Israeli authorities prohibited Palestinians from the occupied territories from entering Jerusalem today in an effort to prevent violence. China would have preferred an economics or trade official, instead of one responsible for human rights.

PARIS (DEC. 17) UPI - A war against Iraq would lead to the destruction of all petroleum and industrial installations in the Persian Gulf, the Iraqi ambassador to France warned Monday.

Ambassador Abdul Razzak Al-Hachimi also said his country will not make any concessions until negotiations on the crisis begin.

''Don't let yourselves be deceived,'' Al-Hachimi told a Paris colloquium on the impact of the gulf crisis on world oil markets. ''If war breaks out all the petroleum and industrial installations in the gulf will be destroyed.''

''A war in that region will be disastrous for the entire world,'' he added, insisting that Baghdad wants a peaceful solution to the crisis.

Al-Hachimi said Baghdad recognized Washington's right to set a date for a proposed meeting between President Bush and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz. But he said it was up to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to establish the date of his session with U.S. Secretary of State James Baker in the Iraqi capital.

The Iraqi envoy said his country would not make any concessions before the start of negotiations on the gulf crisis.

''Don't ask the Iraqis for concessions before we are seated at the negotiating table,'' Al-Hachimi said, implying his country could accept the evacuation of Kuwait as part of a negotiated settlement to the crisis.

''We do not want a war in the region but we also do not want Iraq to pay the price of its independence and of its security,'' the Iraqi ambassador said.

(DEC. 17) UPI - An upper-level storm brought snow to northern Arizona and New Mexico and Colorado's Sangre de Cristo Mountains while fog and drizzle created a minor nuisance in parts of the Midwest, South and Northwest.

As the wintry storm pushed toward eastward, light to moderate snow fell in northern Arizona throughout Sunday night. On Monday it surged farther into New Mexico, where a winter storm warning was in effect with snow accumulations of 2 to 4 inches expected. Roads in the northwestern part of New Mexico were icy and packed with snow.

Weather officials in Colorado posted a snow advisory for the Sangre de Cristo Mountains as the storm moved east from New Mexico, bringing the possibility of as much as 8 inches of snow.

In the Midwest, morning air traffic in Chicago, St. Louis and Minneapolis was frequently delayed by rain and fog while Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska had a variety of precipitation - drizzle, sleet and snow.

Northern Florida, Arkansas and Georgia were foggy while North Carolina had light rain. Fog also limited visibility to an eighth of a mile in West Texas, where light rain also fell, and Oregon had drizzle and snow.

BEIJING (DEC. 17) UPI - A visit to China by Washington's top human rights watchdog comes at a crucial moment as the hard-line government prepares highly political prosecutions of key Tiananmen Spring dissidents.

The visit by Richard Schifter, assistant U.S. secretary of state for human rights and humanitarian affairs, highlights key differences in the ways the U.S. and Chinese governments view civil and legal rights.

Schifter was to arrive in Beijing late Monday for a three-day working visit and diplomatic exchange, U.S. Embassy officials said.

A visit by a ranking U.S. official marks a bittersweet victory for China, which has been pressing Washington to end a year-old ban on high- level exchanges but surely would have preferred an economics or trade official over one responsible for human rights.

The ban on exchanges was part of a package of political and economic sanctions imposed by the U.S. Congress after the government-ordered Beijing massacre against China's nationwide democracy movement in early June 1989.

Schifter's visit suggests Washington is easing the ban on exchanges, even while maintaining the sanctions are still in effect, and comes in the wake of the European Community's October decision to lift all sanctions but those banning military exchanges.

The trip was arranged during Chinese Foreign Minister Qian Qichen's sanctions-busting visit with President Bush in Washington last month.

U.S. officials said Schifter planned to explore many questions about human rights in China, with an emphasis on the authoritarian crackdown that followed the Beijing massacre as well as lingering concerns in Tibet, Xinjiang and other remote Chinese regions.

At the top of Schifter's agenda, however, is Beijing's apparent intention to forge ahead with highly political prosecutions of dissidents it believes were core agitators in the Tiananmen Spring protests - the most serious challenge to the Communist Party in its four decades of absolute rule.

At least a dozen key dissidents have been charged in recent weeks with ''agitating counterrevolutionary propaganda,'' a serious crime punishable by long prison terms.

Two jailed dissidents - editor Wang Juntao, 32, and economist Chen Ziming, 38 - face trial on the additional and more serious charge of conspiring to overthrow the government, which can carry a death sentence.

Being charged with a crime is tantamount to conviction in China, where defendants are expected to earn leniency by confessing their errors, expressing remorse and implicating others.

Schifter's visit puts into sharp focus the politicized nature of China's socialist legal system, which the government maintains is just even while acknowledging its usefulness for controlling public behavior and thinking.

U.S. legal scholar Jerome Cohen said Schifter's visit complicates a battle he believes is being fought among China's leaders over how to convict the ''counterrevolutionaries'' that sparked the 1989 protests they now regard as a ''counterrevolutionary rebellion.''

''They must be fighting like hell,'' Cohen said last week in Beijing. ''One of the advantages of having an autonomous judicial system is that politicians can hand over hot problems and wash their hands of them.''

Cohen said Beijing may be paying closer attention to the message political trials send to the American public, whose vast buying power has brought great wealth to a Chinese economy that during 10 years of reform has become increasingly dependent on the West.

''This is the kind of issue Americans grasp - the concept of a fair trial,'' Cohen said. ''What? You can't pick a lawyer? You can't defend yourself? This is going to bring back the MFN issue more than anyone can anticipate.''

China's privilege of trading with the United States as a most- favored-nation, or MFN, was renewed after the crackdown, but only after a tough fight in Congress. Some U.S. lawmakers vow to raise a fuss in 1991 if political prosecutions continue in China.

China's Foreign Ministry this month issued a rare comment on the Tiananmen Spring prosecutions, apparently seeking to deflect international criticism that they represent a government witch-hunt for ''counterrevolutionaries.''

(DEC. 17) UPI - President Bush says he is nominating former Tennessee governor Lamar Alexander to be Education Secretary, replacing Lauro Cavazos. Bush announced his choice at the White House, saying NO governor in the nation is more closely linked to educational improvements. Alexander pushed through a merit-pay plan for teachers in Tennessee. Alexander currently serves as president of the University of Tennessee.

Wide-ranging changes in the Soviet government may come from a 10-day Congress of People's Deputies that officially opened in Moscow today. Delegates are to debate poposals from Mikhail Gorbachev to keep the Soviet Union a united country. Gorbachev designed the Congress that gave his country a new Parliament and presidency, a position he now holds. But deputies from five republics are either totally or partially boycotting the meetings. And one deputy who is attending even proposed a vote of NO confidence against Gorbachev. It was defeated 11-hundred-28 to 426.

Authorities in Iran report that at least 20 people have been injured after an earthquake rolled through mountains some 460 miles south of Tehran. A Tehran radio broadcast monitored in Athens reports five villages cut off from the outside after landslides blocked major roads in the region. A total of 15 tremors were reported in the area overnight.

Something happened in the skies over parts of the Great Lakes overnight, but it apparently was NOT linked to any seismic activity. There was a small earthquake, measuring three on the open-ended Richter scale, about 12 miles north of Lafayette, Indiana, at the start of the day. It left cracks in a number of ceilings but there are NO reports of either serious injury or major damages. The quake is NOT believed to have any connection with what happened later. Police from Erie, Pennsylvania, to the suburbs around Chicago received telephone calls from worried residents who heard a sonic-boom-like noise. Authorities are checking to see if military aircraft might have been responsible.

Prosecutors return to court in New York City today in an effort to keep reputed mob kingpin John Gotti in jail until he is tried on racketeering and murder charges. The prosecutors are planning to use taped phone conversations in their bid to keep Gotti locked up. An attorney in Gotti's defense attorney's office says the lawyers spent the weekend reviewing the contents of the recordings.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 17) UPI - Without additional cash infusions, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. will not have enough money to cover the many bank failures that are expected to occur over the next three years, a report to Congress said.

The report prepared for a House Banking subcommittee urged that federal regulators take more aggressive steps in trying to salvage weak banks and require many of the banks to suspend dividend payments to shareholders.

FDIC Chairman William Seidman, who is scheduled to testify before the subcommittee Monday, said last week that the bank insurance fund, which is expected to lose $4 billion this year, will have enough money to cover anticipated bank losses.

''Definitely, right now, we're not running out of money,'' Seidman said. ''I think we can handle what we see ahead.''

Seidman added, however, that Congress should work out a plan to strengthen the bank insurance fund with increased payments from banks. He stressed that the funds are not needed now and should not come from taxpayers.

However, the report prepared for the banking subcommittee painted a bleaker picture of the situation.

''The U.S. banking industry is in serious trouble and so is the federal insurance fund that helps support it,'' said a summary of the report prepared by three economists, James Barth of Auburn University; Dan Brumbaugh, formerly of Stanford University; and Robert Litan of the Brookings Institution.

The report warned that the Treasury, and ultimately the taxpayers, may have to foot the bill for widespread bank failures if the insurance fund proves inadequate.

The report projected that without additional income, the bank insurance fund will have ''at most'' $29 billion to $32 billion over the next three years. But in ''a mild recession,'' bank failures are conservatively estimated to cost the fund between $31 billion and $43 billion over the next three years.

The summary compared the banking problem to that of the thrift industry. ''There is very good evidence that the BIF is in the same position as the FSLIC was in the mid-1980's - without sufficient resources to pay for its expected caseload of failed depositories.''

Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., chairman of the banking subcommittee, said the report ''shows that the BIF is unlikely to be able to pay for bank failures over the next three years, and is likely to go between $2 billion and $11 billion into the red.''

Annunzio said that because of the condition of the insurance fund bank regulators ''are already practicing forebearance, particularly toward weak large banks.''

He said the FDIC ''and the banking industry must now acknowledge that the BIF must be returned to a sound footing.''

The report said bank regulators ''should be more aggressive in promoting mergers between troubled banks and healthier partners,'' but the authors noted that current banking laws ''severely limit the pool of potential acquirers to healthy banks, of which there are just a few with sufficient capital to absorb any of the major troubled institutions.''

''It is for this reason that the Congress should seriously consider permitting non-banks, including non-financial companies, to acquire banks under the appropriate safeguards,'' they said.

In European waters and the Mediterranean Sea, the number of rigs working dropped by one from the previous week. With 126 rigs of the 138- rig fleet working, the utilization rate dropped to 91.3 percent.

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (DEC. 17) UPI - Iraq must withdraw completely from Kuwait because there can be no ''partial solutions'' to the Persian Gulf crisis, NATO foreign ministers said Monday in a strongly worded statement.

''We condemn Iraq's persistent contempt for the resolutions of the United Nations Security Council,'' the NATO foreign ministers said on the first day of a two-day meeting.

''Complete Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait and the restoration of the sovereignty and legitimate government of Kuwait are unequivocal conditions for a peaceful solution. There can be no partial solutions,'' the NATO statement said.

The timing of the statement was unusual. There is normally no public document on the opening day of two-day meetings by NATO foreign ministers, only a final communique on the closing day.

The foreign ministers endorsed proposed high-level U.S.-Iraqi meetings, but said ''Iraq must not use these initiatives to delay meeting the Jan. 15'' deadline set by U.N. Resolution 678 for Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait.

Two proposed meetings - between Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz and President Bush in Washington, and between U.S. Secretary of State James Baker and Iraqi President Saddam Hussein in Baghdad - have been stymied in a dispute over dates.

The Washington meeting was supposed to have taken place on Monday, but was postponed. The United States wants the Baghdad meeting to be held before Jan. 3, while Iraq insists on Jan. 12. The United States says Jan. 12 is too close to the U.N.-imposed deadline, though Baker said ''we hope something could be arranged.''

On Tuesday, foreign ministers of the 12-nation European Community will debate whether to hold a meeting with Aziz even if the Iraqi foreign minister does not visit Washington.

Earlier this month, EC foreign ministers approved a meeting in Rome between Aziz and the Italian foreign minister, Gianni De Michelis, to be held on the Iraqi official's way home from Washington after meeting with Bush. Italy holds the rotating EC presidency.

''We have to reconsider our former decision,'' said De Michelis, ''because now we don't know if there will be a visit to Washington.''

The 16 NATO foreign ministers appeared to endorse, in advance of Tuesday's EC decision, a meeting between the Italian and Iraqi foreign ministers.

''We are confident that a contact between the presidency of the European Community and the foreign minister of Iraq, among other initiatives, can make a contribution'' to implementation of U.N. Resolution 678, the NATO statement said.

The NATO foreign ministers said the gulf crisis ''poses a potential threat'' to Turkey, a NATO country, because of its shared border with Iraq.

''We reaffirm our determination to fulfill the commitments (of NATO's charter) whereby an attack against one of our states shall be considered an attack against them all,'' the statement said.

(DEC. 17) UPI - President Bush says Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein is- quoting here- ''as wrong as he can be'' if he thinks the United States is NOT serious about insisting that all Iraqi troops be out of Kuwait by January 15th. Bush told reporters at the White House this morning that Saddam is misinterpreting the U-S debate over Persian Gulf policy. Bush also said he still hope high-level U-S-Iraq talks will take place, though there still is NO agreement on dates for the meetings.

In Baghdad, the official Iraq News Agency is quoting a Palestinian terror group leader as saying that American and Western targets around the world have been picked for attack of the U-S-led force in Saudi Arabia attacks Iraq. The report quotes terrorist chieftain Abu Abbas as saying that American facilities around the world have been targeted.

Soviet President Gorbachev has formally opened a 10-day Congress of People's Deputies by telling its delegates that the Soviet Union faces what he calls a ''very grave'' crisis. Gorbachev is battling the growing independence trends in a number of Soviet republics that threaten to shake the country apart. And he is calling for a popular vote on a his proposed new ''Union Treaty.'' It sets up a federation of 15 republics to replace the 1922 treaty that formed the Soviet Union.

It may be some time before final election results are available from Haiti. The polls are closed following yesterday's balloting, which was marred by delays in opening voting stations and shortages of ballots. Preliminary results may be ready later today, with official results possible by Wednesday or Thursday. Roman Catholic priest Father Jean- Bertrand Aristide was considered a front-runner in balloting that also will elect a two-chamber National Assembly and fill hundreds of local government posts.

A slight earthquake shook residents of central Indiana but caused NO major damage or injuries early today. But widespread reports of an after-shock in the Chicago area and in northwest Indiana proved wrong. A loud noise that rocked the area has been traced to a powerful steam explosion at the Inland Steel Indiana Harbor Works at East Chicago. A train car derailed, spilling a ladle of molten steel into a sludge pit that contained standing water. The resulting concussion and flying debris broke windows and did other damage to nearby mill buildings, but caused NO reported injuries.

The issue of women as priests in the Roman Catholic church is gaining more support from both lay people and from priests. The magazine U-S Catholic is out with results of a poll in the forthcoming January issue that shows more than three-fourths of the lay people saying women should become priests. And 59 percent of the priests agree. That's up from 48 percent of the priests in a 1975 survey.

SEATTLE (DEC. 17) UPI - Alaska Airlines, which recently won federal government approval to operate the first scheduled commercial passenger service between the Soviet Union and the U.S. West Coast, Monday announced its plans for the new route.

Alaska said it will begin service June 17 between Anchorage and two cities in the Soviet Far East - Magadan and Khabarovsk. Three round trip flights per week will be offered through the summer, with round-trip fares running about $1,100 and up, and the carrier will be offering package tours.

Magadan, a city of 150,000 on the Sea of Okhotsk, is about 2,000 miles southwest of Anchorage. A closed city for decades, Magadan was the gateway to some of Stalin's infamous labor camps. Today it is an administrative center and major port serving the northern region of the Soviet Far East.

Khabarovsk, a major commercial center and river port, is another 1, 000 miles south of Magadan, near the Chinese border. The city is a popular destination for tourists from China, Japan, North Korea and other parts of the Orient.

The U.S. Department of Transportation awarded Alaska the route Nov. 8. It was one of four new passenger routes established with the new U.S. -Soviet. bilateral air service agreement. Alaska is the only carrier planning a route over the Pacific.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 17) UPI - The American Federation of Government Employees said Monday it has filed suit to block implementation of a federal ethics law it charged would violate workers' First and Fith Amendment rights.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia and seeks a preliminary injunction to halt the new law from going into effect on Jan. 1, 1991.

Under the terms of the law, all government employees - along with members of Congress - would be barred from receiving payment for speeches, articles or appearances at functions.

The law is so broadly written, according to critics, that, for example, a government employee in the Department of Housing and Urban Development who writes a gardening column for a magazine would be prohibited from receiving pay for it.

''It is unconscionable to allow a mistake in the law to deprive government employees of the right to earn extra money writing or publishing material or giving speeches to outside organizations when they are off duty,'' said John Sturdivant, union president.

''Any government employee who has a special talent unrelated to his or her job who wants to earn extra money writing or telling others about it, should be free to do so without threat of prosecution,'' Sturdivant argued.

The suit asks the court to declare that part of the law - passed in 1989 - which pertains to government workers to be unconstitutional and to bar the Justice Department from prosecuting employees who engage in such off-duty, fee-paid activities.

Sturdivant said the blanket prohibition was a ''fluke'' and apparently an inadvertant mistake.

The union, he said, is seeking congressional support for legislation that will repeal the particular section of the wide-ranging ethics law so that government wokrers ''will be able to continue such outside projects without fear of prosecution.''

CHICAGO (DEC. 17) UPI - A non-scietific yet significant survey indicates Roman Catholic priests are becoming more willing to accept the ordination of women.

The magazine U.S. Catholic sent 1,300 readers an article by Gregory F. Augustine Pierce, a syndicated columnist and Catholic writer, in which he advocated the ordination of women.

The magazine asked readers to comment on the article and the results were published in the magazine's January issue, released Monday.

Roman Catholicism has long held that only celibate males can be ordained to the priesthood and Pope John Paul II has adamantly upheld that tradition despite a large drop in the number of vocations to the priesthood in recent decades in the United States and other Western nations.

The Catholic tradition is based on the belief that only celibate males can properly ''image'' Jesus Christ in worship activities, although virtually all major Protestant denominations now ordain women.

In the U.S. Catholic poll, 69 percent of the respondents were laywomen, 23 percent laymen and 8 percent clergy. Of the three groups, the biggest increase in support came from priests.

The study said 59 percent of the priests said women should be ordained, compared with 48 percent in a 1975 survey.

More than three-fourths of the laypeople said they would welcome a female priest to their parishes. Women are more likely to attend a mass celebrated by a female priest but 78 percent of the men said they would not object to a female priest.

Even though 61 percent of the respondents support the ordination of women, the majority said it is unlikely they will see a female Catholic priest in their lifetime.

Pierce said that while the attitudes of many Catholics have changed, the church hierarchy continues to promote a male-only priesthood.

''What they end up promoting is discrimination against women,'' he said. ''To bar someone from the priesthood purely and solely on the basis of sex refutes church teachings that all people are equal before God.''

Deacon Paul Carlson of Minneapolis said the first step in solving the problem is to ordain women into the diaconate. And Stephanie Thomas of Rye, N.H., said a modest but meaningful beginning would be the requirement of inclusive language in church worship.

But William Gardner, of Ashland, Ala., said ordaining women would be a mistake that could lead to fewer nuns. Gardner said the best way to relieve the shortage of priests would be to allow married men to become priests.

The U.S. hierarchy recently abandoned plans for a pastoral statement on women's concerns that called on the church to work to end ''the sin of sexism'' both in secular and religious institutions, but the most recent draft also strongly reiterated the church's teaching against women's ordination.

In early December, 1,748 Catholics signed an advertisement appearing in the National Catholic Reporter that called for an end to sexism in the church and urged ''serious dialogue'' on issues ranging from sexuality and reproduction to decision-making powers and women's ordination.

BONN, Germany (DEC. 17) UPI - Former East German Premier Lothar de Maiziere resigned Monday as minister without portfolio in the German federal government following claims he had been an informer for East Germany's communist state security police.

De Maiziere said he will also give up his positions as vice-chairman of Chancellor Helmut Kohl's conservative Christian Democratic Union and leader of the CDU in the eastern state of Brandenburg.

Announcing his resignation at a news conference, he again rejected the contentions he had acted for the police agency - known as Stasi - under the code name ''Czerny''.

De Maiziere, East Germany's last prime minister, made the announcement after meeting Monday with Interior Minister Wolfgang Schaeuble and Joachim Gauck, the government official in charge of evaluating Stasi documents.

In a statement read by Schaeuble, Kohl said: ''Lothar de Maiziere has earned my complete trust and I have no reason to doubt him.''

De Maiziere, who worked as an attorney before heading the East German government, said he did not know whether the once-powerful Stasi kept a file on him.

''My contact with the Stasi was limited to attempts to help clients. I accepted no money and signed no statement committing myself,'' he said.

''I will resign from my post as minister for special assignments, and will not be available for a Cabinet post in the new government,'' he said.

Kohl is to form a new government early next year, following the victory of his center-right coalition in Dec. 2 all-German elections.

''The evidence in the files which could connect de Maiziere to Czerny is not clear enough,'' said Schaeuble.

German media recently published statements by a former Stasi major, Edgar Hasse, who alleged that since 1982, de Maiziere had reported to the agency about church activities in East Germany and about his contacts with West German officials.

The Stasi was disbanded after the collapse of East Germany's communist government in fall 1989. Documents released recently showed that 85,000 people worked as full-time employees of the organization and as many as 300,000 people acted as informers - about one in 30 East Germans.

De Maiziere led the conservative CDU to victory in East Germany's first free elections, March 18 and became the first non-communist leader in the country's 40-year history.

Upon the Oct. 3 unification of Germany, he joined Kohl's Cabinet as a minister without portfolio, or specific assignment.

The soft-spoken lawyer had been thrust almost against his will into the political limelight, often blinking in embarrassment when cameras flashed.

He joined the CDU in 1956, but did not play a center-stage role until late 1989, when the party started distancing itself from the communists it had been allied with for the past four decades.

''I am a politician by duty rather than by calling,'' he once said.

Born March 2, 1940, de Maiziere studied music when younger and played the viola in various orchestras for 15 years.

He qualified as an attorney following a correspondence course at East Berlin's Humboldt University. In 1986 he was appointed vice-president of East Germany's Federation of Protestant Churches.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) UPI - A screaming mother holding her 4-month-old baby above the flames in their burning Brooklyn apartment Monday was spotted by a brother and sister who held out a coat on the sidewalk below like a safety net and caught the infant.

''They said it was like catching a softball,'' said Fire Department spokesman Charles Crowley, who estimated the baby dropped about 35 feet.

The mother was overcome by smoke, and moments later, Fireman Chris Gaffney went up on a tower ladder through flames roaring from the burning, third-floor apartment, climbed into the window of the fourth floor apartment and brought the unconscious woman to safety.

The mother, identified as Susan Seymore, was reported badly burned from leaning out the window into the flames, but the infant appeared to be only slightly injured.

Both mother and baby were taken to Methodist Hospital where their conditions were not immediately known.

The intense blaze in the four-story building in Park Slope was reported about 7:30 a.m., and apparently originated in an empty third- floor apartment, Crowley said.

He said Bruce and Karen Pane, a brother and sister apparently on their way to work, were driving by when they spotted Seymore leaning from her apartment window as flames roared below her, screaming for someone to save her baby.

''They took Karen's coat and caught the baby,'' he said. ''She said it was like catching a softball.''

Both Panes left right after their dramatic rescue and could not be immediately contacted.

Gafney went up to rescue the women even before hoses were turned on, the bucket on his tower ladder passing through the licking flames.

''He climbed into the window, searched thorugh the smoke and found her and got her into the tower ladder bucket and brought her down to the street,'' Crowley said.

Another fireman, Patrick Clifford, tried to reach the fourth-floor apartment by way of the stairs and was burned on the back of his neck by hot tar dripping the roof, Crowley said. He was taken to the Cornell Burn Center at New York Hospital where his condition was reported not serious. The fire was brought under control about 8 a.m. Its cause was under investigation, Crowley said.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (DEC. 17) UPI - P-I-E International, the national trucking company that filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in October, said Monday it will cease operations Dec. 29 and lay off an additional 3,000 employees.

The company, which employed about 7,800 workers nationwide at the time of its bankruptcy filing, laid off 2,000 of its remaining 5,000 employees last week, said P-I-E Senior Vice President W.R. Tickle.

The remaining 3,000 employees will be dismissed as freight traffic slows, he said. ''They will be laid off. It is a volume-driven situation,'' he said.

P-I-E, a unit of Olympia Holding Corp. of Miami, said a bankruptcy trustee will be appointed, effective Dec. 29, to oversee the company's liquidation.

''We appreciate the support of the thousands of employees and customers who made Herculean efforts to keep the company going. However, the current economy fuel prices and adverse publicity associated with our Chapter 11 filing prevented us from continuing operations,'' President Gerry McIntyre said in a statement.

The company also said Monday it has reached an agreement to sell its business to Intermodal Transportation Services Inc. of Downer's Grove, Ill. Tickle said he did not know the terms of the deal, which is subject to court approval.

''That (the sale) is a possibility,'' Tickle said. Intermodal may continue some of the services offered by P-I-E, the company said. The liquidatin of P-I-E is expected to go forward as expected, however.

''That (the sale) has nothing to do with the shutdown,'' Tickle said.

Tickle said the sale agreement will be submitted to the bankruptcy court in Jacksonville for approval within the next several weeks.

On Saturday, the bankruptcy court authorized cash collateral to begin financing the termination and eventual liquidation of P-I-E's business, the company said.

JERUSALEM (DEC. 17) UPI - Hundreds of police prohibited Palestinians from entering Jerusalem and patrolled the walled Old City Monday when a tiny fringe Jewish movement commemorated Hanukkah with calls for the removal of Moslem control over the Temple Mount.

In an effort to prevent violence, police set up roadblocks at the entrance to Jerusalem and turned back Palestinians from the occupied territories. Police Minister Roni Milo also barred Arab youths and members of the Temple Mount Faithful from entering the Temple Mount complex.

No confrontations occurred between Palestinians and Israelis Monday in Jerusalem amid the heavy police presence. But authorities arrested and then released on bail four members of the ultra right-wing Kach movement of slain American-born Rabbi Meir Kahane when they tried to enter the Temple Mount complex.

Police sought to avoid a replay of the violence that erupted on the Temple Mount complex Oct. 8 when Israeli police killed at least 17 Palestinians. Thousands of Moslems had gathered at the complex, known in Arabic as Haram esh Sharif, believing the Temple Mount Faithful would attempt to lay a cornerstone for the third Jewish Temple.

''We want to expel the foreigners from the Temple Mount where they fortified themselves and which they turned into a kind of PLO state of violence and hate and struggle against the state of Israel,'' Gershon Salomon, Temple Mount Faithful leader, said Monday in the Western Wall plaza outside the complex.

''(We want) to turn it again into the national and religious center of the people of Israel,'' said Salomon, surrounded by a handful of Jewish teenagers, waving Israeli flags. ''Until then ... the Temple Mount will continue to shake the entire world.''

The Islamic Fundamentalist Movement, Hamas, called on Palestinians to come to Jerusalem Monday to protect the Al Aqsa Mosque on the Haram esh Sharif, in response to the Temple Mount Faithful's actions. Similar calls by Moslem religious leaders more than two months ago brought out thousands of Palestinians Oct. 8.

The Jewish group never entered the Temple Mount complex in October, but Israeli police opened fire on the Palestinians during violence that broke out. The slayings sparked fierce international condemnation against Israel and a series of stabbing attacks by Arabs against Jews.

Police reinforced their presence in Jerusalem by deploying hundreds of security forces to the area. Members of the paramilitary Border Guard also were stationed at the gates to the walled Old City and searched Arabs entering the area.

In the front of the Western Wall, which abuts the Temple Mount complex, Salomon compared his ideas with those of ancient Jews who rededicated the Jewish Temple in 165 B.C. after its desecration. The rededication is remembered during the eight-day Jewish festival of Hanukkah, which ends Tuesday night.

Surrounding Salomon were at least three times as many journalists as his supporters and more than 20 police vans were stationed in the plaza in front of the Western Wall. In lighting the festive Hanukkah lights during a short ceremony, Salomon vowed that before next year Jews would be in control of the Temple Mount.

Salomon's group maintains the Islamic control of the complex should be replaced by Jewish control and construction for the third Jewish Temple should begin. Many religious Jews who believe in a third Jewish Temple, reject Salomon's views, saying the holy site will not be man- made but come directly from the heavens.

Despite the official prohibition against Salomon's group to enter the complex, Salomon said he believed government leaders were behind him. Salomon said Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir and other Israeli officials showed ''weakness'' by giving into international pressure to bar his group.

''I know very well what they feel inside in their hearts. We are messengers of the government of Israel. We are messengers of the Knesset (Israel's parliament) and all the people of Israel,'' Salomon said.

PUNTARENAS, Costa Rica (DEC. 17) UPI - Central American presidents called on Salvadoran rebels Monday to return to the negotiating table and end their latest military offensive that has left about 300 people dead in less than a month.

The heads of state of five Central American countries, winding up their ninth summit in the Pacific resort town of Puntarenas, about 70 miles west of San Jose, also urged governments and people around the world to convince Salvadoran rebels of ''the absolute need'' to negotiate a peaceful solution to the country's decade-old civil war.

In a joint statement, Presidents Rafael Angel Calderon of Costa Rica, Alfredo Cristiani of El Salvador, Vinicio Cerezo of Guatemala, Rafael Leonardo Callejas of Honduras and Violeta Chamorro of Nicaragua, said rebels of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, or FMLN, should take advantage of the willingness of the Salvadoran government to negotiate.

Panamanian President Guillermo Endara is attending the summit as an observer.

The Salvadoran civil war has claimed more than 72,000 lives, mostly civilians.

Rebel leaders say they launched a new offensive Nov. 20 to force Cristiani's government to restructure the military. The FMLN says talks have failed to achieve reforms in the country's powerful armed forces.

The presidents also agreed to support regional solutions to the conflict, and said they would call on the international community for help.

On Sunday, they invited Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev to visit the region hoping his presence would help rebels decide to give up armed resistance.

Chamorro is expected to discuss the visit during her February meeting with the Soviet leader in Moscow.

The latest Central American summit, which began Saturday, has also addressed the region's $20 billion foreign debt problem, economic opening and the environment.

The joint statement said the presidents would ''try to integrate the region into the world economy through trade liberalization policies.''

It also said policies regulating trade in agricultural products would have to be brought under a regional standard to ''guarantee the supply of food in Central America.''

CAIRO, EGYPT (DEC. 17) UPI - Saddam Hussein appears to be losing the battle to portray himself as a champion of Islam, despite the recent appointment of a Shiite Moslem defense minister.

After ordering his tanks into Kuwait four months ago, the Iraqi leader made an appeal for support on the basis of Islamic values and concern for Islam's two most sacred sites, which are situated in Saudi Arabia.

Reports in some Arab newspapers said the appeal was going so badly, the Iraqi leader last week appointed as defense minister Shiite Moslem Gen. Saadi Toamma Abbas. This was apparently done to appease the Shiite majority of his own country as well as neighboring Shiite theocracy Iran. Iraq is ruled by a Sunni Moslem minority.

Islamic leaders in neighboring Arab countries and the wider Moslem world have failed to respond to the Iraqi leader's call for a Jihad, or holy war, against the West.

Even Shiite Moslem fundamentalists in Iran, which from 1980 to 1988 warred with Iraq, have shown no inclination to support Saddam's cause on religious grounds, though the Iranians have condemned the presence of non-Moslem troops in the gulf region.

''The secular and repressive nature of Saddam's Baathist regime is proof that the Iraqi leader is the last person entitled to call for a Jihad,'' said a recent commentary on Cairo Radio.

Egyptian and other Arab secular intellectuals point out that Islamic principles have never determined Saddam's foreign policy in the past. Islamic leaders in fact perceive his attempt to use Islam to justify the invasion of one Moslem Arab state by another as a flagrant breach of Islamic values.

In strict Islamic terms, Saddam as a secular leader is not entitled to call for a Jihad. Only an Alim or senior Moslem figure has the authority to do so.

And the founders of the Baath party - which Saddam subscribes to - were a Christian, Michel Aflaq, and a secularist, Salah ed Din Bitar.

That is not to say that Saddam has not tried in the past to exploit Islam for his own political ends. During the 1980-88 Iran-Iraq war, for instance, Saddam defended himself against Iranian accusations of atheism by making well-publicized visits to Shiite shrines at Najaf and Kerbala, using more Islamic terminology and symbolism in his speeches and building more mosques.

But Saddam's own lifestyle contrasts sharply with Islamic tenets, according to Egyptian newspapers.

The papers say he drinks, enjoys expensive Western suits and cars, and, though married for 30 years, has a long-term relationship with the former wife of the chairman of Iraqi Airways.

In addition, the Baathist regime's lack of legitimacy has pushed Saddam into a cult of personality and purges that have also included Moslem clerics. Saddam ordered the execution in May 1980 of leading Iraqi Shiite cleric Mohammed Baqir Sadr and members of his family for alleged involvement in anti-government activity.

A number of conservative Islamic thinkers have condemned Saddam for filling Iraqi mosques with posters and pictures of himself, pointing out that Islam forbids images in mosques.

But perhaps Saddam's most spectacular failure has been his inability to convince even his most ardent supporters of his claim to be descended from the prophet Mohammad, the founder of Islam.

''His supporters in Iraq are unlikely to admit it, but Saddam's claim to be a lineal descendant of the Prophet and of Ali, the fourth Caliph, and also that he is related to the former Hashemite royal family of Iraq, is not taken very seriously,'' said one Cairo-based Iraqi dissident.

In addition to claiming descent from the prophet Mohammad, Saddam has also identified himself with Iraq's pre-Islamic and pagan rulers and is having the ruins of Babylon rebuilt at great expense, with every fourth brick inscribed with his name.

LONDON (DEC. 17) UPI - Stock prices closed lower in lackluster trading Monday on the London International Stock Exchange driven down by a gloomy survey's trend by the Confederation of British Industry and belligerent signals from Iraq.

Stocks also eased in Frankfurt and Paris in relatively thin trading.

London's blue-chip Financial Times 100-stock index, which slipped 3.8 points Friday, fell 10.5 points to 2,157.9. The narrower top 30 industrial average lost 11.0 points to 1,690.2.

Volume amounted to about 334 million shares compared with 540 million shares changing hands Friday.

Analysts said stocks eased following a report by the Confederation of British Industry showing its December survey of domestic industrial activity confirmed market suspicions that the United Kingdom economy was in a recession.

The CBI surveys trend showed British manufacturing output would fall well into next year, another sign of a deepening recession in Britain.

More companies out of the 1,361 included in the survey said they predicted a downturn in production, along with expected falls in internal and export orders, than at any time in the past 10 years, the report said.

Additionally analysts said stocks eased on comment's from Iraq that it intended to hold onto Kuwait raised the specter again of a Gulf war next year, keeping dealers away from trades.

Higher oil prices also pressured stocks, market watchers said.

On the trading floor, North Sea drillers London Scottish & Marine Oil gained 14 cents to $7.60 and Shell added 3 cents to $8.50.

In a weak banking sector, Barclays fell 25 cents to $6.63 and National Westminister lost 25 cents to $5.11. Analysts said banking stocks eased on downgradings in the face of a credit crunch.

Recession worries also hit the retailing sector. Boots, the pharmaceutical and confectionary chain, fall 14 cents to $6.13 and Ratners, the jewelry chain, lost 12 cents to $3.40.

British Telecom basked in talks of a planned telecommunications network with IBM, added 6 cents to $5.51.

In Frankfurt, stock prices on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange slipped in calm trading.

The closely watched German DAX Stock Index lost 46.53 points to 1, 475.87.

Traders said trading was dominated by the market's inability to support the DAX index above the psychologically significant 1,520-point level.

Meanwhile, in Paris, stocks closed lower in light trading on the Paris Bourse as jitters over the Persian Gulf crisis coupled with worries over the French economy to send the Paris CAC-40 Index down 1.79 percent to 1,606.23.

(DEC. 17) UPI - University of Tennessee President Lamar Alexander has been tapped as the next Education Secretary by President Bush. The nomination goes next to the Senate for confirmation. The 50-year-old Alexander served twice as Tennessee governor, receiving considerable national attention for pushing through a merit pay plan for Tennessee teachers. Senate confirmation would have Alexander step in for Education Secretary Laury Cavazos who resigned last week.

The NATO foreign ministers say Iraq must withdraw completely from Kuwait because there can be NO ''partial solution'' to the Persian Gulf crisis. The NATO foreign ministers issued the statement on the first day of a two-meeting in Brussels, Belgium. The statement condemned what it termed ''Iraq's persistent contempt for the resolutions of the United Nations Security Council.'' It says the complete withdrawal from Kuwait and restoration of the Kuwaiti government are what it calls ''unequivocal conditions'' for peace.

President Bush told reporters that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein is ''as wrong as he can be'' if they thinks the United States is NOT serious about getting Iraqi troops out of Kuwait. Bush also said he still hopes for high-level talks with Iraq on the Persian Gulf crisis but says he sees NO signs of flexibility in the Iraqi posture.

TIMISOARA, ROMANIA (DEC. 17) UPI - Prime Minister Petre Roman stood firm Monday as calls echoed for the resignation of his government, vowing he ''will not budge'' as Romanians protest for democracy a year after their nation's bloody revolt.

Several thousand people demonstrated in Timisoara and the capital Bucharest Sunday, calling for the resignation of Roman, President Ion Iliescu and the government.

The all-day demonstrations marked the anniversary of the revolution last December that toppled the regime of Communist dictator Nicolae Ceausescu and resulted in his Christmas Day execution.

The revolution was sparked by the arrest of ethnic Hungarian priest the Rev. Laszlo Tokes, who joined protesters Sunday. The official Romanian news agency Rompres quoted the dissident pastor as saying the nation needs a ''continuing revolution.''

''I don't mean a popular revolt or a blood revolution,'' he was quoted as saying. ''To me, as a bishop, the revolution means a change of mentality, of the spirit, of social structures.''

Many Romanians are unhappy with the current government because of continuing economic hardship and fear that there are former Communists in the administration.

Protesters are calling for democracy and say they want a government of national unity established. One cry that came from the marching protesters was ''Bucharest, join us to get rid of communism.''

Roman said he will not be moved from his post.

''I will not budge. Unreasonable noise, ambition for power, will not budge me '' Roman said in a Sunday evening address televised to the nation.

In Bucharest, scuffles between riot police and street demonstrators wore on late into the night. Protesters grabbed stones from a pile ready for the construction of a momument to the heroes of the revolution and hurled them at police. There were no reports of injuries.

''The owl (a symbol of death) is hooting in Cotroceni (Iliescu's palace),'' cried the peaceful demonstrators in Timisoara.

The prime minister appeared on television at 9 p.m. in an apparently impromptu address, after an hour of coverage of the Timisoara demonstrations.

''I love my country with its land and people and that is because from the moment I opened my eyes under this sky it was ingrained in my soul,'' said a haggard-looking Roman.

He listed economic achievements of his government in the past year, noting the opening of a $700 million credit line from Western governments last week. And he spoke of the importance of replacing old managers. Last week he suggested there would be sweeping changes in his government but he would not immediately make changes public, he told journalists.

Official figures say 1,033 people died in the revolution last year from Dec.

16 to 25, including 97 in Timisoara.

(DEC. 17) UPI - American Telephone and Telegraph Co. launched a battle for control of NCR Corp.'s board of directors Monday, seeking to remove obstacles to its $6.1 billion hostile takeover, while NCR took its case to shareholders with newspaper ads proclaiming: "AT&T - The WRONG Choice."

AT&T Monday filed proxy solicitation materials with the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington in its campaign to replace NCR directors. The company could not disclose the specific content of the solicitation pending SEC review, but a spokesman said, "It will clearly be a request for them to call a special meeting and to vote in a least a majority of new diretors and to approve a resolution director the board to negotiate with us and remove impediments to a merger."

Specifically, AT&T is seeking to dismantle NCR's poison pill anti-takeover defense. But Dayton, Ohio-based NCR, in a statement released Monday, said AT&T's threatened proxy fight does not change NCR's position opposing the buyout.

"Our board met Thursday, Dec. 13, and after considering AT&T's offer carefully and thoroughly, concluded that it is grossly inadequate and unfair to our shareholders," Chairman Charles E. Exley Jr. said. "We believe our shareholders will support us in our effort to protect their vital best interests," he said.

AT&T needs backing from holders of at least 25 percent of outstanding NCR stock to force a special meeting, and analysts believed they will easily achieve that goal.

But AT&T's anticipated attempt to oust all 13 members of the NCR board at the special meeting will need backing from owners of 80 percent of outstanding NCR stock, and analysts said the New York-based communications giant will have an uphill battle getting that kind of support.

Alternately, AT&T's proxy soliciation mounts a challenge to four NCR directors up for re-election at the company's annual meeting April 17. That would take backing of only a majority of outstanding shares.

But it would take AT&T 1 1/2 years to gain control that way, because it would need to defeat directors standing for re-election both in 1991 and 1992 to win a majority. AT&T's tender offer, however, noted the company was willing to wait as long as 18 months to complete a merger.

AT&T also has extended the expiration date of its $90 a share cash tender offer to Jan. 15 from Jan. 4. The company said no shares had been tendered by the close of business Friday, but noted tender offer materials were only mailed during the middle of last week.

NCR, meanwhile, has been meeting with institutional investors, urging them to reject the AT&T bid. The first meeting was held Friday in New York and investment advisers said further meetings were scheduled this week.

In addition, NCR placed full-page ads in the Wall Street Journal and other major newspapers Monday urging rejection of the AT&T offer. "AT&T: The WRONG Choice," the ads proclaimed, noting the NCR board of directors has rejected the bid as "grossly inadequate.

"Now we'd like to be left alone so that we can continue to develop and deliver the leading-edge products and responsive support programs you have come to expect from us," the ad said. "Apparently, the folks at AT&T can't recognize a busy signal when they hear one," it said.

AT&T has contended NCR is a perfect partner for its computer business, because both companies focus on networking and open computer systems. But NCR has said past business combinations in the computer industry, such as Sperry-Burroughs and Groupe Bull-Zenith, have been ineffectual at best and that it does not want to be a dumping ground for AT&T's problem child - and the debt associated with the takeover.

CHICAGO (DEC. 17) UPI - The Chicago Cubs continued their bid to reclaim the National League East, signing reliever Dave Smith Monday to a 2-year contract estimated at $4 million.

Smith, 35, spent 11 seasons with Houston, compiling a 53-47 major league record. He has 199 career saves and a 2.53 ERA.

Smith is the third free agent signee for the Cubs, who won the NL East in 1989. Chicago also inked pitcher Danny Jackson to a 3-year, $10. 5 million contract, and acquired outfielder George Bell with a 3-year deal for $9.8 million, plus another option year at $3 million.

Smith is projected as a right-handed complement to Mitch Williams, whom the Cubs hope will return to his 1989 form when he saved 36 games.

In 1990 Smith was 6-6 with 23 saves and a 2.39 ERA. He struck out 50 in 60 1-3 innings, and opposing batters hit .210 against the right- hander.

Smith finished tied for fourth in the National League in saves, and seventh in games finished with 42. He converted 23 of 28 save opportunities.

''We've talked about stabilizing our late relief situation many times in the last couple of months,'' Cubs General Manager Jim Frey said. ''We needed a right-handed reliever to finish off games.

''Dave Smith is the type of player who has been very consistent over the years.His numbers and his record show consistency at a high level of performance. He should add the stability we've been looking for.''

The Cubs waived pitcher Randy Kramer to make room on the roster for Smith.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) UPI - Two leading banks, Chemical Bank and Manufacturers Hanover Trust, Monday were cited by the city's Consumer Affairs Department on charges of placing misleading newspaper advertisements.

The department also criticized Chase Manhattan, Bank of New York and Citibank for advertisements which it said "violate the spirit, if not the letter of the Consumer Protection Law's prohibition against deceptive advertising."

In its notice of violation, the department charged that Manufacturers Hanover's "Power Checking" advertisement appearing in New York City papers "tried to make one of the more expensive checking deals in the city look like one of the cheapest."

Commissioner Mark Green said the advertisement's headline promised no-fee checking with a $1,500 minimum balance. Many banks have lower minimum balance requirements for accounts, he said, and Power Checking "is not an interest-bearing checking account, like those offered by numerous banks with lower minimum-balance requirements." The citations can carry fines of $500 for each time the ads were carried in a newspaper.

The citation sent to Thomas Johnson, president of Manufacturers Hanover, said, "You failed to clearly and conspicuously disclose (in easily readable type point print), that after one year, the minimum balance requirement in connection with your "No-Fee Power Checking" reverts to the standard Power Checking balance requirements, as opposed to your claimed "low $1,500 minimum balance."

"Your claim of giving consumers '50 free premium checks' ... in connection with your 'No-Fee Power Checking' misleads consumers into believing they are getting special or fancy checks when in fact they are not," it said.

Chemical Bank was charged with misleading prospective customers with the advertisement headline, "Open a ChemPlus account and we'll invest $500 in you " with a picture of a bank executive handing the reader a $500 "reward certificate."

"Your claim ... is misleading and deceptive in its exaggeration and ambiguity as to the material facts," said the citation addressed to Chemical President Robert Callander.

Green said the $500 involved adding a promise of up to $20 for the first deposit, the value of three months' free checking, waiving the annual credit card fee, and forefeiting the bank's attorney fee for home equity loans - which would benefit only a "very small portion of potential customers."

"Your claim that you will give a consumer $20 when a first deposit is made fails to disclose the material limitation that this only applies to deposits of at least $5,000," the citation said.

JERUSALEM (DEC. 17) UPI - Defense Minister Moshe Arens said Monday recent attacks by Arabs against Jews inside Israel were inspired by events in the Persian Gulf.

''Part, or maybe all of these murderers who appeared in our streets lately acted while being incited by the events in the gulf,'' Arens said referring to the recent fatal stabbings of three Jews near Tel Aviv.

Israeli police suspect two Moslem fundamentalists from the Israeli- occupied Gaza Strip in last week's slayings. The deaths prompted Israeli authorities to arrest hundreds of Palestinians and issue deportation orders against four members of the outlawed Islamic Fundamentalist Movement, known by its Arabic acronym Hamas.

Answering recent calls for harsher measures against the 3-year-old Palestinian uprising, Arens said the uprising could not be ''liquidated'' by giving a simple military command such as ''take away the intifada.'' But the violence had to be dealt with in various ways, he said.

''Anybody who talks about transfer, expelling the Arabs from here, according to me, also talks in contradiction to values we believe in and also talks nonsense in terms of executing such a thing,'' Arens said.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, commenting on the deportation orders before Parliament's Defense and Foreign Committee, said Israel needed to choose the middle road between guarding the country's security and aiding the United States in its moves in the gulf.

The United States has condemned the deportations, ordered late Saturday, saying they violate the Fourth Geneva Convention that prohibits expulsion of residents from occupied territories.

Shamir said the U.S. position opposing deportations was not new, ''but we have to take into account the other factors of the situation.''

Israeli authorities also announced Monday that more than 12,000 Palestinians from the occupied territories have received special identification cards barring them from entering Israel. Many of the cards were issued after a series of stabbing attacks against Jews during the past two months.

Meanwhile, Hamas published its 68th leaflet in the occupied territories calling upon international organizations to protest the deportation orders.

For the second day in a row in a leaflet, the Islamic movement vowed to continue its holy war, or Jihad, against the Jewish state, Palestinian sources said. Israel Radio reported Hamas also called for suicide attacks.

''The decision by the enemy authorities to deport the four heroes ... is an agression against all international laws and human values,'' the leaflet said.

The leaflet called upon all international and human right organizations, including the United Nations and and its secretary- general to ''lift the unjustice.''

Hamas also promised all Palestinians that it would continue with its holy war ''until the liberation of all our soil, from the river to the sea.'' The movement also called upon its miltary wing to ''continue the Jihad operations in order to weaken the occupation.''

HOUSTON (DEC. 17) UPI - A company that hopes to become the space travel agency of the future will conduct a nationwide sweepstakes for "The Ultimate Adventure" - a flight into space aboard a Soviet rocket and a week's stay in the Mir space station, it was announced said Monday.

Space Travel Services Corp. has contracted with the Soviet space agency for a seat aboard a Soyuz rocket in late 1992 or early 1993, officials said. The seat will be filled by one of millions of Americans expected to enter their name in the contest by making a $2.99 telephone call.

"We know that people want to go to space themselves, not just see other people go," said David Mayer, Space Travel Services president. "This sweepstakes makes an opportunity for that."

The "guest cosmonaut" will be selected at random in December 1991 by an independent judging organization. The winner may take the trip or $1.5 million cash, Mayer said. If the winner opts for the cash, a backup astronaut selected from a group of 20 would be offered the trip.

"We're contracted for a flight," Mayer said. "Our goal is to see the way people think about space flight change. We want people to see that space flight is for everybody. Somebody is going to go to space."

Prospective space travelers "need not be a test pilot or a scientist or a government official. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker are all eligible. It could be your neighbor. It could be you," the company said. However, residents of New York, Florida, and Rhode Island are ineligible because of restrictive local laws, organizers said.

Space Travel Services will pay expenses for the "guest cosmonaut" and will provide pre-flight training, which could take as long as six months and will include Russian lessons and physical conditioning. The winner will must pass a Soviet space physical examination.

Space Travel Services declined to say how much they will pay the Soviets for the flight, but said it would be more than the $12 million reportedly paid recently to send a Japanese television reporter into space with the Soviets.

The company hopes to recoup its costs and earn a profit through the fees paid by hopeful cosmonauts who enter the sweepstakes by calling 1-900-258-2MIR. The line is active nationwide now except in scattered rural areas, Mayer said. The line will carry continually updated space information, and callers can register for the sweepstakes at the end of the recorded message.

"Anyone who is interested in space may call the Space Travel Service information line," said James Davidson, senior vice president of the company.

"You can call that number as many times as you like, and I wish you would."

The company will keep more than 50 percent of each $2.99 fee, Mayer said. "We could make millions of dollars in profit," Davidson said. "It could be over $10 million.

"The purpose of the company is to make space flight an opportunity for everyone ... to position the company as the space travel service of the 21st century so when people think about space travel they'll think about us. That's what we hope to do, initially, as opposed to getting rich. Although getting rich is on the list."

The company also will profit through commercial endorsements and product promotions. "We're also looking into having our astronaut endorse products (by using them in space)," he said.

The company also can sell advertising space on the Soyuz rocket itself, will market exclusive broadcast rights to the flight, and will even produce spinoff toys, he said.

Space Travel Services sought a contract with the Soviets because NASA repeatedly has declined attempts to commercialize the American space program, company officials said.

The contract with the Soviets was negotiated by Houston businessman Art Dula, president of Space Commerce Corp. "They (the Soviets) have an immense history of being able to go into space inexpensively, reliably, and routinely," he said, noting the Soviets have flown or agreed to fly "guest cosmonauts" from 12 nations. "They realized this was a buck to be made, and that's what they want to do with their space program," Davidson said.

Mayer previously was co-founder of Space City Construction Services, a Houston-based commercial building contractor. Davidson had worked as director of marketing for MicroSat Launch Systems, and before that was with Space Services Corp., the first American company to put a commercial rocket into space. Space Travel Services was incorporated in July. Howard Stringer, another co-founder, previously was chief operating officer for Software Systems Consultants.

THUNDER BAY, ONTARIO (DEC. 17) UPI - Former Playboy model Lawrencia ''Bambi'' Bembenek, a convicted murderer who escaped from a U.S. prison and fled across the border last summer, was given a month Monday to prove she's not dangerous and should be allowed to apply for refugee status in Canada.

Canada Immigration Centre manager Dennis Pella said Bembenek was given until

Jan. 15 to prove she should be allowed to request to stay there as a refugee.

Pella said that at a morning hearing, it was established Bembenek was not a Canadian citizen, not a permanent resident, was convicted of a criminal offense in the United States and had worked illegally in Canada.

Bembenek, 32, was convicted in the 1981 slaying of Christine Schultz, the former wife of Bembenek's then-husband Elfred Schultz, a Milwaukee police detective who divorced Bembenek after the verdict.

She escaped from a Wisconsin prison in July and was arrested with her fiance this fall in Canada.

At the Jan. 15 hearing, Bembenek's lawyers will argue she is not dangerous to people in Canada and should be allowed to make a refugee application.

If the January hearing is decided in her favor, Bembenek will be allowed to make an application, but if they don't, deportation proceedings against her will resume, Pella said.

Bembenek's boyfriend Dominic Gugliatto, 34, of Milwaukee, has already been deported to the United States.

He has been ordered to stand trial on charges of aiding Bembenek's escape July 15 from the Taycheedah Correctional Institution, a prison for women near Fond du Lac, Wis.

The couple were believed to have been in Thunder Bay since the day after the escape until their arrest.

Bembenek and Gugliatto were unable to follow through on their plan to be married in Canada before the deportation.

ABERDEEN, SD (DEC. 17) UPI - Super 8 Motels said Monday about 400 motels would participate in its "Room at the Inn" program to provide free lodging for some people on Christmas Eve.

Participating properties will offer free lodging to anyone visiting a friend or relative in a hospital, nursing home, veterans' home, or treatment center. About 25,000 rooms will be available for the Christmas Eve program, said Chief Operating Officer Harvey Jewett.

No advance registration is necessary, although reservations are recommended to assure that rooms are available. "Room at the Inn" was inspired by a similar program begun three years ago by Super 8 franchisees Gary and Linda Tharaldson of Fargo, N.D.

Following several family tragedies that occurred around the holidays, Linda Tharaldson said, "Christmas and Thanksgiving were associated with a lot of bad memories for us. We decided a program like this would help us change that, would turn the negative to a positive. And it has. It really puts us and our staff in the holiday spirit."

Jewett said some motels would have additional holiday programs, such as complimentary meals. Participants in the 1990 "Room at the Inn" program include all motels managed by the Super 8 corporation and those owned by the chain's major franchisees. Many of Super 8's smaller franchisees also are taking part, although they were not actively solicited for the program.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 17) UPI - President Bush, hoping to revitalize his flagging campaign to improve education, announced Monday he will nominate former Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander to head the Education Department.

In moving quickly to replace Lauro Cavazos, the education secretary unceremoniously dumped from the post last week, Bush tapped a highly regarded activist educator who has been widely involved in educational reform efforts.

''No governor in the country is so clearly identified with the imperative to improve education,'' said Bush with Alexander at his side.

And pointing to at least one issue cited in Cavazos's removal - that not enough was being done to raise educational standards - Bush said Alexander would give education reform a needed boost in his administration.

He pointed specifically to the goals to improve student performance outlined last year at the summit meeting of the nation's governors as Alexander's mandate.

''Our mission is clear and I look forward to achieving these goals by the year 2000,'' Bush said.

Alexander's nomination must be confirmed by the Senate. He described himself as a ''populist, activist Republican governor,'' and said he and Bush had not discussed precisely where Cavazos had gone wrong.

''I think my job is to understand his goals, develop a plan and help him do that,'' he said.

He also demurred on whether he thought the department was ineffective. ''I think you ought to make the comparisons, not I.''

Alexander, 50, served as governor of Tennessee for two terms ended in 1987 and gained national attention by pushing through a merit pay plan for Tennessee teachers. He has been president of the University of Tennessee since January 1988.

In talking briefly with reporters, he declined to discuss his plans for the department prior to Senate confirmation hearings, but he did indicate some reservations about the Education Department's controversial decision last week to bar most colleges from awarding scholarships based on race.

''I have many, many opinions about it and I will be full of advice for the president and I'll be glad to talk about it to the Senate,'' said Alexander. ''My general disposition would be that when you're wandering through constitutional thickets, that a warm heart and a little common sense sometimes are helpful.''

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater also announced that after an initial review of the ruling that ''race-exclusive'' scholarships are discriminatory and in violation of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, Bush had asked the Education Department to go back and review the decision.

And emphasizing that Bush was ''very disturbed about the ruling,'' the spokesman indicated it soon could be overturned.

''We do want the Education Department to take a look at this and to reflect the president's concerns as well as the many policy and legal requirements,'' said Fitzwater.

''The president is very concerned about it. He does believe minority scholarships have been important for economic growth and development, for education opportunity and we are reviewing this matter.''

Alexander's nomination was greeted with quick enthusiasm from many quarters.

Sammie Lynn Puett, now a vice president at the University of Tennessee and a former Alexander Cabinet member, called him a ''superb choice.''

''He has a strong personal commitment to improving education,'' said Puett, citing Alexander's ''Better Schools Program,'' which included the merit pay system for teachers.

James Haslam, president of Pilot Oil and a member of the university's board of trustees, said Alexander has been known as the ''education governor,'' not unlike Bush 1988 campaign pledge to be ''education president.''

''He understands the nuts and bolts of education,'' said Haslam.

Albert Shanker, president of the powerful American Federation of Teachers union, said he was ''hopeful ... Alexander will assume a strong leadership role to move a meaningful education program forward.''

And Jeffrey Joseph, vice president for domestic policy at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said the appointment proved Bush ''intends to succeed as the 'education president.'''

On a less positive note, National Education Association President Keith Geiger said the organization has not ''always seen eye-to-eye'' with Alexander and would have preferred a nominee with ''hands-on classroom experience.''

But Geiger said the nomination provides a ''new beginning'' to ''work more closely'' on education. ''The NEA will certainly do all we can to develop a plan, jointly, to meet the national education goals by the year 2000,'' Geiger said.

CHICAGO (DEC. 17) UPI - A late sell-off pressured soybean futures Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Soybeans were mostly lower at the close and grain prices were higher.

Most of the demand was based on rumors the Soviet Union may have bought 600,000 tons of corn and perhaps 100,000 tons of soybean meal. The reports were not confirmed, and soybeans fell to session lows on profit-taking and liquidation during the closing minutes.

Corn and wheat futures held most of their gains throughout the day and were slightly below session highs at the final bell.

Commercials and commission houses dominated the buying across the floor, but trading ranges were narrow.

Gains in wheat were limited by sharply lower basis levels at the Gulf.

Weekend country movement was light to moderate.

At the close, corn was up 2 1/2 to 3, soybeans down 2 1/2 to up 1 1/4, wheat unchanged to up 1 1/2 and oats up 3/4 to 1.

OSHKOSH, WIS. (DEC. 17) UPI - A judge Monday acknowledged making a mistake in a trial of a man convicted of sexually assaulting a woman with multiple personalities and ordered a new trial.

Winnebago County Circuit Judge Robert Hawley signed an order for a new trial for Mark Peterson, 29, convicted Nov. 8 under a state law that makes it a crime to have sex with someone who is mentally ill and cannot understand the consequences of the behavior.

Peterson admitted having sex with the 27-year old woman but said he did not know she was mentally ill.

The woman says she has 46 distinct personalities and assumed the identities of sevleral of them in her testimony.

Hawley acknowledged in his order that he erred in refusing to allow a defense psychiatrist to interview the victim. But he also said the defense attorney, Edward Salzsieder, should have pursued that effort.

Mary Lou Robinson, Peterson's new defense attorney, said she thinks there were numerous errors in the trial. ''I don't care which one they order a new trial on,'' she said.

She also said the judge may have been misled by District Attorney Joseph Paulus, who urged him not to expose the woman to independent physicians he described as strangers.

''The judge may have been misled in thinking he was protecting the woman,'' Robinson said. ''Meanwhile, the district attorney was arranging independent medical exams of his own and an interview with the New York Times for the woman with strangers.''

She said Paulus should dismiss the charges and apologize to Peterson, although she acknowledged the latter was unlikely.

Deputy District Attorney Vince Biskupic said, ''I'm disappointed the verdict of the jury had to be overturned. Our goal is to offer protection to victims with mental illness.''

The judge scheduled a further hearing for Thursday and ordered the woman's medical records opened to the media.

The case has received nationwide attention and has become increasingly confused in recent weeks.

Sheila Carmichael, former coordinator of the Winnebago County victim- witness program who counseled the woman, wrote a letter Nov. 21 to Hawley in which she said Gerald Reeves, a key witness agaisnt Peterson, had had a sexual relationship with the woman for about a year.

Reeves, who with his wife and two children lived in the same building as the woman, denied the accusation. Hawley entered Carmichael's letter into the court file on the case.

Reeves testified he warned Peterson before the assignation that the woman had a mental problem and was vulnerable.

Carmichael was fired Nov. 21 over allegations she had signed a contract involving movie and publication rights about the case.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 17) UPI - NASA has failed to properly maintain its nationwide network of facilities, leading to serious deterioration and accidents like a fire in a mission control building, a government report said Monday.

''Many of NASA's facilities have not been adequately maintained and are in degraded condition. Consequently, many need significant repair,'' the General Accounting Office report said.

''Several serious incidents have been caused by the facilities deterioration

'' including a fire in a mission control building, a steam line explosion, water seeping into electrical rooms and the partial collapse of a cooling tower, the report said.

While critical areas such as launch pads and the space shuttle processing facility are ''generally well-maintained,'' the eight centers investigators visited ''all have deteroriating facilities, such as leaking roofs, peeling paint, and leaking steam lines,'' the report said.

The report specifically noted deterioration in the 52-story Vehicle Assembly Building at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida, where shuttles are attached to fuel tanks and rocket boosters.

Chunks of concrete as large as 8 inches have fallen from the roof, forcing NASA to install nets to catch debris to avoid damaging shuttles, the report said.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's $15 billion network of facilities includes nine centers, six auxiliary installations and three deep space network sites around the country which carry out a variety of research and development for the space program.

The report blamed part of the problem on the fact that maintenance decisions are made by the individual directors of each center, who often place different priorities on the importance of maintenance.

The report recommended NASA develop a comprehensive maintenance strategy, increase the amount of money spent on upkeep and conduct annual surveys to determine repair requirements.

NASA called the recommendations ''constructuve and appropriate.'' and the agency was ''implementing programs to address'' the problem, the report said.

''People and facilities are critical to mission success,'' said Sen. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., chair of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee that requested the report.

''We can't afford breakdowns on the ground if we're going to have spectaculars in space,'' said Mikulski, whose district includes NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md.

This year's budget includes a special $20 million fund to begin rehabilitating and performing major maintenance at NASA centers around the country, she said.

The General Accounting Office is the investigative arm of Congress.

LONDON (DEC. 17) UPI - British Gas PLC said Monday its recently approved acquisition of Canada's largest natural gas distribution company makes it the first to operate natural gas utilities on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean. British Gas Chairman Robert Evans said the end of the lengthy regulatory process in Canada for control of Consumers' Gas Co. Ltd. was a positive step.

British Gas earlier agreed to pay $777.75 million to GW Utilities Ltd. of Toronto, a subsidiary of Olympia and York Developments Ltd., for approximately 82 percent of Consumers' Gas outstanding stock.

British Gas then offered $28.90 a share plus an additional amount for interest and dividend for the remaining 18 percent of the shares traded on the Toronto and Montreal exchanges.

As of Dec. 12, some 97 percent of Consumers' Gas shares had been tendered to British Gas. "We understand the business of Consumers' Gas - and they understand us," Evans said. "We share similar philosophies."

Consumers' Gas distributes natural gas to more than one million customers in south-central and eastern Ontario, western Quebec and northern New York State.

Also Monday, British Gas announced what it called the most significant oil discovery in the Gulf of Suez in nearly a decade. British Gas made the discovery with its first wildcat well in the North Zaafarana concession.

The well, drilled to a total depth of 8,400 feet, is located 3 1/2 miles offshore. The cumulative flow rate from five intervals between 5,060 and 6,428 feet was more than 7,500 barrels of oil a day, British Gas said.

The consortium for which British Gas acts as operator has two concessions covering more than 241,000 acres in the northern Gulf of Suez. The company's operations in Egypt are managed by its Houston office through a subsidiary, BG Egypt S.A., located in Maadi, Cairo. British Gas controls 50 percent of the joint venture with Yukong Ltd. and Union Pacific Petroleum Suez Ltd. each holding 25 percent stakes.

London-based British Gas is the largest integrated gas company in the western world and is primarily involved in the purchase, transmission, and sale of natural gas to domestic, industrial and commercial customers in Great Britain. British Gas is also active in the exploration for and production of hydrocarbons both offshore and onshore.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) UPI - American Airlines' agreement to acquire six routes from Trans World Airlines between the United States and London may be accompanied by acquisition of a number of TWA's other routes to Europe that it does not use, American's president Robert Crandall said Monday.

Under the agreement, American has the right to take over TWA's unused route rights between the United States and Europe if TWA does not use them within the next 12 months.

Crandall said during a telephone news conference that he expected between six and 10 of the routes to be given up by TWA and used by American. The routes of greatest interest to American, Crandall said, would be to Italy and the Iberian peninsula.

American said late Sunday it had agreed to pay TWA $445 million for routes between six United States cities and London, giving it long- sought access to London and strengthening its competitive position across the North Atlantic with United Airlines.

Separately, American agreed to buy all TWA's facilities at Chicago's O'Hare airport for $70 million, also improving its competitive position with United, the largest carrier at O'Hare.

United recently boosted its North Atlantic service with the acquisition of Pan Am's routes to London. That deal is now under review by British and American governments and is expected to be a test case for approval of the TWA-American deal.

American expects to double the frequency of its North Atlantic service within three years as a result of the new deal, a company spokesman said.

Given a ''satisfactory'' outcome in the Persian Gulf, Crandall said American expects jet fuel prices to fall ''sharply'' in the first two quarters of 1991. He added that the rapid rise in oil prices since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait has accelerated but not caused the recent ''restructuring'' in the airline industry, which has included Continental Airlines' filing for chapter 11 bankruptcy protection.

Crandall appealed for ''liberal treatment'' from the British government, which will decide whether American can take over TWA's rights to fly into London's Heathrow and Gatwick airports.

Pan Am and TWA are the only American carriers currently allowed to fly into Heathrow, London's busiest airport and one of the world's major air hubs.

Crandall called the restrictions on United States carriers at Heathrow ''quite unusually limited'' and said the British government had been ''very skillful'' at negotiating the current bilateral air service agreement with the United States in terms of the rights it had won for British carriers to serve the U.S.

Asked what bargaining power the United States could bring to the table during the current renegotiation of the pact, Crandall said he believed the matter would be settled ''at least in part because of the long-standing goodwill'' between the two countries.

American is not seeking incremental landing rights, he said, but wants to be able to take over the rights that TWA currently holds.

If government permission is not granted, the deal is off, Crandall said.

''If it should turn out that the routes are not salable then we would not have a deal.''

He said the deadline for completion of the deal is 90 days after the conclusion of inter-governmental approval of United's purchase of the Pan Am routes, or May 15, 1991, whichever is later. In any case, the deal must be completed by Sept. 1, 1991.

The stock of American's parent, AMR Corp. was down sharply by $1.375 to $48.625 on the New York Stock Exchange Monday afternoon. Standard & Poor's Corp. affirmed its ratings of AMR debt and said the long-term rating outlook is stable.

S&P also affirmed its TWA debt ratings but with a negative outlook.

The credit-rating agency said the deal would boost TWA's cash reserves but does not solve the underlying problems of a weak domestic route structure.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) UPI - Baseball's labor and management, admitting to flaws in their past relationship, Monday announced a six-person joint committee to study the game's economic condition.

Don Fehr, head of the union, and Chuck O'Connor, general counsel of management's Player Relations Committee, named the members in the same room where almost a year ago they gave briefings on talks to end the lockout.

Fehr and Bud Selig, president of the Milwaukee Brewers, are to serve as co-chair, according to a statement containing emblems of both the PRC and the Major League Baseball Players Association. Each recommended two other members.

Fehr chose David Feller, professor of law at the University of California, and Henry Aaron, director of the Economic Studies Program at the Brookings Institution. Aaron is no relation to the Hall of Fame player.

Selig picked Paul Volcker, former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and Peter Goldmark, president of the Rockefeller Foundation. Neither Selig nor any of the other four appeared on the dais with Fehr and O'Connor.

Fehr said the group would likely hold its first meeting shortly after New Year's, but refused to give any timetable for completing work. He said he hoped the group would make recommendations in time for baseball's next round of labor negotiations.

''We have had study committees before, and to suggest they have not been terribly successful understates the case considerably,'' Fehr said, explaining an effort to go outside baseball for help. Fehr pointed out that every labor negotiation since 1972 has resulted in either a strike or lockout.

''This is not a question of dealing with individual issues, i.e., whether the signings this year are detrimental to baseball, or whether the signings of last year are somehow not up to this year's,'' O'Connor said. ''This is broader than that. This is an attempt for the first time throught majority of individuals who are not combatants, if you will, not ex-combatants in the labor relations wars of baseball, to face up to some issues that have been confronting baseball since perhaps as early as 1967-1968.''

The Basic Agreement that ended last winter's lockout included the idea for an Economic Study Committee. It was originally supposed to be established no later than Sept. 1, 1990, with a report due Sept. 1, 1991. Fehr called those dates ''guidelines.''

The pact called for a group to study, among other topics: the relationship, if any, between team revenues and on-field competition; the extent and nature of revenue sharing among clubs; advantages (and/or disadvantages) of compensating players based on a percentage of combined industry revenues; past and future trends in national and local media markets; franchise value; and the number and location of geographical markets.

PHILADELPHIA (DEC. 17) UPI - The Philadelphia Phillies Monday signed veteran right-handed pitcher Danny Cox to a minor-league contract and said he would be invited to spring training.

Cox, 31, has not pitched in the majors since Aug. 6, 1988, and has undergone surgery on his right elbow twice in the last two years.

Cox, who spent all of his career with the St. Louis Cardinals, has a 56-56 record and a 3.40 ERA in seven seasons. He signed a contract with the Phillies' Triple-A team, Scranton/Wilkes-Barre of the International League.

''I just believe Danny is well worth a gamble,'' Phillies General Manager Lee Thomas said. ''He's one of the best competitors I've ever seen and was a quality pitcher when he was healthy.

''We have a chance to end up with a quality pitcher. It may take some time and patience. We'll just take him to camp and let him come along slowly.''

Cox underwent surgery in May 1988 for the removal of a bone spur, then had a ligament transplant on March 31, 1989.

Cox pitched in a few B games with the Cardinals in spring training last year and began the season on the disabled list. He pitched in the minor leagues on a 30-day rehabilitation assignment but did not pitch again after June 19.

The Phillies Monday also announced their 30-game spring-training schedule.Philadelphia will open the Grapefruit League competition against Boston on March 8 in Clearwater, Fla., and conclude it on April 7 against Houston in Kissimmee, Fla.

Pitchers and catchers will report for camp Feb. 22 and the rest of the team will work out for the first time five days later.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 17) UPI - Skimming federal fuel taxes, once the domain of mobsters and gasoline bootleggers, has become a $1 billion a year bonanza for white collar criminals, Justice Department officials said Monday.

"What started in the New York area now appears to have spread across the country," said Shirley Peterson, assistant attorney general in charge of the tax divison. "We have indications that these schemes are going on in Florida, Texas, the Midwest and California."

The department currently is investigating 100 separate cases in 18 cities, and in its 1992 budget is seeking to double the number of people assigned to the scam.

"When you consider the numbers of gallons of gasoline that are sold, you can begin to understand the magnitude of the potential problem and the temptation to cheat," Peterson said, "because there's just enormous money to be made for those who are able to find ways to cheat the payment of the tax."

The Justice Department estimates those who siphon off gas taxes cost the U.S. Treasury more than $1 billion a year. The government took in $16 billion in federal fuel excise taxes in 1988.

And the lure of illicit profits has only increased with the recent rise in the federal fuel tax this year from 9.1 cents to 14.1 cents a gallon. Peterson said an informant characterized the tax increase as an "early Christmas present" for the scam artists.

Fuel tax evasion is a relatively new area of law enforcement for the Justice Department. Since 1987, the tax division has won 25 convictions against companies and their officers.

In one case that attracted national attention, Getty Terminals Corp., a subsidiary of Getty Petroleum Corp., was indicted for avoiding more than $1 million in gasoline taxes by falsifying sales invoices and corporate records.

Last month, a U.S. District Court jury in New York found one Getty official and two independent wholesalers guilty of conspiracy and tax evasion charges. "That was a significant case because that was one of the first cases that involved a legitimate business," Peterson said.

Often the scams involve shell companies that use fake invoices and bogus fuel tax waivers to flout IRS regulations. Another popular scam is mislabeling diesel fuel, which is taxable, as home heating fuel, which isn't. "This is a very complex kind of scheme," Peterson said. "There are vast paper trails."

In addition, the Justice Department is trying to track down gasoline bootleggers and extortion rings that prey on gasoline distributors. Jim Rodio, a tax division lawyer, said organized crime is heavily involved in the gas tax schemes in New York.

"Anybody who is involved in the scheme has to pay what is known as the 'mob tax,"' Rodio said. "It's a penny to two cents a gallon. It's basically protection money." He said four New York crime families divide up the money by region.

Peterson said many gasoline distributors are contacting the Justice Department to encourage the prosecutions because the scams are cutting into their slim profit margin.

(DEC. 17) UPI - Secretary of States James Baker told NATO foreign ministers in Brussels Monday that Iraq may withdraw partially from Kuwait around the mid-January U.N. deadline, but said the alliance should stand firm against partial solutions to the Persian Gulf crisis.

In Washington, President Bush said Monday that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein was ''as wrong as he can be'' if he thought the United States was not serious about insisting that all Iraqi troops be out of Kuwait by Jan. 15.

Bush said Turkish President Turgut Ozal told him Sunday that Saddam was misinterpreting the debate on the United States over U.S. policy in the gulf.

''He thinks it means our country is divided and we cannot go forward with the U.N. resolutions and he is just as wrong as he can be,'' Bush told reporters.

Bush also said he hoped talks in Washington between himself and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz and in Baghdad between Baker and Saddam will still take place, despite a dispute over dates.

The NATO foreign ministers issued a strongly worded statement reiterating there can be ''no partial solutions'' to the gulf crisis.

U.N. resolution 678 authorizes the use of force if Iraq has not fully withdrawn from Kuwait by Jan. 15.

''I think we should anticipate that as we draw close to resolution 678's Jan. 15 deadline and as the choices are presented starkly, Saddam Hussein is likely to try to undercut the collective will of the international community to use force,'' Baker said at the NATO meeting.

''Just as I believe he chose to release hostages for this purpose, I think he may take a dramatic step on or around Jan. 15. He could withdraw partially,'' Baker said, according to excerpts of his closed- door testimony released by U.S. officials.

Baker said he is still willing to go to Baghdad to meet face-to-face with Saddam, but he said the Iraqi president is still intent on trying to undercut the ''collective will of the international community to use force.''

While Baker delivered his warning, Baghdad-based Palestinian terrorist Abul Abbas threatened to attack U.S. and Western interests world-wide if the multinational force confronting Iraq tried to liberate Kuwait.

The official Iraqi news agency INA said Mohammad Abbas, better known as Abu Abbas, secretary-general of the Palestinian Liberation Front, told the Baghdad Al-Jumhoriya newspaper that American facilities around the world had been targeted.

''Abbas further said that if the war would take place, then it would not proceed in the direction planned for by the U.S. administration and that the United States has no capability of containing the battle in a certain area,''

INA said.

Abbas is widely believed to be the mastermind behind the 1985 kidnapping of the Mediterranean cruise ship Achille Lauro and the seaborne attack on Israeli beaches by Palestinians this past May.

President Bush has said he will hold Saddam personally responsible for any terrorist attacks against Americans.

The last two British diplomats to leave Kuwait departed from Baghdad on their way home, and the British Foreign Office advised the families of its citizens in the gulf to leave before Jan. 15.

British Ambassador Michael Weston and Consul Larry Banks told British Broadcasting Corp. television that they locked up the embassy in Kuwait Sunday and climbed out a window by ladder after enduring a four-month siege by Iraqi troops.

The Foreign Office told the dependents of Britons in Bahrain, Qatar, eastern Saudi Arabia and the Saudi cities of Riyadh and Tabuk to leave as soon as possible. The advice was directed at non-essential staff and dependents, not British citizens employed in the area, a Foreign Office spokesman pointed out.

The Foreign Office said the advice was a ''common-sense precaution and does not imply any worsening of the situation in the last few days.''

But tensions were raised over the weekend when Iraq canceled a planned meeting between Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz and Bush in Washington, which was supposed to take place Monday.

The two countries are deadlocked over a date for a meeting between Saddam and U.S. Secretary of State James Baker in Baghdad, with Washington insisting it be held before Jan. 3 and Baghdad insisting on Jan. 12.

The Iraqi ambassador to France, Abdul Razlaq El-Hashemi, suggested in Paris that his country might agree to withdraw from Kuwait following the proposed talks, but would make no concessions before then.

Baker said late Sunday that he was not giving up on efforts to negotiate dates for the high-level meetings, telling reporters on route to a NATO meeting in Belgium that ''we hope something can be arranged'' to pave the way for talks, The Washington Post reported Monday.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 17) UPI - Health Secretary Louis Sullivan proposed Monday to improve the U.S. infant mortality rate, one of the worst in the industrialized world, by requiring states to link Medicaid programs with a food program for poor women.

The 1988 U.S. infant mortality rate was 10 deaths per 1,000 live births - the lowest ever on record, but worse than 20 other industrialized nations. Japan leads the world with a rate of 4.8 deaths per 1,000 live births, according to the National Commission to Prevent Infant Mortality.

Under a proposed rule, states would be required to provide written information on the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children to Medicaid-eligibile women who are pregnant, who are breastfeeding within the first year after giving birth or who gave birth within the past six months.

The rule ''will be an important element of our program to reduce infant mortality rates and childhood health problems caused by nutritional deficiencies in low-income families,'' Sullivan said.

The ''WIC'' food program is a federally funded program administered by the states to provide nutritional assistance to children under 5 and pregnant, postpartum and breastfeeding women who are determined to be at nutritional risk and have incomes at or below 185 percent of the federal poverty line.

The Medicaid-WIC coordination is required under the 1989 budget package.

The proposal was published in Monday's Federal Register. Written comments may be offered for the next 60 days to the Health Care Financing Administration.

REDWOOD CITY, CALIF. (DEC. 17) UPI - Wine country mass murderer Ramon Salcido, who butchered seven people including two of his children in 1989, was sentenced Monday to die in California's gas chamber.

''I hope God forgives me,'' said Salcido, who read from a brief statement in Spanish. He also apologized for the grief he caused.

An appeal of his conviction and sentence is automatic. His execution could be years away due to his right to a series of appeals through state and federal courts.

Visiting Sierra County Judge Reginald Littrell, who presided over the trial, accepted the recommendation of the jury that urged death for the 29-year-old forklift operator. Littrell had the option of sentencing Salcido to life in prison without possibility of parole.

Spectators in the San Mateo County courtroom were moved to tears by the emotional and sometimes rambling statement by Salcido's former father-in-law, Robert Richards, who pleaded for Salcido's execution.

Richards lost his wife, three daughers and two granddaughters on April 14, 1989, a blood bath that stunned the normally quiet Sonoma County wine country.

After a night of drinking and cocaine use, Salcido turned on his wife Angela, 24, stabbing her to death in a fit of rage sparked by his belief that she had been unfaithful. He then drove to his in-laws' home and shot his mother-in-law Marian Richards, 42, and her two daughters, Ruth, 12, and Marie Ann, 8.

Salcido then slit the throats of his three daughters - Sofia, 4, Carmina, 2, and Teresa, 1 - and dumped them in a nearby landfill. Only Carmina survived.

He also killed Grand Cru Winery co-worker Tracey Toovey, 35, who once tried to have Salcido fired. Salcido was also accused of trying to murder another co-worker, Kenneth Butti, 33.

According to a lengthy confession to law enforcement officers, after committing the crimes, Salcido planned to commit suicide, but first called his mother, who persuaded him to come home to Mexico first.

He was captured near his mother's home a few days after the killings.

Salcido was quickly returned to California by Mexican authorities to face trial.

Defense lawyers argued that Mexico violated the terms of its own extradition treaty with the United States by sending him back to face a possible death sentence.

The Mexican treaty bars extradition of a Mexican citizen to face a possible death sentence for crimes in another country. Mexico has no death penalty.

MOSCOW (DEC. 17) UPI - Mikhail Gorbachev, shrugging off a failed vote of no confidence in his performance as president, urged deputies Monday to hold a national referendum that would ''allow every citizen to say yes or no'' on the fate of the Soviet Union.

On the first day of the U.S.S.R. Congress of People's Deputies, Gorbachev also proposed a plebiscite on private land ownership in the vast country and outlined the concentrated powers he is seeking to deliver the nation from crisis.

Acknowledging that ''stability and order have been undermined,'' Gorbachev said it will take 12 to 18 months to put his troubled administration back on track.

Senior Gorbachev aide Georgi Shakhnazarov confirmed that Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov will be removed from his top government post under the president's overhaul plan, which would cut the number of central ministries and place them directly under his control.

Gorbachev addressed the gathering of nearly 2,000 lawmakers several hours after Sazhi Umalatova, an unknown 37-year-old deputy from the Caucasus region of southern Russia, startled her colleagues by demanding a roll-call vote on the Soviet leader's conduct in office.

''Esteemed Mikhail Sergeevich, the people believed in you and followed you, but the people turned out to be badly deceived,'' Umalatova said, her voice shaking in an emotional speech minutes after the 10-day gathering opened. ''You have brought ruin, disintegration, hunger, cold, blood and tears.

''Innocent people are dying. People are unsure of their future, and there is no one to protect them. You must go for the sake of peace and calm in our long-suffering country.''

With the first day of the bitter Russian winter just around the corner, the official government newspaper Izvestia reported that Soviet employees of the Red Cross in Moscow were stealing coffee, juice, macaroni, sugar, oil, cigarettes, boots, toothbrushes and other goods sent from abroad.

Umalatova said she was ''deeply offended and humiliated'' by the Soviet Union's need to accept emergency aid from the West because of its dire economic plight.

As Gorbachev looked on from his seat at the front of the Kremlin's Grand Hall of Congresses, other deputies took the floor to note that a president can be impeached only for violating the Soviet Constitution, under a new provision adopted at the last such gathering in March.

The no-confidence motion failed by a vote of 1,288-426 in favor of Gorbachev, with 183 abstentions.

Russian Federation leader Boris Yeltsin, who sat next to Gorbachev flanked by other republic heads, later told reporters that he had set aside the two men's rivalry and voted against the no-confidence bid.

Despite the show of support for Gorbachev, deputies later listened in silence to the 59-year-old Soviet leader's hourlong address opening the afternoon session.

Gorbachev admitted that the government has made ''major errors'' and ''hasty decisions'' since he assumed power in March 1985, but he stoutly defended the achievements of his perestroika reform drive.

''We have never known such freedom of thought,'' Gorbachev said. ''No one is now persecuted for dissidence. Victims of (past) wholesale repression have been rehabilitated.''

Gorbachev said that all Soviet citizens should have the right to vote on whether they want their republic to belong to a renewed union underpinned by a new treaty that would replace the 1922 pact by which the Soviet Union formally came into being.

''We proceed from the inviolability of the principle: Every people has the right to self-determination,'' he said. ''But only the whole people. Its will can best be expressed by referendum, and I submit the proposal to hold a nationwide referendum that will allow every citizen to say yes or no to the union of sovereign states built on federal lines.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 17) UPI - President Bush, determined there will be no negotiations with Iraq and no concessions, said Monday that Saddam Hussein should realize the armed forces being arrayed against him ''would be devastating.''

Bush made the remarks to representatives of 28 countries in the international coalition assembled in the White House Rose Garden, saying they have all committed forces ''of one kind or another to this extraordinary effort.''

The president had briefed the diplomats privately, highlighting a high-profile day apparently designed to keep public pressure on the Iraqi leader to pull out of Kuwait before the Jan. 15 U.N. deadline for total withdrawal.

Earlier, Bush met in the Cabinet Room with the U.S. ambassador to Kuwait, Nathaniel Howell, who returned to Washington Friday after living under siege for more than 100 days in Kuwaiti City. During a picture- taking session, Bush said developments do not ''bode well for Saddam Hussein.''

''None of us wants war, but none is prepared to accept a partial solution,'' Bush said. ''Thus far, Iraq's behavior underscores what I think is a lack of interest in a peaceful settlement.''

''What we want to do is to impress upon Iraq the consequences of aggression and for Iraq to leave every square inch of Kuwait,'' he told reporters.

''I would think at some point he (Saddam) would realize this force being arrayed against him would be devastating,'' Bush said after meeting with the coalition delegates. ''The United Nations said that he should get out or all available means will be used against him.''

''What you see here is living proof that the international coalition arrayed against Saddam's aggression remains deep and wide,'' he said.

''The 12 Security Council resolutions make clear what is required: Iraq's complete, immediate and unconditonal withdrawal from Kuwait,'' he said.

The president said the coalition members are contributing 200,000 troops to the military effort against Iraq and added ''tens of thousands are on their way'' to the Persian Gulf.

He repeated that ''it is not simply the United States against Iraq; it is Iraq against the world.''

Bush made it clear that although there have been contacts with Iraqi officials they have reached no agreement on dates for an exchanges of emissaries.

The president proposed talks in Washington between himself and Iraqi Foreign Minister Aziz Tariq and in Baghdad between Secretary of State James Baker and Saddam.

If all had gone as planned, Bush and Aziz would have met at the White House Monday. But the United States canceled the meeting after Saddam insisted that Baker visit Baghdad on Jan. 12, three days before the U.N. deadline for Iraq's total withdrawal from Kuwait.

Asked if he would consider sending Baker to meet Aziz in a third country, Bush said, ''I hadn't thought about that but if it would do any good - if that would help get the message to him that he has got to leave without condition - I certainly would not oppose that.''

At the same time, however, Bush reiterated his opposition to any meeting close to the U.N. Jan. 15 deadline. ''What I am not going to do is shove these meetings right up against the United Nations deadline.''

''If meetings are held,'' Bush said, ''I want to reiterate publicly, namely we want to impress upon Iraq the consequences of its aggression.''

Bush said he is not in a ''threatening mode'' but insists there will be ''no negotiations, no concessions for one inch of territory.''

''I'm satisifed the coalition has never been firmer,'' Bush said. ''We've got to prevail, and we will.''

Earlier Monday, Bush told reporters Saddam is wrong if he thinks the United States is bluffing in its demand for total withdrawal of Iraqi troops by Jan. 15.

In a brief appearance in the White House briefing room, Bush said Turkish President Turgut Ozal told him Sunday that Saddam is misinterpreting the debate in the United States over U.S. policy in the Persian Gulf.

''He thinks it means our country is divided and we cannot go forward with the U.N. resolutions and he is just as wrong as he can be,'' Bush said.

VATICAN CITY (DEC. 17) UPI - Lebanon's new ambassador to the Vatican Monday invited Pope John Paul II to visit Lebanon soon and said all the Lebanese would welcome him ''in a climate of unity and restored peace.''

Ambassador Antoine Jemha, 53, urged the papal visit during a ceremony in which he presented his credentials to the pope at a private audience.

''We dare to hope, your holiness, that your desire so often espressed to visit our country will be realized very soon,'' Jemha told John Paul. ''All the Lebanese will welcome you in a climate of unity and restored peace.''

In his reply the pope made no reference to the invitation, but issued another fervent appeal for international cooperation in helping Lebanon to consolidate its recent ending of the strife between Moslems and Christians and rival Christian factions.

The pope first announced his desire to visit Lebanon in August, 1989 and has repeated it several times in recent months. But the continuing struggle between opposing factions in Lebanon has made such a visit impractical up to now.

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (DEC. 17) UPI - The New York Giants Monday learned they will likely be without quarterback Phil Simms for their first playoff game because of the ankle sprain he suffered Saturday.

Simms, who was injured in a 17-13 loss to Buffalo, is expected to be sidelined from four to six weeks. Jeff Hostetler will replace him Sunday against Phoenix.

New York Coach Bill Parcells said Simms is ''90 percent certain'' to miss the Giants' first playoff game, which will probably be Jan. 12 or 13. The Giants will clinch a bye in the first round, to be played Jan. 5-6, if they win one remaining game or Chicago loses once.

An examination Monday showed Simms suffered a badly sprained left ankle when he was sacked by defensive end Leon Seals in the second quarter. Simms played until early in the third quarter.

''It felt like someone shot me,'' Simms said of his injury. ''I heard it click or whatever.''

The Giants, 11-3, have lost three of their last four after a 10-0 start but have clinched the NFC East title.

Hostetler replaced an injured Simms and led the Giants to a 23-21 fourth-quarter comeback victory over the Cardinals Oct. 21 at Giants Stadium. He also started against Phoenix last year, running for two touchdowns and throwing for another in a 20-13 victory.

''Anytime you lose your starting quarterback, it's a big loss,'' Parcells said. ''It's part of the game and you can't dwell on it. I think Jeff can fill in very ably and I think he will.''

Matt Cavanaugh is the Giants' third quarterback.

Hostetler completed 9 of 16 in relief against Buffalo and is 22 for 41 for 301 yards, one touchdown and one interception this season.

The Giants finish their regular season Dec. 30 at New England.

''This is the time and I'm going to go for It,'' hostetler said. ''There is going to be pressure.''

DALLAS (DEC. 17) UPI - A Texas think tank said Monday the federal deposit insurance system is threatening the stability of U.S. banking and should be phased out completely by 1997.

The study was prepared for the National Center for Policy Analysis, a non-profit research group in Dallas. It was written by Jim Meigs, former chief economist for First Interstate Bancorp, and John Goodman, president of the center.

The report, titled "Federal Deposit Insurance: The Case for Radical Reform," concluded depositors can keep their money safe without the insurance. More than a third of the nation's money supply already operates outside the system in money market funds, repurchase agreements, and Eurodollars, it says.

"If legislators and regulators try to plug the loopholes in the deposit insurance system in order to keep it going, they will exact a heavy price from U.S. bank customers, depositors, and stockholders," Meigs said.

"Bank insurance premiums are certain to be increased, seriously handicapping U.S. banks in competing with nonbank financial istitutions at home and with the banks in other countries," he said.

Meigs said deposit insurance fails because the system ends up "subsidizing bad loans of failing financial institutions." Now is the time, he said, to begin phasing it out completely. The report recommended four steps:

- Phase out the existing deposit insurance by limiting the amount of any deposit covered and then gradually reducing the percent covered by insurance, until coverage is completely eliminated by 1997.

- Clarify laws and regulations so banks can offer accounts backed directly by government securities to people afraid of risk. If the bank went bankrupt, the securities would be property of the account holders, not the bank. The interest rate paid to depositors would be the rate paid on government securities minus the bank's charge for holding and servicing the account.

- Expand the ability of consumers to make choices among accounts with different combinations of risk and return.

- Free financial institutions to make their own decisions on investment portfolios and the geographical areas in which deposits are accepted and investments are made.

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (DEC. 17) UPI - Chicago Bears quarterback Jim Harbaugh is expected to be lost for the rest of the season because of a shoulder separation and Coach Mike Ditka is searching for linebackers to fill three spots.

Linebackers Ron Rivera, John Roper and Ron Cox all were hurt in Sunday's 38-21 injury-filled loss to Detroit at the Silverdome. Rivera's is the most serious, although he may return for the playoffs. Harbaugh is probably done.

''I don't see how it's possible. Miracles have happened. But I don't see how it's possible,'' Ditka said Monday, assessing the team's long injury list.

Harbaugh, who had started all 14 games, was to undergo an MRI (magnetic resonance imaging) exam late Monday and is not expected to be able to throw lightly for at least three weeks. Trainer Fred Caito said more tests were needed to determine whether Harbaugh suffered any rotator cuff damage.

''You hear rumors that he'll be throwing in three weeks,'' Caito said. ''I don't see that happening. I see him (Harbaugh) missing a minimum four, five, six weeks.''

Backup quarterback Mike Tomczak has a strained right Achilles heel but is expected to start this week against Tampa Bay. He entered Sunday's game in the third quarter, completing four of nine passes for 26 yards and was intercepted. It was Tomczak's first extended action since Oct. 7, when Harbaugh was injured early in the second quarter against Green Bay.

If Tomczak can't play, rookie Peter Tom Willis will get the call. In a last-minute drive Sunday, Willis made seven of eight attempts in an 84-yard drive, capped by an 8-yard TD throw. His only miss was intended to stop the clock.

''I don't know what to do at quarterback,'' Ditka said. ''If Mike is 100 percent, he'll start. I have great respect for Mike but I'm intrigued by what I saw (of Willis).''

Harbaugh joins Phil Simms, Jim Kelly and Steve DeBerg as quarterbacks felled by injuries during the weekend.

''It looks like Week 14 is a bad week,'' Ditka said.

Unfortunately for the Bears, Harbaugh wasn't the only casualty. Rivera has a hyperextended left knee, and underwent an MRI test Monday as well. He reported no ligament damage.

''Reports of my demise are greatly exaggerated,'' Rivera said.

Cox has a sprained right ankle and knee and Roper suffered a pulled left hamstring. Both are expected to be sidelined at least this week, possibly more. The healthy linebackers remaining are Mike Singletary, Jim Morrissey, Mickey Pruitt.

''We have to get another linebacker,'' Ditka said, considering adding Glenell Sanders or Loranzo Square, rookie free agents who attended the Bears' training camp.

Kicker Kevin Butler also has a first-degree separation of his right shoulder, but can still kick, while tight end Cap Boso re-injured his left ankle and had it placed in a cast.

''Everybody's got injuries,'' Ditka said. ''We've just got to make the best of it.''

The good news is defensive tackle Dan Hampton is expected to return to action against Tampa Bay after missing two weeks to nurse his knee, and cornerback Vestee Jackson may be back from a knee injury.

Ditka said he may switch David Tate, a safety who has been filling in at the corner, to linebacker if needed. But the Bears coach said he wasn't discouraged by the defense's effort.

''Thirty-eight points isn't going to shake them up,'' Ditka said. ''Maybe 72 (points).''

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (DEC. 17) UPI - Prime Minister Poul Schluter said Monday he was to form a new center-right minority government of two parties, despite general election losses that cost his Conservative Party five seats in Parliament.

''I have informed the queen that I plan to form a government of the Conservative Party and the Liberal Party,'' Schluter said Monday afternoon.

''In the present situation I can see no alternative and this is what the (majority) non-socialist parties in Parliament have pointed to,'' said Schluter as he emerged from Queen Margerthe II's Amalienborg Palace.

Schluter was to present his cabinet to the monarch Tuesday.

The parliamentary basis for Schluter's government was 91 mandates in the 179-seat Folketing or parliament, spread among six non-socialist parties. The socialist block in Parliament, composed of Social Democrats and the Socialist People's Party has 84 seats.

Certain to continue in their portfolios under the new government were Schluter and Liberal Party leader and Foreign Minister Uffe Ellemann- Jensen. Other portfolios would be shared among the two parties in government, taking over ministries vacated by the Radical Liberal Party.

The Radical Liberals, under former Economy Minister Niels Helveg- Petersen, announced immediately after Dec. 12 elections that they would not continue in office following an election defeat which capped three seats off their parliamentary mandate bringing them down to seven seats.

The basis for Schluter's ability to continue was to be found in gains made by his coalition partner the Liberal Party.

Although the Conservative Party dropped five seats to land on 30 mandates in the legislature, the Liberals took up the slack with a seven-seat addition to 29 seats.

Schluter has ruled Denmark in changing non-socialist minority coalitions since 1982, when he wrested power from the Social Democrats, until then Denmark's main political force.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) UPI - Stocks closed broadly lower Monday in one of the lightest trading days of the year, depressed by nervousness about the status of diplomatic efforts to resolve the Mideast crisis.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 20.55 Friday, dipped 0.49 to close at 2593.32, recovering almost all the day's losses near the close.

Among broader market gauges, the New York Stock Exchange composite index fell 0.49 to 178.22 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dipped 0.80 to 326.02. The price of an average share lost nine cents.

But declines pounded advances 1,017-494 among the 2,026 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Volume amounted to 118,560,000 shares, down from 150,870,320 traded Friday.

The Dow eased from the opening bell, drifting with losses of about ten to 15 points until staging a late recovery, amid growing worries the U.S. and Iraq would not be able to agree on a date to begin peace talks.

The two countries are deadlocked over setting a date for a meeting between Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and Secretary of State James Baker in Baghdad, with Washington insisting it be held before Jan. 3 and Baghdad insisting on Jan. 12.

Baker told NATO foreign ministers in Brussels Monday that Iraq may withdraw partially from Kuwait around the mid-January U.N. deadline, but he said the alliance should stand firm against partial solutions to the Persian Gulf crisis.

And in Washington, President Bush said Saddam was "as wrong as he can be" if he thought the United States was not serious about insisting that all Iraqi troops be out of Kuwait by Jan. 15.

"All the talk out of Washington about looking for a specific day to begin talks, plus Jim Baker addressing the group in Brussels and saying he doesn't see any real move by Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait, were some principal reasons why we were down," said Ron Doran, director of institutional trading at C.L. King & Associates in Albany, N.Y.

Doran attributed the late bounce in the Dow to technical factors on very light volume. All in all, he said, "It was a very boring, quiet day. There was just not a whole lot of excitement out there today. Hopefully tomorrow we'll see more fireworks."

On the trading floor, Chrysler was the most active issue, up 5/8 to 12 7/8. On Friday, Kirk Kerkorian, a well-known investor with interests in airlines, entertainment and gaming, disclosed he bought some 9.8 percent - or 22 million shares - of Chrysler's stock, at a cost of $272 million.

Unisys followed, unchanged at 2 3/4. American Express was third, up 1/4 to 21 1/4.

In the airline sector, AMR lost 1 3/8 to 48 5/8 and UAL lost 1 1/8 to 105 3/8, but Pan Am jumped 1/4 to 1 1/2 in active trading.

Trans World Airlines renewed its bid to take over financially ailing Pan Am and sold six U.S.-London air routes to American Airlines for $445 million and its facilities in Chicago to American for $70 million. American is owned by AMR.

Elsewhere, IBM rose 1/4 to 111 1/2 and General Motors added 5/8 to 33 7/8, but General Electric retreated 1/4 to 55 3/8, and Merck eased 1/8 to 86 1/2.

Volume of NYSE-listed issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 152,764,610 shares, compared with 182,574,300 shares traded in the previous session.

Prices fell in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The Amex Market Value index lost 1.75 to 303.99. Declines led advances 365-207 among the 846 issues traded. The price of an average share was down six cents. Composite volume totaled 12,698,900 shares vs. 13,428,215 traded Friday. Jan Bell Marketing led the Amex issues, off 3/8 to 7 1/2.

The National Association of Securities Dealers composite index lost 3.11 to 365.72.

SEATTLE (DEC. 17) UPI - Outfielder Ken Griffey has signed a one-year contract with the Seattle Mariners, the team announced Monday.

The signing of Griffey, 40, gives the team their first full season with a father-son combination on the field. Ken Griffey Jr., 21, played his first pro season with the club in 1989. His father joined the team last August as a free agent after being released from the Cincinnati Reds.

Two days after Griffey Sr. signed with the Mariners the team fielded the first father-son combination to play together in the same professional baseball club.

''Ken's (Sr.) .377 average with us in September speaks for itself,'' said Mariners Vice President Woody Woodward. ''He provides us with a quality left-handed bat in the lineup and is an experienced, veteran leader in the clubhouse.

''We couldn't be happier to have Ken back in a Seattle uniform for 1991,'' he said.

Griffey has a lifetime batting average of .297 over an 18-year career. Before being released by the Reds Aug. 18 he hit .206 with one home run and eight RBI in 46 games.

(DEC. 17) UPI - Crude oil prices jumped out to a sharp rise early Monday on worries about the weekend's U.S.-Iraqi diplomatic fencing but gave up more than half of that increase in sluggish trading as war fears gave way to market realities.

West Texas Intermediate, the key U.S. crude for immediate delivery, gained 50 cents to $27.05 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

The market opened opened the day in New York at $27.65 a barrel, up a steep $1.10, as the apparent decreasing likelihood of talks between Iraqi and American officials buoyed prices.

President George Bush Monday repeated his insistence that Iraq must withdraw from Kuwait. ''He must be out of Kuwait by Jan. 15,'' Bush said during a brief appearance at the White House. ''That means entirely. It's very clear to the world that's what the objective is,'' the president added.

The White House previously canceled a visit by Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz scheduled for Monday after Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein insisted Secretary of State James Baker meet him in Baghdad on Jan. 12, just three days before the withdrawal deadline.

On the U.S. Gulf Coast spot market, WTI jumped 55 cents to $27.05 a barrel.

After the opening rise on the Merc, prices were quickly depressed by the abundant supply of oil and below-normal demand combined with the belief war must be at least four weeks away. Crude's low for the day was $26.85 a barrel, reached in mid-afternoon.

The pace of trading in crude and the two major products, gasoline and home heating oil, was slow.

Unleaded gasoline for immediate delivery rose 0.15 cents to 66.33 cents a gallon. And home-heating oil prices fell 0.51 cent a gallon to 74.73 cents a gallon from Friday's close of 75.24 a gallon.

''Heating oil was the weakest of the group because of weak fundamentals. There's plenty of supply and demand is not as good as normal because of the warm temperatures in the Northeast which represents 50 percent of the nation's demand for oil,'' said Thomas Blakeslee, an oil analyst with Pegasus Econometric Group in Hoboken, N. J.

''There's plenty of supply out there and that has to be the driving force,'' Blakeslee said. ''There's only so long the emotional and psychological factors can last.''

Another market observer, Richard D. Donovan, head of the international energy department for Lehman Brothers in New York, saw trading the same way.

''The market sank back with the reality of the fundamentals,'' Donovan said. ''There is no shortage of crude. There isn't a lot of cold weather for the products market ... and the reality of the situation is George Bush - if he's considering a military option - it's not going to be in the next 25 days.

''Implicitly, the U.N. resolution (authorizing military action against Iraq) says we cannot take attack until Jan. 15, so the reality of the situation is there won't be an attack'' at least until then, Donovan said.

Andrew Lebow, an oil analyst with E.D.&F. Mann in New York, described a ''tug of war'' between traders who fear prices will be pushed up by the outbreak of war and those who fear a settlement will depress prices.

''I think at this point the market is concerned over the date (of any potential meeting between the two sides), but there's cncern if they do set a day, (oil) could sell off broadly,'' Lebow said.

On the European spot market, Britain's North Sea Brent crude climbed 40 cents to $27.10 a barrel. The United Arab Emirates' Dubai light - the main OPEC crude from the Persian Gulf - rose 40 cents to $22.45 a barrel.

DETROIT (DEC. 17) UPI - A spokesman for investor Kirk Kerkorian said Monday the California billionaire's $272 million purchase of a 9.8 percent stake in Chrysler Corp. during the past two months is for investment purposes only.

Papers filed in Washington Monday with the Securities Exchange Commission by Kerkorian's Tracinda Corp. painted the 73-year old investor, who made his name buying stakes in Hollywood studios, Las Vegas hotels and airlines, as a stockholder looking for a good investment.

Chrysler's stock closed at $12.875 a share, up 62.5 cents from Friday's close. Based on an average purchase price of $12.30, that means Kerkorian's purchase of about 22 million shares has so far yielded $12.65 million.

"The filing reiterated the point that this is a passive investment," said Scott Taglarino, a spokesman for Kerkorian, adding that "there are no plans" to mount a takeover of the No. 3 carmaker.

"We are still surprised at Chrysler's reaction to our investment," Taglarino said, referring to an emergency action by Chrysler's Board on Friday to strengthen its anti-takeover measures, commonly known as a "poison pill".

Taglarino also said the Schedule 13(d) filing by Tracinda disclosed that Kerkorian has no partner in the investment, and that the funds were raised from Kerkorian's own finances. The filing requires that Kerkorian disclose the source and amount of funds used to buy Chrysler stock, any partners and the purpose of the investment.

But it left open the possibility Kerkorian could acquire more shares in Chrysler if he wanted to. The automaker only said the filing "was essentially what we expected," and that it would continue to monitor the situation closely.

News of Kerkorian's purchases rocked the auto industry Friday, causing Chrysler's board to reduce from 20 to ten percent the threshold of beneficial ownership at which the rights become exercisable to buy Chrysler stock at half-price.

"We reacted on Friday, and nothing else appears to be necessary at this time," company spokesman Steve Harris said, adding that there are no meetings scheduled between Kerkorian and Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca.

Should Kerkorian purchase additional stock in Chrysler, Harris said the carmaker would have to consider three options, all which would require board approval.

The first would be to redeem or rescind Friday's decision and not allow the amended share purchase rights program to go into action - in other words, keep the poison pill from taking effect.

Chrysler could also have all other shareholders except Kerkorian give it $120 in return for $240 worth of stock. If all shareholders did that, it would generate between 3.5 and four billion shares, reducing Kerkorian's relative stake and making it very difficult for him to attempt a takeover.

The third option would be a non-monetary transaction to double the stock holdings of all shareholders except Kerkorian or any other group that crosses the ten percent threshold. That would also help thwart a takeover.

Kerkorian's purchases, made between Oct. 10 and Nov. 15, came as Chrysler's talks with Italian automaker Fiat S.p.A. broke off. A merger was not on the table, officials said, but other deals between Fiat and Chrysler were discussed.

Chrysler, which has been undertaking massive cost cutting actions, has been seeking some sort of an alliance of another firm to help it remain a viable competitor into the 1990s.

Auto industry analysts said Kerkorian's purchase makes little sense as a classic takeover move, and they tended to accept his explanation that he bought the stock as an investment.

"It doesn't make any sense in any of the traditional reasons why corporate raiders show up," said Maryann Keller, auto industry analyst with the New York firm Furman Selz.

Bill Steele of Dean Witter Reynolds' San Francisco office said Kerkorian may be trying to put Chrysler into play as a takeover candidate to flush out other buyers.

"Otherwise, it may be an ill-timed investment, given the weak two to three percent return on Chrysler's stock, the probability of a dividend cut, and a forecast of a 50 cent a share loss for all of 1991," he said.

It also left the United Auto Workers union wondering as to the automaker's future. The union represents about 60,000 hourly workers at Chrysler plants. "We don't know what will happen," union spokesman Frank Joyce said. "We're just going to keep watching."

Experts said physical assets of auto companies are of potential interest only to other automakers, and that the industry is suffering now because there are too many plants producing vehicles worldwide.

Other holdings such as Chrysler's profitable subsidiary, Chrysler Financial Corp., are also so closely tied to their parent company that they could not easily be broken apart and sold.

(DEC. 17) UPI - Secretary of State Baker says the nations arrayed against Iraq in the Persian Gulf must stick together in the face of what he said is likely to be a ''dramatic step'' by the Iraqis around January 15th. Baker says Iraq might even try a partial withdrawal from Kuwait to weaken the alliance.

President Bush told reporters today that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein is making a big mistake if he thinks debate on U-S policy in the Persian Gulf means the U-S is NOT serious about getting Iraq out of Kuwait.

Soviet President Gorbachev urged the fourth Congress of People's Deputies to hold a national referendum on the fate of the nation. Gorbachev also is asking the deputies to give him more concentrated power to get his troubled administration back on track.

The main international observer teams gave the Haitian presidential election a clean bill today, despite a number of irregularities. But NOT even preliminary returns have been released yet.

ATLANTA (DEC. 17) UPI - Georgia-Pacific Corp. said Monday it will sell its French operations to International Paper Co. for about $103.75 million.

Included in the sale are Georgia-Pacific's interest in Papeteries Etienne, a linerboard and corrugating medium manufacturing operation at Arles; Papeteries d'Espaly and Emballages Laurent, two packaging plants at LePuy and Chalon-sur-Saone; and Ets. Charles Grenier and Rhone Valley Packaging, two sheeting facilities at St. Vallier and Reventin-Vaugris.

T. Marshall Hahn Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Georgia-Pacific, said the French interests were being sold because they were ''nonstrategic.''

Georgia-Pacific, the nation's largest producer of building products such as lumber and plywood, is trying to reduce the debt incurred in last year's $3.7 billion takeover of Great Northern Nekoosa Corp.

(DEC. 17) UPI - President Bush says Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein should realize that the multi-national armed forces being arrayed against him- quoting now- ''would be devastating.'' Bush spoke to representatives of 28 countries in the international coalition in the Persian Gulf. Bush had an active day apparently planned to maintain public presssure on Saddam to meet the U-N deadline of January 15th for a withdrawal from Kuwait.

In Brussels, Secretary of State Baker told a NATO foreign ministers meeting to expect some dramatic action from Iraq on or before the January 15th withdrawal deadline. Baker said the step could be a partial withdrawal from Kuwait... an action that he said would be aimed at splitting the coalition built since the Iraqi invasion on August 2nd.

A couple of small earthquakes were reported in widely separated areas of the nation today... in California and Indiana. Authorities say a quake measured at three on the open-ended Richter Scale shook central Indiana but caused NO serious damage or injuries. Another tremor was measured at three-point-five in the Lake Arrowhead area in California. The temblor was centered 16 miles northeast of San Bernardino. It caused NO damage or injuries.

Around the world, a powerful earthquake struck in southwestern Iran. Official Tehran Radio says the tremor was measured at six-point-five on the Richter Scale and triggered landslides that sealed off several mountain villages. At least 44 people are reported injured in the quake, which was one of 15 tremors in the area between late yesterday and about 6 a-m today.

A report by the government's General Accounting Office gives NASA a failing grade for maintenance work. The G-A-O says the lack of proper maintenance has led to serious deterioration at many facilities, including the 52-story Vehicle Assembly Building at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida. It says chunks of concrete as large as eight inches have fallen from the roof, forcing NASA to install nets to catch debris to avoid damaging the space shuttles.

The Justice Department says a certain brand of white-collar crime that began with the mob in New York is spreading across the country into Florida, Texas, the Midwest and California. The crime is the skimming of federal fuel taxes...

said by the government to be a one-BILLION-dollar- a-year bonanza for criminals. The Justice Department is investigating 100 separate cases in 18 cities. Often the scams involve bogus companies that use fake invoices and bogus fuel tax waivers. Another popular scam is the MISlabeling of taxable diesel fuel as home heating fuel, which is NOT taxable.

Firefighters managed to get the woman out of the building, but only after she was overcome by smoke. Both the mother and baby were hospitalized, but their conditions were NOT immediately known.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) UPI - America's biggest oil and gas companies are headed for tough times and will have to slash overhead to survive in a volatile price environment, a management consulting firm predicted Monday.

Companies ''that fail to adapt to the harsh realities of a mature industry won't survive the next decade,'' declared the firm, Cresap.

In its annual industry outlook, Cresap said the big energy companies sometime have double and triple the overhead of well-run independent firms.

''The major oil and gas companies are carrying too much overhead. Compared with independent companies, the majors have both relatively larger numbers of indirect employees and higher costs per employee.''

Moreover, Cresap said that crude oil prices had been expected to be volatile even before Iraq invaded Kuwait and that now short-term prices from $10 a barrel to as much as $80 a barrel are ''easy to imagine.'' In recent weeks, prices have hovered in a range of the high $20s to the low $30s.

Cresap is the general management consulting firm of the Towers Perrin company.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (DEC. 17) UPI - In what is believed to be the first such ordinance in the nation, the city of Cambridge Monday kicked off an AIDS awareness program requiring condom vending machines at hotels, motels, restaurants and bars.

The program began with the installation of a dispenser at the Green Street Grill in Central Square, one of the first establishments to seek compliance with the new city law.

Sponsors of the ordinance, which passed by the City Council on Nov. 5, said they believed the city, which is home to Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was the first in the nation to enact such a program.

''We're hoping to serve as a model for the rest of the country,'' said Jennifer Burgess-Wolfrum of the City of Cambridge AIDS Task Force.

The ordinance requires condom vending machines in all hotels, motels, restaurants, bars, movie theaters, health facilities and municipal buildings, except schools.

Establishments are being asked to comply with the ordinance as part of the city's licensing procedure, and are given one year to install the machines.

But owners who object to the ''controversial'' ordinance may request an exemption in writing. ''Some people have religious beliefs that condoms are not acceptable,'' Wolfrum explained.

The city's AIDS Task Force proposed the ordinance as part of a comprehensive public health initiative to help limit the spread of AIDS.

''Condom vending machines is one strategy being used to promate condom accessibility and AIDS education on a citywide basis,'' saidx

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (UPI) - Flamboyant stock promoter Murray Pezim was suspended Monday from trading for one year after violating disclosure requirements and misleading the Vancouver Stock Exchange on several occasions.

Ron Messent, spokesman for the British Columbia Securities Commission, said in an interview Pezim will be unable to trade anywhere in Canada for a year and could also be suspended in the United States.

Pezim, who for years has dominated the Vancouver Stock Exchange and trading circles in Vancouver, spent an estimated $1.5 million defending himself against charges of insider trading, disclosure violations and misleading the exchange and the public about their publicly-traded companies.

His partners in Prime Resources Group Inc., Calpine Resources Inc. and about 50 other public companies were also suspended from trading for a year.

Pezim's scam involved the gold-rich Eskay Creek property in northwestern British Columbia. According to the British Columbia Securites Commission, Pezim withheld spectacular drilling results on the property while he and his partners, John Ivany and Lawrence Page strengthened their personal positions in Prime Resources and Calpine. The trio then made misleading statements to the Vancouver Stock Exchange through company reports and press releases.

According to a statement released Monday by the British Columbia Securities Commission, shares in Prime Resources and Calpine were the most actively traded listings on the Vancouver Stock Exchange in 1989.

''It is damaging to public confidence in the integrity of the securities market and prejudicial to the public interest when such significant market participants contravene basic and fundamental rules,'' the Commission said. Pezim, who spends much of his time in Arizona, had said earlier he would move his business from British Columbia if he was not cleared of the charges. ''That's it. It's goodbye, adios,'' he said during the Securities Commission trial last summer.

DALLAS (DEC. 17) UPI - The commissioner of the Southwest Conference said Monday he had been given the go-ahead by presidents of the member schools to investigate the possibility of expanding the league or arranging an alliance with other leagues.

''That does not necessarily mean we are going to expand,'' said Commissioner Fred Jacoby. ''But before, the presidents were waiting to see whether they liked the idea or not. Now they say go ahead and look at it.''

Jacoby declined to say what direction he might go in scouting for potential new members to the conference and said just because the SWC lost Arkansas to the Southeastern Conference does not mean that school will automatically be replaced.

''I've always said that bigger doesn't necessarily mean better,'' Jacoby said.

Possibilities, however, include an alliance with the Big Eight Conference or the newly formed football wing of the Big East Conference. Such an alliance would feature scheduling of football games between the SWC and one or both of those leagues.

One of the plans on Jacoby's drawing board calls for a SWC team to play six conference games, two with the Big East, two with the Big Eight and one against another school outside the conference.

In addition, the Metro Conference has dwindled in recent days to just four teams. Those four - Virginia Tech, Louisville, Southern Mississippi and Tulane - could be candidates for a league trying to expand.

The presidents gave Jacoby the go-ahead during a meeting called to review action recently taken by the SWC's athletic directors and faculty representatives. The eight school presidents have said they hope to meet twice a year, about a week after the faculty representatives meet, in order to review and either approve or reject the faculty rep's actions.

The presidents themselves voted two months ago to implement the strongest entrance requirements by any onference in the country and they agreed Monday to continue those unless they receive an adverse opinion from the league's attorneys.

A report from the attorneys as to the validity of their action was expected Monday, but was not forthcoming.

Those new requirements forbid any NCAA ''partial-qualifer,'' from participating in athletics at a SWC school. NCAA rules state that a high school student must make a 2.00 Grade Point Average in basic classes and must make a 700 on the SAT in order to compete in college.

But if a would-be athlete fulfills only one of those requirements, the student still has a chance to gain eligibility by going to school for a year on his or her own money. If that student then completes one year in good academic standing, he or she can compete.

The SWC's rules, however, would not allow such a person to compete even if that student made straight A's.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 17) UPI - The battle over Hollywood Park intensified Monday as the race track's management company accused a group of dissident shareholders of trying to take control of the facility without paying a fair price.

The dissidents, led by Texas investor R.D. Hubbard, have been trying to oust the management of the track through a proxy contest. Both sides have filed lawsuits against the other.

The accusation, contained in a letter to shareholders of Hollywood Park Operating Co., was a part of proxy materials mailed out for the company's annual meeting.

''Let's get straight to the heart of R.D. Hubbard's effort to take control of the board,'' the letter said. ''Hubbard wants to take control of your operating company without paying for your shares.''

The materials also disclosed that the annual meeting has been delayed three weeks until Feb. 18, saying it wanted give shareholders more time to get information pending the outcome of the lawsuits.

Hubbard called the delay ''outrageous'' and said it was being done with goal of ''entrenchment'' of management.

Hubbard, who owns tracks in Kansas and New Mexico, is the latest in a string of dissatisfied investors who have called for the ouster of the operating company's chief, Marjorie Everett. Hubbard owns 9.9 percent of the shares.

The track lost more than $25 million between 1987 and 1989, largely because of the debt from its investment in another Southern California race track, Los Alamitos, and stopped paying a dividend.

Hollwood Park sold Los Alamitos late last year for $70 million, which enabled it to cut its debt and reinstitute the dividend. It has earned $4.67 million in the first nine months of this year.

The Hollywood Park Operating Co. board, which is mostly loyal to Everett, has called for the sale of the 347-acre race track property, located near Los Angeles International Airport. But the Hollywood Park Realty Co., which owns the property and is dominated by Hubbard's allies, turned down the request several weeks ago.

On another front, the Los Angeles Times reported Monday that actor John Forsythe, one of Everett's allies on the Operating Co. board, scuffled Sunday at the track's directors' room with a Hubbard backer, Harry Ornest, who also sits on the board.

Forsythe, 72, told the newspaper he suffered scratches to the head and neck during the fight, which lasted less than a minute.

Race track veterans said they could not remember a previous fight in the directors' room.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (DEC. 17) UPI - A victory celebration turned bloody Monday, as soldiers fired into a crowd of election revelers outside a church, killing a pregnant woman and wounding several other people, two of them children, witnesses and news reports said.

Supporters of front-runner Jean Bertrand Aristide were celebrating outside St. Bosco Church when a truckload of soldiers arrived and fired into the air to disperse the crowd, witnesses said.

When the revelers, estimated from 200 to as many as 2,000 people, would not break up, the soldiers fired into the crowd, killing a pregnant woman and wounding several other people, including two children under 10. Government and other sources gave conflicting reports of the crowd size, and no more accurate estimate was immediately available.

Police officially logged the incident as an auto accident, said Alain Couture, member of the U.N. observer group security detail. Couture, a lieutenant colonel in the Candadian army, said the U.N. also was recording it as an auto accident.

Radio France reporter Alain Heudes said he saw the soldiers open fire and the wounded fall to the ground. He said the pregnant woman was killed and several other people were wounded, some in the legs.

Initial reports said 18 people were injured, but that number could not be independently confirmed.

A doctor at General Hospital, Port-Au-Prince's main medical facility, said the dead woman was shot in the lower abdomen. The doctor, who requested anonymity, said the woman was from 30-35 years old and was eight months pregnant

International observers said Aristide appeared to have won Sunday's presidential election. With 1 percent of the vote tallied, Aristide was leading with 70.6 percent of the vote.

A total of 27,827 ballots were counted from four provinces, of which Aristide took 19,181. Former World Bank economist Marc Bazin, the other leading candidate, received 3,410 votes, or 12 percent. The rest of the votes were divided up between the nine other candidates.

The shooting occurred outside St. John Bosco Church, where in 1987 the Tonton Macoutes, the Duvalier dynasty's armed loyalist thugs, tried to assassinate Aristide, killing 13 people and leaving 80 others injured.

Aristide, a charismatic 37-year-old Catholic priest, was expelled from the Salesian religious order for using his pulpit as a political platform and preaching ''class struggle.'' Many Haitians began to celebrate what they felt would be Aristide's certain victory moments after casting their ballots Sunday.

The shooting appeared to be an isolated incident, as elsewhere the army has been respectful, the populace restrained, and the main international observer teams have given the election a clean bill despite a number of irregularities reported at the polls.

The U.S. government delegation and the observer team of former President Jimmy Carter said that despite delays in the release of official election results it seemed apparent that Aristide had won Haiti's presidential election.

''We respect and support the choice of Father Aristide as the apparent president-elect of Haiti,'' Bernard Aronson, assistant secretary of state for Inter-American Affairs, told reporters.

Carter said he also expected a victory for the populist Aristide.

''I have not seen any evidence to contradict that Father Aristide will be successful,'' Carter said. ''The results we have gotten back show a very strong support for Aristide.''

International observers said that elections were democratic.

''I think they were very democratic elections,'' said Joao de Medicis, chief of the United Nations' observer group. ''There were some irregularities, but they did not affect the result of the election.''

The Sunday vote was by ballot shortages and polling stations that opened more than seven hours late. The problems triggered brief street demonstrations. But until Monday's shooting there had been no violence.

(DEC. 17) UPI - President Bush rolled through a busy day that appears to have been aimed at convincing Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein that the United States means business in the Persian Gulf. Bush met with representatives of 28 countries that are involved in Operation Desert Shield. He told reporters that Saddam would make a big mistake if he assumed that the debate over U-S policy means the United States is NOT serious when it insists that Iraq get out of Kuwait.

Secretary of State Baker told the NATO allies meeting in Brussels today that Saddam is likely to take what he termed a ''dramatic step'' on or around January 15th. That's the deadline set for Iraq to get out of Kuwait in a U-N Security Council resolution. Baker said the Iraqis might even announce a partial withdrawal from Kuwait in action designed to cripple the will of the international coalition arrayed against Iraq.

News reports in Haiti say a victory celebration turned bloody today when soldiers fired into a crowd of election revelers outside a church. A pregnant woman reportedly was killed and 18 other people were wounded. It was the only such event reported in the Haitian presidential election. International observers gave the vote process a clean bill despite some problems.

The new Lebanese ambassador to the Vatican presented his credentials to Pope John Paul today and invited the pontiff to visit Lebanon. Ambassador Antoine Jemha told the pope that all Lebanese would welcome him- quoting now- ''in a climate of unity and restored peace.'' He referred to the end of the bloody civil war that wracked Beirut for 15 years.

President Bush appears to be signaling a dramatic shift in style at the Education Department. He announced today that he is nominating former Tennessee governor Lamar Alexander to be Education Secretary, succeeding the low-profile Lauro Cavazos, who resigned. Alexander promoted education reform during his two terms as Tennessee governor, including a new merit-pay program for teachers.

The 11th U-S Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta today granted an indefinite stay of execution to a convicted murderer who was 17 when he killed a cabdriver in 1977. The human rights group Amnesty International petitioned the court to stay the scheduled execution tomorrow of Christopher Burger. The group also asked the Georgia Board of Pardons and Paroles for clemency for Burger. Amnesty International argued that Burger's young age was NOT revealed to the jury at his trial, nor was the fact that he suffered brain damage because of repeated beatings during his childhood.

(DEC. 17) UPI - President Bush said today that developments do not ''bode well'' for Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein. During a picture- taking session at the White House, Bush said- quoting now- ''None of us wants war, but none is prepared to accept a partial solution.'' And he said Iraq's behavior so far underscores ''a lack of interest in a peaceful solution'' to the Persian Gulf crisis.

In Brussels, NATO foreign ministers today issued a strongly worded statement reiterating there can be ''NO partial solutions'' to the gulf crisis. U-S Secretary of State Baker warned the ministers that Iraq may withdraw partially from Kuwait around the January 15th U-N deadline. But Baker said the alliance should stand firm against partial solutions to the standoff. He said he's still willing to go to Baghdad to meet face- to-face with Saddam Hussein, but he says the Iraqi president is still intent on trying to undercut the ''collective will of the international community to use force.''

President Bush today nominated former Tennessee Governor Lamar Alexander to head the Education Department. In moving quickly to replace Lauro Cavazos, who resigned last week, Bush hopes to revitalize his flagging campaign to improve education. Alexander is a highly regarded activist educator who has been widely involved in educational reform efforts. With Alexander at his side,

Bush said- ''NO governor in the country is so clearly identified with the imperative to improve education.''

Also today, the White House announced that President Bush has asked the Education Department to go back and review its controversial ruling that ''race-exclusive'' scholarships are discriminatory and illegal. Spokesman MarlinFitzwater said Bush was ''very disturbed about the ruling'' and indicated it soon could be overturned. Fitzwater says the president believes minority scholarships have been important for economic growth and development and for education opportunity.

It's still NOT official yet, but international observers say the Reverend Jean-Bertrand Aristide- a charismatic 37-year-old Catholic priest- appears to have won yesterday's presidential election in Haiti. But a victory celebration turned bloody today when soldiers fired into a crowd of revelers outside a church where Aristide survived an assassination attempt in 1987. News reports say a pregnant woman was killed today and 18 other people were wounded, including two children.

(DEC. 17) UPI - President Bush says he doesn't want war with Iraq, but he says he's NOT prepared to accept a partial solution to the Persian Gulf standoff. Bush says he's determined that Iraq withdraw its troops from- quote- ''every square inch of Kuwait.''

Secretary of States Baker says he's still willing to go to Baghdad to meet face-to-face with Saddam Hussein. But he says the Iraqi president is still intent on trying to undercut what he called the ''collective will of the international community to use force.''

Meanwhile, notorious Palestinian terrorist Mohammed Abul Abbas is threatening to attack Western interests world-wide if Iraq is attacked. The Iraqi news agency INA quotes Abbas as saying U-S facilities around the globe have been targeted.

In Moscow, Soviet President Gorbachev is shrugging off a failed vote of NO confidence in his performance as president. Gorbachev today urged the Congress of People's Deputies to hold a national referendum to ''allow every citizen'' to vote on the fate of the Soviet Union.

It's death in the gas chamber for California wine country killer Ramon Salcido. He was sentenced to death today for the grisly 1989 murders of seven people- including his two young daughters, his wife, her two sisters, her mother and a co-worker.

A new trial has been ordered in the rape case of an Oshkosh, Wisconsin, woman who claims to have 46 personalities. A Winnebago County Circuit judge ordered that Mark Peterson be tried again, acknowledging he erred in refusing to allow a defense psychiatrist to interview the victim.

A reprieve today for condemned Georgia killer Christopher Burger. A federal appeals court in Atlanta today granted an indefinite stay of execution for Burger, who was scheduled to die in the electric chair tomorrow. Burger was 17 when he killed a cab driver in 1977.

The human rights group Amnesty International had petitioned the court to stay Burger's execution, saying he suffered brain damage from numerous beatings during his childhood. The group also asked the state Board of Pardons and Paroles for clemency for Burger.

(DEC. 17) UPI - President Bush says the Persian Gulf standoff is NOT simply the United States against Iraq. He says it's ''Iraq against the world.'' Bush reiterates he's NOT in a ''threatening mode'' to force Saddam Hussein to withdraw his forces from Kuwait. But the president insists there will be- quote- ''NO negotiations, NO concessions for one inch of territory'' in Kuwait. And he says Saddam is wrong if he thinks the United States is bluffing in its demand for total withdrawal of Iraqi troops by January 15th.

A government report today blasted the space agency for failing to properly maintain its nationwide network of facilities. The General Accounting Office report says many of NASA's facilities are in degraded condition and need significant repair. The report says the facilities' deterioration has lead to several serious incidents, including a fire in a mission control building and a steam line explosion.

The leaders of five Central American nations wound up their ninth summit today in Costa Rica with a call for Salvadoran rebels to end their decade-old civil war. Some 300 people have been killed in less than a month in the rebels' latest military offensive. The presidents of Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua issued a joint statement urging the rebels to take advantage of the willingness of El Salvador's government to negotiate.

A magazine survey indicates an increasing number of Roman Catholic priests favor the ordination of women. The magazine U-S Catholic says in its January issue that 59 percent of the priests surveyed said women should be ordained... compared with 48 percent in a 1975 survey. The poll said that even though 61 percent of the respondents- including laywomen, laymen and clergy- support the ordination of women, the majority believe it's unlikely they will see a female Catholic priest in their lifetime.

California BILLIONAIRE investor Kirk Kerkorian apparently was just looking for a good investment when he made a 272-Million-dollar purchase of a nearly 10 percent stake in Chrysler Corporation in the past two months. That's according to papers filed in Washington today with the Securities Exchange Commission by Kerkorian's Tracinda Corporation. A spokesman for the 73-year-old investor said the filing reiterates the move is a ''passive investment'' and that ''there are NO plans'' to mount a hostile takeover of the Number-three automaker.

CARLSBAD, CA (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - ISIS Pharmaceuticals on Tuesday announced it has signed a five-year cooperative agreement with Eisai Company Ltd. to discover and develop novel antisense oligonucleotides as potential human diagnostic and therapeutic products.

The terms of the agreement call for the companies to jointly pursue a mutually selected molecular disease target, according to Stanley T. Crooke, chief executive officer of ISIS Pharmaceuticals.

''This agreement supports our efforts to diversify our repertoire of molecular targets and provides the opportunity to work in collaboration with a leading Japanese pharmaceutical company,'' Crooke said.

The cooperative research program, whose activities will be directed by an ISIS and Eisai joint management team, will focus on creating antisense oligonucleotides designed to diagnose the presence of, and treat disease associated with, a viral target.

The use of antisense oligonucleotides as therapeutic agents represents a powerful new model for drug discovery: specific inhibition of the production of proteins that cause disease. Oligonucleotides inhibit various steps in the transfer of information in the genome to proteins.

Under this agreement, ISIS will receive an option fee, research funding and milestone payments. Eisai visiting scientists will join the ISIS scientific staff. Financial terms of the cooperative research program have not been disclosed.

Eisai Company Ltd., with headquarters in Tokyo, is a major pharmaceutical company in Japan. With more than 4,000 employees, Eisai has worldwide sales of $1.5 billion. The company has an active and varied research and development program and is striving to globalize its operations under the direction of Haruo Naito, president and chief executive officer.

Located in northern San Diego County, ISIS Pharmaceuticals is engaged in the discovery, development and marketing of novel human therapeutic products based on antisense oligonucleotides.

COLUMBUS, OH (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Max & Erma's Restaurants Inc. (NASDAQ:MAXE) reported record annual revenues and fully-taxed earnings for the year ended Oct. 28, resulting in part from a 25 percent gain in total revenue and a lower effective tax rate.

For fiscal 1990, the company reported total revenues of $30,344,000, fully-taxed income and net income of $836,000 or 25 cents per share as compared to revenues of $24,330,000, fully-taxed income of $835,000 or 29 cents per share and net income of $1,188,000 or 41 cents per share. Net income for 1989 was aided by a $353,000 (12 cents per share) tax benefit of a net operating loss carryforward.

The company also reported record fourth quarter revenues of $7,464,000, a 30 percent increase over fourth quarter 1989 revenues of $5,718,000. The company reported net income for the fourth quarter of $126,000 or 4 cents per share as compared to $226,000 or 7 cents per share for the fourth quarter of 1989. Results for the fourth quarter of 1989 include a $26,000 or 1 cent per share tax benefit of a net operating loss carryforward.

Todd Barnum, president, chief executive officer and chairman of the board said that he is pleased with the year's accomplishments. He noted that during the year the company opened five restaurants, a 42 percent increase over the number of restaurants in operation at the end of 1989. He added that the five new restaurants have opened well and on average are achieving sales approximately 15 percent above the average of older restaurants.

He also went on to say he is pleased that while achieving this unprecedented growth, the company still reported the fourth consecutive year of same store sales gains and was able to maintain control over corporate overhead. Barnum added that while the growth has not yet positively impacted the company's earnings, he is absolutely confident that as these new restaurants become seasoned, mature operations they will significantly contribute to earnings.

Barnum noted, however, that consumer concerns over the economy, the Middle East, and a shifting sales mix resulted in soft sales and profits for the fourth quarter. He noted that programs are in place to stimulate sales with new menu items and responsible beverage promotions. He added that by late fiscal 1990 the downward trend of beverage sales had leveled off.

Barnum went on to say that clearly the focus in 1991 is to bring profit margins at new restaurants in line with company averages, which generally happens as the staff at new restaurants gains experience. He noted that although the economy is beyond their control, the company's strong financial condition puts it in a position to maximize opportunities created by an uncertain economy.

WALNUT CREEK, CA (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - The AG Group, developer of the Ethernet LAN analysis package EtherPeek, Tuesday introduced LocalPeek, a LocalTalk-based LAN analysis application that provides easy-to-use network tracking and diagnostic capabilities, along with a wide array of graphical viewing options.

Available Feb. 1, 1991, LocalPeek will run on any Macintosh personal computer, including the Macintosh Classic, the Macintosh LC and the complete line of Macintosh SE and II computers. The AG Group will show LocalPeek at Macworld Expo in San Francisco, Jan. 10-14, 1991 (booth 5601, Brooks Hall).

''We developed LocalPeek in response to tremendous customer demand for a LocalTalk product,'' said Timothy McCreery, president of the AG Group. ''We want to give LAN administrators, both Ethernet and LocalTalk-based, easy access to straightforward network monitoring tools that will optimize network performance.''

LocalPeek is the AG Group's second product for LAN analysis. EtherPeek, AG Group's first product, began shipping in April 1990. EtherPeek is a local area network analysis package for Ethernet networks. It provides multiple options for capturing network data, comprehensive tools for filtering and decoding a variety of network protocols, and color charts for viewing network statistics.

Like EtherPeek, LocalPeek provides LAN managers with detailed information on network traffic, node failures, daily usage of individual computers and peripherals, routing or configuration errors, and other network functions. Multiple full-color graphs display network data.

A single LocalPeek package, running on a Macintosh on LocalTalk, provides analysis for small or large LANs, including information about gateway performance and internetwork use of LocalTalk-based peripherals.

LocalPeek lists for $495. It will be available beginning Feb. 1, 1991, directly from the AG Group at 2540 Camino Diablo, Suite 202, Walnut Creek, Calif. 94596. For more information, customers can call 415/937-7900 or contact the AG Group via AppleLink (ag.group).

MORRISTOWN, NJ (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - AT&T Computer Systems Tuesday announced that TRW has selected the AT&T RHAPSODY(TM) Business Orchestration Solution to increase the efficiency and productivity of a portion of its purchasing operations in Redondo Beach, Calif.

TRW said the Rhapsody System will be the technology platform used to re-engineer the purchasing process by coordinating the flow of work and information between all the people and systems involved in the process.

The value of the contract was not disclosed.

The Rhapsody System will link 80 people working on AT&T 6386/25 WorkGroup Systems (WGS). Users will have access to applications and files located on their own desktop computers as well as to software and workflow automation capabilities residing on UNIX(R) system-based servers. Rhapsody also will provide easy access to applications and files stored on an IBM mainframe. Image management features will enable users to scan and store purchase orders electronically.

Rhapsody is a networked software application that integrates electronic messaging, an intuitive user interface and popular personal productivity tools such as spreadsheets and word processing, with one of the first robust implementations of workflow automation available in the market.

Workflow automation coordinates the activities of workgroup members. First, users define the steps necessary to complete a group task, such as processing purchase requisitions, preparing requests for quotes or compiling proposals. Then Rhapsody automates the flow of work among everyone involved in the process.

For example, the Rhapsody System can be programmed to gather information from spreadsheets or files, send tasks to people, ask others for data, schedule meetings, arrange teleconferences, put reminders on calendars, distribute reports for review and flag potential problems. Throughout the process, the Rhapsody System reacts to outcomes of earlier decisions and tracks the project's status.

The Rhapsody System is an advanced implementation of networked computing, in which personal computers called are linked together by more powerful microprocessor- omputers called servers. Servers enable networked computers to share files, printers and application software.

The Rhapsody System has been recognized as one of the best products of 1990 by UNIX World, Lotus Magazine and Datamation.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - A lawsuit for unspecified damages has been filed in the Superior Court of California against McDonald's Corp., the restaurant chain, for alleged wrongful termination of employment for violating the California Occupational Safety and Health Act (Cal OSHA), brought by the plaintiff, Libby Ghanim, according to Noel Shipman, attorney for Ghanim.

The suit alleges that Ghanim, a 10-year employee of McDonald's, was wrongfully terminated as a result of her refusal to work because of alleged unsafe conditions at the company-owned restaurant in Downey, Calif., following an injurious assault on herself and three other McDonald's employees by several teenage customers.

According to the suit, on July 29, 1989, at about 10 p.m., Ghanim and 3 other female employees of McDonald's were alone, without a manager or an assistant manager, when they were assaulted and beaten by several teenage customers of the restaurant.

Ghanim was asked to ''turn in her keys'' when she informed her store manager that she was afraid to work at the restaurant because of McDonald's failure to provide adequate security for its employees.

Ghanim, who had expressed concern about security at the store on previous occasions, was then informed on her notice of termination that she was ineligible for rehire at any of the McDonald's restaurants nationwide.

The assault is but one of a string of assaults and robberies to befall employees of fast food restaurants in the Los Angeles area.

The suit alleges that McDonald's termination of Ghanim violates the Labor Code of the State of California, Code Sections 6300-6711, which prohibit discrimination against employees who make oral or written complaints about workplace safety to either their employer or a governmental agency.

Further, Labor Code Section 6311 forbids the termination or layoff of an employee who refuses to work in conditions which violate the provisions of Cal OSHA.

Attorney Shipman expressed bemusement at ''McDonald's hypocrisy in the firing of a loyal female employee because she had been beaten up while at the same time the corporation projects a caring image to the public through its advertising.''

Ghanim, a mother of three, had been employed as a swing crew chief earning $6.50 per hour at the McDonald's company-owned store.

NEWARK, CA (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Two Count Holding Co. Tuesday announced that a significant part of its ice cream novelty distribution business will be lost, effective immediately.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - HarCor Energy Inc. (NASDAQ:HARC) Tuesday announced the acquisition of certain property interests in Lea County, New Mexico, from an undisclosed major oil company.

In the purchase, HarCor acquired a 42 percent working interest in three producing wells with an estimated 130,000 barrels of proved producing oil and oil equivalent.

At a purchase price of $692,400 the acquisition represented a cost of $5.33 per barrel with an effective date of Oct. 1, 1990.

HarCor's purchase of these reserves was through an expanded credit facility with Dutch-based NMB Postbank Groep, n.v. Under the terms of the new credit arrangement, NMB is providing a $5 million revolving credit facility with a conversion to a four-year-straight amortization in July 1991.

As a consequence of stronger world oil prices and an intensive engineering review of its recently acquired properties. HarCor announced that it plans to spend approximately $1 million during 1991 for various production enhancement projects on its existing properties. The projects include recompletions, in-fill drilling and the installation of two-pilot waterflood projects.

Commenting on these announcements, Mark Harrington, HarCor's chairman and chief executive officer, said: ''This recent acquisition brings our 1990 program of property acquisitions to a total of 335,000 barrels of royalty and working interest oil-equivalent reserves purchased at an average cost of $4.67 per barrel on a working-interest basis.

''We are extremely pleased with the continued support of our banker, NMB Postbank Groep, n.v., which has facilitated our acquisition program.''

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Utilitech Inc. (NASDAQ:UTLL,UTLLW) has sold its Elsco Lighting Products Inc. subsidiary for approximately $2.3 million and has entered into a non-binding agreement to sell its Utility Marketing and Development Inc. (UMD) subsidiary, in a separate transaction, valued at approximately $4 million, according to Nathan Hevrony, Utilitech chairman and chief executive officer.

Elsco, a manufacturer of commercial and industrial lighting products was sold to a privately held lighting company. The consideration consisted of cash, notes and the fulfillment of certain debt obligations of Elsco.

Under the letter of intent, UMD, a telecommunications industry aftermarket services provider, would be sold to a private investor for $2 million in cash and the additional assumption of debt. All cash proceeds will be utilized by Utilitech to reduce indebtedness.

The sale of Elsco will not result in any significant gain or loss to the company. Should the sale of UMD be completed, the two transactions combined will have the effect of reducing the company's interest-bearing indebtedness by approximately $4 million, with a corresponding reduction in interest expense.

Utilitech has been undergoing a major reorganization, under a new management team which took control of the company in late 1988. This reorganization has included the sale of unprofitable operations and unproductive assets and the acquisition of companies which have taken Utilitech into the home products and do-it-yourself home improvement products field.

Elsco and UMD are the only two subsidiaries remaining from the company's former structure.

The two acquisitions made under the new management include Decora, manufacturer of ConTact paper and other adhesive papers, coatings, tapes and labels, and Yorkville, a 70-year specialty lightbulb and lighting components producer and importer.

With these two acquisitions, management has accomplished a dramatic earnings turnaround as well as revenue gains in excess of six times last year's revenue level, Hevrony pointed out.

If the potential sale of UMD is completed, Utilitech Inc. would operate through two subsidiaries, Decora Inc., manufacturer of pressure-sensitive, and self adhesive papers, plastics, tapes and labels, including ConTact paper, America's leading shelf paper, and Yorkville, a 70-year-old lightbulb and lighting components distributor.

Utilitech Inc. serves the home products, do-it-yourself home improvement and general consumer markets, with a variety of products, including ConTact paper and other pressure-sensitive papers and materials, and distributes a broad line of specialty lightbulbs and components.

HOUSTON (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Enron Corp. announced Tuesday that it is postponing its plans to offer interests in the Enron Gas Trust although it plans to maintain its registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

On Nov. 2, Enron filed with the SEC to offer 10 million units in the Enron Gas Trust. The Trust's principal assets would have consisted of rights under a series of forward contracts for the delivery of natural gas.

Holders of the Trust units would have been entitled to receive monthly cash distributions from Jan. 15, 1993 through Dec. 15, 1995 based on the proceeds received by the Trust from the sale of natural gas.

The initial public offering price of the units was estimated at $5.35 per unit and would have entitled holders to proceeds from 3 thousand cubic feet of natural gas over the three year period.

''The weak market for initial public offerings, particularly for energy securities, has delayed our attempt to offer the Enron Gas Trust,'' said Jeffrey K. Skilling, chairman of Enron Finance Corp. ''Because this is a new security for the gas industry, we wanted to have confidence in the continuing market performance of this issue. We will delay the issue until we have this confidence.''

Underwriters for the offering were to be Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette Securities Corp.; Kidder, Peabody & Co. Inc.; and Lehman Brothers.

Enron Finance Corp., a subsidiary of Enron Corp., provides financing to natural gas and crude oil producers.

Enron Corp., America's leading natural gas company with approximately $11 billion in revenues and $9 billion in assets, operates the nation's largest natural gas transmission system; markets natural gas, gas liquids, crude oil and refined products nationally and worldwide; owns 84 percent of Enron Oil & Gas Co., one of the country's largest independent (non-integrated) natural gas exploration and production companies; and also is one of the largest independent producers of electricity in the United States, with extensive experience in combined heat and power installations.

BEDFORD, England (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - NFC plc (AMEX: NFC), the international transport, logistics, property and services group, Tuesday announced its preliminary results for the year (53 weeks) to October 6, 1990, showing continued year-to-year improvement in pre-tax profit and earnings per share.

Revenues increased by 9% to L1,626.9 million ($2,772.2 million). The economic downturn in the UK put pressure on margins and this was reflected in the operating profit which was down 5% at L108.7 million ($185.2 million). The amount allocated to employee profit-sharing was consequently reduced to L5.1 million ($8.7 million) or 5% of operating profit, down from L15.9 million or 15% of operating profit in fiscal 1989. Profit before tax increased by 8% to L97.7 million ($166.5 million) and earnings per share were up 11% at 13.6p (23.2c).

These preliminary results thus surpassed the Board's ''best view'', reported with the interim results on June 4, 1990 and again on August 28, 1990.

The directors have recommended a final dividend of 1.60p (2.73c) per share. If approved it will bring total dividends for the year to 5.65p (9.63c) per share, an increase of 14% adjusted for the 1989 rights issue. The final dividend is payable on April 8, 1991.

-- US dollar equivalents provided for reader convenience only at $1.704, the average rate for the year to October 6, 1990, as used in NFC plc's Annual Report and Accounts.

Although the transport sector is particularly tough and property interests are likely to show much lower profits than last year, the directors believe that NFC's broad range of activities will produce a satisfactory performance in the current year and intend to give their ''best view'' of the outlook for 1991 at the Annual General Meeting on February 23, 1991.

James Watson, who takes over from Sir Peter as NFC Chairman on January 1, 1991 reported that NFC has a strong balance sheet with a debt-to-equity ratio of .24. In his outlook for the future he said: ''Despite economic uncertainty and the need for short-term action we have not lost sight of our long-term goals. The level and geographic spread of acquisitions during the year demonstrates our commitment to generating 40% of profits outside the UK by 1995.

The Audited Preliminary results, together with a summary of the balance sheet and a breakdown of the operating reviews of the divisions, are attached. The full Annual Report will be mailed to shareholders in January and the AGM will be held in London on Saturday, February 23, 1991.

TOKYO, Japan (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Nippon Telegraph and Telephone Corporation (NTT) Tuesday placed into service the first phase of a new, high-speed optical communications system manufactured by AT&T Network Systems at North Andover, Massachusetts.

AT&T Chairman Robert Allen and NTT Chairman Haruo Yamaguchi placed the equipment into service at NTT's Otemachi Network Center in Tokyo. U.S. Ambassador to Japan, Michael Armacost, also participated in the ceremony.

The equipment is part of a $154 million contract awarded to AT&T Network Systems in July, 1989. This contract represented the first major purchase of U.S. made optical communications equipment by a Japanese company.

NTT is using the equipment in its long distance telephone network to provide intelligent network services to its customers. Today's demonstration linked NTT Network Centers in Tokyo and Yokahama, the same sites between which the first commercial telephone service was inaugurated in Japan 100 years ago.

The new system was developed by AT&T Bell Laboratories and was manufactured at AT&T's Merrimack Valley Works. The system is designed to send high-capacity lightwave signals up to 80 kilometers (about 50 miles) without regeneration. The system transmits information at the rate of 622 million bits per second, which is equivalent to 8,000 simultaneous telephone calls.

AT&T developed the new system and equipment to meet NTT requirements and its high standards for quality and reliability.

The system conforms to the evolving Synchronous Optical Network/Synchronous Digital Hierarchy (SONET/SDH) communications standard. SONET/SDH defines a hierarchy of optical transmission rates and formats to be used worldwide by manufacturers, carriers and end users.

A SONET/SDH signal is made up of two components, one carrying system traffic and another carrying administration and network management data through the network.

Communications equipment built to these standards will help carriers accommodate growth in their networks, respond more rapidly to their users' needs, improve operations and maintenance, and introduce more quickly sophisticated new services. The SONET/SDH standard will also allow equipment from different manufacturers to communicate, making it easier to design networks.

REDMOND, WA (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Interpoint Corp., (NASDAQ:INTP), Tuesday announced that earnings for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1990, were 17 cents per share, or about $410,000, on revenue of $27.8 million.

Year ago earnings were 32 cents per share on revenue of $28 million. The 1990 results include approximately $533,000, or 14 cents per share after-tax, in special first quarter integration charges related to the acquisition of MICRA Corp.

New orders continue to be very strong as backlog, or orders received but not shipped, reached an all-time record of $20.5 million as of Nov. 30. Interpoint President Peter van Oppen said: ''We are very pleased with our order growth and backlog. It looks as if we will return to a strong growth trend in 1991.''

Fourth quarter numbers show revenue of $7.7 million vs. $7.5 million a year ago for an increase of 3 percent. Earnings for the quarter were $291,000, or 12 cents per share, as compared to $211,000, or 9 cents per share, for the fourth quarter 1989.

Gross profit percentage declined for the year as increased manufacturing overheads were required to assimilate former MICRA business into Interpoint operations and to absorb customers obtained through a royalty agreement with Hytek Corp. during 1990. Although increased competition also accounts for some of this decline, gross profit is expected to rise as revenue increases during 1991.

Sales and administrative expenses declined approximately 22 percent to $5.8 million in 1990, reflecting consolidation of MICRA expenses. At the same time investment in research and development increased 31 percent for the year to $926,000.

Founded in 1969, Interpoint designs, manufactures and markets a broad range of proprietary power converters and custom hybrid microcircuits for aerospace and industrial applications with headquarters in Redmond. Sales offices are located in Long Island, N.Y., and London.

WALLINGFORD, CT (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - The board of directors of Dime Financial Corp. (''DFC'') announced Tuesday that it expects to make a fourth quarter provision for loan losses of approximately $2.8 million, which it estimates will result in a loss for the fourth quarter of 1990 of up to $800,000, as compared to net income of $1.8 million for the fourth quarter of 1989.

According to DFC, this action is being taken in recognition of the continuing decline of the economy both in New England and throughout the country and the potential impact that the recession may have on the real estate portfolios of its two subsidiary banks.

DFC estimates that it will report net income for the year 1990 of approximately $4.2 million, as compared to $7.3 million for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

After the proposed provision for loan losses, the loan loss reserve will total approximately $6 million, constituting 21.4 percent of non-performing loans and .84 percent of total loans.

At its meeting today, the board of DFC voted to declare a dividend of 10 cents per share to shareholders of record on Jan. 4, 1991, payable on Jan. 25, 1991.

The 10 cents dividend represents a reduction from the 20 cents quarterly dividend previously paid by DFC.

''All signs are that the economic decline in New England will extend well into next year,'' said John C. Shortell, DFC's president and chief executive officer.

''Although we have not suffered significant loan losses to date, if the economy does not improve we need to be prepared. Today's action should serve to cushion the impact on our banks of any future deterioration of the loan portfolios.''

Shortell emphasized that the figures reported today are preliminary estimates and that actual year-end financial information will not be prepared until January, 1991.

PRINCETON, NJ (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - A laboratory to develop computer software and graphics will be established here by Matsushita Electric Industrial Co. Ltd. (MEI) of Osaka, Japan.

The Matsushita Information Technology Laboratory will be headed by renowned computer science authority Dr. Richard J. Lipton, formerly of Princeton University.

''The establishment of this, our eighth new U.S. lab, further demonstrates our parent company's strong commitment to research and development in the United States,'' said Richard Kraft, president of Matsushita Electric Corp. of America, MEI's North American subsidiary. ''In order to develop advanced computer software which meets the expanding needs of the American marketplace, we're also committed to assembling the best possible staff for this new R&D venture. Dr. Lipton represents the very best.''

The new laboratory's primary focus will be the development of improved computer graphics, document processing and system software. Such advances are expected to be applied to new film production techniques.

Initial plans call for the Information Technology Lab to have a staff of 20, a figure which would then increase to approximately 60 by March, 1993. As demonstrated by the nearby Advanced TV/Video Laboratory in Burlington, Matsushita's U.S. research staff is overwhelmingly American. In fact, of North American Matsushita's eight research facilities, including the new Princeton lab, seven are headed by United States citizens.

LITTLETON, MA (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Alliant Computer Systems (NASDAQ/ALNT) Tuesday announced the University of Southern California (USC) has purchased a RISC-based FX/2800 supercomputer.

The Alliant supercomputer is installed in USC's computing facility and shared by all the University including chemistry, biology, astronomy and engineering departments, as well as the USC Medical School.

The FX/2800, Alliant's newest and most powerful supercomputer, is linked to IBM, Digital and Sun Microsystems workstations over a high speed FDDI fiber-optic network. It is the sixth FX/Series system installed on the USC network.

''Supercomputers are becoming a normal computer resource in higher education '' said Jim Pepin, executive director of USC's University Computing Services. WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - AT&T Tuesday said it plans to lower prices by $33 million annually on interstate and international long-distance services used primarily by consumers and small business customers.

The price decrease, filed today with the Federal Communications Commission, would take effect Jan. 1, 1991, and apply to AT&T's basic rates for short- and medium-haul state-to-state, direct-dialed long-distance calls made during daytime hours (8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday) and some international calls. More than two-thirds of the daytime minutes over the AT&T network reflect calls by consumers.

The decrease is AT&T's 12th since 1984. In the seven years since the breakup of the Bell System AT&T has reduced long-distance prices 42 percent overall.

The price cuts reflect lower fees AT&T will pay in 1991 to local telephone companies for access to customers' lines. Local telephone companies filed lower access rates Nov. 1, for the first time under local exchange carrier price cap regulation. Under FCC guidelines, those cost savings lower the ''price cap'' on AT&T's long-distance services.

AT&T's proposal includes:

o A 1.1 percent drop in prices for basic long-distance service during the weekday calling period (8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday). Subscribers to the AT&T Reach Out (R) America 24-Hour Plan also will benefit from the price reduction when making daytime calls.

o Reduction in basic prices from the U.S. mainland to the former German Democratic Republic (East Germany) to the same levels as calls to the Federal Republic of Germany (West Germany).

o Cuts in basic prices from Hawaii to 17 countries and areas.

o Lower prices for some operator-assisted and station-to-station calls to Mexico.

o Lower Reach Out World prices, including a reduction in the plan's service service order charge from $5 to zero, lower peak and off-peak prices from the U.S.mainland to Hong Kong, Singapore, Taiwan and the Philippines, lower peak prices to 11 other countries and lower prices from Hawaii to five countries and areas.

METHUEN, MASS (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Parlex Corp. Tuesday announced that it will begin to phase-out operations of its Nevada facility located in Carson City, Nev.

It is the smallest of the company's three divisions. The decision to close was based on financial losses being incurred in Nevada and which were projected to continue over the next several months. Another factor in this decision is the weak demand for rigid printed circuit boards from the military-aerospace sector, a market which comprises 100 percent of Nevada's business.

Parlex's other two divisions, located in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, are more diversified in its products and markets, and were profitable in the first quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990.

The cost of discontinuing the Nevada operation is currently estimated to be about $2 million. The reserve for this phase-out will be recognized in the second quarter ending Dec. 31, 1990.

According to Herbert W. Pollack, president of Parlex Corp., ''We are disappointed that the 1988 acquisition of Parlex Nevada did not meet our expectations. Cutting our losses at this time is prudent since market conditions in the military-aerospace sector, together with general economic conditions, do not warrant any further investment in this facility.''

Parlex is a leader in the design and manufacture of interconnection and packaging products for semiconductors and electronic components. Its custom product line of flexible printed circuits and flexible-rigid multilayers (Flexilayers) can include the assembly of surface mount components.

Parlex also manufactures custom laminated cable and complex rigid multilayer circuits. Its facilities are located in Methuen, Mass., and Salem, N.H.

Parlex is unique in the industry for its ability to provide a complete range of services for its entire product line, including CAD design, manufacturing, assembly and computerized testing. These cost-effective, versatile, reliable and innovative products are sold to original equipment manufacturers in the communications, computer, military-aerospace, medical, automotive and other industrial electronics industries.

EL DORADO, AR (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Directors of Murphy Oil Corp.

(NYSE:MUR) approved a capital and exploration expenditure budget for 1991 of $324 million, up 20 percent from an estimated $270 million which will have been spent in 1990.

The increase is mostly attributable to provisions for development of recent oil and gas discoveries, notably in Ecuador, the Gulf of Mexico and Western Canada; for increased capacity at the Meraux, La., Refinery and for more sophisticated processing at all three company-owned refineries; and for accelerated testing of additional prospects near recent exploratory successes.

The 1991 capital expenditure budget includes $41 million for meeting regulatory and self-imposed standards for environmental protection.

Feasibility of the capital program is predicated on an average price for West Texas Intermediate crude at Cushing of $18.75 a barrel, adjusted for geographical and quality differentials.

If the average price realized in 1991 falls markedly below that level, curtailments will be made. Should the price be maintained above it, debt, already moderate, will be reduced, and carefully selected capital projects will be added.

Murphy's 1991 budget also provides for a 20-percent increase in the quarterly dividend from $.25 to $.30 a share. Barring unexpected changes in the business, the 1991 first quarter dividend declared by the Board of Directors in February will be at the increased rate.

STAMFORD, CT (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Devon Group Inc. (NASDAQ:DEVN) Tuesday announced that its overall prospects and performance would be enhanced if it withdrew from the financial printing business.

In light of the difficulties characterizing financial printing generally and the diminished prospects of achieving its original goals for its subsidiary, The Aztech Chas P. Young Co., Devon has decided to devote its energy and resources toward its other graphic arts business units which have historically been its source of growth and superior return on equity.

Accordingly, Devon will establish a reserve, net of taxes, in its third quarter of approximately $12 million, or $1.68 per share. The company currently believes this provision reflects all potential losses in connection with its loans to, investment in, and certain other obligations related to its financial printing subsidiary.

Devon is working with Aztech as it considers several courses of action, one of which is the prospect of a purchase by a management group.

Devon Group Inc., is a diversified graphic arts company which provides the following services and products: pre-press computerized typesetting, composition, and color separation; printing, binding, and fulfillment to a broad base of magazine publishers; and publishing/distribution of posters, art reproductions, original art, note cards, and calendars.

OTTAWA (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Cognos Inc. (TSE:CSN; NASDAQ:COGNF) Tuesday announced results for its third quarter ended Nov. 30, 1990.

All financial results are reported in Canadian dollars.

Revenue increased 32% to $36.4 million from $27.6 million for the same period last year. Pretax income was $2.7 million, net after tax income was $1.7 million and earnings per share were 16 cents for the quarter. This compares with a net loss of $8.0 million and a per share loss of 77 cents for the corresponding period last year.

Revenues for the nine months ended November 30, 1990 increased 29% to $99.8 million from $77.5 million for the same period last year. Pretax income was $5.1 million, net after tax income was $3.2 million and earnings per share were 30 cents. This compares with a net after tax loss of $18.2 million and a loss per share of $1.74 for the same period last year.

Michael Potter, Cognos Chairman and Chief Executive Officer said, ''These results are evidence of the current health of our business. Revenue growth of 32% and consistently improving profitability in recent quarters attests to the competitiveness of our products and the company's increased effectiveness in delivering those products to the market. Despite a generally slower economic trend in some markets, our pipelines of perspective business remain strong as we enter the fourth quarter.''

Commenting on revenue growth, Potter added, ''Revenue from license sales of our PowerHouse product line in the Digital VAX and Hewlett-Packard MPE-XL markets increased 55%, compared to the same quarter last year. These strengths were somewhat offset by a decline in sales of licenses into the older Hewlett-Packard MPE-V market, consistent with our expectation. Final beta testing of the full PowerHouse 4GL for the IBM AS/400 is proceeding on schedule, with product release expected during the fourth quarter. Early indications are that customer interest in the IBM market is high.''

On earnings, Potter concluded, ''Our sales productivity during the quarter continued to show dramatic improvement over the same period last year. In competitive situations we are winning more often and penetrating larger, more strategic accounts. We are especially pleased with the performance of our U.S. subsidiary in a marketplace where specific weaknesses among some direct competitors are more evident. These productivity gains, together with continued close monitoring of costs, have resulted in improved operating margins during the quarter, and positive cash flows for the last two quarters.''

Cognos markets application development software used on mid- range computers. The publicly-held company is headquartered in Ottawa, Canada, with worldwide sales, service and marketing operations based in Burlington, Mass. Its PowerHouse products are used at over 16,000 installations in 68 countries.

BOSTON (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - UST Corp., parent company of the USTrust banks in Massachusetts and UST Bank/Connecticut, declared its regular quarterly cash dividend of $0.1575 per share payable on Jan. 15, 1991, to stockholders of record on Dec. 31, 1990.

This quarterly cash dividend is at the annual rate of $0.63 cents per share.

In addition, the board of directors determined that, in light of the continued weak economy, ''prudent and conservative fiscal management'' dictated that $12 million be added to the company's loan loss reserves. This increase will bring the loan loss reserve to $36 million by year-end, which constitutes 55 percent of present non-accrual loans. This action will reflect a loss for the fourth quarter and a slight profit for the year.

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - American International Petroleum Corp.

(NASDAQ:AIPN) announced the finalization of drilling activities at its Puli No. 1 well in the Puli Association Contract Area.

The well was initially drilled to 4800 feet and encountered severe loss of circulation and several shows of oil and gas. The well was then plugged back to 3400 feet and the hole was side tracked in a different direction, encountering completely different lithology to a depth of 6200 feet.

Although several potential reservoir sands were encountered, the logging information showed the formation to be non-commercial due to its poor porosity.

The Puli No. 1 was plugged on Dec. 5, 1990 and the company will re-evaluate the information derived from the well and its side-track as well as other geological information to determine if another exploratory well of the Puli Anticline is justified.

American International Petroleum Corp. is engaged in refining, oil and natural gas exploration, production, transportation, and marketing activities in Louisiana and Kentucky as well as Colombia, South America.

HANOI (DEC. 18) - Vietnam's exports have increased this year but the country is still running a net trade deficit, the Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said Tuesday.

The value of Vietnam's exports in the past 11 months rose 29 per cent over the same period last year to total 1.56 billion dollars, VNA said, citing trade ministry figures. Imports during the same period rose 13.5 per cent to 1.70 billion dollars.

The ministry's figures show a "substantial decrease" in trade between Vietnam and eastern Europe but reflect "an increase in trade with other countries," VNA said.

"For the first 11 months, exports to socialist countries amounted to 885 million rubles (491 million dollars) while imports were 1.16 million rubles (644 million dollars), according to the ministry's figures.

"This deficit, largely to the Soviet Union, is going to create problems for Vietnam next year because the country needs these imports to run its economy, but they will be paid for in hard currency and based on world market prices in line with Moscow's new policy," an expert said.

Vietnam's main imports from the Soviet Union are motor-fuels, cotton, vehicles and machine-tools.

Hanoi, on the other hand, ran a near trade balance with non-socialist countries, exporting some 1.07 billion dollars worth of goods and importing 1.06 billion dollars.

Vietnam's leading exports to the non-socialist countries were rice and petroleum, expected to total this year respectively 1.5 million tonnes and 2.5 million tonnes, according to official estimates.

Officials here are bracing for severe economic hardship next year, largely because of the cut in supplies from eastern European nations, Hanoi's closest allies until they were hit by the recent wave of reform, which Vietnam rejects.

Faced with the rapidly changing international alignment, Vietnam is trying to reorient its commerce towards the capitalist economies of Asia and Europe.

Japan is already Vietnam's leading non-socialist trading partner, while trading ties are being developed with the European Community, which provides Vietnam with more than half of its foreign investment.

TAIPEI (DEC. 18) - Taiwan's Central Bank of China Tuesday further liberalized credit control by allowing local banks to extend loans over five million Taiwan dollar (184,501 U.S. dollar) to foreign investors without seeking its prior approval, banking officials said.

The requirement that local banks needed guarantees from foreign banks before extending loans to foreign investors was also removed, the officials said.

The move was expected to encourage more foreign enterprises to invest in the island and to help local banking units expand their operations in line with Taiwan's financial liberalization policy, they added.

To control credit, the Central Bank of China required in November 1980 that foreign investors seeking loans from local banks must first obtain guarantees from overseas banks and that credit over five million Taiwan dollars needed its approval.

Growing environmental protection sentiment, an acute labor shortage, skyrocketing land prices and stiff banking regulations have pressed the island's businessmen to seek overseas investment channels while discouraging foreign investors, analysts said.

The value of approved foreign investment in the island dipped 7.46 per cent to 2.02 billion dollars in the January-November period against the 109 per cent growth posted in the 11 months of 1989.

The chemical manufacturing industry was most favored by foreign investors, absorbing 22.52 per cent of overall approved foreign investment in the first 11 month of 1990, while the electronic and electrical appliance sector followed with 16.7 per cent.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) - Japan's money supply grew at an annual rate of 10 per cent in November, down from 11.8 per cent in October and the slowest pace of expansion in 11 months, the Bank of Japan said Tuesday.

"This was due to a slowdown in lending and a fall in the outstanding balance of domestic commercial paper," it said, adding that other factors included a shift in financial assets and a change in the timing of pension payments.

Japan's money supply -- as measured by cash in circulation plus demand deposits and certificates of deposit -- has been growing by more than 10 per cent since December last year, peaking at 13.2 per cent in April and May.

The central bank said that the latest figures showed a slowdown in the growth of cash in circulation and quasi money accompanied by an increase in deposit growth.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) - Japan's two biggest carmakers, Toyota Motor Corp. and Nissan Motor Co. Ltd., said Tuesday that their domestic sales of motor vehicles declined in November while exports continued to grow.

The two companies also announced increases in worldwide production during the month although Nissan said its domestic output alone was unchanged.

Toyota said its domestic sales fell 2.4 per cent from a year earlier to 228,678 vehicles in November, the first decline in two months. Car sales dropped 3.4 per cent to 173,238 units but sales of lorries and buses grew 0.6 per cent to 55,440 units, the company said.

Exports grew 3.2 per cent to 127,837 vehicles with car exports rising 5.1 per cent to 91,413 units while exports of commercial vehicles fell 1.1 per cent to 36,424 units.

Nissan said its domestic sales fell 0.1 per cent to 113,288 units, marking the first decline in seven months. Car sales were down 5.2 per cent at 82,735 units but sales of trucks and buses rose 16.7 per cent to 30,553 units.

Exports grew 9.7 per cent to 84,304 vehicles with car exports climbing 15 per cent to 72,348 units and exports of commercial vehicles falling 14.1 per cent to 11,956 units.

Toyota's output grew 4.5 per cent to 368,847 vehicles with production abroad surging 20.1 per cent to 62,895 units.

Nissan's production was up 3.9 per cent at 262,685 vehicles units. Domestic output was unchanged at 196,164 units while production abroad soared 17.4 per cent to 66,521 units, the company said.

NEW DELHI (DEC. 18) - India has asked for a loan of 1.68 billion dollars from the International Monetary Fund (IMF) to help cope with a fiscal crisis which has stripped its foreign exchange reserves to a record low.

Simultaneously, the government of Prime Minister Chandra Shekhar increased excise and customs levies Monday to bring in some 744 million dollars in additional revenue over the next year.

The 1.68 billion dollars sought from the IMF includes a 490 million dollar loan to finance oil imports under the agency's contingency compensatory finance facility with the rest as a first credit tranche, press reports said Tuesday.

Finance ministry officials dealing with the IMF were not available for comment on the reports which cited no sources.

The money expected to materialise by the end of January will give New Delhi some elbow room in the fiscal bind caused by the Gulf crisis. The IMF does not prescribe economic readjustments for a member seeking a first credit tranche. A member needs only to explain its balance of payments difficulties to avail of the loan under the agency's tranche policies.

Larger borrowings would require IMF readjustments which Indian governments have been reluctant to accept because of domestic political hostility to heeding what are described as "foreign dictates".

The decision to seek the loan came as India's foreign exchange reserves plunged to an all-time low of 1.5 billion dollars -- sufficient to finance only two weeks' imports.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) - Japan will likely propose a substantial cut in its import quota on Chinese raw silk at governmental consultations opening in Beijing Thursday, Foreign Ministry sources said Tuesday.

The two-day talks are to set fiscal 1990 import quotas on Chinese raw silk and silk products, they said.

Last year Japan doubled the raw silk import quota to 40,000 bales (one bale equals to 60 kilograms or 132 pounds) from a year earlier. But the supply and demand situation in Japan has changed in the meantime, with raw silk consuption slumping.

The stock at the Japan Raw Silk and Sugar Price Stabilization Agency, is expected to reach some 37,000 bales by next June when the delivery of Chinese raw silk under the fiscal 1989 quota is completed.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) - Household spending in Japan was down 0.4 per cent in October from a year earlier, registering the first year-on-year decline in seven months, the Management and Coordination Agency said Tuesday.

The 0.4 per cent fall for October, during which spending averaged 301,857 yen (2,322 dollars) per household, followed a 0.6 per cent rise in September.

Spending by salaried workers' households fell by 0.9 per cent, the first such fall in seven months, but spending by non-salaried households rose 1.4 per cent, it said.

Agency officials said the average household spent less on clothing, furniture, foodstuffs, and recreational activities.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) - World trade is expected to grow 5.3 per cent in real terms in calendar 1991, the Japan External Trade Organization (JETRO) said Tuesday.

The semi-governmental trade promotion body said in a report that world trade next year will be valued at 3.3527 trillion dollars.

Europe and Newly Industrializing Economies (NIES) in particular are expected to contribute to the expansion of the world economy in 1991, the JETRO report said.

Japan's exports next year are likely to grow only 0.1 per cent to 283.3 billion dollars, while imports are expected to increase 5.1 per cent to 202.0 billion dollars, it said.

The JETRO estimated that Japanese exports this year would rise 2.9 per cent and imports would increase 4.7 per cent.

Japan should continue efforts next year to reduce its huge trade surplus, the target of foreign criticism, it said.

TAIPEI (DEC. 18) - The Taipei District Court indicted Tuesday 81 people for allegedly operating the island's largest underground investment house, charging them with fraud and violation of banking, company and security exchange laws.

Chief Prosecutor Liu Ching-yi said that Shen Chang-sheng, chairman of Hung Yuan Group, legislator Abdula (eds: correct) and 11 other executives of the illicit money-managing investment house were among the defendants accused of "seriously" disrupting Taiwan's economic order and financial activities.

Mr. Liu said he would ask the court to impose heavy jail terms and fines on the charged executives for their alleged role in taking a whopping 96.19 billion Taiwan dollars (3.55 billion U.S.) from some 160,000 small investors in exchange for promised interest payments of up to six per cent a month.

Hung Yuan, also known as Homey, is the largest and last of some 180 illegal deposit-taking investment houses to be broken up by the authorities.

Hung Yuan, comprising 23 companies in Taiwan and some 20 abroad, reportedly held total assets of 30 billion Taiwan dollars (1.1 billion U.S.) when its leader Mr. Shen was arrested in August.

The group, founded by Mr. Shen in November 1982, profited extensively through speculating in the local stock and real estate markets but in July last year it started cutting interest rates after Parliament revised the Banking Law to ban deposit-taking by unauthorized firms.

Mr. Shen was sued by investors after the group stopped all payments a year later.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) - Japan and China are to let shipping companies set up representative offices in each other's countries under a government agreement reached in Beijing last week, a Foreign Ministry official said Tuesday.

The official said that details of the agreement, including the number of offices, would be worked out later in talks including the companies involved.

China previously rejected applications by Japanese shipping companies to set up offices in China, arguing that their needs were already being met by an existing office of the Japan-China Marine Transportation Council.

The daily Shipping and Trade News said Tuesday that three major firms had applied to set up offices in China: Nippon Yusen Kaisha Ltd., Mitsui O.S.K. Lines Ltd. and Kawasaki Kisen Kaisha Ltd. .

The newspaper noted that American President Lines and Sea-Land Service of the United States had offices in Shanghai, Dalian and Tianjin. Hong Kong's Orient Overseas Container Line Ltd. also has a Shanghai office while Denmark's Maersk Line has offices in Nanjing, Shanghai, Beijing and Tianjin, it added.

Earlier Tuesday, a Japanese trade group known as the Japan-China Long-Term Trade Committee said it had agreed with its Chinese counterpart to extend a 12-year trade agreement expiring this year until 1995.

Under the accord, committee officials said, Chinese oil exports to Japan will remain at the current level of between 64.2 million barrels and 67.8 million barrels year. But Chinese coal exports are to rise by between 10 per cent and 30 per cent, reaching 3.9 million tonnes to 5.3 million tonnes.

Japan is also expected to provide eight billion dollars in financing for Chinese imports of plants and machine tools from Japan, officials said.

The extension of the agreement was due to be signed by officials of the two committees in Tokyo Tuesday evening including Ryoichi Kawai, president of the Japanese construction machinery giant Komatsu Ltd.

LONDON (DEC. 18) - European Commission president Jacques Delors has accused Germany, the Netherlands, Spain and France of backsliding on the issue of European economic and monetary union.

In an interview with the Financial Times he said "I am no longer sure that Britain is the biggest menace."

Immediately after last week's Rome summit of the 12 European Community leaders Mr. Delors said he was prepared to provoke a political crisis if any country attempted to put a spanner in the inter-governmental committee's work on economic and monetary union.

His remarks at the time were taken as a direct warning to Britain, the fiercest critic of the commission project.

But Mr. Delors told the FT that his remarks had been wrongly interpreted and that he had not intended to cast a shadow over John Major, attending his first summit as British prime minister.

He said his "cry of alarm" was aimed at several of Britain's partners who appeared to be going back on their clear commitment to move towards a single currency and central bank in the timetable agreed at the first Rome summit in October.

German Finance Minister Theo Waigel had "violently attacked" the draft EMU treaty tabled by the commission. The Dutch Spanish and French financial minister behaved as if "nothing had happened at the first Rome summit," said Mr. Delors.

In an editorial the FT, while recognising Mr. Delors' achievements in reviving the EC, said he was now in danger of "losing both his sense of priorities and his sense of proportion." It accused him of failing in his principal task of resurrecting the Uruguay Round of GATT, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) - Victor Co. of Japan Ltd. (JVC) said it formed a music venture Tuesday with MCA Music Entertainment Group of the United States to develop and market audio and video products in Japan.

The announcement followed last month's move by JVC's parent, Matsushita Electric Industrial Co. Ltd., to acquire for 6.1 billion dollars MCA Inc. whose assets also include Hollywood film studio Universal Pictures.

The new company, capitalised at 490 million yen (93.8 million dollars), is 50 per cent owned by MCA with JVC holding 25.5 per cent and its audio arm Victor Musical Industries Inc. holding the remaining 24.5 per cent.

Victor Music president Noboru Takayama told a news conference that the establishment of the joint venture was not directly related to Matsushita's takeover of MCA, the largest ever Japanese purchase in the United States.

"The two deals were negotiated separately," he said. "The new company, MCA Victor Inc., will market only music videos not MCA movies."

The company will start operating in July, selling recordings under the MCA, Geffen and GRP labels as well as signing up Japanese artists, a statement said. Sales are expected to rise from six billion yen (46 million dollars) in the first year to 10 billion yen (77 million dollars) within three years.

MCA Music Entertainment's sales came to 3.38 billion dollars last year, amounting to 23 per cent of the parent's sales.

JVC is Japan's biggest producer of video cassette recorders and is 51 per cent-owned by Matsushita.

OSLO (DEC. 18) - The Norwegian parliament began debate here to introduce a tax on the burning of natural gas in the North Sea oil fields. The carbon dioxide levy will raise an estimated 360 million kroner (62 million dollars) in revenues yearly.

The petroleum installations on the Norwegian shelf emit six million tonnes of carbon dioxide annually. The new tax, which will be passed before the end of the week, will increase the oil companies' running expenses by nine per cent.

North Sea oil fields burn natural gas for three reasons: to produce energy for platform use, to get rid of excess gas and to keep a steady flame burning in case of sudden emissions.

Norway has pledged to freeze its carbon dioxide pollution at 1989 levels. Over the last decade, cars have caused 22 per cent of the 35 million tonnes of carbon dioxide released each year to 15 per cent by the oil industry.

BERLIN (DEC. 18) - Several thousand students and university teachers demonstrated on Tuesday in Berlin and Leipzig against plans to close higher educational establishments in former East Germany.

In West Berlin, students gathered outside the city hall where the regional government was discussing plans to close or restructure certain departments at the Humboldt University in the eastern sector.

Departments threatened with closure and redundancies are those most tainted with the ideology of the discredited communist regime, such as history, philosophy and economics.

Students waved banners protesting against the university's dismantlement and proclaiming "reunification is making us stupid."

In Leipzig students occupied the administrative offices at the Karl Marx University, demanding to be consulted on restructuring plans, and opposing the proposed closure of former East Germany's only school of journalism.

Similar protests have taken place in the past week in Schwerin, Dresden and Erfuhrt.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) - Lithuanian Prime Minister Kazimiera Prunskiene will begin a private three-day visit to Tokyo on Friday before moving on to Australia, an official organising the visit here said.

Mrs. Prunskiene will be accompanied by her industry and telecommunications ministers and was expected to hold talks with major Japanese banks and companies, said Alexander Kairis, director of the Japanese branch of the Waco firm which specialises in cooperation with Lithuania.

According to the Japanese Foreign Ministry, no arrangements have been made for Mrs. Prunskiene to meet Japanese government officials.

Lithuania formally declared its independence from the Soviet Union in March, although Moscow refused to recognise the action.

Mrs. Prunskiene's visit is part of the Baltic republic's diplomatic efforts to win support from industrialised nations for Lithuanian independence, ahead of further discussions with Moscow on the question.

MOSCOW (DEC. 18) - Women in the Russian city of Lipetsk must produce medical proof of nicotine addiction before they are allowed to buy cigarette coupons, it was reported here Tuesday.

The Rabochaya Tribuna (Workers' Tribune) newspaper said the ruling did not apply to male smokers at the city about 380 kilometres southeast of Moscow.

However, as it was impossible for doctors to ascertain levels of addiction medical certificates were issued to any woman who asked for one, the report said.

The newspaper said that fortunately the regulation did not cover vodka, oil or fruit, items for which coupons are also required.

JERUSALEM (DEC 18) - The Israeli army foresees a war in the Gulf that will have repercussions on Israel, chief of staff General Dan Shomron said here Tuesday.

The army is now "operating on the hypothesis that war will break out in the Gulf," Gen. Shomron told Voice of Israel radio.

"We must assume that such a war will have repercussions for Israel," he added.

A military source, reacting to the general's remarks, said he was suggesting that the army must "always prepare for the worst."

"No one knows if there will be war," the source added, "but we must avoid all surprises. It's precisely for this reason that gas masks have been distributed over the last few months to the civilian population."

Foreign Minister David Levy meanwhile said any U.S.-led military action against Iraq should be "decisive" in order to put an end to the Iraqi occupation of Kuwait.

Such a war, he told visiting U.S. Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, "will reinforce Arab moderates by showing that aggression does not pay."

NEW DELHI (DEC. 18) - India is exploring possibilities of securing a loan from the International Monetary Fund (IMF) to help cope with a grave financial crisis, Finance Minister Yashwant Sinha said Tuesday.

But the minister told a group of MPs here that New Delhi would not accept any dictates from the IMF while seeking assistance under the Compensatory Contingency Financing Facility (CCFF).

Sinha did not say how much his cash-strapped government was seeking, although financial dailies reported Tuesday that New Delhi had sought 1.68 billion dollars from the IMF. The amount includes a 490 million dollar loan to finance oil imports under the CCFF, and the rest as a first credit tranche, the press reports here said.

"India will not accept any conditions that impinge upon the national objectives," Sinha said. "Within these parameters, India as a member of the IMF will consider the use of available facilities."

The decision to seek the loan came as India's foreign exchange reserves plunged to an all-time low of 1.5 billion dollars - sufficient to finance only two weeks' imports.

Although not sufficient to overcome a severe balance of payments crunch, the money expected to materialise by the end of January will give India some elbow room in the fiscal bind caused by the Gulf crisis.

Sinha said the government would observe strict control on expenditure "to tide over the present economic difficulties," but simultaneously asked the people to tighten their belts.

The IMF does not prescribe economic readjustments for a member seeking a first credit tranche. A country must only explain its balance of payments difficulties to avail itself of the loan under the agency's tranche policies.

Larger borrowings would require IMF readjustments which Indian governments have been reluctant to accept because of domestic political hostility to heeding what are described as "foreign dictates."

Indian officials have blamed the financial difficulties on fallout from Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait, which sharply drove up New Delhi's oil bill while hitting revenues. The Gulf crisis is estimated to have cost India some 2.9 billion dollars.

Simultaneously, the government of Prime Minister Chandra Shekhar has hiked excise and customs levies to bring in 744 million dollars in additional revenue over the next year.

An official statement said here late Monday that the hikes were notified after Sinha carried out a review of the budget deficit, expected to hit 7.2 billion dollars in fiscal 1990-91 ending in March.

The hike, effective Saturday, is part of a major revenue-raising exercise launched by the five-week-old government of Shekhar, and covers manmade fibers yarns, and aerated water. Observers said the levies could increase inflation, hurt industrial output, and encourage smuggling.

BRUSSELS (DEC. 18) - The International Confederation of Free Unions on Tuesday condemned what it termed the brutal, bloody and disproportionate repression of protesters by Moroccan authorities.

It said the protests were an explosion of anger by young people who were giving vent to their despair.

The organisation, based in Brussels, was referring to recent demonstrations in several Moroccan towns, and particularly Fez.

"While the violence and looting cannot be justified, the profound causes of the events can be found in social injustice and blatant inequalities which are rampant in a country governed by a formal democracy based on the falsification of the people's will," the organisation said.

It said that it supported moves by its affiliated organisation in Morocco, the Moroccan Labour Union, "in favour of the workers' social demands and broadening of democracy".

The organisation groups 144 union movements in 100 countries, and says that it represents 99 million workers throughout the world.

PARIS (DEC. 18) - Paul Tortelier, a master of the French cello school, died Tuesday, aged 76, near Paris of a heart attack.

Mr. Tortelier died at the Manoir de Villarceaux where he was teaching a dozen leading young musicians from different countries.

Mr. Tortelier was born in Paris on March 21, 1914 and began his international career after World War II following studies at the Paris Conservatory.

With his clear and ethereal tone, typical of the French school, he played with such renowned performers as pianist Arthur Rubinstein and violinist Isaac Stern as well as with world-famous orchestras and prestigious conductors.

Mr. Tortelier was also a composer and although he wrote largely for the cello composed "Romance and Dance Variations" for flute and piano.

Teaching played a large part in Paul Tortelier's life. He taught at the Paris Conservatory from 1956 to 1969.

Mr. Tortelier invented a cello stand which bears his name to allow the player to hold the instrument more inclined.

WARSAW (DEC. 18) - Workers of the Gdansk shipyards will get free company shares, according to a report on Tuesday in Gazeta, a newspaper close to the government.

Poland's new privatisation law authorises the free distribution of shares to staff of the companies being privatised.

The shipyard shares, worth a total 62 billion zlotys (6.2 million dollars) will be distributed to all those employed at the shipyards in April 1990, the date when the yards were transformed into a shareholding company.

The company's capital amounts to 454 billion zlotys (45 million dollars), the paper said.

Gazeta said the decision to hand out shares was taken Monday by the government to "compensate the shipyard workers for the problems they suffered in the wake of a political decision by former communist prime minister Mieczyslaw Rakowski " to liquidate the Gdansk shipyards.

The shipyards are now being reorganized and employ some 6,000 people.

OFFENBURG, GERMANY (DEC. 18) - A court here Tuesday sentenced two U.S. citizens to jail terms for dealing in drugs produced by a German firm that supplied components for a poison gas plant to Libya.

Texan businessman Charles F. Pofahl, 49, received six years and three months and 51-year-old chemist Morris Key was given six years. The court ordered the confiscation of 870,000 dollars Pofahl had earned from selling the drugs, marketed under the names ''Ecstasy'', ''Cadillac'' or ''Adam''.

The court also imposed fines equivalent to 2,400 marks and 6,000 dollars on two employees of the chemical firm Imhausen for helping to manufacture the drugs for the two Americans in 1988.

EASTERN SAUDI ARABIA (DEC 18) - U.S. military officials on Tuesday began distributing more than 15 tonnes of holiday gifts for American troops based here that had arrived earlier in the day at a Saudi airbase.

Air Force personnel unloaded tens of thousands of chocolate chip cookies, video and audio cassettes and many more items.

"Santa comes before Christmas," said a surprised sergeant, Willie O'Lewis, as he was handed a T-shirt and newspapers.

MGM Grand Air and United Services Organizations (USO), which serves U.S. military personnel and their families, collected the gifts from more than 50 companies, the USO said.

Officials at MGM, which flies movie stars and executives, said other gifts included 7,000 pounds of moisturizer, 20,000 chocolate chip cookies and 7,200 toy cars -- presumably so troops can send them to their children back home.

There were also basketballs, including one autographed by the Los Angeles Lakers, footballs, and volleyballs, they said.

And there was a "holiday card" from President George Bush, according to the USO.

FRANKFURT (DEC. 18) - Japanese car manufacturers are winning a significant part of the German car market and hope to hold 17 percent next year, the German car industry federation (VDA) said on Tuesday.

A market share of 17 percent would represent the sale of more than 500,000 cars compared with 426,000 this year.

The eight leading Japanese car manufacturers in Germany said their sales growth was the result of strong demand in eastern Germany.

Japanese firms were present in former East Germany through sporadic imports financed by barter trade, but their market share was small.

In former West Germany they held 15.9 percent of the market in September, dropping slightly from a high of 17 percent in July.

The most popular models were in the medium range, led by the Mazda 323. Mazda is the most successful Japanese manufacturer followed by Toyota, Mitsubishi, Nissan, Honda, Suzuki, Daihatsu and Subaru.

Mazda hopes to sell more than 100,000 cars next year, representing 20 per cent of the market share held by Japanese manufacturers.

The German trade federation said that next year Mazda would concentrate on the market for medium-priced cars, while Toyota and Nissan would aim for the top end of the market.

SAO PAOLO (DEC. 18) - Brazil plans to increase production of enriched uranium by 10 times beginning in March 1991 with the help of 550 new Brazilian-made centrifuges, a newspaper reported Tuesday.

The new centrifuges will be added to 48 others already in operation at the the Brazilian Navy's Aramar Experimental Center, O Estado do Sao Paolo said.

They represent the fourth generation of machines for enriching uranium that have been built with Brazilian technology since 1980 and would make the country self-sufficent in fuel for research reactors, which supply radioisotopes for 1,700 hospitals that specialize in nuclear medicine.

The newspaper said 40 companies participate directly and 160 others indirectly in the uranium enrichment program at the Aramar Experimental Center, which is localed in the city of Ipero about 200 kilometers (120 miles) from Sao Paolo.

The aerospace industry already is making use of such products as carbon filters and titanium alloys, using know-how developed in the Aramar center.

The head of the Navy's Special Projects Coordinator (Codesep), which is responsible for Aramar, told the newspaper that priority was being given to the development of advanced materials.

The report said 1,600 people, including 800 engineers and 32 military officers were employed at the Aramar Experimental Center and Codesep installations at the University of Sao Paolo.

The center also is involved in research for the construction of a nuclear submarine for the Brazilian navy. All of the nuclear programs are to be put under civilian control on orders of President Fernando Collor, who has pledged to end all the military's previous programs to develop nuclear arms.

In November, Mr. Collor and President Carlos Menem of Argentina signed a statement pledging not to develop nuclear weapons and agreeing to establish a system to monitor their respective nuclear industries and to begin negotiations with the International Atomic Energy Agency on establishing safeguards.

BRUSSELS (DEC. 18) - NATO staked out a new role here Tuesday -- to extend its area of competence beyond the territory of its members, and to cautiously give European members more leeway in security and defence.

U.S. Secretary of State James Baker said after a meeting of NATO foreign ministers that they had agreed Iraq posed a threat to all 16 members of the alliance.

This set a precedent because, until now, NATO has considered that it may not act "out of area" -- beyond the borders of its members.

The decision is expected to start a lengthy debate on just how NATO may intervene in international crises, such as currently in the Gulf.

NATO secretary-general Manfred Woerner said Tuesday: "When there is a risk to any one member of the alliance, it is clear that all the others should help." He was referring to Turkey, which shares a border with Iraq.

The decision was considered a victory for the United States. Mr. Baker said it showed that the alliance should consider Western interests in general, even if this extended beyond NATO territory.

The NATO foreign ministers issued a strong statement on Iraq, stressing that Baghdad should not be allowed to sow discord among the allies ranged against it by, for example, staging an incomplete withdrawal from Kuwait.

Mr. Baker said Iraq would still face being expelled from Kuwait by force even if it had begun an incomplete troop withdrawal by January 15, the deadline set by the United Nations.

The United States avoided a potential row with the European Community (EC) by agreeing that the EC could launch its own peace initiative with Iraq even if planned U.S.-Iraqi meetings fell through because of disputes over dates.

Mr. Baker said he had no objection to the EC initiative as long as Iraq received one consistent message -- that it had to be out of Kuwait by January 15 or it would be thrown out.

NATO also gave a go-ahead for a strengthened "European pillar" -- an enhanced security and defence role for European members of NATO, but only on condition that they did not try to usurp the alliance's role.

BONN (DEC. 18) - German coalition leaders have agreed to hand over Interflug, the ailing airline of East Germany, to its western rival Lufthansa after a search for foreign buyers proved fruitless, a senior Christian Democrat figure disclosed here Tuesday.

The takeover would be accomplished within a matter of days, said Dirk Fischer, a member of the Bundestag who is privy to three-way negotiations currently under way to set up a fresh Bonn coalition.

Fischer said German Transport Minister Friedrich Zimmermann had told the negotiators that federal aviation authorities were likely to withdraw Interflug's operating licence as of the end of the year.

If that happened, Interflug, the one-time domestic and international carrier of East Germany, would have to cease flying.

Interflug, which is believed to have lost 130 million to 150 million marks (up to 100 million dollars) this year, is currently in the hands of the Trust Office, an agency set up to run state-owned businesses in the formerly communist east.

According to Fischer, the Christian Democrat, Christian Social Union and Free Democrat negotiators had had no objections. Interflug would be absorbed by Lufthansa and would in effect cease to exist as a self-contained unit.

Lufthansa, 51.62 per cent of which is owned by the federal German government, said Tuesday it was not aware of any decision. German monopoly watchdogs have repeatedly said they would oppose a merger of the two state carriers because it would kill competition.

SAN SALVADOR (DEC. 18) - U.N. mediator Alvaro de Soto said Tuesday there were good prospects for a resumption of peace talks between the Salvadoran government and leftist guerrillas despite a month-old rebel offensive.

Mr. de Soto, who met here Tuesday with President Alfredo Cristiani, denied that the rebel offensive had put in jeapordy the year-long talks on ending this country's 11-year-old civil war.

"I think the opposite is true," he said. "I think the two sides have reiterated their intention to continue the negotiating process."

The last round of talks were held in September. They were due to resume in Caracas, Venezuela, at the end of November, but were suspended after guerrillas launched an offensive November 20 in which hundreds of people have died.

Despite the renewed violence, said Mr. de Soto, "the prospects for a future direct encounter between the sides are good, and at any moment a new meeting could be held."

He suggested that the two sides might meet "without our announcing it," but he declined to comment on reports of possible secret meetings in Mexico between the government and the guerrrillas.

Mr. de Soto's visit comes a day after the Central American presidents denounced the guerrilla offensive and called on the rebels to establish a cease-fire immediately.

The presidents also called on the United Nations to investigate the origins of surface-to-air missiles used by the rebels. Mr. de Soto said such a request would have to be examined.

NEW YORK, UNITED NATIONS (DEC. 18) - Members of the U.N. Security Council held informal discussions Tuesday on a compromise proposal for an international peace conference on the Middle East.

The draft sponsored by Finland calls for a declaration by the Security Council presidency calling for an international peace conference on the Mideast at an appropriate moment and with an adequate structure.

The presidential declaration, which unlike a Security Council resolution is not binding on U.N. member states, also would stipulate that the Arab-Israeli conflict and Iraq's invasion should be dealt with separately.

The draft resolution also would deplore the Israeli Government's decision to resume deportations of Palestinians from the occupied territories and asks Jerusalem to accept "de jure" the applicability of the Geneva Convention to the population of the territories.

The Finnish draft is an attempt to overcome U.S. opposition to a resolution proposed by Colombia, Cuba, Malaysia and Yemen that directly calls for an international peace conference on the Mideast.

But the non-aligned countries said they had made all the concessions they were going to make, and it was now the United States' turn, diplomats said.

The United States, hoping to avoid using a veto against such a resolution at a time when it needs Arab support in the Gulf, has so far succeeded in delaying a Security Council vote on a Mideast resolution.

The issue of a resolution on the Palestinian question has been under debate within the Security Council for nearly six weeks.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) - The Mobil Oil Corp. Tuesday confirmed reports that it had begun talks with Vietnam to resume drilling operations in that country and said the discussions had the full approval of the U.S. Government.

Mobil pulled out of Vietnam shortly after communist forces reunified that country by force in 1975. Since then, the United States has maintained a crippling trade embargo against Vietnam.

"We can confirm that conversations have been held with Vietnam regarding an offshore block in the South China Sea ... currently operated by the Soviet-Vietnamese joint venture, Vietsovpetrol," said Mike Morgan, a Mobil spokesman.

The discussions, first reported Monday in the Asian edition of the Wall Street Journal, centered on Mobil participation in the Vietnamese-Soviet joint venture, which is pumping oil in the block explored years ago by the U.S. oil company.

Mobil, which is based in suburban Washington, was one of several U.S. oil companies which bought concessions from the now defunct South Vienamese Government in the 1970's. It was the only one to strike oil and to begin drilling.

"Mobil is cooperating and coordinating with the State Department and other federal departments to make sure that any company action relating to Vietnam is discussed with and supported by the U.S. Government," Mr. Morgan said.

The United States has said it is prepared to establish diplomatic ties with Hanoi and lift the trade embargo once a Cambodian peace settlement is fully implemented and once Hanoi provides a full accounting of U.S. servicemen missing in action during the Vietnam war.

Vietnamese officials believe Mobil participation in Vietsovpetrol could help boost production in the offshore block because of superior U.S. drilling technology and the tehcnical data devloped earlier by Mobil.

AMMAN (DEC. 18) - Jordan's Prime Minister Mudar Badran said Tuesday that Syria pledged to defend Jordan if it was attacked by Israel as part of a Gulf confrontation, parliamentary sources said.

They said that during a two-hour closed session of parliament, Badran told the house that Syria ''agreed to coordinate with Jordan in the case there was a war in the Gulf and Israel used the war to attack Jordan''.

Badran was briefing the house on the outcome of his Gulf crisis talks Monday in Damascus with President Hafez Assad.

Jordan fears that Israeli forces may try to cross Jordanian territory to engage with Iraqi forces if war broke out between Iraq and the U.S.-led multinational forces deployed in the Arabian Peninsula.

Badran said the Syrians said they considered ''any attack against Jordan as an attack against Syria'', and that they were prepared to ''coordinate to protect our common front against Israeli threats''.

Jordan is increasingly worried that Israel may use the cover of a Gulf war to overrun Jordan in order to mass deport Palestinians in the occupied West Bank and Gaza as a measure aimed at accommodating more Soviet and other Jews into Israel and the occupied territories.

Members of parliament said the prime minister gave a positive impression about his talks in Damascus despite differences between the two countries over the Gulf criis.

While Syria sent troops to join multinational forcess in the Gulf, Jordan strongly opposed a military option to resolve the crisis and called for withdrawal of foreign troops from the region.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) - U.S. nuclear weapons could explode accidentally, a scientific report to Congress said here Tuesday.

The study recommended that more modern safety devices be fitted to the nuclear warheads. It found only one quarter were equipped with detonators made of low-sensitivity explosives.

''The majority of the weapons in the current stockpile will have to be modified to meet (demanding safety standards), unless they are retired,'' said the study, which was based on computer studies of what could go wrong with the weapons in a disaster.

''A major consequence of these results is a realisation that unintended nuclear detonations present a greater risk than previously estimated and believed for some of the warheads in the stockpile.''

Defence Department spokesman Pete Williams said of nuclear-weapon safety: ''We give it the highest priority.'' A senior Pentagon official is to study how to carry out the report's recommendations.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) - Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter warned Tuesday that the European Community (EC) risked major political and economic damage by refusing to agree at world trade talks to cut farm subsidies.

Mr. Yeutter told reporters he was not optimistic about the chances of succes of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) negotiations, which collapsed in Brussels December 7 after the EC refused to compromise on agriculture price supports and export subsidies.

"I'm pessimistic about the potential outcome (of the talks) so long as the community maintains its present intransigent stance," he said.

However, Mr. Yeutter said he found some signs that the EC may reassess its position, adding that he found the community to be "very embarrassed by what happened in Brussels."

The EC "will probably not concede that publicly, but the fact is they suffered a major geopolitical defeat in Brussels, with essentially all of the world leaving with dissatisfaction and disappointment in the EC position."

He predicted that the EC would run out of its allotted funds trying to maintain price supports and export subsidies.

"We'll be spending more money, too, of course, and we'll have to find the financial resources to do that, and a lot of other countries will, as well," he said in a telephone interview with broadcasters.

Declining to comment on what specific trade actions the United States might take if trade talks fail, Mr. Yeutter said, "I want them to be uncertain about what our response would be -- and a bit frightened by the potential."

LONDON (DEC. 18) - International refusal to budge on United Nations resolutions against Iraq is "counter-productive", Jordanian Crown Prince Hassan said in an interview with BBC television here Tuesday.

"To be prepared to have the whole region erupt and Iraq devastated simply because one will not discuss the U.N. resolutions is, I think, a tough and counter-productive position to take", he said.

The U.N. Security Council last month passed a resolution authorising the use of force against Iraq if it fails to withdraw from Kuwait by January 15.

The crown prince said he doubted there would be a negotiated settlement in the Gulf crisis. "At the moment, I think we are set for war", he said. "Rationally I can't see anything up front indicating anything else".

If proposed talks failed to take place between the United States and Iraq, "confrontation is invited and any incident in early January could trigger that".

Jordan, while officially backing U.N. sanctions against Iraq, has been among Arab countries showing most sympathy to Baghdad.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) - President George Bush congratulated the European Community (EC) Tuesday for showing solidarity in refusing to meet with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tarek Aziz before he comes here for talks.

But Mr. Bush said there was still no agreement on a date for Secretary of State James Baker to meet with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein in Baghdad or for Mr. Aziz to meet with Mr. Bush in Washington.

Vice President Dan Quayle said, "unfortunately Iraq's attempt to manipulate this process makes it far from certain these meetings will take place."

German Foreign Affairs Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher said Tuesday the EC had rebuffed an offer by Iraq to engage in discussions independent from efforts to begin talks in Washington and Baghdad.

"It shows a real solidarity," Mr. Bush said during a news conference with regional U.S. reporters. He noted the Baghdad offer to the EC was a "temptation" and a test of its solidarity.

"I still want to see a peaceful solution" to the Gulf crisis, Mr. Bush said, adding, "I do not want war as an option." But he said there would not be "one single concession."

Meanwhile, the Defense Department reported Tuesday that some 10,000 U.S. troops dispatched last week have arrived in the Gulf, pushing total U.S. force strength in the region to 270,000 troops.

The Defense Department said that despite snow in Europe, the deployment was on target or ahead of schedule for the Gulf where the United States and its allies are facing an estimated 510,000 Iraqi troops.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) - President George Bush said Tuesday an international peacekeeping force will be needed in the Gulf if and when the Gulf crisis is resolved.

In a televised press conference, the U.S. president said the peace-keeping force would stabilise the volatile region and check any build-up of nuclear weapons.

''There's a problem if U.S. forces stay on the ground,'' the U.S. president said, although a U.S. marine presence was another matter, and would continue to ply Gulf waters as it has since 1949.

Bush said the details of a peace-keeping force would be the subject of ''big discussions'' among the United States and its coalition partners at some time in the future.

Asked why U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar should not be talking with Iraq instead of Secretary of State James Baker, Bush said the U.N. chief felt a second mission would be futile.

Bush recounted that Perez, during a recent meeting in Paris, had said to him: ''If I felt we could make some progress within my mandate, then I would try again.''

The secretary-general met in Amman with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz in August, but was unable to convince the country to let go of Kuwait or release foreign hostages.

''It isn't that people haven't tried (to make talks work),'' Bush said. ''Saddam Hussein is still referring to a nation that is a member of the Arab League, a nation that is a member of the United Nations, as the '19th Province'.''

The U.S. president said he had ''no news'' to relay on any developments in efforts to set a date with Iraq for Aziz to come to Washington and for Baker to fly to Baghdad.

Asked if Baker might be more successful in his talks with Saddam if the two countries ever agree on dates for bilateral talks, Bush said, ''I'm not sure he will.''

''But if he can convince Saddam Hussein of the truth,'' he said, ''it will be worth the trip.''

ISTANBUL (DEC. 18) - A former official of Turkey's National Intelligence Organisation (Mit) was killed in front of a shop he owned here Tuesday, police said, and a communist group claimed responsibility.

Firdi Tamir, 53, the deputy chief interrogator at the Mit's Istanbul office until 1983, was reportedly killed by three gunmen using guns fitted with silencers.

An anonymous phone call put to a daily newspaper claimed the murder was carried out by the Turkish Workers' and Peasants' Liberation Army Tikko, the military wing of the Marxist-Leninist Communist Party.

The victim was the second high-ranking Mit official killed this year. In September, Hiram Abas, the chief executive of the organisation, was shot dead in his car.

WARSAW (DEC. 18) - President-elect Lech Walesa has proposed enrolling more police to fight a surge in crime in Poland by, the PAP news agency said Tuesday.

Meeting a delegation headed by national police chief Leszek Lamparski in the northern city of Gdansk, Mr. Walesa urged "young people to join the police to keep people safer, particularly in the cities".

Because of increased crime and delinquency, police patrols in the streets should be reinforced by sending in military police officers and even some conscripts, he said.

Crime jumped 15.2 per cent from 1988 to 1989 nationwide, while the number of police declined. Warsaw is short of 3,000 police, almost one-third of its full strength.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) - A group of Middle East analysts cautioned here Tuesday that an all-out war to evict Iraqi forces from Kuwait could demolish what little is left of the tiny emirate.

Anthony Cordesman, a Middle East analyst who specialises in military questions said a worst-case scenario would be house-to-house battles in downtown Kuwait City.

Civilians would bear the brunt of the casualties, he said, and the attackers could suffer 7,000 to 10,000 wounded, 10 percent of them fatalities.

Cordesman said it would take a special fire-fighter team two weeks to put out an oil-field fire, and there are only two such teams in the world. Iraq has threatened to attack and destroy oil fields in the event of war, and Kuwait has 1,000 oil wells.

But Cordesman, in a conference sponsored by the Philadelphia-based Foreign Policy Research Institute, dismissed fears of Iraqi ballistic missiles, saying they were inaccurate and carried only a small payload.

Another Middle East expert, Andrew Whitely of the human rights group Middle East Watch, said the situation in Kuwait has already been ''a catastrophe'' in human terms.

Kuwait's 600,000 to 700,000 population has dropped to 200,000 since the August invasion, he said. Infant mortality has doubled, and 3,000 Kuwaitis are still in Iraqi detention, many of them tortured.

Whitely said there were indications that Iraq has tried to curb the brutality of its troops, but in one account, 24 people were shot because they refused to hang portraits of Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein in their places of work.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) - U.S. Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and General Colin Powell, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, left Tuesday for Saudi Arabia, where they were to meet with U.S. military commanders and Saudi officials.

A Pentagon official said Mr. Cheney and Gen. Powell would arrive in Riyadh Wednesday for two days of strategy meetings with General Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of U.S. forces in the region.

They may also meet with Saudi King Fahd, then spend two days with troops on the ground before returning to Washington, the official said.

He said Mr. Cheney and Gen. Powell wanted to make sure the 270,000 U.S. troops in the Gulf were well-equipped in case President George Bush ordered an attack on Iraq before the January 15 deadline for withdrawing from Kuwait.

"It's certainly not decision time or anything like that but they want to look to the future and see first hand what's in place," the official said, noting that it is the first trip to the region that Mr. Cheney and Gen. Powell made together.

"It's the first time the major players have all been able to sit down face-to-face in some time," the official said.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) - President George Bush Tuesday said efforts to arrange talks with Baghdad were deadlocked and he lauded international support for the January 15 deadline for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait.

"We're coming down toward this U.N.-mandated deadline. I still want a peaceful solution to this question. I do not want war as an option. I want peace as an option," Mr. Bush told reporters.

He said talk of war "will probably intensify" as the deadline approaches, adding, "I want to still talk about (hope for) a peaceful solution to this question and that means making (Iraqi President) Saddam Hussein understand what's at stake."

But no date has yet been set for Secretary of State James Baker to meet with Mr. Hussein in Baghdad or for Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz to meet with Mr. Bush in Washington, the president said.

Mr. Aziz was originally to meet with Mr. Bush on Monday but the talks were cancelled until an acceptable date for Mr. Baker to go to Baghdad could be arranged.

Washington had proposed 15 dates between December 20 and January 3 but refused Iraq's proposed January 12 meeting for Mr. Baker, arguing there would not be enough time for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait by the January 15 deadline.

Vice Presdient Dan Quayle said, "unfortunately Iraq's attempt to manipulate this process makes it far from certain these meetings will take place."

But Mr. Bush said he would "keep trying to find an answer" to the deadlock but he did not repeat that a meeting between Mr. Baker and Mr. Hussein should take place before January 3.

WASHNGTON, (DEC 18) - The Interstate Commerce Commission Tuesday banned smoking on all regularly scheduled interstate bus routes within the United States.

The ban will go into effect as soon as it can be published in the Federal Register, ICC spokesman A. Dennis Watson said.

Exceptions will be made on chartered buses on which the chartering group agrees to smoke, he said.

"Smokers can refrain from smoking for several hours and light up at bus stops, but non-smokers cannot similarly refrain from breathing," said John Banzhaf, executive director of Action on Smoking and Health, which pushed the regulations.

Federal regulations already ban smoking on most domestic airline flights.

THE HAGUE (DEC. 19) - The Dutch Government announced late Tuesday that it would supply 20.5 million dollars worth of eight-inch grenades to the United States and Britain as a contribution to the international military effort in the Gulf.

Foreign Minister Hans van den Broek and Defense Minister Relus ter Beek made the offer in a letter to the lower house of parliament.

The two ministers said they had also offered, for sale this time, a further quantity of unspecified munitions valued at between 58.8 and 88.2 million dollars.

The Netherlands is also to step up its naval presence in the Gulf region, placing at the disposal of the United States a rescue and firefighting vessel. This followed a request by Washington for Dutch knowhow in this field.

The Dutch company Smit-Tak, world renowned for sea rescues, reached an agreement with the U.S. Navy for supplying the ship, and the Dutch authorities said they would pay some 900,000 dollars for the mission.

The two ministers said the Dutch contribution to the international military effort against Iraq in the Gulf region included the following:

-- Two frigates that have been taking part in the naval blockade of Iraq since August. Cost for the defense ministry in 1990: 35.3 million dollars.

-- Delivery to Turkey of 50,000 protective suits against chemical warfare. Cost: 23.5 million dollars.

-- The Netherlands has offered facilities including up to 700 men to load huge quantities of military material in Rotterdam, including 1,000 M1A1 tanks, headed for the Gulf region.

TOKYO (DEC. 19) - Japan and the United States were still wide apart on relaxing foreign access to Japan's legal market, Japanese officials said Wednesday.

During two days of working-level negotiations which ended here Tuesday, Japan rejected a U.S. request that American and other foreign legal firms based here be allowed to hire Japanese attorneys, they said.

Japan was also unwilling to yield on the question of allowing joint partnerships with foreigners in domestic law firms.

Japan allowed foreign lawyers to start working here in April 1987 but they are currently confined to matters pertaining to their national laws.

The Tokyo meeting followed similar bilateral talks held in Washington in October.

The U.S. side expressed the hope that negotiations would resume in early January but the Japanese side has not yet reached a decision on the matter, the officials said.

SYDNEY (DEC. 19) - Police briefly detained seven Greenpeace campaigners who draped a huge pair of inflatable sunglasses on Sydney Opera House Wednesday as a warning about ozone depletion.

Greenpeace spokeswoman Michelle Grosvenor said that "our purpose was to draw attention to the increase in eye disease caused by the depletion of the ozone layer."

Ms. Grosvenor said that seven experienced mountaineers scaled the Opera House at sunrise and hung a pair of 70-foot (21.5 metres) sunglasses across the side which faces Sydney harbour.

The sunglasses carried the slogan "Ozone depletion: stop it or we'll go blind." They were hung from the largest of the building's distinctive "sails" in full view of commuters arriving by early morning ferry.

The sunglasses remained in place for about an hour "before the police pulled the plug on our portable generator and they deflated," Ms. Grosvenor said.

The seven activists, who included Greg Mortimer, the first Australian to climb Mt Everest, were later released without being charged.

Citing statistics compiled by the United Nations Environment Programme, Ms. Grosvenor said: "for every one percent loss in ozone levels, 100,000 people worldwide will go blind."

People lost their sight because of increased ultra-violet radiation, she explained, adding that children were particularly at risk.

The ozone layer, which acts as a shield against ultra-violet radiation, began to deteriorate several years ago.

RABAT (DEC. 19) - Morocco's opposition parties late Tuesday refused to participate in a government-appointed commission to investigate last week's riots in Fez and elsewhere, saying the panel was bound to whitewash the government's actions.

The commission, the heads of the four opposition parties claimed in a joint statement, "will simply become a channel through which the government will send what it wants."

Instead, they called for a panel "entirely independent from the government."

Prime Minister Azzedine Laraki had announced that the panel would be led by the supreme court chief judge and made up of one member from each political party as well as senior government officials.

In Rabat, 34 persons were charged Monday with various crimes in connection with the riots Saturday and Sunday that accompanied a general strike called to protest eroding living standards in the North African kingdom.

Another 52 persons arrested in Fez, the former royal capital where the most violent riots occurred, were scheduled to be charged Wednesday.

DHAKA (DEC. 19) - With the ink hardly dry on president Hussain Mohammad Ershad's resignation, Bangladesh this week stopped celebrating his fall and threw itself into campaigning for the March 2 elections.

Loudspeakers began blasting Dhaka streets Monday with the political slogans of the bitterly antagonistic parties running for dominance of the 300-member parliament.

But behind the scenes, politicians who buried their differences to oust Mr. Ershad worried whether the heat of campaigning would shatter the current widespread sentiment of cooperation.

Some smaller political parties have sounded the alarm and come out against holding the polls at all, predicting that campaign violence could lose all that has been gained.

One left-wing party, the small Freedom Party and the more formidable fundamentalist Jamaqat-I-Islami have all called for elections to be put off, saying national consensus, not a free-for-all election fight, is what the country needs now

The political brains behind the leading political alliances disagree, saying the violence in recent polls was instigated by the Ershad government.

But even those most optimistic about the likelihood of Mr. Ershad's ouster being translated into the democracy that has eluded Bangladesh since independence in 1971 are taking no chances.

"We are thinking of forming multi-party citizens committees" to help ensure that polling goes smoothly, said Kamal Hussain, an Awami League leader and a one-time presidential candidate who served prominantly on the liaison committee that kept warring opposition parties united in the oust-Ershad movement.

The 53-year-old Oxford trained lawyer who helped draft Bangladesh's first conmstitution in 1972 said the the country's 20,000 lawyers could play a key role in such committees.

He also said the liaison committee showed no sign of disintegrating and that it was operating on the same inter-party code of conduct which was successful in molding the oust-Ershad movement.

TOKYO (DEC. 19) - Japan's mammoth trading company Mitsui and Co. Ltd. said Wednesday it and Unisys Corp., the third-largest U.S. computer maker, have received an order for a large mainframe computer and related software from the Czech central bank.

The two companies are to sign the 6.6-million-dollar contract for the machine with the Czech bank, Statni Banaka, in Prague Wednesday, Mitsui officials said.

It will be the first time a western general purpose computer has been sold to an Eastern bloc central bank, as the large computers have been under heavy restrictions from the Paris-based Coordinating Committee for Export Controls (COCOM).

Under the contract, Mitsui is to deliver the Unisys A-16 system to the Czech central bank to be used for modernizing the clearance system for the central and city banks.

LONDON (DEC. 18) EFE - British and Albanian representatives Tuesday opened a two-day session of talks aimed at restoring diplomatic relations between the two countries.

The meetings, taking place at the British and Albanian missions in Geneva, were first requested by Albania, according to British Foreign Office sources.

Britain is the only western European nation not to have diplomatic relations with Albania.

The British Embassy was closed in 1939 when Italy invaded and Albania was united with the Italian crown.

The major stumbling block to the restoration of ties has been the "Corfu Channel" case.

In 1946, two Royal Navy warships were sunk by mines in the straits between Albania and the Greek island of Corfu.

Although Albania has always denied responsibility, the International Court in the Hague found in Britain's favour and ordered compensation of more than dlrs 1.5 million.

Albania has always refused to pay this amount, claiming Britain still holds gold valued at a similar amount seized by the Nazis at the end of World War II.

The impoverished Baltic state has seen violent demonstrations during the past year, and is seeking to end its international isolation as part of its moves towards democracy.

(ACCORDING TO OECD EXTERNAL DEBT TABLES ISSUED EARLIER, INDIA'S EXTERNAL DEBT AND LIABILITIES OUTSTANDING AT THE END OF 1989 STOOD AT 69.695 BILLION DOLLARS AGAINST 68.345 BILLION DOLLARS AT THE END OF 1988.)

THE WORLD BANK FIGURES SHOW THAT WHILE INTEREST PAYMENTS ON INDIA'S FOREIGN DEBT ACCOUNTED FOR 3.031 BILLION U.S. DOLLARS IN 1988, FOR 1989 THEY ABSORBED 3.434 BILLION DOLLARS.

INDIA'S DEBT SERVICE RATIO (IN RELATION TO EXPORT OF GOODS AND SERVICES) WENT DOWN IN 1989 TO 26.3 PERCENT AGAINST 28.9 PERCENT IN 1988. IN 1987, THE RATIO WAS 29 PERCENT AND IN 1986, IT WAS 31.6 PERCENT, ACCORDING TO THE BANK.

INDIA'S EXPORT OF GOODS AND SERVICES WENT UP IN 1989 TO 24.191 BILLION U.S. DOLLARS AS AGAINST 21.431 BILLION DOLLARS IN THE PREVIOUS YEAR, BUT IN THE SAME PERIOD IMPORTS ALSO WENT UP FROM 30.475 BILLION TO 32.229 BILLION DOLLARS THE BANK SAID.

INDIA'S GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT, THE SUM TOTAL OF GOODS AND SERVICES PRODUCED IN THE NATION, SHRANK FROM 267.208 BILLION U.S. DOLLARS IN 1988 TO 262.089 BILLION DOLLARS IN 1989 (BASED ON THE RATE OF ONE DOLLAR EQUALS TO 18.05 RUPEES), ACCORDING TO THE BANK.

BRUSSELS (DEC. 18) XINHUA - THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITY PASSED YESTERDAY A DIRECTIVE TO BAR ITS BANKS AND FINANCIAL UNITS FROM PROFITING BY "LAUNDERING" MONEY OF DRUG TRAFFICING.

THE DIRECTIVE STIPULATES THAT BANKS AND FINANCIAL ORGANIZATIONS IN THE EC MEMBER COUNTRIES MUST ANNOUNCE THEIR GOVERNMENTS WHEN THEY MEET DOUBTFUL TRADE. MOREOVER, BANKS HAVE DUTIES TO CHECK THEIR IDENTITIES IF THE SAVING ACCOUNT OF SHORT-TERM DEPOSITORS INCREASES 15,000 ECUS (ABOUT 20,000 DOLLARS) AT A TIME.

AS AN APPENDIX OF THE DIRECTIVE, THE EC 12 FINANCE MINISTERS MADE A JOINT STATEMENT THAT "LAUNDERING" MONEY OF DRUG DEALING IS ILLGAL.

THE EC ESTIMATES THAT EC BANKS AND FINANCIAL ORGANIZATIONS CAN RECIEVE 16 BILLION DOLLARS EVERY YEAR FROM "LAUNDERING" MONEY. ALL INDUSTRIALISED COUNTRIES CAN MAKE A PROFIT OF 120 BILLION DOLLARS FROM " LAUNDERING" EACH YEAR.

AT PRESENT, ONLY FRANCE, LUXEMBOURG AND BRITAIN OUT OF THE EC 12 COUNTRIES HAVE THE LAWS TO BAN BANKS "LAUNDERING" MONEY.

CAIRO (DEC. 18) XINHUA - SOVIET WORKERS IN IRAQ CAN LEAVE WHENEVER THEY WANT EVEN IF THEIR CONTRACTS HAVE NOT EXPIRED, AN IRAQI OFFICIAL SAID IN BAGHDAD TODAY.

RADIO BAGHDAD QUOTED HUSSEIN KAMAL, IRAQ'S MINISTER OF INDUSTRY AND MILITARY INDUSTRIALIZATION, AS GIVING THE ASSURANCES TO MLADIMIR MORDVINOV, A VISITING DEPUTY MINISTER IN THE SOVIET MINISTRY OF FOREIGN ECONOMIC RELATIONS.

"IRAQ ALLOWS THE EXPERTS WORKING IN THE COUNTRY TO LEAVE IF THEY SO WISH IRRESPECTIVE OF THE EXPIRY DATE OF THEIR CONTRACTS," KAMAL SAID.

MORDVINOV TRAVELED TO BAGHDAD TO WORK OUT THE DETAILS OF PROBLEMS OVER THE CONTRACT ISSUE THAT ONE SOVIET DIPLOMAT ACCUSED IRAQ OF MAKING USE TO DELAY THE DEPARTURE OF 2,565 SOVIET WORKERS STILL IN IRAQ.

IRAQ'S RULING REVOLUTIONARY COMMAND COUNCIL DECIDED ON DECEMBER 4 THAT ALL THE SOVIET WORKERS IN IRAQ COULD LEAVE. BUT IT DEMANDED THAT MOSCOW COMPENSATE IRAQ FOR ENDING THEIR WORK CONTRACTS.

MOSCOW SAID THERE WERE STILL 3,316 SOVIETS IN IRAQ ON DECEMBER 4 WHEN IRAQ'S REVOLUTIONARY COMMAND COUNCIL MADE ITS DECISION. IT SAID THAT 751

SOVIETS HAD LEFT IRAQ ON FOUR PLANE FLIGHTS SINCE THEN.

LONDON (DEC. 18) XINHUA - BRITAIN'S AMBASSADOR TO IRAQ HAROLD WALKER SAID TODAY THAT A PARTIAL WITHDRAWAL BY IRAQ FROM KUWAIT IS VERY MUCH ON THE CARDS.

WALKER, WHO RETURNED TO LONDON LAST THURSDAY, TOLD A PRESS CONFERENCE, IRAQI PRESIDENT SADDAM HUSSEIN WAS A CLEVER LEADER AND WOULD NOT WAIT FOR THE U.N. DEADLINE TO EXPIRE, BUT WOULD INITIATE MOVES.

THE U.N. SECURITY COUNCIL ADOPTED A RESOLUTION SETTING THE JANUARY 15 DEADLINE FOR IRAQ TO PULL OUT OF KUWAIT, WHICH IT INVADED ON AUGUST 2.

"ONE THING I FEEL STRONGLY IS THAT HE (PRESIDENT HUSSEIN) WILL NOT JUST WAIT AND SEE WHAT THE SUPPORTERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS WILL DO," WALKER SAID.

HE SAID PRESIDENT HUSSEIN WILL OFFER "MOVES OF HIS OWN" AND A PARTIAL WITHDRAWAL IS "ONE OF THE POSSIBILITIES."

WALKER'S REMARKS FALL IN LINE WITH MONDAY'S WARNING BY U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES BAKER THAT PRESIDENT HUSSEIN MIGHT ORDER SOME OF HIS TROOPS TO WITHDRAW FROM KUWAIT TO AVERT WAR AND TO TRY TO SPLIT THE WESTERN GULF ALLIANCE.

BRITAIN, WHICH COMMITTED FIGHT AIRCRAFT, WARSHIPS, TANKS AND NEARLY 30,000 TROOPS TO THE U.S.-LED MULTI-NATIONAL FORCE IN THE GULF, IS ADAMENT THAT IRAQ WITHDRAW IMMEDIATELY, COMPLETELY AND UNCONDITIONALLY WITH THE LEGITIMATE GOVERNMENT OF KUWAIT RESTORED.

MINISTER OF STATE FOR FOREIGN OFFICE DOUGLAS HOGG, WHO ACCOMPANIED WALKER AT THE PRESS CONFERENCE, SAID PARTIAL WITHDRAWAL IS NOT AN ANSWER TO THE CRISIS.

"IF HE DOESN'T COMPLY FULLY BY JANUARY 15, HE IS CLEARLY AT RISK OF BEING DRIVEN OUT BY FORCE AND THIS MEANS THE POSSIBILITY OF WAR," HOGG SAID.

WALKER, AFTER CONSULTATION WITH THE FOREIGN OFFICE ON THE GULF CRISIS, WILL RETURN TO BAGHDAD ON DECEMBER 28.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) KYODO - NIPPON IDOU TSUSHIN CORP. ON TUESDAY APPLIED FOR APPROVAL FROM THE MINISTRY OF POSTS AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS TO START CELLULAR PHONE SERVICES NEXT OCTOBER IN TOKYO, USING A U.S. SYSTEM MADE BY MOTOROLA INC., COMPANY OFFICIALS SAID.

THE OFFICIALS SAID THE FIRM PLANS TO COMPLETE CONSTRUCTION OF FACILITIES SUPPORTING MOTOROLA'S MICROTAC CELLULAR PHONE IN TOKYO'S 23 WARDS AROUND THAT TIME.

THE COMPANY PLANS TO EXPAND SERVICE TO TOKYO'S HACHIOJI AND SAITAMA PREFECTURE'S AGEO BY APRIL 1992, AT WHICH TIME TOTAL CAPITAL INVESTMENT WILL AMOUNT TO ABOUT 10 BILLION YEN, THEY SAID.

MOTOROLA'S MICROTAC HAS BEEN POPULAR IN THE KANSAI AREA IN WESTERN JAPAN, WITH ORDERS RUNNING TWICE THE AVAILABLE SUPPLY.

JAPAN'S NEW COMMON CARRIERS LIKE DAINI-DENDEN INC., TELEWAY JAPAN CORP., AND OTHERS HAVE ADAPTED THEIR CELLULAR PHONE SERVICES TO SUPPORT THE U.S. MAKER'S PHONE.

RECENTLY, NIPPON TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE CORP. (NTT) ANNOUNCED THAT IT HAD DEVELOPED A CELLULAR TELEPHONE SMALLER THAN THE MICROTAC, WHICH HAD, UNTIL THEN, BEEN THE LIGHTEST AND SMALLEST PORTABLE PHONE ON THE MARKET.

THE JAPANESE PHONE WILL GO ON SALE IN TOKYO ABOUT SIX MONTHS AHEAD OF THE U.S. MAKER'S MODEL.

ORIGINALLY, MOTOROLA WAS LIMITED TO SELLING THEIR PORTABLE PHONES IN THE KANSAI REGION, EXCLUDING MAJOR CITIES, BECAUSE THEIR PHONE SYSTEM WAS INCOMPATIBLE WITH NTT'S SYSTEM.

HOWEVER, AN AGREEMENT BETWEEN JAPANESE AND THE U.S. GOVERNMENTS TO OPEN JAPAN'S DIGITAL COMMUNICATIONS MARKET IN APRIL HAS OPENED THE WAY FOR MOTOROLA TO OFFER ITS PORTABLE PHONE IN THE TOKYO REGION.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) KYODO - THE MINISTRY OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND INDUSTRY SAID TUESDAY IT HAS APPROVED RESUMPTION OF C FUEL OIL EXPORTS TO TAIWAN AND SOUTH KOREA AFTER A LAPSE OF 10 YEARS.

THE MINISTRY'S NATURAL RESOURCES AND ENERGY AGENCY SAID 40,000 TONS OF MIDDLE SULFUR C OIL WITH MORE THAN 1.0 PERCENT SULFUR CONTENT WILL BE DESTINED FOR TAIWAN AND 35,000 TONS FOR SOUTH KOREA.

SHIPMENTS WILL BE MADE BY MAJOR JAPANESE OIL REFINER-DISTRIBUTOR IDEMITSU KOSAN CO., AGENCY OFFICIALS SAID.

THE AGENCY SAID APPROVAL OF THE SALE STEMMED FROM THE JUDGMENT THAT JAPAN'S DOMESTIC SUPPLY-DEMAND POSITION WOULD NOT BE AFFECTED.

JAPAN HAS SUSPENDED EXPORT OF FUEL OIL SINCE THE SECOND OIL CRISIS IN 1980, WHEN ABOUT 190,000 KILOLITERS WERE SOLD OVERSEAS.

CRUDE FUEL OIL IS PRODUCED AS A BY-PRODUCT IN PROCESSING CRUDE OIL INTO KEROSENE AND GAS OIL.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) KYODO - JAPAN MAY FACE A TIGHT ENERGY SUPPLY SITUATION IN THE YEAR TO MARCH 1993 IF DEMAND CONTINUES TO RISE AT THE CURRENT HIGH PACE, THE JAPAN INSTITUTE OF ENERGY ECONOMICS PREDICTED TUESDAY.

THE PRIVATE RESEARCH INSTITUTION SAID ITS PREDICTION WAS BASED ON THREE DIFFERENT CRUDE OIL PRICE SCENARIOS -- STAYING AT 20-22 DOLLARS, FALLING TO 16 DOLLARS PER BARREL AND SURGING TO 40 DOLLARS PER BARREL.

THE INSTITUTE SAID DEMAND FOR ENERGY IS EXPECTED TO GROW AT AN ANNUAL AVERAGE OF 3.7 PERCENT FROM FISCAL 1990 TO 1992, FAR ABOVE THE GOVERNMENT'S ESTIMATE OF 1.8 PERCENT THROUGH THE YEAR 2000.

IT PREDICTED JAPAN'S REAL ECONOMIC GROWTH WILL RECOVER TO THE 4.0 PERCENT LEVEL IN FISCAL 1992 AFTER A FALL TO ABOUT 3.0 PERCENT IN FISCAL 1991, BOOSTING DEMAND FOR ENERGY.

THE INSTITUTE SAID CAPACITY UTILIZATION AT OIL REFINERIES WOULD REACH A HIGH 81 PERCENT IN FISCAL 1992, MAKING IT HARD FOR OIL FIRMS TO MAINTAIN A STABLE SUPPLY OF CRUDE TO REFINERS.

DEMAND ON THE ELECTRIC POWER INDUSTRY IS EXPECTED TO GROW 3.2 PERCENT IN FISCAL 1991 AND 4.3 PERCENT IN THE FOLLOWING YEAR, AGAINST AN ANNUAL GROWTH RATE OF 2.7 PERCENT PROJECTED BY THE GOVERNMENT, IT SAID.

IF CRUDE OIL PRICES FALL BELOW 20 DOLLARS PER BARREL, THE DEMAND FOR ENERGY WOULD SURGE, CAUSING A SUPPLY SHORTAGE, THE INSTITUTE SAID.

THE INSTITUTE URGED THE GOVERNMENT TO REVISE ITS SHORT-TERM PROJECTION FOR THE DEMAND-SUPPLY SITUATION.

SEOUL (DEC. 18) KYODO - NORTH KOREAN AUTHORITIES HAVE DECIDED TO OBLIGATE REPATRIATES, MOSTLY FROM JAPAN, TO BUY PETROLEUM PRODUCTS WITH FOREIGN CURRENCY AGAINST A BACKGROUND OF SERIOUS OIL AND FOREIGN CURRENCY SHORTAGES, INFORMED SOURCES IN SEOUL SAID TUESDAY.

THE SOURCES SAID PYONGYANG WILL START THE NEW REGULATION JANUARY 1. NORTH KOREA WILL HAVE TO PURCHASE PETROLEUM PRODUCTS FROM THE SOVIET UNION WITH HARD CURRENCY BASED ON A NEW TRADE AGREEMENT FOR 1991 SCHEDULED TO BEGIN EARLY IN THE YEAR, THE SOURCES SAID.

THE SOVIET UNION, MAJOR OIL SUPPLIER TO NORTH KOREA, HAS SO FAR DELIVERED PETROLEUM PRODUCTS AT SOFT ROUBLE PRICES.

NORTH KOREA APPARENTLY FACES SERIOUS SHORTAGE, AS IT IS URGENTLY SEEKING SOME

1.2 MILLION TONS OF PETROLEUM PRODUCTS, THE SOURCES SAID.

THERE ARE APPROXIMATELY 100,000 REPATRIATES FROM JAPAN IN NORTH KOREA. THE NORTH KOREAN GOVERNMENT HAS TAKEN A DECISION TO SQUEEZE ALL THE FOREIGN CURRENCY FROM THESE REPATRIATES AFTER FINDING OUT THROUGH INVESTIGATIONS THAT FORMER RESIDENTS OF JAPAN HAVE ABOUT 1.5 MILLION YEN IN SAVINGS PER HOUSEHOLD, THE SOURCES SAID.

TOKYO (DEC. 19) KYODO - THE PERSIAN GULF CRISIS WILL MEAN HIGHER INFLATION AND LOWER GROWTH FOR MOST DEVELOPING COUNTRIES, THE TOKYO OFFICE OF THE WORLD BANK SAID WEDNESDAY.

''THE BALANCE OF PAYMENTS SHOCK FROM THE MIDDLE EAST CRISIS HAS PUT A SEVERE BURDEN ON DEBT-SERVICING CAPACITY -- ONE THAT, IF IT CONTINUES, COULD OFFSET MUCH OF THE PROGRESS THAT HAS BEEN MADE,'' IT SAID IN A REPORT ISSUED SIMULTANEOUSLY IN WASHINGTON AND TOKYO.

THE REPORT, ''WORLD DEBT TABLES 1990-1991,'' PROJECTED THAT BESIDES DIRECT EFFECTS DERIVING FROM THE CRISIS, SUCH AS HIGHER OIL PRICES, MOST DEVELOPING COUNTRIES WILL SUFFER LARGE FOREIGN EXCHANGE LOSSES DUE TO LOSSES OF WORKERS' REMITTANCES, EARNINGS FROM CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS, AND TOURISM.

THE WORLD BANK ESTIMATED THE TOTAL IMPACT OF THE CRISIS THIS YEAR ON THE OIL-IMPORTING DEVELOPING COUNTRIES AT ABOUT 3 PERCENT OF THEIR EXPORTS, OR

ABOUT 10 PERCENT OF DEBT-SERVICING OUTLAYS.

''LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES WILL BE HIT EVEN HARDER,'' IT SAID. THE REPORT SAID THE COMBINED IMPACT OF THE ASSUMED PATTERN OF OIL PRICES ON THE COST OF OIL IMPORTS, PLUS LOSSES ON REMITTANCES AND OTHER INTERNATIONAL TRANSACTIONS, TOGETHER WITH A 1.5 PERCENTAGE POINT RISE IN INTEREST RATES NEXT YEAR, IS EQUIVALENT TO AN AVERAGE 4 PERCENT OF EXPORTS AND 1 PERCENT OF GROSS DOMESTIC PRODUCT (GDP) PER YEAR FOR OIL IMPORTERS DURING THE THREE YEARS TO 1992.

THE ASSESSMENTS ARE BASED ON THE PREMISE THAT OIL WILL AVERAGE 25 DOLLARS PER BARREL THIS YEAR, RISE TO 29 DOLLARS IN 1991, AND FALL BACK TO 25 DOLLARS IN 1992.

BUT FOR SEVERELY INDEBTED LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES, INCLUDING SUDAN AND TANZANIA, THE IMPACT IS ESTIMATED AT MORE THAN 10 PERCENT OF EXPORTS AND ABOUT 1.7 PERCENT OF GDP IN 1991. MODERATELY INDEBTED LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES SUCH AS PAKISTAN, BANGLADESH, AND SRI LANKA, WILL BE HIT HARDER, WITH AN IMPACT EQUIVALENT TO 18 PERCENT OF EXPORTS AND 2.4 PERCENT OF GDP NEXT YEAR.

DEBTOR COUNTRIES ARE CLASSIFIED AS SEVERELY OR MODERATELY INDEBTED, BROKEN DOWN FURTHER INTO LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES -- THOSE WITH PER CAPITA GNP OF LESS THAN 580 DOLLARS LAST YEAR -- AND MIDDLE-INCOME COUNTRIES, WHERE PER CAPITA GNP WAS BETWEEN 580 AND 6,000 DOLLARS.

''MOST OF THE AFFECTED COUNTRIES WILL FIND IT DIFFICULT TO RAISE ADDITIONAL EXTERNAL FINANCE TO CUSHION THESE BALANCE OF PAYMENTS SHOCKS,'' IT SAID, AND SEVERELY INDEBTED NATIONS WILL NEED TO FURTHER REDUCE CONSUMPTION AND INVESTMENT SPENDING TO ABSORB THE HIGHER COST OF OIL IMPORTS.

OIL EXPORTERS AMONG SEVERELY INDEBTED COUNTRIES WILL BENEFIT SUBSTANTIALLY FROM THE OIL PRICE RISE, THE REPORT SAID. THE GAIN IS EXPECTED TO AMOUNT TO 20 PERCENT OF THEIR EXPORTS AND 6 PERCENT OF GDP NEXT YEAR.

THE GAIN WILL BE ESPECIALLY LARGE FOR THOSE WHICH CAN EXPAND PRODUCTION OF OIL SUCH AS VENEZUELA, NIGERIA, AND CONGO, AND THERE WILL ALSO BE SIGNIFICANT GAINS FOR MEXICO AND ECUADOR.

TOKYO (DEC. 19) KYODO - THE EXTERNAL DEBT OF DEVELOPING NATIONS IS SEEN TO INCREASE BY 6 PERCENT TO 1,341 BILLION DOLLARS THIS YEAR BUT THE ''CRISIS IS SOMEWHAT LESS SEVERE THAN TWO YEARS AGO,'' THE WORLD BANK SAID IN A REPORT ISSUED BY ITS TOKYO OFFICE WEDNESDAY.

INCREASED EXPORTS BY SOME DEVELOPING COUNTRIES SPARKED BY A BUOYANT WORLD ECONOMY THIS YEAR HAVE CONTRIBUTED TO AN IMPROVEMENT IN DEBT INDEXES, DESPITE HIGHER INTEREST RATES, THE BANK SAID IN THE REPORT ISSUED SIMULTANEOUSLY IN TOKYO AND WASHINGTON.

BY COMPARISON, THIRD WORLD DEBTS FELL 0.3 PERCENT LAST YEAR TO 1,261 BILLION DOLLARS, FOLLOWING A FALL OF 0.2 PERCENT TO 1,265 BILLION DOLLARS THE YEAR BEFORE.

THE REPORT SAID THE WORLD'S OVERALL GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT (GNP) ROSE 3.0 PERCENT LAST YEAR, FOLLOWING ITS GROWTH OF 4.1 PERCENT IN 1988. THESE FIGURES LED WORLD TRADE TO ADVANCE 7.3 PERCENT LAST YEAR AFTER A 9.1 PERCENT RISE IN 1988.

''THE BRADY INITIATIVE, EASING OF TERMS ON PARIS CLUB RESCHEDULINGS, CONTINUATION OF OTHER PROGRAMS OF DEBT RELIEF AND RESTRUCTURING,'' HAVE ALSO PLAYED A MAJOR ROLE TO EASE THE CRISES, THE BANK SAID.

THE REPORT, TITLED ''WORLD DEBT TABLES 1990-1991,'' SHOWED IMPROVEMENT IN TWO OF THE MOST COMMON DEBT INDICATORS, DEBT-EXPORT RATIO AND DEBT SERVICE RATIO.

THE BANK SAID IT PROJECTS THE DEBT-EXPORT RATIO OF THE DEVELOPING NATIONS WILL DECLINE BY ABOUT 2 PERCENT IN 1990, SUPPORTED BY THE EXPECTED 8.5 PERCENT GROWTH IN EXPORTS, WHILE THE INCREASE IN DEBT IS PUT AT 6.5 PERCENT RISE.

THE RATIO OF DEBT SERVICING TO EXPORTS HAD IMPROVED, PUSHING DOWN THE INDEX TO 22 IN 1989 FROM 27 IN 1988. THE BANK EXPECTS A FURTHER IMPROVEMENT IN THE FIGURE THIS YEAR.

THE BRADY THIRD WORLD DEBT RELIEF PLAN, IMPLEMENTED THIS YEAR IN THE PHILIPPINES, MEXICO, AND COSTA RICA, REDUCED COMMERCIAL BANK DEBT BY 9.5 BILLION DOLLARS THROUGH DEBT REDUCTION AND BUY-BACKS. THE SCHEDULED COMPLETION OF THE VENEZUELA OPERATION BEFORE THE END OF THIS YEAR WILL FURTHER LOWER THE DEBT BY 2 BILLION DOLLARS.

THE PLAN WAS INTRODUCED BY U.S. TREASURY SECRETARY NICHOLAS BRADY, WHO PROPOSED THAT COUNTRIES WITH SOUND ADJUSTMENT PROGRAMS SHOULD GET ACCESS TO DEBT AND DEBT-REDUCTION FACILITIES, SUPPORTED BY INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS AND OFFICIALS CREDITORS.

THE PARIS CLUB PROVIDED INCREASED DEBT-SERVICE RELIEF BY LENGTHENING MATURITIES AND GRACE PERIODS AND, FOR COUNTRIES THAT BELONG TO THE INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION (IDA), IT REDUCED INTEREST RATES AND DEBT STOCKS.

THE REPORT SAID THE RISE IN AVERAGE INTEREST COSTS WAS LARGELY OFFSET BY THE EASIER TERMS ON THE PARIS CLUB RESCHEDULINGS AND SOME OF THE NEW CONCESSIONAL LOANS, AS WELL AS BY THE INCREASING IMPORTANCE OF NONDOLLAR LOANS, WHICH CARRIED LOWER INTEREST RATES.

THE REPORT SAID CHILE AND COSTA RICA IMPROVED THEIR DEBT INDICATORS LAST YEAR

TO MOVE THEM OUT OF THE GROUP OF SEVERELY INDEBTED MIDDLE-INCOME COUNTRIES (SIMICS).

MIDDLE-INCOME COUNTRIES ARE THOSE WITH PER CAPITA GNP IN 1989 OF 580 TO 6,000 DOLLARS, WHILE LOW-INCOME COUNTRIES ARE THOSE WITH LESS THAN 580 DOLLARS. THEY ARE CLASSIFIED AS SEVERELY OR MODERATELY INDEBTED ACCORDING TO THEIR DEBT RATIO AGAINST FACTORS INCLUDING GNP.

CHILE SUCCEEDED IN AN EXTENSIVE PROGRAM OF DEBT-EQUITY SWAPS AND OTHER DEBT CONVERSIONS THAT REDUCED COMMERCIAL BANK DEBT BY 40 PERCENT BETWEEN 1985 AND 1989.

THE BANK SAID, HOWEVER, ''DESPITE THESE POSITIVE DEVELOPMENTS, THE DEBT CRISIS IS NOT OVER.''

NOTING THE EFFECTS OF THE MIDDLE EAST CRISIS, IT SAID, ''FOR THE VAST MAJORITY OF DEVELOPING COUNTRIES, HIGHER OIL PRICES MEAN HIGHER IMPORT BILLS.''

''BUT EVEN PRIOR TO THE MIDDLE EAST CRISIS, MANY DEBTOR COUNTRIES HAD NOT UNDERTAKEN THE NECESSARY ADJUSTMENT,'' THE BANK SAID, ADDING, ''DOMESTIC REFORM AND MACROECONOMIC BALANCE ARE ESSENTIAL TO DEVELOPMENT AND RESOLUTION OF THE DEBT CRISIS.''

A NUMBER OF COUNTRIES HAVE RUN UP SUBSTANTIAL ARREARS ON INTEREST PAYMENTS, WHICH ROSE BY 7.2 BILLION DOLLARS IN 1990. THE STOCK OF ARREARS REPRESENTED 6.4 PERCENT OF TOTAL THIRD WORLD DEBT IN 1989.

''THE DRAMATIC GROWTH OF ARREARS HAS DISTURBED CREDITOR-DEBTOR RELATIONS, REDUCED THE ACCESS OF COUNTRIES RUNNING ARREARS TO VITAL TRADE CREDITS AND FOREIGN INVESTMENT, AND COMPLICATED FOREIGN TRADE FINANCING,'' THE REPORT SAID.

MEANWHILE, THE DOLLAR'S DEPRECIATION AGAINST OTHER MAJOR CURRENCIES THIS YEAR INCREASED THE VALUE OF THE STOCK OF DEBT DENOMINATED IN NONDOLLAR CURRENCIES LIKE YEN AND GERMAN MARKS BY NEARLY 10 PERCENT, EQUIVALENT TO ABOUT 46 BILLION DOLLARS.

THE REPORT SAID, ''UNDERLYING MANY OF THESE PROBLEMS IS THE CONTINUED LIMITED AVAILABILITY OF EXTERNAL FINANCE.''

THE WORLD BANK EXPRESSED CONCERNS ON LANGUISHING NEW PRIVATE LENDINGS, WHICH ARE ''MUCH LESS THAN INTEREST PAYMENTS.'' OFFICIAL FLOWS AND FOREIGN DIRECT INVESTMENT ACCOUNT FOR ALMOST ALL OF TOTAL NET RESOURCE FLOWS TO DEVELOPING COUNTRIES.

PRIVATE NET LOANS, WHICH AMOUNTED 41.1 BILLION DOLLARS IN 1980, HAD DECLINED TO 700 MILLION DOLLARS BY 1987, BUT ARE PROJECTED TO CLIMB BACK TO 2.3 BILLION DOLLARS THIS YEAR, IT SAID.

THE AMOUNT OF OFFICIAL DEVELOPMENT FINANCE, ON THE OTHER HAND, HAS REMAINED STEADY, AND IS EXPECTED TO INCREASE TO 46.9 BILLION DOLLARS IN 1990 FROM 36.6 BILLION DOLLARS LAST YEAR.

OFFICIAL DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE (ODA), CONSISTING OF GRANTS AND CONCESSIONAL LENDING, HAS INCREASED IN THE 1980S, WHILE BILATERAL, NONCONCESSIONAL OFFICIAL LENDING DECLINED SUBSTANTIALLY BETWEEN 1980 AND 1987, THE REPORT SAID.

''IN 1990, NET LENDING BY BILATERAL OFFICIAL CREDITORS AND MULTILATERAL LENDERS IS PROJECTED TO INCREASE SHARPLY.''

IN RESPECT TO ODA, THE REPORT PARTICULARLY EMPHASIZED JAPAN'S ROLE AS THE LARGEST SINGLE BILATERAL DONOR TO THE DEVELOPING COUNTRIES.

KEIKO SATO, SPOKESWOMAN AT THE WORLD BANK IN TOKYO, SAID THE AMOUNT OF FUNDS PROVIDED BY JAPAN WAS PARTICULARLY NOTICEABLE AMID A DECLINE IN THE PROVISION OF NEW MONEY.

JAPAN HAS SET A TARGET OF 50 BILLION DOLLARS IN NET ODA DISBURSEMENTS TO DEVELOPING COUNTRIES FROM 1988 TO 1992, AN AVERAGE OF 10 BILLION DOLLARS A YEAR, IN ADDITION TO THE EXPANDED JAPANESE RECYCLING PROGRAM WORTH 65 BILLION DOLLARS FOR 1987 TO 1992.

THE WORLD BANK, LOOKING FORWARD INTO THE 1990S, SAID THE DEVELOPING COUNTRIES FACE SEVERAL UNCERTAINTIES ABOUT THE INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENT.''

''THE COMPOSITION OF NET FLOWS TO DEVELOPING COUNTRIES IN THE MID-1990S IS LIKELY TO BE SIMILAR TO RECENT YEARS. OFFICIAL SOURCES AND FOREIGN DIRECT INVESTMENT ARE LIKELY TO REMAIN THE LARGEST FLOWS,'' WHILE PRIVATE LENDING WILL REMAIN LOW IN ABSOLUTE TERMS.

''IN THIS ENVIRONMENT, DEVELOPING COUNTRIES WILL HAVE TO RELY ON INTERNAL RESOURCE MOBILIZATION FOR INVESTMENT FINANCE EVEN MORE THAN IN THE PAST ... EXPORT INCENTIVES ALSO NEED CLOSE ATTENTION.''

INDUSTRIAL COUNTRIES CAN SUPPORT THESE EFFORTS BY REDUCING TRADE BARRIERS, THE REPORT SAID.

FREEPORT-McMoRAN intends to sell at least $750 million in petroleum and mineral assets, in part to cut debt. ... GATT DIRECTOR-GENERAL ARTHUR DUNKEL has called for the four year-old trade talks to resume on Jan. 15.

FROM THE BULLS:

"Up, Up and Away," says NORMAN FOSBACK at the "Mutual Fund Forecaster." "It's beginning to look like a bull market again." Fosback says mutual fund cash reserves have "ballooned to the most favorable level ever."

With three-fifths of the issues on the American Stock Exchange now quoted below their book values, Fosback looks for the S&P to advance 36% over the next twelve months.

"Ignore the Cassandras that preach a new bear market," says Fosback. "The Insiders" newsletter reports that over the last five weeks, 3/4 of all insider trades were buys, leading editor Norman Fosback to conclude that the current situation is an "exceptional buying opportunity."

In October, insider buying hit 90% of all trades, breaking the record of 89% set after the 1987 crash. Fosback pointed out that "this is only the third time since 1971 that insider buying has been at these levels." (CNBC "World Business" and "Investor's Daily", 12/18)

FROM THE BEARS:

"We would go aggressively short, but this week is triple expiration of futures and options," says CRAIG CORCORAN of DAVIS-ZWEIG FUTURES. "Our readings show a high put-to-call ratio, which means option players are bearish." He says his firm has advised its clients to go to 100% cash, and he says after the expirations he would "consider going short." ("Investor's Daily", 12/18)

STOCK MARKET:

KENNETH SPENCE, director of technical analysis for SALOMON BROTHERS, says he thinks the market will be "choppy" for the rest of the year and will "finish the year higher - somewhere near 2685." He notes, however, that "the broad market was a lot weaker than the blue chips" Monday. (NYT, 12/18)

RICHARD McCABE, manager of market analysis at MERRILL LYNCH, says the war worries have helped keep the market from rising too quickly. "The uncertainty is keeping the market technically healthy.

"Once the Mideast uncertainty is somehow resolved, we could easily get to the point that people are overly optimistic - and that could be the seed of undoing for this whole recovery from October." Currently Mr. McCabe doubts that the industrial average will fall further than 2500 in any pullback here. (WSJ, 12/18)

"The market has done remarkably well in the face of all these uncertainties," says EUGENE PERONI at JANNEY MONTGOMERY SCOTT. "We still face the psychological burden of upcoming fourth-quarter earnings reports." ("USA Today", 12/18)

Look for stocks to form a top between now and early January, followed by another drift down, predicts GERALD APPEAL at "Systems and Forecasts." "The action in the stock market has been good - not great. ... We are not among those rushing to the long-term bullish camp." Appeal sees strong resistance just above current market levels. (CNBC "World Business", 12/18)

"Everybody is considering the war scenario," says THOMAS GALLAGHER, managing director in charge of capital commitment at OPPENHEIMER. "It stands to reason that we can only be surprised on the upside."

He says fears of the crisis have kept many investors from buying stocks and the possibility of a diplomatic solution which would spark a rally have kept investors from selling. "No one wants to do anything," says Gallagher. (WSJ, 12/18)

"January 15 [date of the U.N.'s deadline for Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait] will continue to haunt the stock market," according to MARSHALL ACUFF of SMITH BARNEY. Acuff says that he, like most investors and analysts, will "wait to see what happens before they commit themselves." (FNN "Marketwrap", 12/17)

STEFAN ABRAMS, chief investment strategist at KIDDER PEABODY, believes that the market is not dangerously vulnerable at current levels. "Obviously, if we get to January 15 and bullets start flying, all sorts of asset prices will start falling," says Mr. Abrams. "But in the interim, the market is being sustained by falling interest rates."

Abrams adds that he doesn't believe fourth-quarter corporate profits, to be reported in mid-January, will be as bad as many market watchers believe. (WSJ, 12/18)

"People are sick and tired of trading on the same stimulus," says JON GROVEMAN president of LADENBURG, THALMANN & CO. "We're in a Mexican standoff in terms of interest rates. What we really need to move this market is some certainty about what's going to happen in the Middle East."

Mr. Groveman expects the Fed to once again push short-term interest rates lower in coming weeks, but says the action will only have a muted impact of stock prices. (WSJ, 12/18)

"The market's marking time until we see what policy initiatives come from the Fed's Open Market Committee meeting" today, says DAVID BOSTIAN JR., chief economist and strategist at JESUP, JOSEPHTHAL & COMPANY. He thinks the Fed might cut either the discount rate or the Fed funds rate. (NYT, 12/18)

STOCK TIPS:

"My primary [favorite stock] of the major integrated oils is TEXACO," says ANTHONY LUDOVICI at TUCKER ANTHONY. "Texaco has come a long way in recent years. ... The stock is languishing at 57. The stock is very cheap." He also likes MESA PARTNERS, calling it "a screaming buy." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 12/17)

"It's going to become increasingly difficult for LASERSCOPE to beat analysts' estimates," says SAMUEL NAVARRO of NEEDHAM & CO. He believes that demand for their expensive technology may wane as the recession deepens.

But that phenomenon may benefit SURGICAL LASER TECHNOLOGIES, whose products are more affordable. "Any weakness ... should be used as a buy opportunity," according to Navarro. ("Investor's Daily", 12/18)

RJR NABISCO is planning to offer cash and stock to some holders of its high-yield junk bonds next year, meaning about 82.5 million shares could be trading. "The shares are attractive, but they're risky, highly leveraged and not for everyone," says DIANA TEMPLE at SALOMON BROTHERS. ("USA Today", 12/18)

"USA Today" examines newspaper stocks in its "Industry Spotlight" section, focusing on why share prices are rising even though few analysts expect newspapers to perform well next year.

"Newspapers stocks recover early in an economic cycle," says KEVIN GRUNEICH at FIRST BOSTON. But he says not to be fooled by the stock price rise: "It's a fake-out. The floorboards are weak." PETER APPERT at C.J. LAWRENCE is not recommending newspaper stocks, but says most of the bad news is out and does not expect shares to fall lower. ("USA Today", 12/18)

Short CBS on January 22 following the tender offer or buy the February 170 puts, recommends "Market Trim Tabs." This advisor to a number of hedge funds is much less than enchanted with CBS management; they note that, after the buyback, the network's cash will drop to $800 million, approximately equal to the company's long term debt: "Any takeover [of CBS] could be at $100 per share or less."

FALLS CHURCH, VA (DEC. 18) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

MONEY & CREDIT:

"The dollar is definitely being propped up by the impression that the situation in the Persian Gulf is deteriorating slightly," says ROBERT HATCHER of BARCLAYS BANK PLC. While holiday trading was sparse, Bush's "no concessions" speech created a great deal of safe-haven trading. ("Investor's Daily", 12/18)

"The U.S. economy is weak, but that's an old tune" in the currency market, says BILL ARNOLD, vice president and chief dealer at CHEMICAL BANK in New York explaining why the dollar bucked fundamentals and rose slightly yesterday on bellicose remarks from Iraq and the U.S. (WSJ, 12/18)

"It's only a matter of when they [the Fed] will ease, not if," says RAYMOND W. STONE, managing director at STONE & McCARTHY RESEARCH ASSOCIATES. "And when they do, they will also have to consider what to do with the discount rate." (NYT, 12/18)

The Fed "is committing one of its traditional errors," says NIKKO SECURITIES chief economist ROBERT BRUSCA. "It is staying too tight, too long." He says the Fed is misreading the recession as a mild one, and is therefore unwilling to take dramatic action. ("Investor's Daily", 12/18)

The Fed will wait "until early January, after they get the December statistics on employment trends" before easing, says MARSHALL ACUFF of SMITH BARNEY. At that point, Acuff thinks the Fed will "overtly" lower both the discount and fed funds rates. (FNN "Marketwrap", 12/17)

The Fed will be talking about additional easing at its FOMC meeting, according to J.P. MORGAN economist JAMES GLASSMAN. "The economy is probably contracting at a 4% annual rate in the fourth quarter ... there are indications here that the contraction is gaining momentum," says Glassman.

The most telling figure is the half million person rise in unemployment since summer, says Glassman, who expects the unemployment rate at 7.5% by spring. While another funds rate drop is likely, a cut in the discount rate would signal a pickup in easing. For that reason, Glassman says an easing of the discount rate is likely to be resisted or postponed by the Fed's hardline inflation fighters. (FNN "Marketwrap", 12/17)

"I think it's pretty clear that the shortfall in economic growth has become widespread and pervasive and ... the Fed is going to deal with this in a more aggressive fashion than we've seen," says WILLIAM SULLIVAN at DEAN WITTER REYNOLDS.

"We're looking for the federal funds rate to drop to 7% by late this month or early January and we're looking for that action to be followed up with a cut in the discount rate to 6 1/2% by the middle of next month at the latest.

"What's going to be different about this easing is that it is not going to be as identifiable as the recent easing. ... This time around, the downward pressure on funds is going to come from this reserve requirement cut that is gradually going into effect during the second half of December.

"Market forces and the reliquification of the system will bring this funds rate lower and the Fed won't resist that downward bias." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 12/17)

"My own point of view suggests that they [the Federal Reserve] are not going to take any additional steps for another several weeks," says BEAR, STEARNS chief economist LAWRENCE KUDLOW.

Kudlow praises FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD CHAIRMAN ALAN GREENSPAN for his handling of the widely anticipated slowdown. "He has piloted this in such a delicate, sensitive, consistent manner" that, once the oil shock passes, inflation will not only stay low, but may actually move lower, according to Kudlow. (FNN "Marketwrap", 12/17)

KEVIN FLANAGAN, a money-market economist at DEAN WITTER REYNOLDS INC., says that a favorable CPI report - one that shows the core inflation rate running at 0.2% or lower in November - could prompt a bond market rally while a negative report - one showing CPI over 0.5% - could push bond prices lower. "Anything in between will be neutral," says Mr. Flanagan. (WSJ, 12/18)

THE ECONOMY:

"We feel the recession will be more severe than most people expect and will be accompanied by deflation," says CRAIG CORCORAN of DAVIS-ZWEIG FUTURES. "We are seeing a lot of asset sales." ("Investor's Daily", 12/18)

"The old game of the Fed loosening the reins to revive the economy may be harder to play this time," says MARTIN H. BARNES, an economist at "BCA Interest Rate Forecast," a newsletter based in Montreal. "The rules have changed in ways that could produce a stubborn recession." (WSJ, 12/18)

A rapidly rising portion of the debt is owed to institutions outside the banking system, such as insurance and finance companies, and some analysts are finding that debt worrisome.

"This surge in nonbank debt may make it much more difficult for the Fed to revive" a sinking economy, says NANCY LAZAR, an economist at C.J. LAWRENCE, MORGAN GRENFELL INC.

Fed actions always carry a lag time before they are really felt in the economy and according to VINCENT J. MALANGA, president of LaSALLE ECONOMICS INC., "With so much debt outside the banking system, the lag could be even longer this time." Mr. Malanga doubts a recovery will develop until late next year at the earliest, and even then the upturn may be feeble. (WSJ, 12/18)

"You'll see [oil] prices down below $25 a barrel once the Mideast crisis is resolved," says ANTHONY LUDOVICI at TUCKER ANTHONY. (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 12/17)

IN WASHINGTON:

"If we act in a reasonable way, without panic, we can handle this situation," says FDIC Chairman WILLIAM SEIDMAN. But a Congressional report estimates that bank failures over the next two years will cost the government as much as $43 billion, while the FDIC may have as little as $29 billion in reserves.

"Those figures tell you today, that the bank insurance fund is insolvent," says economist DAN BRUMBAUGH. Seidman is looking for rapid recapatilization for the insurance fund. (FNN "Marketwrap", 12/17)

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORP. CHAIRMAN WILLIAM SEIDMAN says the bank insurance fund will need a cash infusion of about $25 billion early next year "to insure the stability of the fund." But he says the money should come from banks, not taxpayers.

"If you [Congress] act promptly, there's no need for the taxpayers to pay a cent," Seidman tells a House Banking subcommittee. ("The Washington Post" and "USA Today", 12/18)

(HZS) today announced the signing of an agreement through which HZS will act as a value added reseller of Silicon Graphics' workstations and servers. The initial terms of the agreement, executed through Silicon Graphics's wholly-owned Japanese subsidiary, Nihon Silicon Graphics, call for HZS to purchase Personal IRIS workstations, valued at $5 million over the next 12 months.

HZS will be selling its GRADE(TM) CAD/CAM software in addition to the Silicon Graphics IRIS 4D(TM) systems. HZS selected Silicon Graphics as its business partner after a three year evaluation of workstations from U.S. and Japanese vendors. Masaru Uyeda, director of Systems Products for HZS stated, "Silicon Graphics' workstations were chosen for their superior performance with GRADE software and for the ease with which the unique Silicon Graphics hardware features can be accessed by HZS software developers."

"The agreement with HZS represents a major milestone in the development of our business in Japan," commented Mark Perry, executive vice president of Silicon Graphics Inc. He added, "Our sales in Japan during the past fiscal year were approximately 10 percent of our total revenues, and we anticipate that our business there will grow even stronger due to this agreement with HZS."

NEW CANAAN, CONN. (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Smith Corona Corporation's (NYSE: SCO), Chairman G. Lee Thompson, hailed the U.S. International Trade Commission's preliminary determination Monday of unfair trade practices by Japanese competitors in the sale of personal word processors in the United States.

Yesterday, the commission voted unanimously 4 to 0 that there is reasonable indication that the domestic industry producing personal word processors was materially injured or threatened with material injury by reason of the imports from Japan. These imports were alleged to be sold at less than fair value. Notice of the preliminary determination will be published in the Federal Register at a later date.

Smith Corona filed an anti-dumping petition on Nov. 6 of this year, alleging that imports of personal word processors from Japan were being dumped by substantial margins (that is, sold in the U.S. at prices lower than in the home country or below cost).

"Our employees and stockholders have been repeatedly victimized over the years by internationally recognized unfair trade practices engaged in by our foreign competitors," said Thompson. The new anti-dumping petition was filed, according to Thompson, after serious price discounting was implemented by major Japanese competitors.

"Our company has had to fight the dumping of our major Asian competitors for years," added Thompson. "We've waited years for effective relief under an existing order on portable electric typewriters from Japan while our government has examined the question of whether the latest models are covered. With recent judicial victories on the outstanding order, and with this new case to deal with dumping of personal word processors from Japan, I am confident that at long last our government will be willing to stop the serious harm flowing to our company and our workers."

The Commerce Department will now investigate whether the imports of personal word processors from Japan are being sold at less than fair value in the United States. A preliminary determination by commerce is expected by April 15, 1991. Smith Corona, based in New Canaan, is the world's largest-manufacturer of portable electronic typewriters and personal word processors. It recently announced its entry into the home, student, home office and small business segments of the personal computer market, beginning in early 1991. The company also markets office supplies, forms, and customized printed products.

ROCHESTER, NY (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Paychex, Inc. (NASDAQ: PAYX) today reported net income of $2,849,000 or $.22 per share for the second quarter ended Nov. 30, 1990, up 5 percent over net income of $2,724,000 or $.21 per share for the same quarter last year. Revenue for the second quarter rose by 14 percent to $33,481,000 from $29,455,000 for the year-earlier quarter.

For the six months ended Nov. 30, 1990, net income was $5,720,000 or $.44 per share, compared to net income of $5,421,000 or $.42 per share for the same period last year. Revenue reached $66,548,000 an increase of 15 percent over the previous year's first-half total of $57,984,000.

Tom Golisano, chairman and chief executive, noted that the second quarter results were in line with the company's expectations.

"We were satisfied with our client growth and especially with the retention levels of our existing clients," Golisano said. He added that the company's 71 branch operating centers are now processing payrolls for approximately 127,000 businesses.

Golisano further noted that even though the company is experiencing a slight reduction in the average number of checks processed per client, it expects to report improved levels of profitability in the second half of the fiscal year as compared to the same period last year. "We attribute the per client check reduction, which approximates three percent, primarily to the weakening economy," Golisano said. He added the company experienced a similar situation during the economic downturn in the early 1980s.

Golisano further reported the Taxpay feature of the payroll service continues to be well received in the marketplace. He noted, "Taxpay is now available in offices representing over 80 percent of our client base and should be available in all of our locations by mid-1991."

BAKERSFIELD, CA (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Nahama & Weagant Energy Co. (NASDAQ: NAWE) today reported a successful gas exploratory well at its South Putah Sink field, resulting in a new pool discovery. The field is located in Yolo County near Sacramento, Calif.

The new well tested at a daily production rate of 2.5 million cubic feet of gas through a 16/64th inch choke. Tubing pressure and casing pressure were 1450 and 1650 pounds, and shut-in tubing pressure was 2245 pounds. Nahama &

Weagant, which will be the operator, has a 45 percent working interest in the well with the majority of the remaining interest held by the company's financial partner, the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Rodney Nahama, president and chief executive officer, said: "We hope to begin sales from this well at a daily rate of 1.2 to 1.5 million cubic feet of gas before the end of December. The current price of gas from the field is $2.15 per thousand cubic feet. Since the well represented a new pool discovery, it should increase the field's proven reserves and help us continue the strong momentum in our earnings. Recently, we reported record profits for the third quarter.

"Gas sales from our initial exploratory well in the field began last March, and in June, we announced a successful development well there. Present plans call for drilling another development well at South Putah Sink in the first quarter of next year.

"Nahama & Weagant's exploration and development program continues to produce positive results. We have been successful with 53 percent of our exploratory wells and 77 percent of our development wells. A total of 15 exploratory and 13 development wells have been drilled to date in the 1989/90 program with seven additional wells currently drilling, or scheduled to be drilled, prior to Jan. 31, 1991. MINNEAPOLIS (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - LifeCore Biomedical (NASDAQ: LCBM) announced today the commencement of clinical trials intended to comply with pending new FDA regulations which are expected to require full premarket approval (PMA) status for existing and future dental implant systems.

Sales of LifeCore's current product, the SUSTAIN(TM) HA- Biointegrated Dental Implant System, are already allowed under an abbreviated premarket approval classification 510(k) -- previously obtained by the manufacturer, Bio-Interfaces, Inc. It is expected that in order to obtain the new PMA classification status for these existing systems, however, further controlled clinical studies will be required to demonstrate the safety and efficacy of these products in humans.

Two of the company's three proposed test sites are commencing patient entry into their clinical evaluation programs. These centers are the Brookdale Hospital Medical Center's Department of Dental and Oral Surgery in Brooklyn, N.Y., and the University of Minnesota School of Dentistry's Clinical Research Center in Minneapolis. A third center is expected to start patient entry during the first quarter of calendar 1991.

Currently, LifeCore's SUSTAIN system is receiving strong approval from surgeons in the field. Sales have exceeded $1,000,000 in less than 11 months in the marketplace, an industry record for new implant systems.

STAMFORD, Conn. (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Xerox Corporation (NYSE: XRX) will continue to pay its employees called to active military duty an income supplement equal to the difference between their military pay and what they receive as compensation from the company.

This action extends a temporary pay policy enhancement begun in August from 180 days to a maximum of 360 days to correspond with the new minimum period of service set by the government.

Involved Xerox employees called to active duty by military reserve or National Guard units and their dependents also will continue to be provided medical and dental coverage for up to 360 days.

The temporary adjustment of the Xerox military leave of absence policy becomes effective with the commencement of an individual employee's active duty.

Xerox said the company is taking the action "to minimize some of the financial hardships and insecurity for those employees and their dependents caused by their call up to active duty."

An estimated 200 of the company's more than 66,000 employees in the United States are members of the reserves or National Guard. As of Dec. 13, 38 Xerox people had been called up.

AKRON, Ohio (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The BFGoodrich Company (NYSE: GR) today announced its Geon Vinyl Division will build a 37,000 square foot application engineering and design laboratory (AEDL) at the company's Brecksville, Ohio, research and development center.

"Our strategic objective for the Geon Vinyl Division is to move to more value-added products. The new AEDL facility will allow us to work closely with customers in helping them design and engineer products using our value-added polymers," said William F. Patient, president of the Geon Vinyl Division. "It will allow us to create partnerships with our customers to work from concept to final product in meeting their needs."

Construction will begin immediately on the $6 million laboratory, with completion expected in early 1992.

The project follows a recently completed $26 million expansion and renovation of research and office facilities at the Brecksville site.

The project includes renovation of an existing 17,000 square foot laboratory, which will house a polymer processing facility. A 20,000 square foot addition will house a computer-aided design facility, customer conference center with 35-seat auditorium and offices for engineering and support personnel.

When completed the new AEDL facility will house 21 engineering and technical employees involved in designing, engineering and producing prototype products using Geon Vinyl compounds. The lab will move to Brecksville from a leased facility in Avon Lake, Ohio, where it is presently located.

"The new facility will enable us to compete more effectively in our targeted

BRANCHBURG, N.J. (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Metcalf & Eddy Companies Inc. (NASDAQ: METC) reported earnings today of $1.03 per share for the year ended Oct. 31, 1990, compared to $1.11 per share for fiscal 1989.

Gross revenues were slightly lower in fiscal 1990 than 1989 due to lower direct project expenses (costs that are passed through to the company's clients) primarily on the Peace Shield project in Saudi Arabia. Net revenues, work that the company performs directly for its clients, of $198 million were $34 million or 21 percent higher than 1989. Cost of sales as a percent of net revenues decreased slightly in 1990 from fiscal 1989, primarily as a result of changes in business mix. General and administrative expenses increased as a percent of net revenues from 35 percent in fiscal 1989 to 38 percent in fiscal 1990, reflecting increased marketing, sales, and project development expenditures. Operating income of $27.6 million was slightly ahead of last year's operating income of $26.7 million. Higher interest expense and lower interest income than the preceding year impacted on net income which was approximately 7 percent below fiscal 1989.

STATE COLLEGE, PA. (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Richard E. Perry, chairman, president and chief executive officer of C-COR Electronics Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: CCBL) annnounced that the company expects second quarter revenues and earnings to be lower than those reported in its first quarter ended Sept. 28, 1990. Revenues for that quarter were $10,144,000 and the loss per share was $.06. The second quarter covers the 13 weeks ended Dec. 28, 1990. The anticipated results come as a result of the continued slowdown in the cable television industry.

Commenting on the situation, Perry stated, "We have moved to cut expenses wherever possible, keeping intact functions determined to be critical to meet C-COR's ongoing strategic goals. Total employment at C-COR has been reduced through layoffs and attrition from a high of 790 a year ago to 467 on Nov. 28, 1990. In addition, expense budgets have been reviewed and reduced several times in the past six months. All expenses will continue to be evaluated with an especially critical eye until we see market conditions improve."

He continued, "It is difficult to predict when the industry will return to an active rebuild schedule. Competitive pressures are out there for cable operators to upgrade system capability and service. In recent weeks we have begun to see some encouraging indications that after Jan. 1 the ordering activity will pick up from late 1990 levels. We will need to see consistent improvement in order levels for several months before we can feel confident that the market is moving forward again.

Perry added, "In the meantime, however, C-COR is actively marketing its advanced technology products. These include digital and AM fiber optic products along with newly developed minitrunk amplifiers designed for use in the increasingly popular fiber trunk and feeder architecture. First deliveries of the feedforward and power doubling minitrunks for that architecture occurred in mid-November."

C-COR, founded over 35 years ago, designs and manufactures high-quality electronic equipment used in cable television and data communication systems. C-COR's headquarters is in State College, Pa., with production facilities in Tipton and State College, Pa. C-COR Electronics Canada Inc., a subsidiary of CALABASAS, CALIF. (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Players International, Inc. (NASDAQ: PLAY), announced today that, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, it has entered into a joint venture with Peoples Telephone Company, Inc. (NASDAQ: PTEL), to provide information services to the public pay telephone and hospitality markets.

Under the terms of the agreement, the companies will develop and distribute information and game programming developed by Players International, including Phone Jeopardy! and Phone Wheel of Fortune, to telephone users at hotels and pay telephones. This service, to be offered at competitive prices, will provide both the hospitality and pay telephone industries with a new source of revenues.

"This agreement represents a significant opportunity for both of our companies " said Stanley Harfenist, president of Players International. "It will be an important source of future revenues, and is a logical extension of our current product line."

In discussing the agreement, Jim Smith, president of People's Telephone, said, "We are excited about the opportunity presented by this venture with Players International, especially in light of Players' proven ability to develop the most innovative and successful information and game programming. Phone Jeopardy! and Phone Wheel of Fortune are only the first of a full network of games under development, all of which will be made available to the pay telephone and hospitality markets."

Separately, Players International announced that the recent promotion for its 900 viewer game, "Wheel of Fortune", generated a record-breaking 4.7 million calls, significantly exceeding expectations. The promotion, which was linked with the television version of "Wheel of Fortune", was the largest 900 number interactive promotion in entertainment history.

Along with an opportunity to significantly boost the television program's ratings and promote Phone Wheel of Fortune, the promotion was developed as a charity vehicle. Over $1 million in toys was donated to Toys for Tots, making it the single largest donation in the charity's history.

The promotion, produced in conjunction with King World and JEP, a unit of Merv Griffin Enterprises, was a combination of a telephone version of Wheel of Fortune and a sweepstakes. All callers who phoned with the correct answer to the puzzle, which was broadcast on the television show from Nov. 1-22, qualified to participate in a sweepstake. In addition, they were mailed promotional material on the daily Phone Wheel of Fortune and Phone Jeopardy! games, along with coupons from Pizza Hut.

The success of this promotion, and the millions of viewers reached through the tie-in with the television program, provide a high level of visibility and support for the nationwide launch of Player's ongoing Phone Wheel of Fortune game. The promotion, scheduled to begin Jan. 1, will include television, print and direct mail advertising for the game.

Players International specializes in the marketing of numerous services and products to the gaming and entertainment industries. PARK RIDGE, ILL. (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The Brand Companies Inc. (NASDAQ: BRAN) announced today that it intends to take a non-recurring pretax restructuring charge in the fourth quarter of this year of $6 million. This

#90352p4206 12/18/1990 ~PR Newswire

WARREN, OH (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Copperweld Steel Company announced today the start up of its newly modernized 12-inch mill complex. The new mill will make Copperweld Steel Company a leader in alloy and carbon bar technology in sizes 5/8 to 3-1/2 inches. The modernization began in April 1989 with the installation of a new mill reheating furnace. The furnace is a natural gas, top and botton fired, walking beam, side charge and discharge recuperated furnace with ancillary charging and discharging equipment. Such design permits rapid heating, uniformity of temperature and minimal decarburization and oxidation of the steel's surface.

A new Tekisun Bar Sizing Mill is also part of the modernization project. This mill will provide precision rolling tolerances and exact size -- rolling in sizes from 1-3/8 to 3-1/2 inch rounds. Basic engineering of the new furnace and the sizing mill was provided by Daido Steel Co., Ltd. of Japan as part of the technological agreement between Copperweld and Daido instituted during 1987. An added advantage to this agreement is having Daido engineers on site for precise operation of the equipment beginning with the first bar through the new facility.

In addition, there are new and improved alternating vertical and horizontal roll stands for improved surface quality, cylindrical roller bearings and separate thrust bearings for exact size tolerances and no-scratch guide and roller features. These mills consist of three new vertical mill housings, three totally refurbished horizontal mill housings and two totally rebuilt intermediate mills. These exacting control mills, along with the Tekisun sizing mill, will provide a superior quality bar and serve as a breakdown mill for the existing small diameter finishing line. These features will allow for improved bar tolerances to within 1/4 of the AISI standards and make Copperweld Steel the best dimension control mill in the United States for bars ranging from 5/8 to 3-1/2 inch rounds.

The complex also boasts new metallurgical cooling beds added to the Tekisun mill enabling the product to feed through its new hot abrasive saw for parting. This new abrasive saw will be water-cooled to prevent burning and will improve square cut ends and minimize end burrs. Downstream there are additional metallurgical cooling tables to assure quality products off the complex. Servicing the new complex are new bins, roll turning machine and an overhead crane.

The completion of the $26 million project allows Copperweld to offer its newest and most precise product -- AQU-BAR(TM). Providing significant cost savings to customers, AQU-BAR(TM) will be marketed primarily for use in forging or machining operations. AQU-BAR(TM) boasts precision tolerances, decarburization control and seam depth control. W.L. Weeks, president and CEO stated the new mill, combined with both billet and finished bar ultrasonic inspection, will provide the ultimate in quality assured hot rolled bars. In addition, Weeks stated that the company is presently in the engineering stages of an additional capital investment of $14.5 million, the details of which will be released early next year.

ROCHESTER, NY (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Rochester Telephone (NYSE: RTC) announced today that it has elected to participate in the Federal Communications Commission's interstate price cap regulation plan, effective July 1, 1991.

Price caps is a method of regulation for interstate services that puts a limit on the rates a telephone company can charge, but not on its earnings.

The intent of price caps is to allow telephone companies to keep more of what they earn, thereby providing incentives to reduce service costs and increase usage demand, while maintaining stable rates for customers.

Earlier this year, the FCC replaced rate of return regulation with mandated price cap regulation for the seven Regional Bell Operating companies and GTE. It offered the option on a voluntary basis to all other telephone companies.

"Throughout the three-year price cap proceeding, Rochester Telephone has supported the commission's efforts to establish an incentive regulation plan that would more closely replicate a fully competitive marketplace," said David C. Mitchell, president of Rochester Telephone's Telephone Group. "We believe that the incentive regulation plan adopted by the commission is a significant step in the right direction."

Rochester Telephone plans to file an interstate price cap tariff on April 1, 1991, to become effective July 1, 1991, the earliest date that Rochester Telephone can voluntarily enter price cap regulation.

In following the FCC's rules for exchange carriers electing price caps,

Rochester Telephone is notifying the National Exchange Carrier Association (NECA) that it is withdrawing its cost-based telephone company affiliates from the NECA Carrier Common Line, End User and Traffic Sensitive pools effective July 1, 1991. Currently, 21 of Rochester's 32 telephone subsidiaries are cost-based and will participate in price cap regulation.

Rochester Telephone's principal operating territory is a six-county area in western-central New York State. It operates 32 other telephone companies in 13 states.

CHICAGO (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Navistar International Corp. (NYSE: NAV) announced today that it has acquired a one-third interest in American Transportation Corp. (AmTran), Conway, Ark., a privately held manufacturer of Ward brand school bus bodies and AmTran brand commercial vehicles and military bus bodies. The other two-thirds of the stock will be retained by R.E. and

R.L. Harmon of Kansas City. Financial terms were not disclosed.

James C. Cotting, chairman and chief executive officer of Navistar, said the company's primary objective in forging an equity alliance with a school bus body company is to strengthen Navistar's leading market share position as a supplier to the pupil transportation industry by taking the initiative in the development of integrated production of school buses.

The Navistar executive said Navistar and AmTran initially will collaborate in the design of integrated transit-style bus models which will be produced in Conway.

Sales, parts and service will be provided by a strategically located network of dealers selected by AmTran. Cotting declined to disclose a time frame for production of integrated buses to begin at Conway.

Traditionally, bodies and chassis for school buses are produced by different companies. Chassis must be driven or transported to a body company where the bus bodies are mounted to the chassis. Each chassis manufacturer must design its units to be compatible with the body designs of different body companies. Integrated design and manufacture of school buses offers a significant potential for improved production and marketing efficiencies and shorter time frames in the school bus order cycle.

The management and operation of AmTran will remain intact, Williams added.

The acquisition of a minority interest in AmTran does not affect current production or distribution of International brand school bus chassis. Navistar builds chassis for conventional school buses at its Springfield, Ohio truck assembly plant and will add a forward control chassis to its lineup beginning in March 1991. Navistar will continue to serve the pupil transportation industry with chassis built at Springfield for matching with bodies built and mounted at major bus body companies, including Wayne Corp., Bluebird Body Co., Carpenter Manufacturing, Thomas Built Buses and AmTran.

AmTran, one of five major school bus body producers, has been prominent in the school transportation industry since 1933.

Navistar, a major supplier to the pupil transportation industry for more than 70 years, is the North American market share leader in medium and heavy trucks and is the leading producer of mid-range diesel engines.

DENVER (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Manville Corp. (NYSE: MVL) expressed disappointment today that Standard & Poor's lowered their rating on the company's senior unsecured debt from 'BB' to 'BB-' and preference stock from 'B+' to 'B'.

"We believe that we have the financial flexibility to meet all of our debt obligations and our obligations to all of our shareholders including the Manville Personal Injury Settlement Trust," said Tom Stephens, Manville chairman, president and chief executive officer.

The Trust is seeking to restructure the way it settles and pays asbestos-related health claims against the Trust. The refinancing is contingent upon various conditions, including approval by the court of the Trust's class action lawsuit and Manville's ability to finance all of the dividends called for under the refinancing plan.

Stephens said that the company is taking all necessary steps to address the current recession and economic pressures, "which all companies are beginning to face."

"We intend to manage our capital spending at a lower rate than in the recent past but consistent with our objective of maintaining strong, competitive businesses," Stephens said. "We'll be tightening our belt and expect our competitors will be doing the same."

Manville is an international manufacturing and natural resources company headquartered in Denver. The company's primary businesses include building and engineered products, fiber glass and industrial insulation products, paper and wood products, packaging, roofing systems and filtration and minerals. Revenues for 1990 totaled $37,468,000 compared to $24,588,000 for the fiscal year 1989. Net income for the year was $4,961,000, or $.52 per share, compared to a net loss of $6,785,000, or $.73 per share, in the prior year. Net income for 1990 includes $3,015,000 (gain on discontinued operations) from the sale of a subsidiary, ARTRAC Corp. As of Oct. 31, 1990, BEIH has total assets of $49,628,000 and shareholders' equity of $38,460,000, or $4.02 per share.

Revenues for the fourth quarter of 1990 were $9,370,000 compared to $8,354,000 for the fourth quarter of 1989. Net income for the fourth quarter of 1990 was $760,000, or $.08 per share, compared to a net loss of $2,009,000, or $.21 per share, for the comparable period of 1989.

Fiscal year 1990 reflects a 53 percent increase in consulting and management services' revenues. Consulting and management services' revenues were $34,376,000 compared to $22,490,000 for the previous year. Consulting and management services' revenues for the fourth quarter of 1990 were $8,385,000 compared to $7,870,000 for the same three months last year. The improvement in consulting revenue is attributable to accelerating demand for real estate consulting services in several regions of the country and expanded need for corporate restructuring, regulatory and expense reduction advice growing out of banking legislation and financial industry credit quality problems.

In the fourth quarter of 1990 the company has elected to retroactively adopt the provisions of SFAS No. 96 "Accounting for Income Taxes" as of Nov. 1, 1987 and restate all periods presented. Because of the company's large net operating loss carryforwards which have been used to offset any federal deferred tax liabilities, the adoption has no impact on net income in any period presented and results in no cumulative effect adjustment upon adoption.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The Enterprise Foundation, in partnership with the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae) (NYSE: FNM), today announced a new investment fund that allows corporations to earn income tax credits by investing in housing for the homeless and other low-income people with special needs.

Congress created the tax credits in the 1986 tax act to promote long-term private investment in low-income housing. Since 1987, the low-income housing tax credit has attracted more than $4 billion of private capital for housing. The incentive has spurred the development of approximately 125,000 units of affordable housing annually.

The Corporate Housing Initiatives fund's first investor is Fannie Mae, a private corporation chartered by Congress to support low- and moderate-income housing. At the news conference, Fannie Mae Chairman and Chief Executive Officer David O. Maxwell announced that the company will invest $10 million in the fund.

The Enterprise Foundation also announced the formation of a separate non-profit group that will work closely with the new equity fund. Enterprise Housing Plus will promote "service-enriched housing," which combines housing for families and individuals with special needs with support services, such as child care, counseling and job training.

Enterprise Housing Plus will be assisted by an advisory committee comprised of housing and social services experts who can help shape and advance the service-enriched housing effort. The cost of developing and operating Housing Plus will be supported through grants from IBM, Aetna Life & Casualty and the Fannie Mae Foundation.

The Enterprise Social Investment Corporation (ESIC), a subsidiary of The Enterprise Foundation, will act as general partner for Corporate Housing Initiatives, the equity fund. A leading national expert in affordable housing for poor people, ESIC has raised more than $160 million in equity from over 60 corporate investors.

Fannie Mae is the largest participant as a limited partner in low-income housing tax credits and is making an effort to encourage other corporations to use the incentive. Fannie Mae, the USA's Housing Partner, is a congressionally chartered, shareholder-owned company and the nation's largest investor in home mortgages.

MORRIS PLAINS, NJ (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Warner-Lambert Company (NYSE: WLA) today announced a series of transitional moves within its senior management ranks, including the election of Joseph E. Smith and John F. Walsh as executive vice presidents.

Joseph D. Williams, chairman and chief executive officer, said the changes reflect the company's ongoing succession planning strategies and the impending retirement of Executive Vice President Donald E. Smith will continue to serve as president of Parke-Davis, the company's U.S. prescription pharmaceutical operation, and will assume additional oversight responsibility for its worldwide pharmaceutical research and development.

In addition, Philip M. Gross, vice president and president of the Novon Products Group, will report to Melvin R. Goodes, president and chief operating officer of Warner-Lambert.

Walsh, 48, who joined Warner-Lambert 23 years ago, has held a series of increasingly responsible finance, marketing and general management positions. He received a bachelor's degree from Boston College and an M.B.A. from Seton Hall University.

Smith, 51, came to the company last year with 25 years' experience in the pharmaceutical industry, most recently with Rorer as president of its domestic operations. He is a graduate of the University of Buffalo and received an M.B.A. from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School.

NORWOOD, MA (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Microcom, Inc. (NASDAQ: MNPI), a workstation connectivity company, today announced a series of strategic enhancements to its RELAY product family to extend functionality across a variety of connectivity environments. The new enhancements include: the RELAY Token-Ring Gateway(R), RELAY SDLC Dial-up(R) and RELAY/transfer(R) for CICS. The RELAY Token-Ring Gateway and new SDLC capabilities are both sold as add-ons while RELAY/transfer for CICS is a new mainframe software package available directly from Microcom.

"These enhancements broaden the number of connectivity platforms that RELAY Gold(R) supports and are aimed at users requiring help in reducing their PC-to-mainframe communications costs," stated David B. Wilson, director of the RELAY Product Group. "Since the introduction of RELAY in 1983, our goal has been to continually expand the RELAY product line to support a wide range of connectivity environments and features. By extending the product to meet the changing connectivity and operating system needs of our users, we optimize our customers' investment in a single product -- RELAY Gold."

All RELAY products build on existing strengths and features, optimizing the use of one RELAY product with another. For example, RELAY Gold users can take advantage of the product's powerful programming language to streamline and automate communications tasks like log-in and file transfers. In addition, RELAY users realize an average 3:1 increase in data transfer speeds through the CommPressor, an advanced data compression technique employed in the RELAY family and optimized only when the products are used together.

As add-ons, the RELAY Token-Ring Gateway and RELAY SDLC Dial-up provide current RELAY users with the familiar RELAY Gold interface, eliminating the need for additional training. RELAY Token-Ring Gateway Significantly Reduces LAN-to-IBM Mainframe Connectivity Costs

The RELAY Token-Ring Gateway, an all-software solution that provides 3270 emulation over an IBM Token-Ring network, is a cost-effective alternative to purchasing and installing 3270 coax boards and associated cabling for every user who requires IBM mainframe connectivity on a LAN. RELAY Gold has long supported a variety of gateways, including SDLC, QLLC, X.25 and now, Token Ring.

Because the RELAY Token-Ring Gateway communicates directly with a Token-Ring Interface Coupler (TIC) connected to the host, each PC on the Token-Ring network is viewed by the host as a Physical Unit (PU). By defining multiple Logical Units (LUs) under each PC, RELAY Gold users can run multiple sessions. This translates into the ability to simultaneously query the mainframe while running a file transfer and sending output to a printer. Toggling between the different sessions is also possible.

Microcom Inc., is a PC and workstation connectivity company headquartered in Norwood, Mass., with offices in Danbury, Conn.; Wilmington, Del.; Durham, N.C.; Caguas, Puerto Rico; and international offices in France, Hong Kong, and the U.K. Principal product lines include Protocol Modems(tm); LAN bridging products; Carbon Copy(tm) RELAY Gold, Virex(R), and Microcom 911 Utilities(tm) software packages; and ISDN products.

LAWRENCEVILLE, N.J. (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Rodney Lay, president and chief executive officer of Advanced Photovoltaic Systems, Inc. (APS), announced the hiring of 96 scientific and technical personnel on Dec. 14 to commercialize the photovoltaic technologies.

In making this announcement, Lay commented, "This hiring represents Advanced Photovoltaic Systems commitment to bringing on board the best scientific and technical talent available to advance the commercialization of the thin-film Eureka process. APS is confident in its thin-film process," Lay continued, "and is actively marketing Eureka modules and material to the solar industry."

APS's parent corporation, Energetics Jungere Corp., owns the rights to the Eureka photovoltaic panel production line and related technologies. Solar photovoltaics is a technology whereby sunlight is converted directly into electricity by means of solar cells. Solar cells convert sunlight into electricity by absorbing photons into one or more layers of semiconducting material causing electrically charged particles to flow as an electrical current. The Eureka process enables APS to utilize low-cost production for the manufacture of reliable photovoltaic panels for use in such commercial applications as utility power systems, area lighting and water pumping systems. Eureka photovoltaic modules exceed 50W (watts) in output power and are the highest wattage amorphous silicon panels currently available in the solar market.

Advance Photovoltaic Systems, Inc. was founded to commercialized the use of photovoltaic panels as a low-cost alternative to conventional sources of energy supply. The Sheet Metal Workers' National Pension Fund, a multi-employer pension fund organized under ERISA (Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974) is the principal stockholder of APS's parent corporation.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD, NJ (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Enzon, Inc. (NASDAQ: ENZN) today announced that it has entered into a collaborative drug development program for the investigational drug PEG-L-asparaginase with the Division of Cancer Treatment of the National Cancer Institute (NCI) of the National Institutes of Health.

The drug was reviewed at a recent meeting of the Decision Network Committee of the NCI. The committee and Enzon have agreed to expand Enzon's current trials for PEG-L-asparaginase, a modified form of E. coli asparaginase, which is a mainstay in the treatment of acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL). However, allergic hypersensitivity to E. coli derived L-asparaginase occurs in a significant number of ALL patients; it can be severe and limit its use in this population.

NCI will sponsor clinical trials in centers nationwide involving PEG-L-asparaginase for treatment of newly diagnosed and relapsed ALL patients. It is anticipated that the involvement of NCI will accelerate the research on this agent.

"With the help of NCI, we hope to vastly broaden the accessibility of PEG-L-asparaginase to patients who are allergic to the commonly used E. coli derived enzyme as well as to newly diagnosed patients as part of firstline treatment regimens," stated Abraham Abuchowski, president and CEO of Enzon.

The NCI's decision to sponsor the trials was based on the results of a comparative pharmacokinetic study involving Elspar(R), Erwinase(R), and Enzon's PEG-L-asparaginase conducted at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute as well as the results of a Pediatric Oncology Group (POG) study which clearly demonstrated that ALL patients who have developed allergic hypersensitivity to E. coli L-asparaginase can be successfully treated with PEG-L-asparaginase without cross reactivity and with apparently equivalent effectiveness.

Enzon, Inc. is a biopharmaceutical company developing improved therapies for life-threatening disease through the application of its proprietary technology PEGNOLOGY(SM), to enhance the delivery of protein-based drugs. In March 1990 Enzon received marketing approval from the FDA for ADAGEN(TM), (PEG-ADA), a treatment for a form of Severe Combined Immunodeficiency Disease (SCID).

ST. PAUL, MN. (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Land O'Lakes, Inc. announced it is mailing equity checks totalling $15.5 million this week to more than 26,000 farmers and local cooperative members throughout the Upper Midwest.

The payment, the largest in Land O'Lakes history, is a distribution of equity earned in Land O'Lakes by its members.

"As a cooperative, Land O'Lakes is committed to systematically returning the member's earned equity ownership in the cooperative. This redemption of equity is part of a larger total cash payment made to members this year and is indicative of our efforts to increase cash returns to our farmer-owners," said Jack Gherty, president and chief executive officer of Land O'Lakes.

In total, Land O'Lakes will return $22.4 million in cash to members during 1990. The additional amount reflects cash payments made earlier this year, including returning 25 percent of its 1989 earnings to members and return of estates.

The current mailing of $15.5 million in checks is going to 800 local cooperatives who earned equity ownership in Land O'Lakes through the purchase of agricultural supplies, and to 25,200 individuals, most of whom earned ownership in the cooperative as dairy producers who sold their milk to Land O'Lakes.

Land O'Lakes is a Minnesota-based food and agricultural cooperative. It markets more than 600 separate dairy food products and supplies more than 300,000 farmers from Wisconsin to Washington with a full line of agricultural inputs. Land O'Lakes had sales of $2.4 billion in 1989 and ranked 183rd on Fortune magazine's listing of the 500 largest U.S. industrial companies.

COLUMBUS, OH (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - NCR Corporation (NYSE: NCR) Chairman and CEO Charles E. Exley, Jr., citing an extensive history of failed mergers involving the telecommunications and computer industries, today told the Judiciary Committee of the Ohio Senate that he is "resolutely opposed" to AT&T's takeover plan. "NCR is not for sale to AT&T or anyone else," he said. "We want to remain independent."

Exley, pointing to AT&T's record of failure in the computer business, said that the "imagined" synergies and manageability between the telecommunications and computer industries have led to multi-million dollar losses in similar ventures.

Exley explained that "In 1969, Xerox acquired Scientific Data Systems. Six years later, Xerox closed it down and wrote off its remaining investment. In 1972, Sperry Univac acquired RCA's customer base and hired 2,500 RCA employees. In the years following, Sperry lost most of the RCA customer base to competitors. And even computer giant IBM, after acquiring the Rolm Corporation in 1984, ended up selling it and losing millions.

Exley said AT&T's proposed takeover would result in yet another failed attempt to buy into the computer industry. "Having lost an estimated $2 billion and gained virtually no market share, AT&T now appears to have thrown up its hands " he said. "It now wants to 'buy' expertise, in the form of NCR. The history of failure in such mergers has been devastating.

"Once this proposal is held up to the light of public scrutiny, it will become clear that it is not in the best interests of the people of this state," he said.

ATLANTA (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The first foreign sale of the Georgia Wood Export Marketing Co-op (GA-CO) will be shipped from Bob Balfour's mill in Thomasville on Thursday, Dec. 20, to Curacao, a Dutch possession of the Netherlands Antilles.

The two-truckload shipments will consist of 45,000 board-feet of southern yellow pine, construction-grade lumber.

The GA-CO, which is an export trading company, is the result of a two-year plan to serve small- and medium-size wood product companies throughout the region that are interested in exporting, but do not have the necessary expertise or product volume to devote to this activity.

The sponsors of GA-CO are Georgia Power Co., University of Georgia Cooperative Extension Service, Georgia Forestry Commission, and the Georgia Department of Industry, Trade & Tourism. These sponsors are primarily interested in expanding existing industry to increase business in Georgia.

Some of the benefits GA-CO members will receive are broader and more stable markets, increased export sales, increased profit potential, marketing advantages, and shared resources, said Arthur Howard, president of GA-CO.

The purpose of GA-CO is to meet foreign demands for co-op members' products in major markets in the Caribbean and Europe. This will be done through the arrangements of export sales and the handling of financial, legal and contractual aspects for members. The export mix is expected to be 35 percent hardwood and 65 percent softwood, Howard added.

NEW YORK, (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - New Plan Realty Trust (NYSE: NPR) said today that it has agreed to sell privately for investment 4,000,000 of its shares of beneficial interest for $67 million to ABP, the general pension fund for public employees of The Netherlands. ABP, which stands for Algemeen Burgerlijk Pensioenfonds, is an institution serving 1,420,000 present and former government employees in Holland. One of the largest pension funds in the world, ABP has assets of $100 billion.

New Plan, this country's largest publicly owned equity trust, or REIT, owns 70 properties, including 61 shopping centers, apartment complexes and other real estate in 14 states east of the Mississippi.

Announcement of the private placement was made jointly by W. G. Bleijenberg, general manager of the pension fund's real estate division, and by William Newman, chairman and chief executive officer of New Plan Realty Trust. Merrill Lynch & Co. initiated the transaction and assisted in the negotiations.

In addition to ABP's direct purchase of 4,000,000 shares from New Plan at $16.75 per share, the agreement calls for the subsequent purchase by ABP of 500,000 additional New Plan shares between now and April 30, 1991 in the open market. Should the fund purchase less than 500,000 shares on the open market through that date it will purchase the remainder directly from New Plan at a price of $17.50 per share.

Arnold Laubich, president of New Plan, said the proceeds of the sale would be used primarily for property acquisitions. Specifically, he stated that the funds would be added to the $137 million in cash and marketable securities already held by the trust, which has positioned itself to be a strong cash buyer of shopping centers and apartment properties.

He went on to say that ABP's investment in NPR's shares -- the fund's first in an REIT -- will total $75 million, including open market purchases. Laubich described this as "affirmation of the most positive kind from an overseas investor on the long term value of American real estate."

Welcoming ABP as a major shareholder of the trust, Chairman William Newman announced that Bleijenberg will be invited to become a member of New Plan's board of trustees. Newman also noted that ABP joins another large European pension fund as a major shareholder, the Merchant Navy Officers Pension Fund of Great Britain, which has been a long-time equity holder of the trust's shares. "Nearly 100 financial institutions are holders of our shares," he said, "and, with ABP, institutional ownership will account for approximately 60 percent of our outstanding shares."

DALLAS (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - American Airlines said today that it has agreed to purchase from Eastern Air Lines a package of assets that includes Eastern's route authority between New York/Newark and Montreal/Ottawa, certain airport terminal facilities at Montreal and other locations, and related arrival and departure slots at New York's LaGuardia Airport. The value of the transaction is $10 million.

Under the agreement, which is subject to government and bankruptcy court approvals, closing will take place within 10 days of the approvals, but no later than June 30, 1991.

American will begin operating the New York-Montreal route within 60 days after the closing. It will become American's seventh route between the United States and Canada.

"American has strong interest in long-term growth and expansion between the U.S. and Canada," said Donald J. Carty, the airline's executive vice president-finance and planning. "The free trade agreement between the two countries creates exciting new business and commercial opportunities, and we believe the New York/Newark- Montreal/Ottawa acquisition will allow American to foster this free- trade process and give us a stronger competitive position in the overall Canadian marketplace."

In addition to the route authority, the transaction calls for American to acquire from Eastern two gates at Montreal's Dorval Airport, 10 landing and departure slots at LaGuardia, and certain other assets surplus to Eastern's needs. These include gate facilities at Nashville, Orlando and Hartford.

A concurrent agreement also extends until June 30, 1991, the closing date for American's proposed acquisition of Eastern's Miami/Tampa- Toronto route authority. That agreement was signed on Dec. 15, 1989 and is now at issue in a Department of Transportation regulatory proceeding.

WICHITA, KS (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - High Plains Corp. (NASDAQ: HIPC) announced today it is nearing completion of its Colwich, Kan., ethanol plant expansion. Construction is expected to end in January 1991.

"Our production cost savings of $.13 to $.15 per gallon will serve to protect our ethanol profit margins against a decline of up to $5 per barrel in the price of crude oil," said Stan Larson, president of High Plains. "With the new modifications, our plant produced 1,215,000 gallons of ethanol in November, representing a 45 percent increase over the same period last year." The new efficiencies will provide High Plains with increased production levels from ten million to 15 million gallons per year.

Based in Wichita, High Plains Corp. is the only publicly traded company whose sole business is ethanol, and is one of the largest producers of ethanol west of the Mississippi River.

Clean-burning ethanol reduces pollutants in automotive gasoline and increases octane levels for better engine performance without increasing gas pump prices. Ethanol demand will increase in 1991 because of the higher level of oxygenate now required in gasoline by legislation in Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico, and Colorado.

Ethanol demand is expected to continue to increase nationally in September 1992 as a result of the recently enacted Clean Air Act mandating cleaner burning gasoline.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - A subsidiary of Logicon Inc. (NYSE: LGN) has won prime responsibility for supporting the U.S. Army's high-level command and control training exercises under a contract potentially valued at $48.3 million, the company said today.

Under the contract, Logicon RDA will provide technical support for the Army's computer-based Battle Command Training Program (BCTP) based at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. The subsidiary played a major role in developing the advanced-technology system at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) in Pasadena, Calif.

Logicon RDA's role includes modifying software, and providing engineering and other technical support for a series of major battle simulations/worldwide controlled from Fort Leavenworth.

The high-technology war games are simulated through the Corps Battle Simulation (CBS), a new and automated command post exercise driver also developed with Logicon RDA support at JPL. CBS units are installed at the five active U.S. Army Corps headquarters and at the Combined Arms Center at Fort Leavenworth. During the full-scale training exercises, senior Army officers assigned to command and control positions in the Army's combat divisions and its five corps, participate in the intensive around-the-clock, battle simulations. The realistic training gives the officers comprehensive command and staff experience without actually deploying troops or equipment, resulting in major savings of time and money.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The U.S. Chamber of Commerce went to federal court yesterday to challenge a Contra Costa County, Calif., ordinance setting wage and benefit rates for companies engaged in private construction projects.

The National Chamber Litigation Center, the public policy law firm affiliated with the Chamber, told the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California that the ordinance conflicts with provisions of federal employee benefit and labor laws. These laws prohibit state and local governments from setting wage and benefit rates in the private sector.

The suit said the ordinance also violates the contracts provisions of the U.S. and California constitutions.

The ordinance requires employers to pay union-negotiated wage and benefit rates in excess of $30 an hour to all workers -- union and non-union alike -- on private construction projects of $500,000 or more.

"The ordinance undermines the process of collective bargaining," said Stephen A. Bokat, Chamber general counsel and executive vice president of the NCLC. "It takes wages and benefits out of the negotiating process and sets them by legislative fiat."

The higher costs of doing business in Contra Costa County would drive businesses elsewhere, costing the county investment and jobs, he added.

Rosemary M. Collyer, former general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board who is representing the NCLC in the case, shares Bokat's concerns. "Federal labor law clearly pre-empts this astonishing effort to dictate wages and benefits paid by private employers," she said.

Bokat said the Chamber filed the suit on behalf of its 341 county members and 17,747 state members, many of whom would be adversely affected.

"The business community feels such government interference in the private sector should be nipped in the bud before it spreads further," Bokat said. "Already, at least five other California counties have similar ordinances and other governments, both in and out of the state, are considering such action."

The suit asks the court to void the ordinance as unconstitutional.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Cargill today announced plans for an $8.3 million expansion and renovation of its broiler- processing plant at 5421 W. Beaver St. here, bringing total recent capital investment in its Florida Poultry Complex to $11.4 million.

"When the plant expansion is completed in 1991, the facility will be capable of supplying a greater variety of the fresh, cut-up chicken needs of the food-service industry and wholesale grocers, Huemoller said.

He said the plant-expansion project will streamline product flow in the cut-up area of the plant, add freezer space and expand cooler space. It also will include upgrading the cafeteria and other employee-amenity areas. He said the chicken cut-up department and shipping and receiving areas will double in size while cooler space in the plant will quadruple and employee-amenity space will triple.

He said the plant's current employment of 725 would increase by approximately 50 people when the expansion is complete. Huemoller said that the company's positive economic impact on the area includes annual plant payroll of about $14 million, a yearly average of $5.5 million in grower payments to approximately 100 local farmers who raise chickens for the operation plus additional payroll and inventory expenses for the complex's hatchery, feed mill, breeder farm and food distribution centers in Jacksonville and Tampa.

"The plant improvements will increase the number of value-added products offered to the food-service and quick-service restaurant industries while providing more precisely cut and sized chicken products," Huemoller said.

Cargill's Florida Poultry Complex is a major supplier of Kentucky Fried Chicken outlets in Florida and the Caribbean, as well as Popeye's and Church's throughout the southeastern United States, Huemoller said.

Huemoller said Cargill has selected Haskell Company of Jacksonsville as the general contractor for the plant-expansion project, which will create additional jobs and positive economic impact in the region. Construction on the plant expansion is expected to begin next month and is scheduled to be completed in January 1992, he said.

HACKENSACK, NJ (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Script Systems Inc. (NASDAQ: SCPT) today announced a new product line of medical practice computer systems which are designed for the large clinic, hospital department or multispecialty physician group. Using newly developed software and hardware, these systems sell for from $100,000 to over $400,000. This is five to 20 times the price of the company's current systems.

Five systems have been sold in the first two months the systems have been available. These systems take advantage of the great data processing power available in state-of-the-art reduced instruction set (RISC) PCs, which allow them to perform in environments which previously required mainframe computers. Barry Mindes, the company president, stated that the price/performance levels and maintenance costs of these new systems are so favorable that a large replacement market for current mainframe-based medical computer systems will develop rapidly. For example, the 57-doctor Wheeling Clinic, the largest clinic in West Virginia, which is currently using an on-line mainframe to process its data, is installing one of these systems to support 100 terminals and 10 printers. The clinic will save several hundred thousand dollars per year while dramatically increasing capabilities. The Blair Medical Group, a prominent 27-doctor multispecialty clinic in Altoona, Pa., has installed a 60-terminal and 10-printer version of the system.

Mindes reported that several other large systems sales are being negotiated with clinics in the United States and abroad. With each sale, Script contracts to support and service the system as part of its ongoing relationship. Usually, Mindes added, these type systems are replaced or radically upgraded after about five years, and ongoing revenues from support and upgrades of these systems exceed the initial system price.

Script Systems is a leading developer of medical computer systems for physicians, hospitals and institutions. It has 12 direct sales offices throughout the country plus a wide network of distributors.

EL PASO, TEXAS (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Travis H. Petty, who began work with El Paso Natural Gas Co. 44 years ago as a mail clerk and rose to become company chairman, has announced he will retire December 31. Petty is currently vice chairman and a director of Burlington Resources, parent of El Paso Natural.

Regarded as an expert in all aspects of the natural gas industry, Petty has held leadership positions in the Interstate Natural Gas Association of America American Gas Association, Pacific Coast Gas Association, Southern Gas Association and the National Petroleum Council.

Petty began work with El Paso Natural in December 1946, first as a mail clerk, and later as a mechanic and field clerk. He was transferred to the company's controller's department in the early 1950s and was named an assistant company controller in 1961. He was elected controller in 1965 and named a vice president in 1969.

He was elected president of El Paso Natural in 1976 and became its chairman in May 1978, simultaneously with his election as vice chairman of The El Paso Co. a holding company for the various EPNG subsidiaries. He was elected chairman of the board, president and chief executive officer of the El Paso Co. in May 1979, positions he still retains, along with his vice chairmanship of Burlington Resources.

He has seen major changes in his years at El Paso Natural. When he began service in December 1946 the company's pipelines ended at Ajo, Ariz., and the firm was largely a regional operation with less than 2,500 total miles of pipeline, compared to the 22,000 miles it operates today.

El Paso Natural's major expansions began in 1947 with initial service to California, first to southern California and later to central and northern California. From a regional operation, El Paso became one of the nation's largest natural gas transmission firms which today delivers half of the natural gas used in California.

When El Paso was acquired by Burlington Northern in 1983, Petty was named a vice chairman and director of Burlington, positions he retained when Burlington Resources was formed in 1988 from the energy units of Burlington Northern.

In addition to his trade association affiliations, Petty is a director of Texas Commerce Bank of El Paso and Texas Commerce Bancshares Inc. of Houston. He is also a director of El Paso Electric Co.

Petty and his wife of 42 years, Berenice, make their home in El Paso.

PALISADES PARK, NJ (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Metrobank Financial Group, Inc. today announced the recent appointment of Gordon M. Ur as chief executive officer of the company and its principal subsidiary, Metrobank For Savings, FSB. The appointment of Ur represents the culmination of a search process which began in May of this year when former chairman and chief executive officer Malcolm Marsa left the company.

Ur, a certified public accountant, has over 20 years of experience in the financial services industry. Early in his career, Ur joined Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan in Westfield, N.J., where he rose to president and chief executive officer. In November 1988, Lincoln Federal was purchased by First Nationwide Bank of San Francisco. Shortly thereafter, Ur became managing director of FinPro Financial Services, Inc., a management consulting firm specializing in the financial services industry. In May 1989, Ur was appointed chairman and chief executive officer of Old Borough Savings and Loan Association in Trenton, N.J. In that capacity, Ur was instrumental in stabilizing and working out that institution's problem real estate assets. Ur has performed similar functions at two other Trenton-based thrifts.

Metrobank, which had incurred losses over the past year as a result of the downturn in real estate markets, indicated that Ur's appointment brings added management strength to the institution in the areas of strategic planning and administration. Michael B. Scaduto, president and chief operating officer, has been assigned the responsibility of overseeing the day-to-day operations and will be concentrating on the Division of Special Assets, including real estate owned resulting from foreclosure and commercial lending.

Commenting on the thrift's financial condition, Ur stated that "from the reports I have read, it appears as if the board has taken a number of positive steps towards addressing its real estate problems." He also added that, "The bank's branches are well situated and deposits remain strong. My immediate task is to focus upon the inherent strengths of the company and bring together a Capital Plan which will chart the course of the company for the years ahead " Ur stated.

HOUSTON (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Vaalco Energy Inc. announces that its wholly owned subsidiary, Alcorn (Production) Philippines Inc., as Operator of Block-C Service Contract-14, offshore northwest Palawan, the Republic of the Philippines, has completed the testing of the West Linapacan-1 exploration well.

Three drillstem tests (DST) were conducted between the interval of 5350-5896 feet. Water free oil was tested in all three DSTs. The maximum rate tested was from DST-2 which flowed 6708 barrels of oil per day (BOPD) through a 2" choke; whereas on a 48/64 inch choke the well flowed at a stabilized rate of 5051 BOPD with a flowing well head pressure of 582 psi and a gas-oil ratio of 324 cubic feet per barrel. The oil gravity was 30.1 degrees API.

This well is a major discovery for the Philippines. Very preliminary calculations of the reserves of this newly discovered field are conservatively estimated at one billion barrels of oil-in-place.

The field is located offshore in 1,150 feet of water approximately 250 miles southwest of Manila, Philippines. Deep water technology and equipment is available to develop this field. An all out effort will be made to expedite this field's development.

On the basis of initial field parameters. recoverable reserves would most likely fall within the standard oilfield definition of "Major Oilfield", 100 million barrels of crude oil or greater.

Gruy Engineering Corp., a Houston-based independent petroleum engineering firm has been engaged to independently assess the field reserves. This report should be made available in mid-January, 1991. Additional data review and appraisal drilling will be necessary to refine these preliminary estimates.

COLUMBUS, OH (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Huntington Bancshares Incorporated (NASDAQ: HBAN) today announced an offer through which certain shareholders may sell their shares without paying any commission charges. All shareholders who owned fewer than 100 shares of Huntington's common stock as of Dec. 12, 1990 are eligible under the terms of the program which started Dec. 14, 1990 and expires on Jan. 18, 1991, unless extended by Huntington.

"This plan is designed to be of benefit to both Huntington and any shareholders who choose to participate," stated Frank Wobst, chairman and chief executive officer of Huntington Bancshares. "While we value every one of our shareholders, we also realize that some shareholders holding relatively few shares of Huntington have held onto their shares simply due to the inconvenience associated with selling a small number of shares. In response to that request and in recognition of the high cost of servicing shareholder accounts, we are providing those shareholders with this program."

Under the terms of the program, shares will be repurchased by Huntington for its treasury stock purchase plan. Shares repurchased under the terms of this plan will be used by Huntington for corporate purposes including providing shares for the Company's Dividend Reinvestment and Common Stock Purchase Plan, 401(K), Stock Option and other benefit plans. Participating shareholders must sell all their Huntington shares that are in the same registered name. Partial tenders will not be accepted. The price received will be the highest closing market price from December 14, 1990 through Jan. 18, 1991, inclusive. There is no guaranteed minimum price per share. Eligible shareholders will receive complete information in the mail within the next week.

Huntington has selected Shareholder Communications Corporation (SCC) of New York to manage its program. SCC has managed over 150 similar offers over the past few years. Neither Huntington nor SCC makes any recommendation as to whether or not eligible shareholders should participate in the program.

OAKBROOK TERRACE, IL (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Telesphere Communications Inc. (AMEX: TSP), a full service long distance telephone company, said today that it expects to have a fourth quarter loss in the range of $5 million, which will result in a loss for the year of approximately $2 million.

HONOLULU (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Just in time for the holidays, Unocal's 76 Protech Patrol begins roaming Honolulu-area freeways and highways today, providing free emergency road service to stranded motorists.

The 76 Protech Patrol, inaugurated as a public service by Unocal and its Protech service station dealers, is designed to help ease traffic congestion and reduce air pollution.

The specially equipped vehicle will provide weekday assistance to rush hour commuters, operating Monday through Friday from 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. in the morning and 3:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. in the afternoon.

Services available to stranded motorists include jump starts, assistance with changing flat tires, water for overheated cars and enough fuel to reach the nearest service station. The vehicle is also equipped with a cellular phone for emergency communications, such as calls to Police Dispatch (911) or contract tow companies.

Routes to be covered by the 76 Protech Patrol include: o H1 Freeway between Aloha Stadium & the 6th Avenue exit o Pali Highway from H1 to Kamehameha Highway o Kamehameha Highway from Pali Highway to Likelike Highway o Likelike Highway from Kamehameha Highway to H1 Motorists needing assistance may wave down the vehicle by hand or attach a special Unocal distress flag to their antenna to alert the service. Distress flags are available at participating Unocal 76 Protech service stations and will be given to stranded motorists who get help from the 76 Protech Patrol for future use.

For safety reasons, the 76 Protech Patrol vehicle will assist only those motorists stranded on the highway's right-hand shoulder. For cars stuck in traffic lanes, the 76 Protech Patrol driver will alert the Honolulu Police Department.

According to air pollution experts, slow traveling or idling autos produce at least twice the amount of emissions per mile as that of vehicles traveling at normal speeds.

The service is sponsored by 14 Unocal 76 Protech dealers on Oahu. Unocal bought and equipped the vehicle, and participating 76 Protech dealers are underwriting the operating expenses.

Similar Unocal programs are underway in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Sacramento and Fresno, Calif.

Unocal 76 Protech service stations are certified full-service stations initiated by Unocal several years ago in response to the increased need for quality auto care as more stations began limiting or eliminating repair work. Unocal 76 Protech station mechanics are carefully trained and certified.

Their work is guaranteed in writing, a guarantee that is backed by Unocal.

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The executive committee of the AJCongress passed a resolution last night calling on Baxter International Inc. (NYSE: BAX), the giant international hospital supplies company, to cancel immediately its agreement with Syrian Defence Forces to build a plant in Syria, and to release to the AJCongress a copy of a report which has examined Baxter's complicity in boycott-related activities.

Allegations that Baxter was involved in the boycott of Israel were made in February 1990, when a former Baxter executive, Dr. Richard Fuisz, sent to Baxter directors a copy of an explosive memorandum on file in the Syrian Boycott Office which reported a connection between the 1988 sale of Travenol Laboratories, Ltd., Baxter's plant in Israel, and Baxter's removal from the Arab blacklist in 1989.

Based on information gleaned from the memo, Fuisz charged Baxter's top executives with entering into an illegal conspiracy to have Baxter removed from the Arab League blacklist. The gravity of the charges made against Baxter and their implications led to the involvement of AJCongress' boycott unit, which is directed by Will Maslow, AJCongress' general counsel.

Fuisz's letter incorporating the Syrian memo has triggered investigations by three governmental agencies and one by Baxter's audit committee. The Office of Antiboycott Compliance of the Department of Commerce has launched a full inquiry into the charge that Baxter's officers conspired to violate U.S. anti-boycott laws by their negotiations with Syrian Boycott officials. The SEC has started an informal inquiry to determine whether foreign bribes were paid in violation of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act. The IRS, which administers a separate anti-boycott law is investigating Baxter's compliance with that law.

Baxter has repeatedly denied the charges against it and hired a prominent law firm, Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, to conduct an investigation of the matter. Baxter received the results of that investigation on Nov. 19, 1990, which Baxter claims exonerates the company from all wrongdoing, but Baxter has refused to release the report to the public. This has prompted AJCongress' executive committee to pass a resolution requesting a copy of the report and also urging that Baxter cancel its plans to build a plant in Syria for the production of intravenous solutions. The AJCongress charged that products made in the plant, a joint venture with the Syrian Defence Forces, have obvious military applications. Syria has been on the U.S. statutory terrorist list of countries harboring and supporting international terrorists.

The AJCongress Boycott Unit monitors the operations of the Arab boycott of Israel and the enforcement of U.S. anti-boycott laws. It also publishes a monthly newsletter, Boycott Report, in which current developments on boycott practices here and abroad are reported. Among the subscribers of the Boycott Report are major U.S. corporate and legal firms as well as the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Washington and the Arab League office in Washington.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - American consumers are becoming increasingly sophisticated about producer claims of "recyclability" according to a nationwide Gallup Poll conducted for the glass packaging industry.

Better than two-thirds of those polled (67 percent) believe that recycling is truly a closed-loop process with a recyclable product being made into the same product again and again.

"Consumers' better understanding of what is and is not recyclable will make it harder for manufacturers to use misleading recycling claims in the future," said Lewis D. Andrews Jr., president of the Glass Packaging Institute, which commissioned the Gallup Poll.

As for what Americans are willing to do when it comes to recycling, the poll revealed that many more Americans prefer curbside recycling.

More than 50 percent of those polled by the Gallup Organization favored curbside recycling over returning recyclable materials to recycling centers or taking deposit containers back to stores for redemption. This is twice the percentage of people ranking curbside recycling as their first choice just two years ago.

Forced deposits, on the other hand, have declined in popularity. In just one year, the number of people ranking forced deposits as their first choice decreased by 27 percent.

Consumers have taken the "green" message to heart with 80 percent willing to switch to recyclable packaging if given the choice, the poll revealed. This is an increase of 48 percent since 1988.

Other GPI/Gallup Poll findings include: -- 89 percent of those polled think glass can definitely or probably be recycled.

-- 49 percent of the people claim enough glass is being recycled to make a difference.

-- 27 percent think enough plastic is being recycled. -- 86 percent believe enough aluminum is being recycled. The Gallup Poll was conducted from Oct. 8-14, 1990. The findings are based on telephone interviews with a national sample of 1,012 adults, 18 years of age and older.

HUTCHINSON, KN (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Concordia Foods Corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of Wilson Foods Corporation, has acquired a ham processing plant in Concordia, Mo., from Kretschmar Brands, Inc. of St. Louis. Wilson Foods and Concordia Foods are subsidiaries of Doskocil Companies Incorporated (NASDAQ: DOSKQ) of Hutchinson.

The plant will produce boneless, smoked hams for Wilson Foods under its Wilson(R) and Corn King(R) brand names. Ham production is expected to begin in the third week of January 1991.

Scullin, the former president of Packard Press' Philadelphia office, is directing ALCOM's efforts in both financial printing and the application of new technologies to the printing and financial industries.

"We brought Frank on board for his expertise in financial printing," said ALCOM President Frank D. Eichman. "He's the person who can pull together the pieces of the technology puzzle, to help our customers understand how they can utilize desktop publishing concepts to integrate pagination, image transfer and computer software technologies.

Currently, financial printing faces a different, tighter market than in its 80's heyday. As a result, the market is more ready to accept a more moderate approach. Scullin noted that supplier contraction in the financial printing market has opened opportunities for aggressive regional printers like ALCOM to move into the vacuum created by traditional financial printers' inability to institute the changes necessary to cope with the new look of the market.

Scullin's insights into financial printing come from 15 years of directing Packard's Financial Printing Division. He joined the company in 1971 at the inception of the Financial Printing Division, serving in sales, marketing and executive capacities and applying computer technology and desktop publishing to financial printing.

He became an industry consultant earlier this year and maintains national relationships that should benefit ALCOM in serving any and all clients. Scullin has also been named senior vice president of ALCOM Printing Group.

Headquartered in Broomall, ALCOM Printing Group is the seventh largest commercial printer in the Delaware Valley, serving the Washington to New York City market.

ALCOM consists of three production and office facilities that include typesetting as well as six-color sheet-fed and web capabilities -- Havertown Printing (Broomall), Lehigh Litho (Bethlehem, Pa.) and Tele-Composition (Clifton Heights, Pa.). In addition, the company has sales offices in Philadelphia and New York. Nationally, ALCOM is ranked among the Printing Impressions 500.

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Circulation of the Daily News is approximately 600,000 copies per day, it was announced today. The sources of the paper's sales have changed dramatically since the strike began Oct. 25.

Traditionally, single copy sales accounted for 80 percent of the News' circulation. Strike violence and intimidation have reduced those sales to 20 percent. Now, the hawker program, wholesalers, and home delivery account for the greatest percentage of sales.

News Vice President John Sloan said, "It is important to note, that retail dealers of the News are coming back in large numbers. They currently represent sales of 125,000 sold copies per day."

Based on the new distribution system, the Daily News has attained a daily paid circulation of 600,000 copies. The following breakdown of that circulation will be provided to the Audit Bureau of Circulation, which monitors newspaper sales:

-- Single copy, newsstand/retail outlet sales: 125,000 -- Hawkers: 200,000 -- Home delivery: 200,000 -- Wholesaler/suburban distribution: 75,000 -- Total Sales: 600,000

Sloan said that those who question the paper's circulation statistics are making judgments based on incomplete and inaccurate information. "It is in the interest of the striking unions and our competitors in this market to challenge our circulation. Some have failed to recognize the fact that the sources of the paper's sales have been dramatically altered. But the hard data -- all of which is being subjected to ABC audit -- substantiates that the Daily News has a paid circulation of 600,000 and climbing. It is clear that

New Yorkers want their Daily News, and we are increasingly successful at getting it to them."

Current circulation is approximately one-half of pre-strike totals. CONTACT: John Sloan, vice president of Daily News, 212-210-6349

CHARLOTTE, NC (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The Board of Directors of First Union Corporation (NYSE: FTU) today adopted a Shareholder Protection Rights Plan designed to enhance the Board's ability to protect shareholders against attempts to acquire control of First Union by means of unfair or abusive tactics that have been prevalent in many unsolicited takeover attempts.

First Union's Board of Directors adopted the Rights Plan following a careful and thorough study. The Board concluded that shareholders will be better served by the Rights Plan than by North Carolina's Shareholder Protection Act and Control Share Acquisition Act, two anti-takeover statutes that would have remained applicable to First Union if the Board of Directors had not taken action at its meeting in August to remove First Union from the coverage of both those statutes.

More than 1,200 U.S. corporations have adopted plans similar in concept to First Union's Rights Plan, including over 100 bank holding companies.

Under the Rights Plan each common shareholder of record at the close of business on December 28, 1990, will automatically receive, on that date, a dividend of one Right for each share of Common Stock held. The Rights will be evidenced by First Union's Common Stock certificates, will automatically trade with the Common Stock and will not be exercisable, unless a person or group acquires beneficial ownership of 15 percent or more of First Union's Common Stock or commences a tender or exchange offer that will result in such person or group owning 15 percent or more of such stock. Thereafter, separate Rights certificates will be distributed.

First Union Corporation may redeem the Rights (or, in certain circumstances, terminate the Rights without payment) at a price of $.01 per Right at any time prior to a specified period of time after a person or group has become the beneficial owner of 15 percent or more of its Common Stock. The Rights will expire on December 28, 2000, unless earlier redeemed or terminated.

As of Sept. 30, 1990, First Union Corporation had assets of $39.1 billion and operated 764 statewide banking offices in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, one banking office in Tennessee, and 277 nonbanking offices in 36 states.

CHICAGO (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - In an effort to spur growth of the U.S. information industry, the Ameritech (NYSE: AIT) Bell companies today became the first telephone companies to file unbundled prices with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) for an array of features that information providers can use to build advanced telephone services.

These features, called basic serving arrangements (BSAs) and basic service elements (BSEs), are part of the companies' Open Network Architecture (ONA) plan.

"We are opening up our network to give information providers greater access to the telecommunications capabilities they need to move our country further into the Information Age," said Terry Appenzeller, Ameritech Services senior director of ONA Implementation. Ameritech Services coordinated development of the Ameritech Bell companies' ONA plan and tariffs.

The filings made today with the FCC are consistent with the Ameritech Bell companies' ONA plan filed initially in February 1988 to explain how the companies will open up their telecommunications network.

Initial deployment will cover 19 areas including Chicago; Indianapolis; Detroit; Cleveland and Columbus, Ohio; and Milwaukee, plus selected mid-sized cities and rural areas in each state. However, many of the ONA services will be available beyond the 19 deployment areas.

Each Ameritech Bell company plans to file similar tariffs with its state utility commission during the next few months.

"This common tariff structure will contribute to consistent service offerings, prices and ordering and billing processes across our five states -- an attractive prospect to information providers," Appenzeller said.

Ameritech is the Chicago-based parent of Bell companies serving Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin, as well as several other companies providing mobile communications, directory publishing, lease financing and audiotex services. Its 1989 revenues were $10.2 billion.

DEARBORN, MI (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - CMS Energy Corporation's independent power production unit, CMS Generation Co., has named Robert M. Wheeler as project manager for the Grayling Generating Station project. The announcement was made by Ashish D. Sarkar, CMS Generation's vice president of projects management.

Wheeler will be responsible for managing design, construction and start-up of the 34-megawatt, waste-wood-fueled independent power plant being built near Grayling, Mich. He will provide management oversight of activities performed by Black & Veatch, Townsend & Bottum and Christman Co., the project's construction contractors.

"CMS Generation is very pleased to have a manager of Bob's caliber on board for this important energy project," Sarkar said. Wheeler's project management office will be located at the Grayling site.

Wheeler, 43, had been cost and schedule supervisor since 1987 for the Midland Cogeneration Venture, the nation's largest cogeneration facility, which entered commercial operation this year ahead of schedule and under budget. Before that, he held increasingly responsible positions within the projects, engineering and construction department of Consumers Power Company.

A native of Scottville, Mich., Wheeler earned a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from Michigan State University in 1973. He is a registered professional engineer in the State of Michigan. Wheeler and his wife, Cheryl, are the parents of a son and two daughters.

CMS Generation and Grayling Development Partners each hold a 50-percent ownership interest in the project. Grayling Development Partners includes Primary Power, Inc. of Saginaw, Mich., and a subsidiary of Decker Energy International of Winter Park, Fla. Construction of the Grayling facility is scheduled to be completed by fall 1992.

Decker Energy International develops, owns and operates cogeneration and small power projects. In addition to the Grayling project, it has four operating facilities in Michigan and California. Decker Energy has also developed and sold its interest in three natural gas-fired cogeneration projects and two wood-burning projects.

Primary Power is a developer of wood- and waste-fueled power projects. CMS Energy Corporation (NYSE: CMS) is a $3 billion (sales) diversified energy company with businesses engaged in the distribution of electricity and natural gas, interstate storage and transmission of natural gas, oil and gas exploration and production, independent power generation and utility services. OCALA, FL. (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Mid-State Federal Savings Bank (NASDAQ-NMS: MSSB) today announced a loss for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1990, of $1,974,000, or $.95 per share, compared to a loss of $1,128,000, or $.55 per share, for the 1989 fiscal year. Mid-State Federal also reported a loss for the fourth fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, of $503,000, or $.25 per share. This compares to a loss of $2,027,000, or $.96 per share, for the fourth fiscal quarter of 1989.

The results for the fiscal year and fourth quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 were adversely affected by increased provisions for losses on loans and real estate owned. The total provisions for losses for the 1990 fiscal year amounted to $5.8 million, compared to $2.9 million for fiscal 1989. During the fourth fiscal quarter of 1990, the total provisions for losses were $1.3 million, compared to $2.0 million for the same quarter of 1989.

The net loss from real estate operations, excluding provisions for losses, was $641,000 for fiscal 1990, compared to $1.2 million for 1989. Included in the 1989 loss from real estate operations was a $1.0 million reserve for payment of judgements and interest in a lawsuit against the bank. These judgements were reversed by a Florida appellate court in October, 1990. As a result, the bank intends to consider reversing this reserve into income during an appropriate future period.

Net interest income, before provision for loan and investment securities losses, was $20.0 million, an increase of 6.1 percent over the $18.8 million reported for 1989. The improvement in net interest income was primarily the result of an increase in the net interest rate spread to 2.02 percent during fiscal 1990, compared to 1.88 percent during 1989. The net interest rate spread for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, was 2.11 percent, compared to 1.80 percent for the fourth fiscal quarter of 1989.

Other income in fiscal 1990 included $1.1 million attributable to the receipt and contribution to the bank's Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP) of the excess assets from the 1988 termination of the bank's pension plan. The income from the pension plan termination was not subject to income tax since the excess assets were contributed to the ESOP. The bank will reflect an expense, $372,000 of which was recognized in the fourth fiscal quarter of 1990 when the stock held by the ESOP is allocated to the accounts of eligible employees.

Operating expenses, excluding the amortization of goodwill and acquisition expenses of $470,000, fell to $17.8 million during the year ended Sept. 30, 1990, a decrease of 5.1 percent from the 1989 fiscal year. From fiscal 1988 to fiscal 1990, operating expenses, excluding the amortization of goodwill and acquisition expenses, have been reduced by $3.6 million, or 17.0 percent, on an annualized basis.

Total nonaccrual loans were $7.9 million at Sept. 30, 1990, compared to $8.1 million at Sept. 30, 1989. Total nonearning assets from lending activities, including nonaccrual loans, real estate in judgment, and real estate owned, were $21.3 million at Sept. 30, 1990, compared to $18.0 million one year earlier. The bank's total reserve for loan and investment losses was $3.6 million at Sept. 30, 1990, compared to $1.4 million at Sept. 30, 1989. In addition, loans totaling $2.3 million were charged-off during fiscal 1990, as compared to $720,000 which were charged-off during fiscal 1989.

The bank met and exceeded all of its federal capital requirements at Sept. 30, 1990.

Mid-State Federal is a publicly held, federally insured, and federally chartered stock savings bank with its common stock traded over-the-counter and quoted on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol "MSSB." With it home office in Ocala, Fla., the thrift has assets of just under $1 billion and operates 26 branch offices within a five county area in west central Florida.

HOUSTON (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Nabors Industries Inc. (AMEX: NBR) announced today its operating results for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1990. Fiscal 1990 results include seven months of Loffland Brothers Co., which was acquired in late February 1990.

Net income for fiscal 1990 totalled $14.6 million, or 27 cents per share, compared to $5.5 million, or 12 cents per share in fiscal 1989. Revenues were $139.0 million in fiscal 1990 compared to $74.5 million in the prior year. Pro forma 1990 results, assuming Loffland Brothers and Henley Drilling were included for the full year, indicate combined revenue of $192.7 and net income of $17.3 million, or 29 cents per share. Henley Drilling was acquired by Nabors in November 1990.

For the fourth quarter of fiscal 1990, the company reported net income of $5.9 million, or 10 cents per share, compared to net income of $1.6 million, or $0.03 per share, in the fourth quarter of 1989. Revenues for the quarter amounted to $47.4 million compared to $16.2 million in the prior year's quarter. Full year and fourth quarter 1990 results benefited from a revision of salvage values of the company's rigs which reduced depreciation by $2.1 million, or $0.04 per share.

The strong performance reflected excellent results in Alaska and in all of the company's international land drilling markets. Platform drilling operations in the North Sea and the Gulf of Mexico also made significant contributions to fiscal 1990 results. Continued improvement has been noted in early fiscal 1991 operations. In Alaska, an additional drilling rig resumed work this October and a newly constructed workover rig will start up in early 1991. International activities will benefit further from three land rigs being redeployed from the United States to Saudi Arabia under long term contracts -- two rigs recently began work and the third will arrive early next spring. In addition, another land rig is in transit to Venezuela for a contract beginning in early January.

Nabors Industries, headquartered in Houston, is among the largest international drilling contractors, operating a fleet of 111 land and offshore rigs. The company is a major participant in most of the significant oil and gas drilling markets in the world, including Alaska, Canada, the continental U.S., the Gulf of Mexico, the North Sea, the Middle East, South America and the Far East. Nabors is also the leading international geothermal drilling company. In addition, Nabors engages in oilfield transportation, construction, maintenance and other support services in Alaska, providing total arctic logistical self-sufficiency.

RALEIGH, NC (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Exide Electronics Group, Inc. (NASDAQ: XUPS), announced today that it has settled on terms favorable to the Company previously disclosed litigation in the United States District court in Chicago against the Company's principal U.S. subsidiary. The case, "Thomas K. Evans et al, v. Exide Electronics Corp.," was filed by three former employees of the Company, each of whom claimed damages of not less than $2,500,000 for the alleged breach of employment contracts by the Company.

The out-of court settlements also included resolution of the counterclaims the Company had filed against one of the plaintiffs. The terms of both out-of-court settlements were not disclosed.

The effects of the out-of-court settlements and the related legal expenses will be recorded by the Company during the first quarter of fiscal 1991, which ends on December 30, 1990, and will not have a material adverse effect on the financial condition of the Company. However, while the Company anticipates revenue in the first quarter of 1991 to exceed revenue of the corresponding period in 1990, the Company expects that income from continuing operations for the first quarter of 1991 could be at a break-even level or a loss due to legal expenses, including the recording of the out-of-court settlements in the "Evans" litigation, as well as normal seasonal factors.

Exide Electronics designs, manufactures, markets and services a broad line of power performance and protection products, which protect computer and other sensitive electronic systems against electrical power loss and distortions. The Company's products are used in diverse application, including large computer facilities, mainframe and minicomputer systems, communications systems, medical application and distributed computing environments.

VERNON, CT (DEC. 18) PRNEWSWIRE - Tolland Bank (NASDAQ-NMS: TOBK) announced today that it will report a net loss for the fourth quarter of 1990 which will result in a net loss for the full year. For the first nine months of 1990 net income was $357,000. The bank also announced that it will suspend its quarterly dividend effective with the fourth quarter of 1990.

Chairman and President Guy Cambria Jr., indicated that this difficult decision was made following a review of financial results for the first two months of the quarter. He commented on the two major developments which will negatively impact earnings.

First of all, the continuing decline in the general economic conditions within the bank's market area has been reflected in increasing delinquencies, repossessions and defaults. Non-performing assets, which were 2.3 percent of assets, or $4.4 million at Sept. 30, 1990, are expected to substantially increase by Dec. 31. The higher level of non-performing assets will reduce future interest income. Contributing to the bank's fourth-quarter loss will be write-downs on foreclosed assets and a higher loan loss provision associated with increased charge-offs and delinquencies. Expenses for professional services to deal with these assets have increased in the fourth quarter and are expected to continue to be higher than normal next year. Commensurate reductions in other expense categories are planned for 1991 to mitigate some of the effect on next year's earnings.

Secondly, the quarter's results will reflect a loss in excess of $300,000 on the sale of financial institutions' stock from the bank's portfolio. This step was taken after determining that the prospect for recovery in these stocks was unlikely in the foreseeable future. In mid-December, the unrealized loss on marketable equities had been reduced to about $160,000 from $590,000 at Sept. 30. Recognition of the loss will result in the refund of taxes paid on an equivalent amount of capital gains reported in prior periods. The net effect of the sales and the recent improvement in the market value of the remaining $1.8 million portfolio is to add about $200,000 to capital.

Cambria concluded, "The board will reinstate the quarterly dividend when a return to profitable operations is assured. While the bank will report a loss for 1990, its capital position is an on-going source of strength. At Sept. 30 1990, the bank had shareholders' equity equal to 8.38 percent of total assets of $189.3 million, a ratio which is well in excess of regulatory requirements. Meanwhile deposit growth is among the highest for any Connecticut savings institutions, which has allowed us to substantially improve the structure of the balance sheet."

Tolland Bank is a Connecticut savings bank, the deposits of which are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

TORONTO (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Campeau Corporation today reported its unaudited financial results for the nine-month period ended Oct. 31, 1990. To provide a better understanding of the financial performance and position of the corporation and its subsidiaries, the financial statements continue to show both consolidated and parent-company only results. All figures are stated in U.S. dollars.

Consolidated revenue for Campeau Corporation amounted to $6.94 billion in the nine-month 1990 period compared with $7.04 billion in the 1989 period. This includes revenue from department stores of $4.88 billion in the first nine months of 1990, down from $5.09 billion a year earlier. The decline continues to reflect the impact of uncertainties regarding the financial positions of Allied Stores and Federated Department Stores, the implementation of a new merchandising strategy, and the sluggish economy.

Ralphs Grocery Company's revenue rose 7.4 percent to $1.87 billion from the supermarket company's nine-month 1989 revenue of $1.74 billion. The increase is attributable largely to its major remodeling and new- store program. In 1989 and 1990, Ralphs has completed 15 new stores and 42 remodels.

The consolidated real estate revenue declined to $189 million in the first nine months of 1990 from $213 million in the 1989 period reflecting the sale of rental properties in Canada and the United States net of rental increases, and a small decline in land sales.

Consolidated operating profit amounted to $379 million in the 1990 period compared with $680 million for the same nine months of 1989. Operating profit from department stores declined to $261 million in the 1990 period compared with $440 million in 1989.

Ralphs' operating profit increased to $130 million in 1990 from $123 million in the nine-month 1989 period. The 1990 amount is after the deduction of a non-cash charge of $10 million for Ralphs' equity appreciation rights benefits (none in 1989.)

The consolidated real estate operations incurred an operating loss of $12 million compared with an operating profit of $117 million reported in the 1989 period. The decline reflects a $106 million provision for loss on real estate assets, including provision for anticipated costs necessary to complete commitments for real estate previously sold.

The consolidated net loss for the first nine months of 1990 was $472 million compared with a loss in the 1989 period of $377 million. The 1990 loss reflects a lower gain on the sale of assets of $46 million from $147 million in 1989. The 1990 net loss also includes $72 million in reorganization costs principally related to U.S. subsidiaries in reorganization under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code. These include Allied Stores Corporation, Federated Department Stores, Inc., and Federated Stores, Inc. Ralphs Grocery Company did not file for relief under Chapter 11.

The 1990 loss also does not include $204 million of interest on unsecured debt of subsidiaries in reorganization under Chapter 11 and $36 million in dividends on Allied's preferred shares which in 1989 were reflected in minority interest.

The nine-month consolidated loss is after the deduction of $129 million in non-cash charges including deferred income taxes, depreciation and amortization, and amortization of financing costs.

Revenue for the parent company amounted to $165 million in the nine- month 1990 period including $120 million from rental properties and $45 million from real estate sales. This compares with $138 million in revenue from real estate in the 1989 period, including $119 million from rental properties and $19 million from real estate sales.

In the 1990 third quarter, the parent company completed the sale of land and properties in Canada for a total of about $40 million. Since the beginning of the 1990 year, total asset dispositions in Canada have amounted to more than $135 million.

Operating profit from the parent company of $33 million in the 1990 period includes $77 million from rental properties net of a $44 million loss from real estate sales, including provision for losses. In the 1989 period, rental properties contributed $77 million and real estate sales $8 million to operating profit.

The parent company's net loss for the first nine months of 1990 amounted to $472 million compared with $377 million in the 1989 period.

Before recognizing the net loss from discontinued real estate, losses of subsidiaries and income taxes, the parent company's loss amounted to $76 million in the first nine months of 1990, compared with an $18 million profit in the comparable 1989 period. The decline most significantly reflects a provision for loss of $50 million included in the consolidated real estate provision of $106 million, and an increase in financing costs of $40 million, partially offset by increased gains on the sale of assets in the amount of $7 million. Cash provided by operating activities of $4 million is up from break-even from operations in the first nine months of 1989, reflecting the deferral of interest under the parent company's business plan.

EAST HANOVER, NJ (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The following statement was released today by Sandoz Pharmaceuticals Corporation:

We have heard that the attorneys general of 21 states intend to file suit against Sandoz Pharmaceuticals Corporation concerning our marketing of Clozaril.

While we have not yet received any notice of such a suit, we understand that the intent is to force us to separate the sale of this drug from the system that has been designed to monitor and control the safety of its use.

We have publicly announced that we intend to modify this monitoring system in accordance with recent discussions with the FDA and with representatives of most of the 21 attorneys general. We don not feel that our existing distribution system violates the antitrust system. In any event the proposed modifications clearly resolve that issue. We deeply regret that in spite of our willingness to resolve the matter amicably, these states have apparently felt the need to pursue this matter in court. While we understand the difficulty the states have in finding ways to pay for ambulatory health care, we believe safety through monitoring to be an essential element in Clozaril treatment.

Our present monitoring system has identified 173 patients who could not tolerate the drug because of serious side effects. This has enabled us to deliver the drug to 7,000 patients throughout the U.S. without one fatality. We are proud of this safety record and trust that all states will join us in ensuring that all Clozaril patients throughout the nation will in the future also benefit from this treatment.

Sandoz remains committed to helping patients obtain ready access to Clozaril in the most cost-effective and safe manner.

MOSCOW (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc., and Progress Publishers in the Soviet Union signed an agreement today for an historic cooperative venture -- the publishing of a Russian-language Encyclopedia Britannica. It will be the first truly international encyclopedia published in the Soviet Union since the Russian Revolution in 1917.

The agreement was signed by Robert P. Gwinn, chairman and chief executive officer of Britannica, and Alexander Avelichev, director of Progress Publishers of the Soviet Union. Gwinn described the venture as a milestone in the history of the 222-year-old Britannica and the publishing world as well.

The project is expected to take approximately five years to complete. The agreement provides for the first 12 volumes of The New Encyclopedia Britannica -- known as the Micropaedia -- to be translated into Russian and published in the Soviet Union as Britannica's Russian- language edition.

The Micropedia is the ready-reference section of Britannica's 32- volume reference work, now in its 15th edition.

These latter changes will be made to enhance the edition's attractiveness to the Russian reader, Gwinn said. For example, there will be greater emphasis on the history, geography and cultural activities in the Soviet Union, and a corresponding reduction in articles that might be of less interest to the Russian market, he added. This will follow the practice already adopted in encyclopedias in Chinese, Japanese and other languages.

Progress Publishers has the right to publish and sell the Russian language edition in the Soviet Union, with Britannica retaining sales rights elsewhere.

The company also publishes encyclopedias in a number of languages, including Japanese, French, Spanish, Portuguese, Turkish and Italian. In 1980, Encyclopedia Britannica and the Encyclopedia of China Publishing House of the People's Republic of China entered into a heralded arrangement to produce a Chinese-language version of the Micropaedia portion of Britannica's 15th Edition. The 10-volume Concise Encyclopedia Britannica was published in 1986.

Britannica also is developing encyclopedias in the Korean and Greek languages.

Progress Publishers was founded in Moscow in 1931. Foreign language books and Russian translations have been its specialty from the beginning. With approximately 1,000 new titles per year in 51 languages, it is the largest publishing house in the Soviet Union and one of the largest in the world.

Russian-language encyclopedias date back to the 18th century with the publication in 1793 of the Russian Lexicon. This was followed by the Encyclopedia Reference Dictionary in 1847 and the Encyclopedia Dictionary in 1895.

The Great Encyclopedia was published in 1900 followed by the Great Soviet Encyclopedia, which began publication in 1926. A second edition was published beginning in 1949. This was followed by the latest edition, which appeared in the '70s. All editions reflected official government views.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) has asked the U.S. District Court in Miami to issue a civil contempt order against David L. Paul for failing to comply with the OTS temporary cease and desist action against him.

In its original action filed Oct. 22, 1990, OTS sought to ban Paul, former chief executive officer of failed CenTrust Bank, from the banking industry and force him to pay restitution of $30,879,550.

Paul was ordered by the federal court in Miami in early December to comply with the OTS cease and desist order, but, OTS said, Paul has failed to do so.

The contempt order filed by the Justice Department on behalf of OTS asked the court to require Paul to show cause why he should not be "adjudged in contempt of this court." OTS also asked that the court order Paul to submit to a deposition examination, under oath, by OTS attorneys no later than Dec. 28. The examination would be for the purpose of identifying and locating assets in which Paul or members of his immediate family have an interest.

OTS also charged that Paul has made no effort to provide any portion of the security required by the temporary cease and desist order and has not posted a bond. The agency said further that Paul has produced no meaningful accounting of his assets and has failed to supply certified financial statements as required in the OTS and court orders.

SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The Internal Revenue Service announced postponement of a sale of luxury collector cars which had been scheduled for Dec. 20, 1990, until after the first of 1991. "Although we received more than 100 letters indicating interest in the sale, an insufficient number of serious potential bidders made inquiry. The majority of people who contacted IRS just wanted to see what a one-half million dollar car looked like," said IRS spokesman Larry Wright.

"In addition, some of the potential bidders interested in the 1956 Mercedes Gullwing, estimated to be worth $600,000, expressed concern at the relatively short time between the announcement of the intended sale last Nov. 23, 1990, and the old Dec. 20, 1990, proposed date of sale. These prospective buyers felt more time was needed to make financial arrangements for such a large purchase," Wright explained.

Everyone who contacted the IRS regarding the Mercedes Gullwing, the 1967 Toyota 2000 GT or the 1967 Lamborghini 400 Islero was notified by mail of the sale's postponement. These people will also receive notification by mail when the date and location of the sale is firmed up.

The Gullwing was seized by the Drug Enforcement Administration from a Bay Area Hashish dealer. The car has been stored since its seizure at an undisclosed impound facility operated by the Department of Justice. When the sale date and location are selected, plans are to allow prospective bidders to view the cars a few days before the sale.

Individuals interested in the sale should send a post card or letter of interest to: IRS; 1330 Broadway, Room 600; Oakland, CA 94612; Attn: Gullwing. A recorded listing of all IRS sales, including updated information on these three collector cars is available at 415-556-5021. The seizure/sale hotline is available 24 hours a day.

NEW YORK (DEC. 17) UPI - Washington Coach Terry Murray spent lots of time standing around and watching breakways Monday night. His players did, too.

The Capitals, who normally check with diligence, blew a two-goal lead and allowed the New York Rangers to score a 5-3 victory in the night's lone NHL game.

''I can't remember the last time we gave up that many breakaways in a game,''

Murray said. ''It's tough to stand there and watch that many happen time after time.''

Caps goalie Mike Liut won his share of the confrontations, but Bernie Nicholls converted one with 13 seconds left in the second period, pulling New York into a 3-3 tie.

Ray Sheppard then scored a power-play goal at 4:45 of the third period, breaking a tie and helping the Rangers snap a five-game winless streak against Patrick Division foes.

''We give up a key breakaway in the last minute of the second period, '' Murray said. ''That's a very fundamental play, playing by the clock. We weren't aware of what was going on around us at all.''

Sheppard capped a long passing sequence by stepping just outside the crease and backhanding his 14th goal past Mike Liut. John Ogrodnick added his second goal of the game and 17th of the season later in the period.

The line of Ogrodnick, Kelly Kisio and Brian Mullen accounted for three goals and four assists.

''Over the last four games against us, they've dominated,'' Kisio said. ''Tonight they came out and it looked like they were going to do it again.

''We were lucky to get a couple of big goals and turn the tide our way. We were able to grind out a good win. They took a couple of penalties they shouldn't have and we scored on the power play. In the past, they have pretty good penalty killers and have held us off. Tonight the breaks went our way.''

Dino Ciccarelli, Calle Johansson and Kelly Miller helped Washington take a 3-1 edge. Then Kisio and Nicholls scored. Nicholls' goal came on a breakaway, not long after Kisio was stopped on a solo.

''That's not like Washington to allow that many breakaways,'' Nicholls said. ''I think we had four. For them, that meant some miscommunication somewhere. We were fortunate to capitalize on a couple of them.''

With Washington leading 3-1, the Capitals' Tim Bergland took an interference penalty at 13:55 and Kisio slapped James Patrick's feed over Liut at 15:01, cutting the deficit to 3-2.

Nicholls took a breakaway pass from Mike Gartner and scored with just 13 seconds left in the period, tying the score.

Ciccarelli gave Washington a 1-0 lead at 9:10 of the first period, but Ogrodnick tied it at 15:59, three seconds after a New York power play expired. Ogrodnick's goal capped a scramble in which the puck hit both posts.

Johansson put the Capitals ahead 2-1 with a power-play goal at 19:25 of the first period, one-timing a feed from Mike Ridley.

Miller made it 3-1 at 12:17, tipping in a drive by Bob Rouse.

CHICAGO (UPI) - Mitch Williams, upset about the Chicago Cubs' free agent signing of Dave Smith and reports of bad-mouthing by Manager Don Zimmer, fired back Monday, demanding a trade.

Williams, who saved 36 games in his first season for the Cubs in 1989 when they won the National League East, reacted angrily after hearing the team had signed Smith to a 2-year, $4.4 million contract.

''I want out of Chicago,'' Williams said Monday from his Arlington, Texas, home. ''I just don't care for the things I've heard about Don Zimmer talking behind my back and all that and saying bad things about me.

''I just don't want to play for that,'' Williams said. ''There's no question now I want out of Chicago.''

''I'm sorry the way he feels,'' Zimmer said late Monday from his Florida home. ''He did an outstanding job for us in '89 and he was one of the very big parts in the greatest year I've ever spent in baseball.''

A knee injury hampered Williams in 1990, and the left-hander recorded just 16 saves. He also started two games, an experiment Zimmer later said failed.

Williams could complement the right-handed Smith in the bullpen, but the Cubs received some offers for Williams at the winter meetings and so a trade is a possible.

Smith, 35, is the third free-agent signed by the Cubs. They also inked pitcher Danny Jackson to a 3-year, $10.5 million contract, and acquired outfielder George Bell with a 3-year deal for $9.8 million, plus another option year at $3 million.

Smith has spent 11 seasons with Houston, compiling a 53-47 major- league record. He has 199 career saves and a 2.53 ERA.

In the 1990 season, Smith was 6-6 with 23 saves and a 2.39 ERA. He struck out 50 in 60 1-3 innings, and opposing batters hit .210 against him.

Smith finished tied for fourth in the National League in saves, and seventh in games finished with 42. He converted 23 of 28 save opportunities.

''We've talked about stabilizing our late relief situation many times in the last couple of months,'' Cubs General Manager Jim Frey said. ''We needed a right-handed reliever to finish off games.

''Dave Smith is the type of player who has been very consistent over the years '' Frey said. ''His numbers and his record show consistency at a high level of performance. He should add the stability we've been looking for.''

The Cubs, who have a club option on a third year with Smith, waived right-hander pitcher Randy Kramer to make room on the roster. Kramer was 0-2 in 10 games, two of those starts, with a 3.98 ERA for the Cubs in 1990.

(DEC. 18) UPI - Ohio State's cupcake schedule, which has produced seven straight victories, now loses some of its sweetness.

The Buckeyes, ranked No. 7 in the latest UPI Board of Coaches Top 25 Poll, upped their record to 7-0 Monday night with a 103-66 pasting of Tennessee State. Next comes No. 10 Georgetown Saturday in Las Vegas, Nev.

''I'm very anxious for Saturday's game and to play a quality program like Georgetown, which has two of the best post people in the country,'' said second-year Ohio State Coach Randy Ayers, referring to Georgetown's ''Twin Towers'' of 6-foot-10 Alonzo Mourning and 7-2 Dikembe Mutombo.

''I don't think this game (against Georgetown) will make or break us for the year, but our players will be excited about the game. Our players appreciate what Georgetown has done over the years,'' Ayers said.

Ohio State, which has scored more than 100 points in six of its seven games, hasn't trailed this season and has won by an average of more than 40 points.

But the seven Buckeye wins have come against Bethune Cookman, Youngstown State Delaware State, Chicago State, Wright State, American and Tennessee State. None of them rank with Georgetown.

''It's going to be a great atmosphere in Vegas,'' said Ayers. ''I'm sure our players will be ready to play. It will give us a good indication of where we are.''

The Ohio State-Georgetown game is the first of a double-header billed as the ''Duel in the Desert,'' with the second matching No. 1 Nevada-Las Vegas against Florida State.

Perry Carter led Ohio State with 20 points and Jimmy Jackson added 18 as five Buckeyes scored in double figures. Ohio State outrebounded Tennessee State 60-37 with Carter, Bill Robinson and Chris Jent hauling in 11 each.

''I was happy to see our inside people play well,'' said Ayers. ''We needed this type of game to prepare us for Georgetown. Carter, (Treg) Lee and Robinson all gave us some solid minutes.''

Tennessee State, which fell to 2-7, was led by J.J. Eubanks' 30 points. Eubanks, a transfer from Marshall University, was playing his first game for the Tigers.

-- AROUND THE NCAA --

In other games Monday night, Houston pounded Centenary 100-57 and Clemson demolished Suth Carolina State 103-83.

At Houston, Darrell Mickens scored 20 points and grabbed 20 rebounds to help the Cougars improve to 7-1. Byron Smith had 18 and Derrick Smith added 16 for Houston, which won its fourth straight. All 12 Houston players who played, scored. Patrick Greer paced the Gentlemen, 4-5, with 11 points.

At Columbia, S.C., Ricky Jones scored 25 points and Dale Davis added 21 to power the Tigers. Clemson, 6-2, trailed most of the first half and led only by five points at the half before using a 10-4 run to open the second and take control. Chris Felix led the Bulldogs, 3-4, with 18 points.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - President Bush, determined there will be no negotiations with Iraq and no concessions, said that Saddam Hussein should realize the armed forces being arrayed against him ''would be devastating.''

Bush made the remarks to representatives of 28 countries in the international coalition assembled in the White House Rose Garden on Monday, saying they have all committed forces ''of one kind or another to this extraordinary effort.''

The president had briefed the diplomats privately, highlighting a high-profile day apparently designed to keep public pressure on the Iraqi leader to pull out of Kuwait before the Jan. 15 U.N. deadline for total withdrawal.

Earlier, Bush met in the Cabinet Room with the U.S. ambassador to Kuwait, Nathaniel Howell, who returned to Washington Friday after living under siege for more than 100 days in Kuwaiti City. During a picture- taking session, Bush said developments do not ''bode well for Saddam Hussein.''

''None of us wants war, but none is prepared to accept a partial solution,'' Bush said. ''Thus far, Iraq's behavior underscores what I think is a lack of interest in a peaceful settlement.''

''What we want to do is to impress upon Iraq the consequences of aggression and for Iraq to leave every square inch of Kuwait,'' he told reporters.

''I would think at some point he (Saddam) would realize this force being arrayed against him would be devastating,'' Bush said after meeting with the coalition delegates. ''The United Nations said that he should get out or all available means will be used against him.''

''What you see here is living proof that the international coalition arrayed against Saddam's aggression remains deep and wide,'' he said.

''The 12 Security Council resolutions make clear what is required: Iraq's complete, immediate and unconditonal withdrawal from Kuwait,'' he said.

The president said the coalition members are contributing 200,000 troops to the military effort against Iraq and added ''tens of thousands are on their way'' to the Persian Gulf.

He repeated that ''it is not simply the United States against Iraq; it is Iraq against the world.''

Bush made it clear that although there have been contacts with Iraqi officials they have reached no agreement on dates for an exchanges of emissaries.

The president proposed talks in Washington between himself and Iraqi Foreign Minister Aziz Tariq and in Baghdad between Secretary of State James Baker and Saddam.

If all had gone as planned, Bush and Aziz would have met at the White House Monday. But the United States canceled the meeting after Saddam insisted that Baker visit Baghdad on Jan. 12, three days before the U.N. deadline for Iraq's total withdrawal from Kuwait.

Asked if he would consider sending Baker to meet Aziz in a third country, Bush said, ''I hadn't thought about that but if it would do any good - if that would help get the message to him that he has got to leave without condition - I certainly would not oppose that.''

At the same time, however, Bush reiterated his opposition to any meeting close to the U.N. Jan. 15 deadline. ''What I am not going to do is shove these meetings right up against the United Nations deadline.''

''If meetings are held,'' Bush said, ''I want to reiterate publicly, namely we want to impress upon Iraq the consequences of its aggression.''

Bush said he is not in a ''threatening mode'' but insists there will be ''no negotiations, no concessions for one inch of territory.''

''I'm satisifed the coalition has never been firmer,'' Bush said. ''We've got to prevail, and we will.''

Earlier Monday, Bush told reporters Saddam is wrong if he thinks the United States is bluffing in its demand for total withdrawal of Iraqi troops by Jan. 15.

In a brief appearance in the White House briefing room, Bush said Turkish President Turgut Ozal told him Sunday that Saddam is misinterpreting the debate in the United States over U.S. policy in the Persian Gulf.

''He thinks it means our country is divided and we cannot go forward with the U.N. resolutions and he is just as wrong as he can be,'' Bush said.

(DEC. 18) UPI - The Pentagon says the U-S forces in the Gulf will be prepared to force Iraq out of Kuwait on January 15th. Spokesman Pete Williams says the United States ''absolutely'' would be ready for offensive action on that day. U-S forces now total more than 270-thousand.

President Bush says he's ''totally confident'' that if war breaks out in the Persian Gulf region, it won't become another Vietnam. Bush says the agony of Vietnam is still with us. He says it's remembered as a war where people were asked to fight with one hand tied behind their back in essence.

Amnesty International says it has documented 38 methods of torture used by the Iraqi military in Kuwait. The London-based human rights group accused Iraq of human rights abuses against Kuwaitis that include electric shocks, rape, shooting limbs, and cutting off ears or tongues.

Utah authorities are investigating the cause of a collision between a Greyhound bus and two big-rig trucks that killed seven passengers Tuesday. The collision occurred in a blizzard near the Wyoming state line about 40 miles east of Park City.

A group of the nation's rich and powerful launched a new initiative to aid the homeless by using the low-income housing tax credit to provide housing for the homeless. The group visited one of Washington's most economically diverse neighborhoods Tuesday.

Bitter cold stung the northern Plains and the mountains of the West got another helping of snow. But elsewhere, springlike warmth brushed the East and South with temperatures in the 60's and 70's... just three days before the official start of winter.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - In case the Bush administration might try to mislead Congress on Persian Gulf policy, the American Civil Liberties Union says it is looking for government officials to help it keep policy-makers honest.

In an advertisement in The Federal Times, a newspaper aimed at federal workers the ACLU said Monday that government employees have ''the legal right and a political responsibility'' to tell Congress if they know the legislative body is being misinformed.

The ACLU does not make any allegations that the Bush administration is engaging in any deceptive or misleading practices with regard to Congress.

Its campaign stems from experiences with both the Vietnam and Iran- Contra episodes when high-ranking administration officials apparently lied to Congress or deliberately misled lawmakers who might oppose their policies.

''The experience of the Iran-Contra affair and the Vietnam War teaches us that the administration is most likely to deceive Congress - and the American people - when it is pursuing a controversial foreign and military policy in the face of congressional and public cautiousness and opposition,'' said Morton Halperin, director of the ACLU's Washington office.

The advertisement is headlined: ''A call to all persons to ensure that Congress is kept fully informed about what the administration is doing in the Persian Gulf.''

Because of past deceptions, the advertisement said, ''Congress has been significantly hampered in performing its necessary functions.

''It can be a federal crime to mislead the Congress, such as making false statements to Congress, obstructing the proceedings of Congress, or refusing to answer questions from Congress,'' the ad said.

In prepared remarks, Daniel Ellsberg, a former Pentagon official who disclosed the so-called Pentagon Papers to expose executive branch deception during the Vietnam War, said if he had made the documents public earlier it might have changed the course of the war.

''Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., told me that if I had given the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the documents in the Pentagon Papers in 1964 rather than in 1969, the Tonkin Gulf Resolution would never would have passed and the horrors of the Vietnam War might have been averted,'' Ellsberg said.

Morse was one of only two Senators to vote against the resolution, widely regarded as tantamount to a declaration of war and which gave the Johnson adminsitration virtual free reign to militarily prosecute the Vietnam War.

''If you have documents or other information bearing on decisions of war or peace about which you know that Congress is being misled or manipulated, you should be prepared to give that information to Congress and the public now, before the guns have started,'' Ellsberg said.

Halperin said that Congress ''cannot perform its constitutional function of deciding whether or not to to authorize the president to go to war if the administration deceives Congress about the president's policies or intentions.''

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (DEC. 18) UPI - A victory celebration turned bloody, as soldiers fired into a crowd of election revelers outside a church, killing a pregnant woman and wounding several other people, two of them children, witnesses and news reports said.

Supporters of front-runner Jean Bertrand Aristide were celebrating outside St. Bosco Church Monday when a truckload of soldiers arrived and fired into the air to disperse the crowd, witnesses said.

When the revelers, estimated from 200 to as many as 2,000 people, would not break up, the soldiers fired into the crowd, killing a pregnant woman and wounding several other people, including two children under 10. Government and other sources gave conflicting reports of the crowd size, and no more accurate estimate was immediately available.

Police officially logged the incident as an auto accident, said Alain Couture, member of the U.N. observer group security detail. Couture, a lieutenant colonel in the Candadian army, said the U.N. also was recording it as an auto accident.

Radio France reporter Alain Heudes said he saw the soldiers open fire and the wounded fall to the ground. He said the pregnant woman was killed and several other people were wounded, some in the legs.

Initial reports said 18 people were injured, but that number could not be independently confirmed.

A doctor at General Hospital, Port-Au-Prince's main medical facility, said the dead woman was shot in the lower abdomen. The doctor, who requested anonymity, said the woman was from 30-35 years old and was eight months pregnant

International observers said Aristide appeared to have won Sunday's presidential election. With 1 percent of the vote tallied, Aristide was leading with 70.6 percent of the vote.

A total of 27,827 ballots were counted from four provinces, of which Aristide took 19,181. Former World Bank economist Marc Bazin, the other leading candidate, received 3,410 votes, or 12 percent. The rest of the votes were divided up between the nine other candidates.

The shooting occurred outside St. John Bosco Church, where in 1987 the Tonton Macoutes, the Duvalier dynasty's armed loyalist thugs, tried to assassinate Aristide, killing 13 people and leaving 80 others injured.

Aristide, a charismatic 37-year-old Catholic priest, was expelled from the Salesian religious order for using his pulpit as a political platform and preaching ''class struggle.'' Many Haitians began to celebrate what they felt would be Aristide's certain victory moments after casting their ballots Sunday.

The shooting appeared to be an isolated incident, as elsewhere the army has been respectful, the populace restrained, and the main international observer teams have given the election a clean bill despite a number of irregularities reported at the polls.

The U.S. government delegation and the observer team of former President Jimmy Carter said that despite delays in the release of official election results it seemed apparent that Aristide had won Haiti's presidential election.

''We respect and support the choice of Father Aristide as the apparent president-elect of Haiti,'' Bernard Aronson, assistant secretary of state for Inter-American Affairs, told reporters.

Carter said he also expected a victory for the populist Aristide.

''I have not seen any evidence to contradict that Father Aristide will be successful,'' Carter said. ''The results we have gotten back show a very strong support for Aristide.''

International observers said that elections were democratic.

''I think they were very democratic elections,'' said Joao de Medicis, chief of the United Nations' observer group. ''There were some irregularities, but they did not affect the result of the election.''

The Sunday vote was by ballot shortages and polling stations that opened more than seven hours late. The problems triggered brief street demonstrations. But until Monday's shooting there had been no violence.

Some 2.7 million people were eligible to vote for president, a two- chamber National Assembly and hundreds of local officials amid heavy security at some 16,000 polling stations.

De Medicis said that because the cases of fraud and manipulation of voting materials came from both sides they canceled each other out.

He said that according to U.N. estimates, 70 percent of registered voters had cast ballots.

The election was the third attempted in four years in the impoverished Caribbean island country's quest for democracy since the 29-year Duvalier dictatorship collapsed in February 1986, when Jean- Claude ''Baby Doc'' Duvalier fled to France.

Thousands of people took to the streets Monday to celebrate Aristide's apparent victory. Most of the people celebrating in the streets in the downtown area, waving leafy branches as a symbol of peace, and honking car and motorcycle horns, were young people.

On Feb. 7, the winner will succeed Interim President Ertha Pascal- Trouillot, a supreme court judge who has led the country since March.

Haiti's last elections in November 1987 were canceled when thugs attacked voters, leaving at least 34 dead. Earlier this month, a grenade attack at a rally for Aristide left at least five people dead.

(DEC. 18) UPI - President Bush is keeping up public pressure on Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein to pull out of Kuwait before the January 15th deadline for total withdrawal. Bush told diplomats from 28 nations Monday that there will be NO negotiations and NO concessions with Saddam in the Persian Gulf standoff.

Japan's Parliament passed a second bill pledging one-BILLION dollars in non-military aid to the U-S-led forces in the Gulf. Opposition parties in the upper house defeated the bill, but the ruling Liberal Democratic Party resorted to a constitutional provision that gives the final say in budgetary matters to the lower house.

Soviet President Gorbachev Monday outlined the concentrated powers he's seeking to deliver the Soviet Union from crisis. In an address to the Soviet Congress, Gorbachev acknowledged that ''stability and order have been undermined,'' and said it will take 12 to 18 months to put his troubled administration back on track.

The Justice Department says gas tax fraud is on the increase... becoming a BILLION-dollar a year bonanza for white collar criminals. Officials say the scam which stated in New York and once was the domain of mobsters and gasoline bootleggers now appears to have spread across the country. They say the lure of illicit profits has gone up with the recent rise in the federal fuel tax.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (DEC. 18) UPI - The Los Angeles Rams wrecked the 49ers' chance for a perfect season, but San Francisco extracted revenge Monday night by eliminating their NFC West rivals from the playoff chase.

Two big plays - a 60-yard touchdown pass from Joe Montana to Jerry Rice and a game-clinching 74-yard scoring run by rookie Dexter Carter - pushed San Francisco to a 26-10 triumph over Los Angeles and gave the 49ers home-field advantage throughout the conference playoffs.

''The important thing is we don't have to go to Chicago or New York,'' Coach George Seifert said. ''And we have at least one game in front of our fans (at Candlestick Park).''

In avenging its only loss of the season, the 49ers capitalized on a shoddy effort by Los Angeles quarterback Jim Everett to boost their record to 13-1. The victory also extended their NFL-record road winning streak to 18 games and Montana's record as a starter at Anaheim Stadium to 9-0.

''It would have been awkward to lose two games in a season to them,'' fullback Tom Rathman said. ''We just don't like to lose; that's the bottom line.''

Los Angeles, which stunned the two-time defending NFL champions 28-17 at Candlestick Park three weeks ago, fell to 5-9. It marks only the second time in John Robinson's eight-year stint as Rams coach that he will not take the team to the playoffs.

With San Francisco leading 19-10, Carter took a handoff, cut to the sideline and outraced Vince Newsome and Jerry Gray to the end zone with 13:44 remaining for his first NFL touchdown.

The run was the longest in the NFC this season - Gill Fenerty of New Orleans had the previous best against the Rams last week - and the longest for San Francisco since 1977.

''That was the longest run of my career since high school,'' said the 170-pound scatback. ''Guys around the league already respect me. I'm a little bit better inside runner than people may have expected.''

The former Florida State star finished with 124 yards on 13 carries, giving the 49ers their first 100-yard rushing game this season.

Mike Cofer had field goals of 23 and 31 yards and Rathman added a 1- yard scoring run for San Francisco. Rice's TD catch in the second period was his 12th this year and first in five games.

''The two big plays - the one to Jerry Rice and Carter's in the second half - were disastrous for us,'' Robinson said. ''We could not match them big play for big play.''

Everett, who misfired on 8 of his first 9 passes, finished 17 of 35 for 232 yards, one touchdown and two interceptions despite working against a secondary missing injured staters Ronnie Lott and Chet Brooks. He also fumbled the ball away once.

''They had a good defensive scheme against us,'' Everett said. ''We were frustrated with that part.''

Said Seifert: ''We didn't sack Everett often (three times) but we kept pressure on him all night.''

Montana completed 15 of 30 passes for 219 yards, one touchdown and no interceptions.

Los Angeles, 2-6 at home this season, moved to within 16-7 on its final possession of the first half and had the ball on its 44 two plays into the second. Everett, though, fumbled and Matt Millen recovered, setting up Cofer's 31-yarder.

Los Angeles then got to within 19-10 when Mike Lansford kicked a 21- yard field goal to conclude a 14-play drive with 3:30 left in the third quarter.

Carter then sealed the victory with his touchdown. Everett was later picked off twice.

After his slow start, the quarterback appeared to get untracked when, with his team trailing 16-0 in the second quarter, he connected with Willie Anderson for 36 yards to the 49er 39.

Johnny Jackson intercepted Everett on the next play, but Don Griffin was called for illegal contact, giving Los Angeles a first down. Five plays later, rookie Derrick Faison scored his first NFL touchdown off Everett's 8-yard pass to make it 16-7 with 1:32 left in the first half.

Cofer kicked his 23-yarder in the first quarter, and the 49ers scored again when Rathman leaped over on 4th-and-goal midway through the second period.

A high snap on the extra-point attempt forced holder Barry Helton into an incomplete pass. But on San Francisco's next play, Rice blew past Gray, then came back to grab Montana's bomb for a 16-0 bulge.

(DEC. 18) UPI - President Bush says none of the forces aligned against Iraq wants war, but none is prepared to accept a partial solution. But Bush says Iraq's behavior so far underscores what he called ''a lack of interest in a peaceful settlement.'' He told reporters Monday- quote- ''What we want to do is to impress upon Iraq the consequences of aggression and for Iraq to leave every square inch of Kuwait.''

President Bush's nomination for education secretary was greeted with quick enthusiasm from many quarters. Bush Monday tapped former Tennessee Governor Lamar Alexander to fill the post vacated by Lauro Cavazos. Sammie Lynn Puett, a vice president at the University of Tennessee, called Alexander a ''superb choice.'' And Albert Shanker, president of the powerful American Federation of Teachers union, says he's hopeful Alexander will assume ''a strong leadership role to move a meaningful education program forward.''

Tehran radio reports a powerful earthquake rumbled through southwestern Iran, triggering landslides that sealed off several mountain villages. (DEC. 18) UPI - U.S. officials, fearing Iraq might stage a partial pullout of Kuwait in an effort to shatter the international coalition opposing the invasion, reiterated the stance that only complete withdrawal was acceptable.

Speaking to different groups of allies on separate continents Monday, President Bush and Secretary of State James Baker said the forces arrayedagainst Iraq remained strong and unified.

''What we want to do is to impress upon Iraq the consequences of aggression and for Iraq to leave every square inch of Kuwait,'' Bush told reporters following a meeting in Washington with 28 members of the coalition.

''I would think at some point he (Saddam) would realize this force being arrayed against him would be devastating,'' Bush said. ''The United Nations said that he should get out or all available means will be used against him.''

Baker told NATO foreign ministers in Brussels Monday that Iraq may withdraw partially from Kuwait around the Jan. 15 U.N. deadline, but said the alliance should stand firm against partial solutions to the Persian Gulf crisis.

''Just as I believe he chose to release hostages for this purpose, I think he may take a dramatic step on or around Jan. 15. He could withdraw partially,'' Baker said, according to excerpts of his closed- door testimony released by U.S. officials.

The NATO foreign ministers issued a strongly worded statement reiterating there can be ''no partial solutions'' to the gulf crisis.

Baker said he is still willing to go to Baghdad to meet face-to-face with Saddam, but he said the Iraqi president is still intent on trying to undercut the ''collective will of the international community to use force.''

Bush said Turkish President Turgut Ozal told him Sunday that Saddam was misinterpreting the debate on the United States over U.S. policy in the gulf.

''He thinks it means our country is divided and we cannot go forward with the U.N. resolutions and he is just as wrong as he can be,'' Bush told reporters.

Bush also said he hoped talks in Washington between himself and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz and in Baghdad between Baker and Saddam will still take place, despite a dispute over dates.

While Baker delivered his warning, Baghdad-based Palestinian terrorist Abul

Abbas threatened to attack U.S. and Western interests world-wide if the multinational force confronting Iraq tried to liberate Kuwait.

The official Iraqi news agency INA said Mohammad Abbas, better known as Abu Abbas, secretary-general of the Palestinian Liberation Front, told the Baghdad Al-Jumhoriya newspaper that American facilities around the world had been targeted.

''Abbas further said that if the war would take place, then it would not proceed in the direction planned for by the U.S. administration and that the United States has no capability of containing the battle in a certain area,'' INA said.

Abbas is widely believed to be the mastermind behind the 1985 kidnapping of the Mediterranean cruise ship Achille Lauro and the seaborne attack on Israeli beaches by Palestinians this past May.

President Bush has said he will hold Saddam personally responsible for any terrorist attacks against Americans.

The last two British diplomats to leave Kuwait departed from Baghdad on their way home, and the British Foreign Office advised the families of its citizens in the gulf to leave before Jan. 15.

British Ambassador Michael Weston and Consul Larry Banks told British Broadcasting Corp. television that they locked up the embassy in Kuwait Sunday and climbed out a window by ladder after enduring a four-month siege by Iraqi troops.

Tensions were raised over the weekend when Iraq canceled a planned meeting between Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz and Bush in Washington, which was supposed to take place Monday.

The two countries are deadlocked over a date for a meeting between Saddam and U.S. Secretary of State James Baker in Baghdad, with Washington insisting it be held before Jan. 3 and Baghdad insisting on Jan. 12.

The Iraqi ambassador to France, Abdul Razlaq El-Hashemi, suggested in Paris that his country might agree to withdraw from Kuwait following the proposed talks, but would make no concessions before then.
In other developments:

-A Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman said in Moscow he could not confirm reports from Baghdad that Iraqi authorities were holding up the evacuation of 2,500 Soviets until Moscow made financial compensation to Iraq for their broken work contracts.

Spokesman Vitaly Churkin said the Soviet Union would probably make some payments to Iraq.

''We will calculate all that and settle all those issues, but so far its too early to quote any figures,'' he said.

-Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak met separately in Cairo with Algerian President Chedli Benjedid and a delegation of U.S. senators led by Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell of Maine.

-Doctors from the Nobel Prize-winning organization International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War said they were traveling to Baghdad to warn Saddam of the horrors of an armed conflict.

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (DEC. 18) UPI - Senior Pakistani and Indian officials met Tuesday to seek ways to defuse tensions that have built up between the two rival nations over the disputed region of Kashmir.

Foreign Secretary Shehryar Khan and his Indian counterpart, Muchkund Dubey, began two days of talks, the third round of a series of meetings which began in Islamabad in July and continued in New Delhi one month later.

The two previous rounds failed to make any significant progress toward resolving the root causes of tensions between the two South Asian neighbors, and analysts say this week's discussions are also unlikely to result in any breakthrough.

''Our purpose is to enhance mutual understanding and confidence between our two nations,'' Dubey told reporters at Islamabad's airport after his arrival late Monday. ''In this way we hope to reduce tensions and normalize our relations.''

Pakistani officials have said there is no fixed agenda for the talks but that they would focus on Kashmir.

India has accused Pakistan of arming and training Islamic militants conducting an 11-month-old uprising against New Delhi's rule in Jammu and Kashmir state. Islamabad has denied the charges, but says it morally supports the movement.

The dispute led to fears of a fourth war between the two nations over the northern Kashmir region, which is claimed by both sides but is divided along a U.N.-monitored cease-fire line into Indian and Pakistani controlled sectors.

Officials said Pakistan will press India during the talks for a joint redeployment of forces along the border to peacetime locations.

Pakistan is suspected of pushing ahead with a program to develop nuclear weapons following the rise in tensions over Kashmir. The suspicions led Washington to freeze millions of dollars in aid to Pakistan in October.

Islamabad has denied the accusations and repeatedly said it will sign the nuclear non-profileration treaty, which would require international inspection of its nuclear facilities, if India also does.

India, which exploded a nuclear device in 1974, has rejected the offer, charging the treaty is discriminatory in favor of the superpowers.

The officials said Pakistan's proposal of a ''regional approach'' to the nuclear issue may also come up in the foreign secretaries' talks.

New Delhi has also accused Islamabad of aiding Sikh extremists waging a bloody campaign to turn India's northeastern Punjab state into an independent nation, charges Pakistan denies.

Both nations have new governments since the last round of talks. In Pakistan, Nawaz Sharif was elected Oct. 24 to succeed ousted prime minister Benazir Bhutto, and in India a shakey coalition headed by Chandra Shekar last month replaced the year-old administration of V.P. Singh.

The two new leaders met for the first time at a regional summit meeting in the Maldives capital of Male in November.

''We will take our cue from the very positive dialogue held between our two prime ministers in Male,'' Foreign Secretary Khan told reporters after receiving Dubey at the airport Monday.

However, Dubey's arrival follows heated exchanges between the two sides over Hindu-Moslem riots that have left hundreds of people dead in India this month.

Pakistan last week called on New Delhi ''to take effective measures to stop the communal killings and to protect the lives, properties and places of worship of the Moslem community of India.''

New Delhi has charged Pakistani extremists are behind the unrest and described Islamabad's latest statement as ''patently objectionable interference'' in India's internal affairs.

MANILA, Philippines (DEC. 18) UPI - U.S. officials Tuesday further eased travel restrictions for some 40,000 Americans assigned in military bases in the Philippines, citing reduced threats from communist guerrillas.

The restrictions were clamped on the six U.S. facilities on the eve of the third round of talks on the future of the installations. The lease on the facilities expires in September 1991.

At least 10 Americans have been killed in the Philippines in slayings blamed on guerrillas of the communist New People's Army. The 17,000 NPA has been battling the Manila government for 21 years.

However no guerrilla attacks involving Americans were reported in the last round of talks held in Manila. The talks were to resume next month.

After the talks closed in Dec. 7, restrictions were eased.

Lt. Cmdr. Kevin Mukri, spokesman for the commander of U.S. forces in the Philippines, said Tuesday the curfew has been further shortened to 1 a.m. to 5:30 a.m. and liberty now was allowed in designated areas near the bases.

In announcing the relaxation of restrictions at Clark Air Base, Subic Bay Naval Base and four smaller facilities, Mukri said on U.S. military television there has been a ''reduced threat'' to the 40,000 troops, defense department employees and dependents.

Philippine military officials have announced a three-day halt in offensives against the NPA on Christmas and a similar 72-hour cease-fire on New Year's. The insurgents have likewise announced they would silence their guns for two days during Christmas and three days during New Year's.

In the only incident reported Tuesday, the military said NPA raided a militia detachment in Agusan del Norte province on the southern island of Mindanao Monday, leaving two militiamen dead.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) UPI - Charges that Japan has been slow in meeting its financial commitments to the forces confronting Iraq are unjustified, the Foreign Ministry's chief spokesman said Tuesday.

In addition to $600 million already spent on or committed to the U.S. -led forces in the Gulf, a fresh $1 billion Japanese contribution will reach them by yearend, spokesman Taizo Watanabe said.

''It is quite unfair for anybody to criticize Japan's speed'' in fulfilling its pledges, he said.

Over the weekend, Democratic congressmen, headed by House majority leader Richard Gephardt, charged that Japan was dragging its feet on promised payments to the U.S.-led forces. The congressmen estimated that Japan had met only 21 percent of its $4 billion commitment, made by Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu in September.

But Watanabe said it was unfair to measure Japan's contributions that way.

For one thing, he said, until the Japanese Parliament passed a supplementary budget containing the $1 billion authorization Monday night, only $3 billion was available for disbursement.

Against that figure, Japan has spent, contracted or specifically committed $1.6 billion, or 53 percent.

Of that, roughly $100 million was in-kind aid to U.S.-led forces, he said. This included trucks, construction materials and desalinization equipment.

An additional $70 million was spent on transporting goods to the forces and $430 million was granted in cash to the forces, he said.

Japan has committed a further $1 billion in aid to Jordan, Turkey and Egypt and promised an additional $1 billion in aid to front-line states in the future.

As for the first round of contributions, Watanabe said the U.S. military had been slow in drawing up their shopping lists, setting back the distribution of Japanese funds, he said.

''Their requests came so late, we just couldn't disburse as fast as we expected,'' Watanabe said.

TOKYO (DEC. 18) UPI - The Japanese government, overcoming a reluctance to help the Soviet Union, announced Tuesday it will offer the Soviets $108 million in emergency loans and grants to help relieve food and medical shortages.

Chief Cabinet Secretary Misoji Sakamoto said Japan will extend $100 million in loans to the Soviet Union through Japan Export Import Bank and $7.6 million in food and medicine through the Japan Red Cross Society.

''This aid is granted purely from a pure humanitalian point of view,'' Sakamoto said.

Japan has insisted that it would not consider aid to the Soviets until a territorial dispute over four island groups off northern Japan is settled.

The Foreign Ministry's chief spokesman, Taizo Watanabe, suggested that the policy had not changed.

''When the situation deteriorates in a neighboring country, we have to act,'' Watanabe said. ''But we maintain a set policy toward the Soviet Union.''

Sakamoto said the government will support private sector efforts to provide emergency aid to the Soviet Union and organize the movements into a larger, more efficient mechanism.

The government is considering tax credits on commodity and financial aid from the private sector, he said.

(DEC. 18) UPI - Two nasty cold fronts rocketed across the nation Tuesday, the first prompting flood warnings and bringing heavy rain to the Midwest and Northeast and the second racing into the Pacific Northwest carrying winds gusting to 60 mph.

By far the largest of the two fronts stretched from Louisiana to New England, and brought showers and thunderstorms with flashes of lightning to northern Louisiana while rain spread to Texas, Oklahoma and Arkanasas.

The brunt of the front hit further north, where a flash flood watch was in effect for all of Kentucky as light rain fell on already saturated ground and forecasters warned of flooding in the coal fields in the southeast.

The leading edge of the front moved rapidly through other Midwest states, including Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, where light snow mixed with freezing drizzle was falling throughout northwest Upper Michigan.

Further east, flood watches in effect for western Pennsylvania and the northern West Virginia panhandle as up to 3 inches of rain fell in an hour, causing small streams to rise out of their banks.

In New England, the front caused freezing rain in the hills of northwest Connecticut and up to Boston.

Across the continent, a cold front moved in off the Pacific carrying winds that were clocked near 60 mph, prompting warnings in Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

High winds knocked tree limbs into power lines in Walla Walla, Wash., causing several fires and blew dust across Interstate-84 in southern Idaho, cutting visibility. Wind also picked up in the Rockies, where high wind warnings were in effect.

Clear skies covered much of the Great Plains where temperatures were mild, but showers from the large cold front moved into the deep South.

CAIRO, Egypt (DEC. 18) UPI - A new batch of Egyptian armored units left Cairo Tuesday for Saudi Arabia to beef up some 20,000 troops already serving with the U.S.-led multinational force deployed in the region, Cairo Radio reported.

The state-owned radio did not say how many troops were involved, but added that the armored force constituted the ''first units of the fourth armoured division'' which Cairo pledged to send to Saudi Arabia.

Egypt is a staunch supporter of the military build-up in the Gulf region which is aimed at deterring any further Iraqi aggression.

But President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt has made clear on several occasions that his country's armed forces will not be used to strike Iraq, but may be used as peace-keeping forces or in mopping-up operations after the liberation of Kuwait.

On Saturday, Mubarak vowed to help defend Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates against Iraqi aggression.

BANGKOK (DEC. 18) UPI - The Burmese military government is becoming more and more stable due to the country's booming economy, which makes it difficult for dissidents to rally the people against the military regime, a Rangoon-based diplomat said Tuesday.

The diplomat, who asked not to be identified, said recent harvests have been good and Burma is experiencing prosperity.

''The economy in Rangoon is booming,'' the diplomat said. ''Nobody complains about the economy. You can find anything you want (in the markets).''

He said farmers are becoming well-off despite decreasing crop prices due to a strong harvest and a lifting of restrictions on selling of crops.

''A lot of people get benefits from this. There is no reason to make trouble when the economy is good,'' the diplomat said. ''Leaders in the resistance will have fewer and fewer people to join them.''

The Burmese military seized direct power following a bloody crackdown against the pro-democracy movement in September 1988. It allowed a free general election but so far has refused to hand over power to the overwhelming winner of the polls, the National League for Democracy, which captured some 80 percent of the vote.

He said the declaration of provisional government, as proposed by some dissidents, would give the military junta an excuse to crack down on the NLD.

''This government is thinking about new ideas and measures to hit the dissidents hard,'' he said. ''The government is too strong so there is nothing the people can do to protest, he said.

The accused killer of militant Zionist Rabbi Meir Kahane has a new bail hearing today. Justice Alvin Schlesinger is scheduled to hold a second bail hearing for El Sayyid Nosair in state Supreme Court in Manhattan. On December 5th, Schlesinger set bail for Nosair at 300-thousand dollars, touching off a storm of protest by Jews. The controversy forced Schlesinger to reconsider his decision.

New York's Daily News yesterday filed a second major lawsuit against nine striking unions, repeating their accusation that strikers have mounted a ''campaign of violence'' against newsstand dealers and advertisers. The suit asks for 50 Million dollars in damages and names the nine unions and the Allied Printing Trades Council, the umbrella group that represents the strikers. The strike is in its eighth week.

Senior Pakistani and Indian officials met today to seek ways to defuse tensions that have built up between the two rival nations over the disputed region of Kashmir. India has accused Pakistan of arming and training Islamic militants conducting an 11-month-old uprising against New Delhi's rule in Jammu and Kashmir state. Islamabad has denied the charges, but says it morally supports the movement.

The Japanese government announced today that it will offer the Soviets 108 Million dollars in emergency loans and grants to help relieve food and medical shortages. Japan has insisted that it would not consider aid to the Soviets until a territorial dispute over four island groups off northern Japan is settled. But a foreign ministry spokesman said ''When the situation deteriorates in a neighboring country, we have to act.''

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Inflation at the retail level eased last month as consumer prices rose 0.3 percent after gaining 0.6 percent in October, the Labor Department reported Tuesday.

The increase was in line with the anticipations of several economists who expected lower oil prices to bring overall prices down.

After gaining an average of 0.7 percent for the three months ended in October, November's increase reflected a ''sharp deterioration'' in energy prices, the government said.

The index for energy commodities declined 0.3 percent last month after soaring 28.9 percent in the three months following Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Food prices, though, rose 0.5 percent last month, a somewhat higher gain than in recent months. Excluding the often volatile food and energy components, consumer prices rose 0.3 percent last month, the same increase as in each of the preceding two months.

For the first 11 months of the year, consumer prices have advanced at an annual rate of 6.4 percent, compared with a 4.6 percent gain during the same period last year.

Higher energy prices have accounted for this year's higher overall prices. During the first 11 months of the year, energy prices have increased at an annual rate of 20.1 percent compared with a gain of 5.3 percent in the year-earlier period.

The index for food and beverage prices rose 0.4 percent last month after gaining 0.3 percent in October. Grocery prices gained 0.7 percent in November after posting a smaller gain of 0.5 percent the month before.

Higher prices for fruits and vegetables offset smaller price changes in other food categories.

The index for meats, poultry, fish and eggs rose 0.7 percent, down from an 0.8 percent gain in October. A larger increase in beef prices was more than offset by larger declines in poultry prices.

The cost of dining out increased 0.3 percent last month, but alcoholic beverage prices declined 0.1 percent.

In housing, overall prices rose 0.2 percent in November after increasing 0.3 percent in the previous month. Homeowners' costs were up 0.1 percent, renters' costs rose 0.5 percent and maintenance and repair costs gained 0.4 percent.

The greastest change came in the transportation index, which increased 0.6 percent in November after rising 2.1 percent the month before. The easing was attributed to ''substantial moderation'' of prices for motor fuels.

The index for gasoline rose 0.3 percent last month after gaining a steep 7.7 percent in October. During the first 11 months of the year, gasoline prices have increased 37.3 percent.

Automobile purchase costs rose 0.6 percent, the second consecutive monthly advance and only the third increase in the past 10 months. Used car prices, meanwhile, continued to fall, declining 0.9 percent last month.

Apparel and upkeep costs declined 0.2 percent in November, the same decline as the month before. The government said the decrease was reflected in widespread price declines for all clothing other than men's apparel.

Medical care costs continued to rise, gaining 0.8 percent in November to a level 9.4 percent greater than the year before. Prices for prescription and non-prescription drugs and medical supplies rose 0.6 percent. Charges for medical services advanced 0.8 percent.

Consumers found little relief from rising prices at the movies, sporting events and concerts. Overall entertainment prices rose 0.1 percent last month.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - The United States posted a trade deficit of $11.6 billion in October, $2.3 billion more than the deficit of $9.3 billion in September, the government said Tuesday.

The Commerce Department reported October's imports totalled $46.4 billion while exports were $34.8 billion.

Imports in October were $5.0 billion more than September imports of $41.3 billion. Exports during the month were $2.8 billion more than September exports of $32.0 billion.

The September to October boost in exports reflected increases in sales of industrial supplies and materials, automobiles, capital goods and consumer goods, the government said.

The monthly change in imports was fueled by trade in automobiles and oil, accounting for $2 billion of the difference between September and October, the government said.

Imports of petroleum rose $1 billion to $7.2 billion in October, the largest value of oil imports since April 1981, when oil imports totalled $7.4 billion, the government said.

Exports of manufactured goods totalled $26.8 billion, up $2.8 billion from September. Most of the increase came from automobiles, power generating machinery, non-monetary gold, vehicle parts, industrial machinery and electrical machinery.

Manufactured goods imports rose $6 billion to a total of $37.2 billion in October. Increases were reported in imports of automobiles, clothing and footwear, telecommunications equipment, airplanes, general industrial machinery, toys, games and sporting goods.

Imports of petroluem products rose $1 billion to $7.2 billion during the month. A total of 249 million barrels were imported during the month, 5 million barrels less than September and 9 million barrels less than the January-to-September average of 258 million barrels.

The average price per barrel in October was $29.04, up $4.73 from September and $10.96 more than the January-to-September average of $18. 08.

The trade deficit with Japan stood at $4.5 billion while the deficit with members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries stood at $2.7 billion.

Other trade deficits included, Canada, $1.4 billion; China, $1.2 billion; Taiwan $1.1 billion; Western Europe, $600 million; Hong Kong, $500 million; Korea, $400 million; Mexico, $300 million and Brazil, $300 million.

(DEC. 18) UPI - The presidents of Algeria and Egypt said they were united in their call for a withdrawal of all Iraqi troops from Kuwait, and the Algerian leader rejected outright Saddam Hussein's attempt to link his occupation of the emirate to the Palestinian issue, Cairo Radio reported Tuesday.

''This direct linkage is not logical and is unrealistic,'' the state- owned radioquoted Algerian President Chadli Benjedid as telling reporters late Monday at a joint Cairo news conference with Egypt's President Hosni Mubarak.

Saddam has tried to divide the Arab alliance rallied against him by linking his annexation of Kuwait with the highly-emotive Palestinian issue. This has generated sympathy for the Iraqi leader among desperate Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied Arab territories, but has failed to win him support in key Arab nations such as Egypt and Syria.

''The gulf issue is an Arab-Arab issue, but the Middle East crisis or the so-called Palestinian issue is between the Arabs on the one hand, and Israel and its allies on the other,'' Benjedid added.

Saddam in August linked the issue of a possible Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait to an Israeli pullout from the Arab-occupied territories in Palestine, Syria and Lebanon. U.N. Security Council Resolution 242, adopted in 1967, proposes Israel withdraw its troops from Arab territory in return for Arab recognition of the Jewish state.

Benjedid held two sessions of talks with Saddam during a Middle East peace-seeking tour that ended in Cairo. He said he did not believe Iraq was rejecting dialogue with the United States.

Benjedid said the problem is rooted in the manner in which such a dialogue was to be held.

President Bush agreed to meet Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz in Washington and allow his Secretary of State James Baker to meet Saddam in Baghdad for a final round of talks before the Jan. 15 United Nations deadline for Iraq to get out of Kuwait or face possible military force.

But Bush rejected an Iraqi request for Baker to meet Saddam Jan. 12 as being too close to the deadline, and Iraq refused to consider any earlier date, effectively putting the talks on hold.

''I don't believe any party is rejecting the idea of dialogue ... on the contrary, I believe Iraq's only reservations lie in how to conduct the dialogue,'' said Benjedid, whose country has a long history of successful mediations but has so far apparently failed to achieve success in the gulf standoff.

Egypt, meanwhile, sent a further batch of Egyptian armored units to Saudi Arabia Tuesday to beef up some 20,000 troops already serving with the U.S.-led multinational force deployed in the region.

Regional observers saw the move as an indication that Cairo would not weaken its resolve in standing up to Saddam Hussein until his last soldier left

Kuwait.

The Egyptian move came a day after U.S. officials, fearing Iraq might stage a partial pullout from Kuwait in an effort to shatter the international coalition opposing the invasion, reiteratd the stance that only complete withdrawal was acceptable.

Speaking to different groups of allies on separate continents Monday, Bush and Baker said the forces arrayed against Iraq remained strong and unified.

''What we want to do is to impress upon Iraq the consequences of aggression and for Iraq to leave every square inch of Kuwait,'' Bush told reporters following a meeting in Washington with 28 members of the coalition.

''I would think at some point he (Saddam) would realize this force being arrayed against him would be devastating,'' Bush said. ''The United Nations said that he should get out or all available means will be used against him.''

Baker told NATO foreign ministers in Brussels Monday that Iraq may withdraw partially from Kuwait around the Jan. 15 U.N. deadline, but said the alliance should stand firm against partial solutions to the Persian Gulf crisis.

''Just as I believe he chose to release hostages for this purpose, I think he may take a dramatic step on or around Jan. 15. He could withdraw partially,'' Baker said, according to excerpts of his closed- door testimony released by U.S. officials.

The NATO foreign ministers issued a strongly worded statement reiterating there can be ''no partial solutions'' to the gulf crisis.

Baker said he is still willing to go to Baghdad to meet face-to-face with Saddam, but he said the Iraqi president is still intent on trying to undercut the ''collective will of the international community to use force.''

Baghdad-based Palestinian terrorist Abu Abbas on Monday threatened to attack U.S. and Western interests worldwide if the multinational force confronting Iraq tried to liberate Kuwait.

The official Iraqi news agency INA said Mohammad Abbas, better known as Abu Abbas, secretary-general of the Palestinian Liberation Front, told the Baghdad Al-Jumhoriya newspaper that American facilities around the world had been targeted.

VATICAN CITY (DEC. 18) UPI - Pope John Paul II called on world leaders and governments Tuesday to ensure ''authentic freedom of conscience'' and to protect the rights of minorities as a means of promoting world peace.

The pope issued his appeal in his annual message for World Peace Day, which the Catholic Church celebrates Jan. 1. The message, published by the Vatican, was also sent to all heads of state throughout the world.

''I wish to address a special and urgent appeal to all who are in positions of public responsibility - heads of state or of government, legislators, magistrates and others - to ensure by every means necessary the authentic freedom of conscience of all those who live within the limits of their jurisdictions, and pay special attention to the rights of minorities,'' the pope said.

''Besides being an issue of justice, this serves to promote the development of a peaceful and harmonious society,'' he said.

The pope's 18-page, closely reasoned message was based on the theme, ''If you want peace, respect the conscience of every person.''

It stressed particularly the need for every state to ensure full religious freedom for all its citizens, whatever their religion.

''This is especially true when one considers that in today's world it is rare for the entire population of a country to have the same religious beliefs and to belong to the same ethnic group or culture'', the message said. ''Mass migration and population shifts are resulting in the growth of multi-cultural and multi-religious societies in various parts of the world.

''In this context, respect for the conscience of everyone takes on added urgency and presents new challenges to every sector and structure within society, as well as to legislators and government leaders,'' the pope said.

''It is urgently necessary at this moment of history to strengthen juridical instruments capable of promoting freedom of conscience in the areas of political and social life,'' the pope said. ''The gradual and constant development of an internationally recognized legal order could well provide one of the surest bases for the peace and orderly progress of the human family.''

He said the need ''to take concrete steps towards ensuring full respect for freedom and conscience has become even more urgent in the light of events of last year'' - a clear reference to the ousting of totalitarian regimes in Eastern Europe.

''The rapid changes which have taken place show very clearly that a person may not be treated as a kind of object governed solely by forces outside his or her control,'' John Paul said.

In a passage on religious freedom that appeared to apply particularly to his native Poland, the pope said:

''One of the most significant aspects of today's world is the role that religion has played in the awakening of peoples and in the search for freedom.

''In many cases it was religious faith that preserved intact and even strengthened the identity of entire peoples,'' he said. ''In nations where religion was hindered or even persecuted in an attempt to treat it as a relic of the past, it has once more proved to be a powerful force for liberation.''

LONDON (DEC. 18) UPI - The next archbishop of Canterbury and church leaders in a letter published Tuesday called for Christmas prayers to bring peace to the Middle East.

The Bishop of Bath and Wells George Carey, who becomes the archbishop of Canterbury next month, and other leaders of the Church of England wrote the letter to the London daily The Independent expressing hope that the ''modest symbol of prayers may grow into a great movement of prayer'' to help avoid war in the gulf.

Citing the possible loss of life and potential for the escalation of the violence, the group asked that people pray and observe two minutes of silence at midnight Christmas Eve.

The letter also called for prayers for the convening of a proposed U. N. peace conference, for wisdom and humility for President Bush and Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, and a peaceful end to the crisis.

Carey will succeed Dr. Robert Runcie in the post of archbishop of Canterbury Jan. 31.

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (DEC. 18) UPI - Saudi women are neglecting their families even though cheap foreign labor has freed them from the burdens of a job and housework, the kingdom's newly named guardian of virtue said.

''In other civilized societies we find that women hold good jobs, but this does not affect their responsibilities towards their families,'' Dr. Abdul Aziz Bin Adbul Rahman Al-Said said in a newspaper interview Tuesday.

''But the woman here does not do any of her duties. Unfortunately, she does not do her job at home or any other job,'' he said.

Al-Said, recently appointed general president of the Organization for the Promotion of Virtue and Prevention of Vice, told the Arab daily Okaz that the importance of women in society cannot be underestimated because they are responsible for rearing children, particularly daughters.

But he said the free time Saudi women have gained because so many do not hold jobs must be channeled back into their families. Saudi families generally hire ''guest workers'' from the Philippines, India and Pakistan to perform menial tasks.

Saudi women are subject to rigid Moslem laws that require them to wear black robes in many public places and forbid them from driving automobiles. A fledgling women's movement made waves last month when about 40 members drove cars through the capital city of Riyadh and were promptly stopped by religious police.

Al-Said, whose interview was excerpted on the front-page of the English-language Saudi Gazette, said his organization is committed to combating deviant acts. He said he would leave such duties as urging people to perform prayer, which Moslems do five times a day, to other authorities.

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (DEC. 18) UPI - U.S. Secretary of State James Baker, warning that Iraq may try more ''diplomatic sleights-of-hand,'' said Tuesday that only a complete Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait can defuse the Persian Gulf crisis.

The secretary of state also said that a proposed meeting between Iraq's foreign minister and the European Community is fine providing no ''mixed messages'' are sent.

EC foreign ministers were expected to decide later Tuesday whether to go ahead with such a meeting, even if Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz had not first met with U.S. President George Bush in Washington.

Earlier this month, the EC foreign ministers agreed to a meeting in Rome between Aziz and Italian Foreign Minister Gianni De Michelis, assuming that Aziz had first visited Washington. Italy holds the rotating EC presidency.

Baker said a partial Iraqi withdrawal would be unacceptable, drawing an analogy to Europe's appeasement of Adolf Hitler's expansionism.

''It would set an extremely unfortunate precedent,'' he said, ''if we in any way rewarded aggression. We made that mistake in the '30s and we ought not to make it in the '90s.''

Baker, speaking after a meeting of NATO foreign ministers, said the coalition lined up against Iraqi President Saddam Hussein must be prepared for new surprises.

''All the allies are agreed that Saddam Hussein may well attempt further diplomatic sleights-of-hand in the days ahead,'' he said. ''We are all agreed that we must not allow his manipulations to divert us from full and complete implementation of the Security Council resolutions.''

Resolution 678 of the U.N. Security Council authorizes the use of force if Iraq has not fully withdrawn from Kuwait by Jan. 15.

On Monday, Baker told the NATO meeting that Iraq may take the ''dramatic step'' of a partial withdrawal on or about Jan. 15, and urged the allies to reject it as a ''ploy.''

The NATO foreign ministers, in a statement, said ''there can be no partial solutions'' to the gulf crisis.

Baker said he was pleased the foreign ministers had recognized ''that the security of members of the alliance is thratened by the continued Iraqi refusal to comply with its international obligations,'' thus ''confirming that this threat concerns all of the alliance.''

A tentative Aziz meeting with Bush was supposed to have taken place Monday, but was stymied pending a U.S.-Iraq deadlock over dates for a Baker visit to Baghdad.

MOSCOW (DEC. 18) UPI - Moldavia's delegates walked out of the Congress of People's Deputies Tuesday, the sixth Soviet republic that will not take part in the entire 10-day conclave in a mounting affront to Mikhail Gorbachev.

In a further setback to Gorbachev's plans for the 15 republics to sign a new union treaty, officials from the breakaway Baltic republics and other leaders rejected his proposal for a national referendum on the future of the Soviet Union.

Estonian President Arnold Ruutel, whose republic has declared independence from the Soviet Union along with the other two Baltic states, told the Congress the Baltics instead favor a normalization of ''inter-state relations'' with Moscow.

''We do not intend to hold such a referendum, because when we came into the Soviet Union in 1940 there was no referendum,'' Ruutel said.

Gorbachev stood in the hallway outside the Kremlin Grand Hall of Congresses for a half-hour Tuesday explaining his positions to a crowd of deputies and reporters, saying he did not understand much of the criticism leveled at him and adding he would stand firm.

''Let them kill me, hang me on a cross, but I will not abandon my position,'' Gorbachev said. ''It is impermissible to pit peoples against one another. We must strive for unity.

'' ... I proposed the holding of a referendum. If someone does not want to be in the union, let him go. But this divorce must be carried out through a referendum.''

Gorbachev is still insisting, however, that republics follow a long, complicated process established by the central government even after a referendum on secession, and he restated his position Tuesday that the country should not be allowed to break apart.

''Our disintegration would mean only blood and poverty and refugees,'' he said.

The problems of ethnic strife intruded on the second day of the Congress, causing Moldavia to join Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Georgia and Armenia in either full or partial boycotts of the conclave.

Moldavia's Deputy Prime Minister Konstantin Oborok complained that the Congress ignored two requests by the Moldavian deputies to discuss the internal ethnic problems tearing their republic apart.

Oborok explained that he objected to the presence at the Congress of deputies from the Moslem Gagauz region and Russian-speaking Dniester region, which have declared themselves independent in acts declared invalid by Moldavia.

''Their presence deprives the Moldavian deputies of their right to participate in the Congress,'' Oborok said, and the Moldavian nationalists left the hall.

The proposal for a vote on whether republics could secede from the Soviet Union and Gorbachev's request for more presidential power to deal with the economic crisis in the country came under renewed sharp attack Tuesday at the congress.

''It is a useless thing,'' Russian republic leader Boris Yeltsin said of Gorbachev's proposal. ''The republics have to agree among themselves. No one must dictate to us.''

Newly elected nationalist-controlled parliaments in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania passed declarations of independence earlier this year, and all but one of the other republics have approved milder sovereignty proclamations.

The three Baltic states and the Transcaucasian republic of Georgia have said in recent weeks that they will not sign a treaty subordinating them to Moscow. Nationalist sentiment is also strong in Armenia and Moldavia, where tens of thousands of people demonstrated Sunday against joining a new union.

Large groups of deputies from the rebellious republics boycotted the Congress on Monday, and whole sections of seats were empty in the hall with the red Soviet flag unfurled at its front. A total of 1,979 deputies registered in the 2,250-seat body.

A total of 440 delegates to the Congress, portrayed as the supreme policy-making body of the country under recent reforms, were signed up to speak in the debate on the state of the country.

The first half-dozen speakers Tuesday agreed with Gorbachev's gloomy assessment at the Monday afternoon session of the serious crisis in the Soviet Union, but most were critical of the current administration for doing little concrete to extricate the country from its problems.

Byelorussian leader Nikolai Dementey was one of the few top leaders of republics to voice his support for Gorbachev's ideas.

''Only laws can give us the possibility of realizing sovereignty,'' Dementey said. ''I do not have the impression that the center (central government) is trying to block the realization of the process of sovereignty in the republics.''

Gorbachev shrugged off a failed vote of no-confidence in his performance as president Monday and urged deputies to hold a national referendum that would ''allow every citizen to say yes or no'' on the ''y yes or no'' on the

On the first day of the U.S.S.R. Congress of People's Deputies, Gorbachev also proposed a plebiscite on private land ownership in the vast country and outlined the concentrated powers he is seeking to deliver the nation from crisis.

Acknowledging that ''stability and order have been undermined,'' Gorbachev said it will take 12 to 18 months to put his troubled administration back on track.

Senior Gorbachev aide Georgi Shakhnazarov confirmed that Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov will be removed from his top government post under the president's overhaul plan, which would cut the number of central ministries and place them directly under his control.

The Soviet economy is in chaos, with breakdowns in food distribution so serious that Western nations felt compelled to launch a huge international relief effort to feed the Soviet Union.

With the first day of the bitter Russian winter just around the corner, the official government newspaper Izvestia reported Monday afternoon that Soviet employees of the Red Cross in Moscow were stealing coffee, juice, macaroni, sugar, oil, cigarettes, boots, toothbrushes and other goods sent from abroad.

LONDON (DEC. 18) UPI - The return of the gallows in Britain looked less likely than ever Tuesday, the day after legislators rejected a motion to reintroduce capital punishment.

The lawmakers Monday defeated a move to make capital punishment mandatory in all murder cases, subject to appeal, by 367 votes to 182, the largest majority of any of the 12 parliamentary debates on the issue since hanging was effectively abolished in 1965.

In addition, an attempt to wipe the last vestiges of capital punishment from the statute book - hanging is theoretically applicable to traitors and pirates - was defeated by a narrow 32-vote margin.

A separate vote defeated a move to reintroduce capital punishment for the murder of a police officer, by 350 votes to 215.

The last people to be hanged in Britain were convicted murderers Peter Allen and Gwynne Evans, who died on the same day in 1964, and the last hanging for treason was of Nazi war propaganda broadcaster William ''Lord Haw-Haw'' Joyce in 1946.

Prime Minister John Major voted against the principal motion, together with every member of his Cabinet except Scottish Secretary Ian Lang.

The establishment daily The Times said, ''The 185-vote margin (in the main vote) was one of the biggest rebuffs for the hanging lobby since abolition 25 years ago.''

But the strongest supporters of the death penalty vowed to continue to fight for hanging.

Teddy Taylor, a deputy of the ruling Conservative Party, was reported as saying, ''Eventually the sheer logic of the killing figures, together with public opinion, will have an impact.''

Monday's vote stems from a speech by David Waddington, the pro- hanging home secretary under Margaret Thatcher when she was prime minister. He received a standing ovation at the Conservative Party conference in October when he told delegates they knew where he stood on hanging and promised an early parliamentary vote.

In the vote, Thatcher came out in favor of the motion to reintroduce the death penalty for the murder of a police officer, but against the main motion.

The new home secretary, Kenneth Baker, to whom a condemned person's last appeal for clemency would be directed, said in Monday's debate that the return of capital punishment would rule out redress if there were a miscarriage of justice.

''There is no appeal from the grave,'' he warned Parliament.

The London-based human rights group Amnesty International considers capital punishment a form of torture.

''You wouldn't have a debate on the reintroduction of thumbscrews,'' said Eric Prokosch, coordinator of Amnesty's campaign for the worldwide abolition of capital punishment.

BERLIN (DEC. 18) UPI - Production continued to decline in most industrial sectors of former East Germany, the federal economics ministry said in a report released Tuesday.

Total industrial production in the five new German states increased by one percent in October compared with September, the report said - a slight improvement caused by seasonal factors. In July, total industrial production plunged 35 percent. In August, it fell 14.5 percent, the report said.

The energy sector - one of the few sectors showing significant improvement - grew 9.5 percent in October compared with 16.5 percent in September, pushed up by the buildup of eastern Germany's domestic brown coal reserves.

Industrial output in the food sector grew 21 percent in October compared with September, but production decline continued in many of eastern Germany's traditional industrial sectors.

The ministry said the figures were based on month-by-month comparisons of the number of days worked by the eastern German labor force. Seasonally adjusted figures are not available for eastern Germany because of the unreliability of production figures reported under the former Communist government. Demand for western German goods was the main reason for the decline of eastern Germany's industrial production, the report said.

Since the monetary and economic union of both Germanys on July 1, industry in eastern Germany has suffered as consumers rejected outdated, shoddy state-produced goods for better-made western goods. East and West Germany were unified Oct. 3.

In comparison with 1989 figures - thought to have been inflated by the former communist government - eastern German industrial production has declined by about 50 percent, the economics ministry said.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (DEC. 18) UPI - Byron De La Beckwith, the white supremacist twice tried but never convicted in the 1963 assassination of civil rights leader Medgar Evers, was jailed Tuesday awaiting extradition back to Mississippi.

Beckwith, 70, was arrested at his home in Signal Mountain, a Chattanooga suburb, Monday as a fugitive from Mississippi and held until an extradition hearing later Tuesday, Hamilton County sheriff's jailer Duane Hill said.

''All we've got on him is that he's a fugitive from Hinds County, Mississippi '' Hill said.

Television stations in Jackson, Miss., reported Monday Beckwith had been indicted again in Evers's death. Hinds County District Attorney Ed Peters refused comment on Beckwith's arrest.

Evers, 37, field secretary for the Mississippi branch of the NAACP, was shot in the back with a high-powered rifle as he stood in the carport of his Jackson, Miss., home on June 12, 1963.

Beckwith, a Delta fertilizer salesman at the time, was tried twice in 1964 by all-white juries. Both juries deadlocked, causing mistrials, even though Beckwith's fingerprints were found on the murder weapon. The murder charge was dismissed in 1969.

Prosecutors reopened the case this year after The Clarion-Ledger newspaper in Jackson reported that state officials screened potential jurors before one of Beckwith's trials and provided information to Beckwith's lawyers. A grand jury in Hinds County heard testimony in the case last week.

Beckwith has maintained his innocence in Evers' murder but acknowledges his philosophy of white supremacy.

''There are only three kinds of people that live in Mississippi - whites, colored and trash, and there's very little trash in Mississippi, '' Beckwith told The Clarion-Ledger in an interview from his home published Sunday.

''I'm not willing to lay down my life to rid evil from this country. I'm willing to kill the evil in this country that would try to push me out,'' he said.

Beckwith was released from the Veterans Administration hospital in Nashville Friday after undergoing surgery for a clot in an artery and he told the newspaper he is concerned about his deteriorating health.

''I don't feel good,'' he said. ''I don't see good. I'm getting a cataract in my right eye and that's my shooting eye.''

DALLAS (DEC. 18) UPI - More than 71 dogs, cats and other pets have died in U.S. airline cargo holds this year, mostly because of heat stroke or suffocation, the Dallas Times Herald reported Tuesday.

Most of the deaths came from heat stroke and suffocation. Other animals died or were injured in accidents that have included pets being released on runways or being burned or crushed on airport conveyor belts, the newspaper said.

''Nothing is born to die in a cargo bin,'' said Priscilla Benkin, an air transportation specialist with the American Dog Owners Association. ''This is the worst year in history.''

American, Delta and United airlines are each under investigation for incidents this summer that killed 61 dogs, according to the Department of Agriculture, which enforces federal animal welfare laws.

Almost every major airline licensed to transport animals has been cited and fined repeatedly by the Agriculture Department for mishandling them, the Times Herald said.

Although only a small percentage of shipped animals die, federal animal welfare officials have been meeting with air carriers to try to solve the problems.

''When it boils down to somebody's pet, it's not an insignificant number,'' said Richard Crawford, animal care director with the Agriculture Department in Hyattsville, Md.

Last month USDA officials addressed animal travel problems with members of the Air Transport Association, a trade group that represents the major air carriers. No specific recommendations came out of the meeting.

''We know there have been several deaths and we regret the loss of life,'' said Sam Elkind, air cargo manager of the Air Transport Association. ''But we also feel confident that the number of animals transported is very large and a great number of them move without any problems.''

One of the cases cited by the Times herald was the death of four police-trained German shepherds. After a 40-minute delay at Dallas-Fort Worth Internnational Airport in 93-degree September heat, the dogs arrived dead in Austin, according to airport records. The dogs' body temperatures were still at 115 degrees three hours after they died, their owner said. Normal temperature for a dog is 101.5 degrees.

Two other dogs survived the American Airlines flight.

Lise Olson, a spokeswoman for the Fort Worth-based airline, said officials had no comment on the German shepherd deaths because of a pending USDA investigation.

Like most air carriers, Olson said American stresses animal care in training videotapes and has guidelines that bar transporting pets in extreme temperatures.

BASTROP, Texas (DEC. 18) UPI - The lawyer for a third-grader who spends his school days in isolation for refusing to cut his skimpy ponytail said Tuesday he hopes an appeals court will strike down the dress code as early as January.

Attorneys for the Bastrop County school board asked a state judge Tuesday to dismiss a lawsuit filed by the mother of Zachariah Toungate, 8.

Charles Beall, the lawyer for the Toungates, described Tuesday's hearing as ''strictly procedural'' and said it would not affect his appeal to the 3rd State Court of Appeals in Austin.

''I believe they (appeals court) will look at it pretty quickly,'' said Beall.

Bastrop County State District Judge Harold Townslee on Nov. 9 upheld the school district's dress code, saying courts cannot interfere with local decisions.

School board lawyers have sought to thwart the Toungates' lawsuit on the grounds that the child's mother, September Toungate, has no standing to file suit and that the complaint was improperly drawn.

Regardless of the judge's ruling Tuesday, Beall said he will take the case to the appeals court.

The plight of the child began in late September when he was sent home for having a 7-inch ponytail, a style that was allowed under last year's dress code.

On Oct. 5, Zach was required to start doing his school work at Mina Elementary School in a 12-by-15-foot windowless room - an arrangement called ''an alternative education setting'' by school officials.

Zach eats by himself and, for $35 a day, the school calls in substitute teachers for him. He has no physical education, music or choir classes.

Although the arrangement is ''wearing'' on the boy, Beall said ''he's hanging in there'' largely because of the ''tremendous outpouring of support from all over the world.''

Beall said Zach recently received a card from eight Marines assigned to Operation Desert Shield in Saudi Arabia.

''They said, 'We can't believe we're over here fighting for freedom and democracy and they're doing that to people back in our country,''' Beall said.

Since the boy's story was told in November, Zach has been on CBS News, CNN, television talk shows, in Time magazine, People magazine and on dozens of radio shows from Texas to Canada.

But school officials in the town of 4,800 about 25 miles east of Austin say the media attention will not force them to change the dress code in the middle of a school year.

''This is not a major issue,'' said Ray Long, school board vice president. ''It's hair he can grow back. It's no big deal.''

School officials also said Zach's grades are better because he is receiving one-on-one instruction and is not easily distracted.

BOSTON (DEC. 18) UPI - A ''very rare'' red-backed squirrel monkey, one of only three members of the endangered species known on this continent, left Boston Tuesday for its new home at the Phoenix Zoo, officials said.

The young male weighs about 2 pounds and is believed to be less than 6 months old, according to officials with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Authorities with the federal agency seized the animal on Oct. 15 from the Boston home where it had been kept illegally as a pet.

An anonymous tip alerted authorities to the squirrel monkey's presence. The federal agency and the Massachusetts Environmental Police are still investigating the circumstances surrounding the animal's captivity.

Squirrel monkeys, as their name implies, have a furry red back and tail and a black crown. The exotic-looking primates are usually obtained as infants by poachers who shoot the mother monkeys, officials said.

''Discovery of this very rare monkey is both sad and heartening,'' said Ronald Lambertson, northeast regional director of the Fish and Wildlife Service. ''It is sad because it was taken from the wild, where so few remain today, and sadder still that it must remain in captivity. But it is heartening to know that it will help its population through captive breeding.''

The squirrel monkey had been cared for by the New England Regional Primate Research Center of Harvard Medical School since its confiscation. At its new home at the Arizona zoo, it will be joined by the two other members of its species known to be in captivity in North America, which are being transfered from the Santa Ana Zoo in California.

The three monkeys will take part in the first captive breeding program for the dwindling species, Lambertson said.

The squirrel monkey population has been decimated by human exploitation and deforestation of its natural habitat in Costa Rica and Panama, Lambertson said. Only 2,000 squirrel monkeys are believed left in Costa Rica, he said.

(DEC. 18) UPI - Consumer inflation continued to expand last month but at only one- half the rate it grew in October. The same factor is responsible in both cases. The easing of oil prices helped keep retail inflation at three- tenths of one percent in November. It was the increase of oil prices that pushed retail inflation up by six-tenths of one percent in October. Still, the lower November increase means inflation for the first 11 months of the year is running at an annual rate of six-point-four percent. That's well ahead of last year's four-point-six percent.

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (DEC. 18) UPI - A breakdown in world trade talks would have ''very dangerous implications'' for the entire world trading system, U.S. Secretary of State James Baker said Tuesday.

The Uruguay Round of trade talks under the General Agreement on Tariffs in Trade collapsed Dec. 7 in Brussels over a bitter dispute on agriculture subsidies between the United States and the European Community.

''Successful completion of the Uruguay Round will be important if we are to achieve a stronger trans-Atlantic partnership in the years ahead, '' Baker said at the end of a meeting of NATO foreign ministers.

''We are deeply, deeply disappointed with the breakdown of the talks earlier this month here in Brussels,'' Baker told a news conference.

''There are potentially very dangerous implications here - for Europe, for America, indeed for the rest of the world - that could lead to a breakdown of the world trading system,'' he said.

The GATT talks will resume next month in Geneva only if there are reasons to expect progress, which will require a softening of positions.

LONDON (DEC. 18) UPI - In its first comprehensive report on human rights in Kuwait since the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion, Amnesty International Wednesday called on Iraq to end the imprisonment, torture and killing of people in the occupied Persian Gulf state.

The London-based human rights organization accused Iraqi forces of torturing and killing hundreds of people, imprisoning thousands, and allowing ''more than 300 premature babies to die after looting incubators'' in three main Kuwait City hospitals.

''The Iraqi forces' brutality in Kuwait has shocked many people in the past four months,'' said an Amnesty statement accompanying the report, ''but such abuses have been the norm for people in Iraq for more than a decade.''

A spokesman at the Iraqi Embassy in London was not available for comment on the report.

Amnesty said it documented 38 methods of torture used by the Iraqi military that included electric shocks, rape, shooting limbs, and cutting off ears or tongues. The human rights group, which takes no political position on the Iraqi invasion, said its 82-page report was based on medical evidence and in-depth interviews with more than 100 people from a dozen countries.

Amnesty said most of the alleged abuses had occurred during the first three months after the invasion when dissent among Kuwaitis and others was widespread.

Amnesty said it had compiled ''compelling evidence'' supporting earlier reports that premature babies were killed by Iraqi soldiers. Several doctors and nurses who worked in hospitals where the babies died were interviewed by Amnesty. They said they had seen bodies, and one doctor said he had helped bury 72 infants in a cemetery near a hospital.

Amnesty also charged that ''hundreds of people in Kuwait remain unaccounted for, having effectively 'disappeared' in detentions, and many of them are feared dead.''

The organization said people were killed for resisting the ''Iraqization'' of their country by carrying Kuwaiti money or refusing to pledge allegiance to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

''Time and time again, we were told that the most common way soldiers killed people was to take the victim to his family's doorstep, have his relatives identify him, and then shoot him in the back of the head,'' Amnesty said.

Amnesty called on nations to appeal to Iraq to stop the ''gross human rights violations.''

The human rights group said it had submitted its report to all the members of the U.N. Security Council.

JERUSALEM (DEC. 18) UPI - Former New York Mayor Ed Koch was slightly injured by a stone Tuesday while he strolled through the walled Old City with Jerusalem Mayor Teddy Kollek.

Koch quipped that the stone, which bounced off a tin awning in the Old City's Arab marketplace, was aimed at Jerusalem's veteran mayor. Kollek jokingly told Koch if he had more hair on his head he would not have felt the 2-inch stone.

The stone slightly injured Koch on the head. But the former mayor of New York refused to lodge a complaint or receive treatment immediately, except for two Band-Aids on the bleeding wound, police and city officials said. A doctor later examined Koch, who visited the Western Wall and ate lunch with Kollek after the incident, a spokeswoman for Kollek said.

The stone flew in the early afternoon as Koch, Kollek and a small entourage strolled along David Street, the main path through the Old City's Arab marketplace. The streets were deserted except for the entourage and camera crews because Palestinian shopkeepers were observing a general strike.

No police escort accompanied the tour, which the city spokeswoman described as spontaneous.

''The visit in the Old City was one of the most fascinating visits in my life '' Koch told Israel Radio after the incident.

Koch said he wondered what a ''stupid zealot'' was proving by harming an innocent passer-by. He said he hoped such incidents would not deter people from walking through the Old City.

A day before he was stoned in Jerusalem, Koch said that if he were an Israeli leader he would institute harsher measures against Palestinians from the occupied territories in reaction to intercommunal violence. He also criticized the Bush administration's efforts to strengthen ties with Arab countries, which he said were at the expense of Israel.

Reacting to recent attacks by Arabs against Jews inside Israel, the Jewish ex-mayor of New York said in Tel Aviv, Israel ''must build a wall around the Gaza Strip and not allow Arabs into Israel.''

''If I were prime minister of Israel, I would give all the jobs to the Soviet immigrants. The Saudis and the Egyptians can support the Arabs in the territories,'' the respected Ha'aretz newspaper quoted Koch as saying.

''I would deport them from here. You didn't do it enough,'' Koch said. ''But since you have not done so, at least you should close them behind a wall of stones and make sure they have employment there.''

Commenting on recent U.S. policy in the Middle East, Koch said Monday that President Bush is not as a great a friend to Israel as Ronald Reagan was because the current U.S. president believes ''friendship with Arab states is more important and better for the United States.''

Koch arrived in Israel Sunday to attend a municipal ceremony in Tel Aviv in which a street was named after him.

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) UPI - Art sales plummeted for Christie's during 1990, prompting plans to cut ten percent from costs of maintaining its worldwide staff, the auction house said Tuesday. Impressionist and contemporary art sales were hardest hit after providing 48 percent of the auctioneer's record sales in 1989, the announcement said.

A stormy world economy, along with the crisis in the Persian Gulf were blamed for an 8.5 percent drop in total sales, to $1.96 billion from last year's record $2.14 billion, Christie's said.

"While medium- to long-term prospects for auction markets are encouraging, the reality today is that the United Kingdom, Japan, and the United States are in the grip of economic uncertainty which has been intensified by the situation in the Gulf," said Christie's Chairman Lord Carrington.

"We have, therefore, decided to take prompt action to reduce our cost base significantly enough to weather the current climate, but in a way which will not erode our ability to take full advantage of the next upturn in the market " he said.

Those efforts would include ten percent cuts in total staff costs with salary freezes for most senior level personnel in addition to cuts in other fixed operating costs, Christie's said.

Lower level staffing would be reviewed "according to established practice and with due consideration to the cost of living and their contribution to the company," the announcement said.

Christie's said it expects long-term market growth in Europe and the Far East, and has added offices or agents in Berlin and Frankfurt, Germany; Bordeaux and Lyon, France; Athens, Greece, and Taipei.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (DEC. 18) UPI - The 12-nation European Community decided Tuesday against meeting with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz until he has seen President Bush in Washington, officials said.

The EC foreign ministers earlier this month agreed to a meeting in Rome between Aziz and Italian Foreign Minister Gianni De Michelis, assuming that Aziz had first visited Washington. Italy holds the rotating EC presidency.

A tentative Aziz meeting with Bush had been set for Monday, but never came about because the United States and Iraq are deadlocked over dates for a visit to Baghdad by U.S. Secretary of State James Baker.

''The position of the community remains as it was,'' Irish Foreign Minister Gerard Collins said after a meeting of EC foreign ministers Tuesday. ''The meeting with Tariq Aziz would happen only on his way back from Washington.''

Italy and Spain suggested an Aziz-EC meeting could move ahead provided a date had been set for a later Bush-Aziz meeting in Washington. But countries such as Britain and Holland objected to changing the EC's original ground rules for the Rome session, officials said.

Jacques Delors, president of the EC executive commission, said the community sought to ''maintain the pressure against Iraq.''

Baker had said earlier Tuesday a meeting between Iraq's foreign minister and the European Community would be fine with him, providing no ''mixed messages'' were sent.

''The one thing we do discourage are discordant messages, mixed messages or mixed signals,'' he said. ''The message that's going to go to the Iraqis must be a uniform message, which is that they must comply with the United Nations resolutions in full.''

Meanwhile, Baker, warning Iraq may try more ''diplomatic sleights-of- hand,'' reiterated that only a complete Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait can defuse the Persian Gulf crisis.

He said a partial Iraqi withdrawal would be unacceptable, drawing an analogy to Europe's appeasement of Adolf Hitler's expansionism.

''It would set an extremely unfortunate precedent,'' he said, ''if we in any way rewarded aggression. We made that mistake in the '30s and we ought not to make it in the '90s.''

Baker said the coalition lined up against Iraqi President Saddam Hussein must be prepared for surprises.

''All the allies are agreed that Saddam Hussein may well attempt further diplomatic sleights-of-hand in the days ahead,'' he said. ''We are all agreed that we must not allow his manipulations to divert us from full and complete implementation of the Security Council resolutions.''

Resolution 678 of the U.N. Security Council authorizes the use of force if Iraq has not fully withdrawn from Kuwait by Jan. 15.

On Monday, Baker told the NATO meeting that Iraq may take the ''dramatic step'' of a partial withdrawal on or about Jan. 15, and urged the allies to reject it as a ''ploy.''

In a statement later that day, the NATO foreign ministers said ''there can be no partial solutions'' to the gulf crisis.

Baker said he was pleased the foreign ministers had recognized ''that the security of members of the alliance is threatened by the continued Iraqi refusal to comply with its international obligations,'' thus ''confirming that this threat concerns all of the alliance.''

If the EC and Iraq do meet, Baker said, EC officials ''will not be carrying a message from the United States, will not be mediating.''

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Scientists told Congress Tuesday the nation's stockpile of nuclear weapons should be rebuilt with the latest safety devices and warned the danger of an accidental explosion is greater than once thought.

The sobering look at the nation's stockpile of weapons amassed during the Cold War was accompanied also by the suggestion that the government consider changing the design of the newest submarine-launched missile and rebuild the entire supply of an air-launched nuclear missile that already has been taken off alert bombers parked at airstrips.

Although the unclassified portion of the report presented to the House Armed Services Committee did not quantify the issue, it said that new super computers have led to advances in models of how an accidental explosion would affect a warhead and its plutonium core.

''A major consequence of these results (computer models) is a realization that unintended nuclear detonations present a greater risk than previously estimated and believed for some of the warheads in the stockpile,'' said the report. It did not identify which warheads were involved.

The report was made for the panel by Dr. Sidney Drell, deputy director of the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center, Nobel laureate Dr. Charles Townes of the University of California at Berkeley and Dr. John Foster, head of the Defense Science Board.

At the Pentagon, spokesman Pete Williams said the department welcomed the report and added, ''We consider the safety of nuclear weapons to be a matter of the utmost importance. We give it the highest priority. ... The goals of the Drell report are consistent with both departments' established priorities for safety. The specific recommendations will require careful joint evaluation by the Department of Energy and the Department of Defense.''

Williams said Defense Secretary Dick Cheney has asked his deputy, Donald Atwood, to study the report and suggest ways to implement its findings.

The report was prompted by a decision earlier in the year by Cheney to pull the Short Range Attack Missile - known as the SRAM-A - from planes kept on alert at air bases. It is equipped with the W-69 warhead.

Some warheads, like the W-69 and the W-88 aboard the Trident II missile, are built with high explosives or HE rather than the more stable insensitive high explosives, or IHE.

Pound for pound, it takes more IHE than HE to trigger a nuclear blast, meaning that missile payload or range suffers if IHE is used in place of HE. In the case of the Trident missile, concerns are raised because the warheads sit adjacent to the third-stage rocket motor and some fear the accidental ignition of the propellant might be sufficient to trigger the HE to explode, either scattering dangerous plutonium about or even causing a blast with nuclear-level yields.

The Drell panel had high praise for the attention to safety and security exhibited by personnel who handle nuclear weapons.

The panel's report also said 48 percent of the stockpile of weapons do not have what are known as enhanced nuclear detonation safety devices, or ENDS, and just 25 percent are built with IHE. Additionally, it said too few of the plutonium cores are wrapped in what is known as a fire-resistant pit, or FRP, which can withstand hours of sitting in the 1,000-degree heat of an aircraft fuel fire.

''The majority of the weapons in the current stockpile will have to be modified to meet (demanding safety standards), unless they are retired,'' said the report.

Specifically, among its recommendations were suggestions to:

-Equip all weapons with ENDS.

-Build all bombs to be carried on aircraft, both bombs and cruise missiles, with IHE and with the fire-resistant pits.

-Consider whether the design of the Trident missile warhead should be changed to one using IHE, which would involve range or payload tradeoffs.

-Have ''red teams'' critique the safety features developed by weapons designers to ensure than only the safest design is produced.

-Consider returning to the safety feature of the 1940s and 1950s when the plutonium core of a weapon was inserted by hand or electro- mechanically into the warhead on aircraft only after an order was received, solving the problem of an accidental detonation of the high explosives scattering plutonium about.

ANKARA, TURKEY (DEC. 18) UPI - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein told Turkish state television that there was no need for Iraq to send a representative to Washington for peace talks ''if (President) Bush is to repeat to us the U.N. Security Council resolutions.''

In an interview on Turkey's state television TRT taped in Baghdad, the Iraqi president appeared to indicate he had abandoned the idea of direct talks with the United States aimed at finding a peaceful solution to the Persian Gulf crisis.

Excerpts of Saddam's interviews, scheduled for broadcast at 10 p.m., were released to the Turkish press in advance.

The Iraqi president said: ''There is no need for us to go to Washington if Bush is to repeat to us the U.N. Security Council resolutions.''

He was referring to a visit to Washington by Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz that had been scheduled for Monday but put on hold because of a deadlock over proposed talks between U.S. Secretary of State James Baker and Saddam.

Saddam insisted the reciprocal visit to Baghdad by Baker would take place Jan. 12.

The United States said that date was too close to the Jan. 15 deadline set by the U.N. Security Council for Iraq to pull its troops out of Kuwait or face possible military force. Washington proposed other dates that Baghdad rejected.

Security Council resolutions have called for Iraq's unconditonal withdrawal from Kuwait and imposed an economic blockade against the nation.

On Iraq-Turkey relations, Saddam called for concessions on both sides to enable them to resume the good neighborly relations that existed before the gulf crisis erupted Aug. 2 with the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - A group of the nation's rich and powerful traveled to one of Washington's most economically diverse neighborhoods Tuesday to launch a new initiative to aid the homeless by linking innovative housing to an array of social services.

The group - Housing and Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp, David Maxwell, chief executive officer of the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae), and developer James Rouse - unveiled the Corporate Housing Initiatives project, which will, for the first time, use the low-income housing tax credit to provide housing for the homeless.

To dramatize the new initiative, the group chose the conference center of Washington, D.C.'s, Jubilee Ministries, located in the heart of the city's Adams-Morgan neighborhood, a mosaic of street people, illegal aliens and the poor who coexist - not always peacefully - with yuppies living in $300,000 town houses.

Maxwell told a news conference that Fannie Mae was kicking off the new project with a $10 million investment and will lead ''a national effort to bring many more corporate investors to the fund.''

''The federal low-income housing tax credit remains an important tool for the development of badly needed rental housing units for the nation's poor,'' Maxwell said.

''Our $10 million investment in the Corporate Housing Initiative fund indicates the depth of our support for expanding the use of the low- income housing tax credit to meet the needs of the homeless,'' he said.

The new program comes on the heels of a new report by the National Coalition for the Homeless that estimates a shortage of 4.2 million units of affordable housing for the poor and on the eve of the U.S. Conferernce of Mayors' annual report on housing and homelessness in the nation's cities.

The new initiative will be directed by The Enterprise Social Investment Corporation, a for-profit organization that is a wholly owned subsidiary of The Enterprise Foundation. The Foundation also announced formation of Enterprise Housing Plus, the key element in the new project because it will work to provide the array of social services such as child care, counseling, job training and substance abuse treatment.

''Housing production must be augmented with appropriate social services if homeless and other special needs populations are going to live more independently and productively,'' said Rouse, founder of the Enterprise Foundation.

Under the program, non-profit housing groups seeking to provide shelter and other services for the homeless and ''special needs'' populations such as the mentally retarded, will apply to the foundation for funds.

Most of the support service funding will come from local and state programs already in existence as well as $400 million in federal money authorized by the recently signed comprehensive housing bill.

F. Barton Harvey, deputy chairman of the Enterprise Foundation said the first projects to win funding approval could be announced as early as January.

For corporate investors, the new initiative will provide companies with an ''attractive economic return'' on their investment because of tax savings offerred by the low-income housing tax credit as well the opportunity to be ''a significant participant in the national effort to solve America's housing crisis.''

Kemp is a longtime supporter of such private initiatives and early in his tenure as HUD secretary had visited the 17-year-old Jubilee Ministries, one of the most successful non-profit efforts at aiding the poor in the nation.

He said the new initiative is a challenge to the corporate, for- profit sector that was ''wondering what to do.''

The new initiative, he said, breaks with past efforts because ''it won't be empowering the developer as much as empowering the poor.''

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Children with high levels of cholesterol may not be destined to grow into adults with worrisome levels of the artery- clogging substance, researchers reported Tuesday.

A study of 2,367 Iowa school children found about three-quarters of the girls and about half of the boys who had high blood cholesterol levels between ages 8 and 18 had normal cholesterol counts as young adults.

''Many children with high cholesterol levels do not become adults with high cholesterol levels,'' the University of Iowa's Dr. Ronald Lauer and William Clarke wrote in an issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association devoted to cholesterol.

Even among youngsters with the highest cholesterol counts, in the upper 10 percent of children surveyed, nearly two-thirds of the girls and one-third of the boys did not warrant cholesterol-lowering treatment when they reached the ages of 20 to 30.

Researchers do not know why people with high cholesterol as youngsters may turn out to have acceptable levels as adults. But Lauer said the difference may be related to growth or to changes in American eating patterns between 1971, when the study started, and 1985, when the latest tests were done.

Lauer emphasized his findings do not mean that children should feel free to chow down on food rich in cholesterol and saturated fat.

''There is a need to lower cholesterol among all U.S. children through nutritional habits,'' he said, noting the cholesterol level of the average American is substantially higher than for people in nations with lower rates of heart disease.

Cholesterol plays a role in heart disease by accumulating in deposits that can gradually ''harden'' arteries, making it more difficult for blood to pass through. When blood supply to part of the heart is cut off, a heart attack occurs.

More than a decade ago, the American Heart Association recommended children limit their fat intake to no more than 30 percent of calories. However, critics have argued there is no evidence that lowering blood cholesterol levels in children reduces their risk of heart disease when they grow up.

The Iowa results are ''grist for the mill on the issue of whether all children ought to be screened'' for cholesterol, said Dr. Henry McGill, scientific director of the Southwest Foundation for Biomedical Research in San Antonio.

However, McGill pointed out that the study found half the boys with elevated cholesterol had high cholesterol as young adults. ''Are you just not going to worry about that half?,'' he asked, adding that both sides of the screening controversy probably will use the Iowa study to bolster their stance.

In another study, McGill and his colleagues found high blood cholesterol was linked to early signs of hardening of the arteries, called atherosclerosis, in males ages 15 to 34.

Dr. Basil Rifkind of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute and Dr. Lawrence Grouse of Medical Communication Resources Inc. of Santa Monica, Calif., agreed there is ''little doubt that atherosclerosis has its origins in childhood or early adult life.''

However, the question remains about whether cholesterol lowering should be a goal in childhood and if so, how it should be accomplished, Rifkind and Grouse said in an editorial.

The problem of elevated cholesterol in children is probably best handled by curtailing the amount of saturated fat and cholesterol in the diets of all people over age 2, the doctors said.

Dr. Thomas Newman of the University of California-San Francisco and his colleagues argued strongly against widescale cholesterol screening among children.

''It seems unlikely that cholesterol reduction in childhood will be much more effective at preventing coronary heart disease than cholesterol reduction begun in middle age,'' they wrote in a review article.

''Screening and interventions to lower blood cholesterol levels for millions of children would be expensive, could lead to labeling and family conflicts, and may cause malnutrition and increased non- cardiovascular mortality,'' they warned.

Also in the journal, other UCSF researchers presented what they say is the first evidence that cholesterol-lowering drugs can reverse atherosclerosis in women as well as men. And other studies showed niacin and lovastatin appear to be the most cost-effective drugs for reducing cholesterol, and that the benefits of such drugs can be sustained for at least four years.

SEATTLE (DEC. 18) UPI - Washington state's largest labor organization has called for a nationwide boycott of toys made in China, charging that many Chinese-made goods may have been made from the forced labor of children and political prisoners.

The Washington State Labor Council, which represents about 525 labor groups and 250,000 union workers in the state, said it is calling on members to boycott China's biggest single export to the United States.

Americans purchased more than $1.7 billion worth of Chinese-made toys, sporting goods and games last year. About $268 million worth of those goods entered the United States through Washington ports.

Labor Council President Larry Kenney said some of the toys sold here may have been made by Chinese political prisoners and child laborers. "With the sweat of little children and tortured political prisoners, Tibetans seeking restoration of their nation, and Catholic priests seeking religious freedom, China produces - very cheaply - cute little toys that Americans buy for their children," Kenney said in announcing the boycott Monday.

"We don't think Americans will put up with this when they understand," he said. "We believe that they will refuse to buy toys made by children and prisoners when they learn that their purchases support exploitation."

Although there is no direct evidence that such toys are being sold in the United States, a Government Accounting Office report released in July noted that forced labor is an integral part of the Chinese economic system and is practiced throughout the country in an estimated 3,000 prison camps.

The GAO report noted that both government and private sources had circumstantial evidence that the products of forced labor have been exported by China and that such products might have reached the United States. The import of products made by forceed labor is restricted by U.S. law. Kenney said the boycott is aimed at the Chinese government, not at the nation's workers.

BEIRUT, LEBANON (DEC. 18) UPI - Assassins packing pistols with silencers killed an official in the conservative Christian Phalange Party Tuesday, marking another setback to a government plan drafted to restore law and order in Beirut.

Police said four gunmen opened fire at Sami Abu Jawdeh, 54, at his jewelry shop in broad daylight in a crowded market place of the Christian area of Zalka.

The veteran leading figure of the Phalange Party and father of four children was hit in the head and chest, dying instantly as his assailants fled, police said.

Observers noted that the attack constituted a serious violation of the month-old government-sponsored plan aimed at re-establishing authority in and around the Lebanese capital.

President Elias Hrawi is trying to end 15 years of rule by militias fighting since 1975 for control of Beirut. The militias - composed of civilians and spawned by various factions representing differing politics and religious camps - have withdrawn from the war-torn city in the past month, replaced by Lebanese army troops.

There have nevertheless been recurring incidents of violence.

''The incident (Tuesday) and other similar security violations ... undermine the image of the legitimate authority and the peace process,'' said a communique by the Phalange Politburo.

The Phalange is a right-wing Christian Maronite party founded in 1936 by Pierre Gemayel, the father of Amin Gemayel. At one time, it contributed about 90 percent of the soldiers making up the Lebanese Forces, a Christian militia claiming between 10,000 and 12,000 fighters.

The party warned that ''it would take adequate action'' if the government fails to tighten its grip on Beirut.

''We urge the government to implement its security resolutions in unified Beirut before it would be too late,'' the party said.

Meanwhile, the Lebanese Ad Diyar newspaper reported that Algeria has agreed to provide weapons to the poorly-equipped Lebanese army in in a first gesture to boost the capacity of the force entrusted with imposing law and order in Beirut.

The newspaper quoted political sources as saying that Algeria will send weapons to Lebanon as a result of a meeting in Beirut over the weekend between Algerian President Chedli Benjedid and Hrawi.

Benjedid paid a short visit to Beirut Sunday marking the first such diplomatic gesture by a head of state toward the war-battered nation in more than seven years.

The Algerian president handed Hrawi a list of arms Algeria is offering - enough to equip 20,000 troops, or five brigades, that will be in charge of consolidating peace in and around Beirut, Ad Diyar said.

The sources told the newspaper the offer includes 300 personnel carriers, 120 tanks, 90 cannons, 400 military vehicles, ammunition and other equipment.

Libya has also pledged to supply the Lebanese army with arms, political sources said.

The sources said the Libyan promise was made during talks with the Lebanese Defense Minister Albert Mansour, who returned home late Tuesday, wrapping up a three-day visit to Tripoli.

The Libyan weapons would be dispatched to Lebanon soon, the sources said.

CHICAGO (DEC. 18) UPI - Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., one of seven senators on a fact-finding tour of the Middle East, said Tuesday a partial pullback of Iraqi troops from Kuwait might postpone any military action.

But Simon, interviewed by telephone from Jerusalem, also said the United States and its allies will not be satisfied with a partial pullback as a permanent solution.

The United Nations has given Iraq until Jan. 15 to pull its troops out of Kuwait, which it invaded Aug. 2. U.S and allied troops in Saudi Arabia and nearby naval forces are poised to enforce the U.N. deadline.

''We have pulled together a good, solid alliance,'' Simon said. ''If there is military action, you will lose some (support). But the feeling is we can't give Saddam Hussein any reward. A pullback is not going to be enough to pull off the sanctions. It might, however, postpone military action.''

Simon said he and his colleagues have met with King Fahd of Saudi Arabia, President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt and Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir of Israel. He said all have expressed solid support for the course the United States has followed thus far.

Whether the situation can be resolved swiftly, however, is uncertain, Simon said.

''It is an up and down situation,'' Simon said. ''We get some encouragement one day and the next day we are discouraged.

''I don't favor the Bush administration giving in if you mean backing off on our demands,'' he said. ''The president did the right thing by offering Secretary of State James Baker to meet with Saddam Hussein. If he fails to have such a meeting, he's (Saddam) boxing himself into a corner, making violent action much more likely.''

Simon said that although U.S. troop morale appears ''generally pretty good,'' some kind of troop rotation will have to be initiated unless there is military action.

''Troops need to know there will be rotation,'' he said. ''There will be a few specialties where you can't have rotation. They ought to get an increase in salary.''

Simon described the Saudi desert as ''not the kind of place I would go for a resort vacation.''

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - U.S. forces in Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf region will be ready for war Jan. 15 if Saddam Hussein does not withdraw his forces from Kuwait, a Pentagon spokesman said Tuesday.

Pete Williams, in words aimed at further strengthening the message to Iraq in hopes Saddam will understand allied resolve, said the troops would be ready to enforce the U.N. resolution authorizing the use of force to expel Iraq from Kuwait.

But not all forces might be in place by Jan. 15, he said.

Asked if the U.S. forces and the allies would be prepared to enforce the resolution on Jan. 15, Williams said, ''The quick answer to your question is yes. Will every single person, every single serviceman and servicewoman, every single item from the units which we've called up be in place? I'm not certain about that. But the answer to your question is yes.''

He said the United States ''absolutely'' would be ready for offensive action on that day.

Williams also said that U.S. forces in the gulf region now total more than 270,000.

The U.S. troops are joined by about 220,000 allied forces, and the U. S. contingent is expected to grow to about 430,000 by mid-January or early February. Williams said the newest deployment, of about 200,000 troops, is not going slower than expected, although snows in Germany had slowed trains carrying equipment for Operation Desert Shield.

Iraqi forces in the region - Kuwait itself and southern Iraq - are now estimated at more than 510,000, up 10,000 from last week. Their supply of equipment remains unchanged at 4,000 tanks, 2,500 armored personnel carriers and infantry fighting vehicles and 2,700 artillery pieces. More than half the Iraqi forces are in Kuwait.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman Colin Powell were due to leave Tuesday evening on a five-day trip to the region for consultation with military and political leaders and visits with troops in the field.

Williams said Cheney likes to see first hand the results of decisions he has made and often sits down with enlisted personnel away from both civilian officials and their military commanders to ask what they need and how the deployment is going.

NAIROBI, KENYA (DEC. 18) UPI - The vital northern Ethiopian port of Massawa will reopen for humanitarian food deliveries, the Rome-based United Nations World Food Program announced Tuesday.

The first chartered freighter with food aid for millions of victims of civil strife and drought might leave Djibouti for Massawa in early January, the WFP said.

Massawa was captured Feb. 10 in a snap offensive by the rebel Eritrean Peoples Liberation Front, fighting for independence of the former Italian colony for nearly 30 years.

The port has been closed since last winter and been bombarded by the Ethiopian air force.

Port facilities, however, are largely intact, witnesses report.

Its reopening is the result of months of arduous, separate negotiations by the WFP with the Ethiopian government and the EPLF.

Massawa is near the provinces of Eritrea, Tigray, and Wollo, where up to 4 million people are at risk of starvation.

Since March, food aid for 1 million people had to be shipped via the southerly port of Assab and then trucked north. During the past nine months, only 100,000 tons have been moved under the auspices of the three major Ethiopian churches.

The WFP estimates that Ethiopia will need 941,000 tons of food aid next year.

ATHENS, GREECE (DEC. 18) UPI - Iranian President Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani said Tuesday that Iran opposed a U.S. attack on Iraq, but that Baghdad would be responsible if war broke out in the region, Iran's news agency reported.

The Iranian president said: ''We feel very uneasy ... that the Iraqi people may be hurt by the Americans.'' But he said Iraq ''perpetrated an obscene act by invading Kuwait,'' and the only solution to the crisis would be an Iraqi withdrawal.

A dispatch from the official Islamic Republic News Agency monitored in Athens quoted Rafsanjani as saying the Islamic Republic was opposed to a U.S. attack on Iraq, but ''the responsibility for this rests with Iraq.''

Speaking to a group of students in the Iranian capital, the president said his Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati was making trips in the region ''aimed at preventing the outbreak of war.''

Velayati visited Ankara last week and said on his return that both Iran and Turkey were of the view that Iraq should be allowed to remain territorially intact if it suffered a military defeat in Kuwait.

Turkey has expressed fears that Iraq may disintegrate after a military defeat, with territories in its oil-rich northern regions falling into Iran-backed Kurdish rebel hands.

Velayati, who also visited Qatar, Oman, the United Arab Emirates, and Syria, arrived in Stockholm, Sweden, Tuesday. A scheduled visit to Moscow was postponed Saturday at the Kremlin's request.

Rafsanjani also indicated that the Iran-Iraq prisoner-of-war exchanges, which began in August shortly after Baghdad unconditionally met Iran's peace terms, have run into trouble once again.

The POW swap was interrupted in September when Iran refused to accept Iraqi figures for the number of POWs still in Iraqi hands.

The two sides resumed the exchanges after Velayati unexpectedly visited Baghdad last month, but were halted a second time after each side sent home POWs amnestied after convictions for crimes committed in captivity.

Rafsanjani said the exchanges would resume once the question of the remaining Iranian POWs and those missing in action was settled.

(DEC. 18) UPI - Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher says U-S exports and imports reached record highs. But private economist Hugh Johnson, of First Albany Bank in New York says today's October trade report ''suggests the economy is declining rather rapidly.'' The higher cost of oil pushed the nation's trade deficit to 11-point-six-BILLION dollars for October, two-point-three-BILLION dollars more than in September. One-BILLION dollars of it came from imports of more costly oil. The value of goods shipped overseas was up two-point-eight-BILLION dollars over September to 34- point-eight-BILLION. But imports were up five-BILLION to 41-point-three- BILLION dollars.

An about-face on scholarships for minorities. A federal education official today outlined a new, six-point policy on minority scholarships. Now the Education Department will allow universities receiving federal funds to administer scholarships for minorities that are established and funded entirely by private donations. Assistant education secretary for civil rights Michael Williams says he was ''NOT ordered by anyone to overrule'' his previous stand that minority scholarships were ILlegal. He says the new policy was reached ''in a consultative process.''

Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev says he will stand firm on the issue of a national referendum to decide the future of the Soviet Union... even though the idea is under attack. Gorbachev's comments were made today after delegates from the republic of Moldavia walked out of the Congress of People's Deputies meeting in a challenge to his position on the nation's future. Moldavia now joins five other republics- Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania Georgia and Armenia- in either a full or partial boycott of the congress.

11 protesters reached the Mount Vernon, Missouri, hospital unit today where Nancy Cruzan is being allowed to die... but were stopped before they could enter her room in an attempt to force-feed her. Cruzan is the woman whose parents last week won a court order allowing them to remove the feeding tube that has kept her alive in a permanent vegetative state for nearly eight years. The tube was removed from Cruzan during the weekend. Doctors say she will die within two weeks.

A judge in Upper Marlboro, Maryland, has handed down a 38-year prison term to 18-year-old John Burgess, the first of three youths sentenced in a highway rock-throwing incident last May. The three were caught hurling rocks weighing up to 15 pounds at cars traveling the Capitol Beltway near Washington. At least two dozen people were injured, including a 16- year-old girl left with the mental abilities of a nine-year-old after two main arteries to her brain were severed. Burgess, who is eligible for parole in 10 years, could have received a 110-year prison sentence.

CONCORD, N.H. (DEC. 18) UPI - A group of New Hampshire peace activists Tuesday charged the state's leading television station with censorship for refusing to air a paid commercial opposing the U.S. military build- up in the Persian Gulf.

The 30-second commercial features Vietnam veteran Ron Kovic in a plea to stop a war in the Gulf before it breaks out.

Judy Corbit, of Goffstown, said she raised money through church groups to pay to air the commercial on WMUR-TV, channel 9, in Manchester. She said the station initially agreed to broadcast it, but then changed its mind.

''They took my check to get things started and I went home assuming it would be on,'' Corbit said. ''I was called three days before it was supposed to start running to say that someone else had looked at it and decided that it was unacceptable.''

In a letter, WMUR-TV operations manager Tom Bonnar said the commercial violated station policy.

''Our policy is that we do not accept issue-oriented advertising outside political election seasons,'' Bonnar wrote. ''Because the advertisement your organization submitted to WMUR is an issue-oriented commercial and we are currently not in an election season, I have rejected your commercial for airing on WMUR.''

Kurt Ehrenberg, of Operation Real Security, which is working to have the commercials aired on stations across the country, attacked WMUR for refusing to air issue advertising and being one-sided in its coverage of the military build-up in the Persian Gulf.

''The tone that they have set is one of rallying to war, rather than being balanced and showing the many people in the state who would favor a peaceful solution to the Persian Gulf (crisis),'' Ehrenberg said. ''We tried to pay to get that point of view on Channel 9 and were refused. I think the people of New Hampshire have a right to know that Channel 9 is censoring the peace movement in New Hampshire.''

The commercial shows Kovic, whose life was chronicled in the book and movie ''Born on the 4th of July,'' sitting in a wheelchair.

''We have thousands of young men and women in in the Persian Gulf, not to defend democracy, but to protect the big oil companies. We don't want another Vietnam. How many more body bags and graveyards and monuments? How many more Americans coming home in wheelchairs, like me, will it take before we learn?'' Kovic says on the tape.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - When Robert Bennett is spotted on Capitol Hill, it is a safe bet that some politician is in serious trouble.

Bennett, a pit bull of a lawyer who has been assigned the job of defending the integrity of the U.S. Senate, spent a lot of time on Capitol Hill in 1990.

That signalled bad news for several senators during a 1990 bull market for ethics cases in both the Senate and House.

Unfortunately for the reputation of Congress, allegations of influence peddling and sexual and financial misconduct against members of both parties shared the spotlight with such pressing issues as deficit reduction, civil rights and the Persian Gulf crisis.

Bennett, a special counsel for the Senate ethics committee, presented the financial misconduct case against Sen. Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., who became the first member of the Senate to be disciplined by the body since 1979. Bennett also assembled the influence-peddling case against the so-called Keating Five senators - Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., John Glenn, D-Ohio, John McCain, R-Ariz., and Donald Riegle, D-Mich. That case is still pending before the ethics panel.

On the other side of the Capitol, the House voted to reprimand Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., for improperly using his office to benefit a male prostitute. The House ethics committee handed a written rebuke to Rep. Gus Savage, D-Ill., in a sexual misconduct case. The panel also was preparing to take action against Rep. Donald ''Buz'' Lukens, R-Ohio, who resigned his job in another sexual misconduct case rather than face the ethics sanctions.

In addition to the Keating Five and Durenberger cases, Bennett, the older brother of former Education Secretary and drug policy chief William Bennett, captained the ethics committee's 1981 investigation of Sen. Harrison Williams stemming from the Abscam scandal that led to the New Jersey Democrat's resignation.

The Keating Five senators are accused of exerting improper pressure on bank regulators to benefit indicted savings and loan kingpin Charles Keating Jr., who funneled $1.3 million in political contributions to the lawmakers. Bennett's case focuses on Cranston, DeConcini and Riegle and he has already urged full exoneration for Glenn and McCain.

The Senate ethics committee has held five weeks of public hearings into the matter and was set to resume the hearings on Jan. 2.

Bennett pointed to two trends that could lead more lawmakers toward ethics debacles: more and more constituents are asking for assistance from their elected representatives at the same time members of Congress, faced with escalating costs of political campaigns, must solicit contributions from many of those same constituents.

Bennett called the Keating Five case ''a booming warning that unless these trends are recognized and dealt with, we will have more cases like this and the reputation of this body and its members will be in utter ruin.''

On July 25, the Senate voted 96-0 to ''denounce'' the well-liked Durenberger for ''clearly and unequivocally unethical'' conduct and ordered him to pay $120,000 in restitution for violating Senate rules with a book promotion deal to launder speaking fees and by converting a personal residence into a business property so he could charge the government for its use.

Durenberger did not challenge the case against him, instead, in effect, throwing himself on the mercy of the court.

''For past mistakes, I ask your forgiveness,'' Durenberger told his colleagues. ''For future challenges, I need your friendship.''

One day after the Senate took action against Durenberger during a bittersweet proceeding, the House took action against Frank during a wild one. The rancorous debate was marred by name-calling among those supporting the House ethics committee's recommendation for a reprimand and those seeking a harsher penalty.

Rep. William Dannemeyer, R-Calif., urged expulsion and said Frank, an acknowledged homosexual, also violated sodomy and prostitution laws. Normally staid ethics chairman Rep. Julian Dixon, D-Calif., blasted Dannemeyer's claims as ''edited, selective garbage.''

The House voted 408-18 to reprimand Frank for abusing congressional privilege to help a male prostitute with whom Frank associated from 1985-87.

Both Frank and Savage, cited for making sexual advances to a female Peace Corps volunteer during an official trip to Zaire, won re-election.

Lukens, already convicted of a misdemeanor charge stemming from having sex with a 16-year-old girl and facing fresh claims of sexual misconduct, resigned his House seat on Oct. 24, becoming the fourth House member to resign from the 101st Congress amid ethics problems. The other three, all Democrats, bolted in 1989: former Speaker Jim Wright of Texas, former assistant Democratic leader Tony Coelho of California and Robert Garcia of New York.

As a result of the tumultuous 1990, some members of the Senate panel have indicated an unwillingness to further serve on the committee. Next up for the panel is deciding whether Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., improperly pressured officials from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to benefit political contributors and friends.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (DEC. 18) UPI - Ohio State coach John Cooper denied a report Tuesday that he was one of two coaches who turned in Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz for violations in the recruitment of star running back Kijana Carter of Westerville, Ohio, South High School.

A story in Tuesday's edition of the St. Paul, Minn., Pioneer Press, said Ohio State and Penn State both had reported the alleged violations to the NCAA.

''As far as I know, there's no validity to anything in that story,'' Cooper said when told of the report. ''That's one of those wild stories, I guess, and I don't even want to comment on it.''

''But,'' he added, ''we have not turned in Notre Dame, I do know that. I don't know what happened on his (Carter's) visit to Notre Dame.''

''Both Penn State and Ohio State have turned in Notre Dame and Holtz for several major violations in the recruitment of Carter,'' the story quoted a major college football coach, who requested anonymity.

''Not only did Notre Dame have Carter's mother stay in the home of a booster, Carter stayed free in a dormitory on an unpaid visit and watched on the sidelines throughout the game. He apparently was also given some school athletic equipment while there,'' the coach was quoted as saying.

The Pioneer Press story, by staff writer Charley Hallman, also quoted the unidentified coach as saying Westerville South coach Tony Pusateri had not been allowing schools other than Notre Dame to talk with Carter.

The story also identified Pusateri as a graduate of Notre Dame.

''I barely made it through Capital University,'' said Pusateri, while also denying other statements made by the unidentified coach.

''Kijana stayed with a good friend of his from Westerville who goes to school at Notre Dame,'' said Pusateri. ''His mother drove to Notre Dame and returned home after the game and he didn't take any equipment.''

Pusateri said last summer he personally drove Carter to four of the five schools which he had planned to visit - Ohio State, Penn State, Notre Dame and Michigan.

''I drove him to these places so he could see them without everybody flowering over him,'' said Pusateri. ''Of course, I couldn't drive him to Colorado.''

''I think we're in pretty good shape with him,'' Cooper said of his efforts to recruit the suburban Columbus star, considered the top running back prospect in Ohio. ''He visited Colorado last weekend and he came back bubbling about Colorado. But, that's to be expected. The week before, it was Penn State.''

Because of injuries, Carter, a 6-foot, 210-pounder with sprinter's speed, was limited to just five games the past season. He still managed to rush for 985 yards and 11 touchdowns. As a junior, he gained 1,700 yards in 10 games.

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA (DEC. 18) UPI - Yugoslavia's collective presidency Tuesday condemned as ''anti-constitutional'' a plebiscite on independence for the Slovenian republic and asked federal authorities to take steps to preserve the Yugoslav federation.

The presidency did not indicate the nature of the steps it was seeking. But the body is the supreme commander of the Communist-led military, which has recently raised fears of possible intervention in the nation's political crisis by underscoring its determination to maintain a federation based on socialism.

The eight-man collective head of state, in a statement issued after a session in Belgrade, acknowleged that the Yugoslav constitution gives the six republics the right to secede from the federation forged in 1918.

But it said: ''The Yugoslav state presidency considers that ... the secession of the republic of Slovenia from the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia .. is an anti-constitutional and one-sided action that attempts to impose on other Yugoslav republics through the policy of a fait accompli.

''The Yugoslav state presidency cannot agree nor accept anybody's one-sidedaction which violates the constitutional legal order and integrity of the country and its interests and, therefore, it asks the federal government, together with the federal administrative organs, to prepare and undertake indispensable measures by which these interests will be protected.''

The presidency is composed of one representative from each republic and two autonomous republics.

Slovenian leaders defended the plebiscite set for Sunday.

Approval would not mean automatic secession of the most liberal and economically developed republic, they said, but would arm the government with the authority to declare independence if there is no accord in a dispute on Yugoslavia's future political setup.

''The plebiscite is only the clearly expressed will of the Slovenian people,'' Slovenian Assembly President France Bucar told a news conference in the republic's capital of Ljubjlana, 350 miles west of Belgrade.

His assertion underscored that the vote is for now intended to give the Slovenian government an additional bargaining chip in its fight for a new federal constitution converting Yugoslavia into a confederation of independent states.

Slovenia and Croatia, governed since May by nationalists, are demanding confederation because of a revival of historic fears of economic and political dominance by the largest republic, Serbia, fueled by the aggressive rhetoric of its communist government.

Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, re-elected in Dec. 9 multi- party elections, wants to maintain the federation unless Serbia's boundaries are expanded to include Serbian enclaves now in other republics.

Milosevic has repeatedly refused invitations to discuss the dispute with his Croatian and Slovenian counterparts.

PARK CITY, Utah (DEC. 18) UPI - Six people were killed and up to 30 others were injured Tuesday in a collision between a Greyhound bus and at least one semi-truck on an icy highway near the Wyoming state line, authorities said.

The eastbound bus was on Interstate 80, about 10 miles west of Evanston, Wyo. and near the Wyoming state line when the collision occurred about 11 a.m. MST, Utah Highway Patrol spokesman Gary Whitney said.

Six people were killed. Up to 30 people were injured, although precise figures were not immediately available on injuries or the number of people aboard the bus.

The bus hit at least one semi-truck on the ice-bound highway that was swept by high winds. Whitney said two trucks were left wrecked on the roadway, but it was not immediately clear whether both trucks struck the bus.

''We're not sure what caused the accident up there, though it appears the weather and road conditions could have been a factor. It's real icy in the area and we have high winds.'' Whitney said. Interstate 80 was closed in both directions between Park City, Utah and Evanston, a distance of about 50 miles.

EASTERN SAUDI ARABIA (DEC. 18) UPI - It's Jan. 16. Kuwait is still Saddam Hussein's beach resort and U.S. troops are on the move. Across the border thousands of Iraqi tanks are on alert and headed toward Saudi Arabia.

The shooting begins. Desert dust flying everywhere, illuminated by howitzer fire. Up in the sky, it's a squadron of A-10 attack jets criss- crossing the battlefield. But wait. They're holding back, confused - can't tell the friendly tanks from the unfriendlies.

It's a scenario Gen. Norman Schwartzkopf, commander of all U.S. forces in the Persian Gulf, can't afford to let happen.

So earlier this month he brought in the 23rd Tactical Air Support Squadron and their OA-10 surveillance jets from Tucson, Ariz., to keep things straight.

''Our job is to go out in advance of the A-10s and sort out the big picture,'' Capt. Jon Engle, 28, of Houston, Texas, told reporters who came to inspect the jets Tuesday. ''We try to pick out the good guys from the bad guys and relay that information to the pilots behind us so they can hit the right targets.''

The OA-10s, which stands for observe and attack, are identical to their cousin fighter jets structurally, but they don't carry the same range of weapons. At an air base in eastern Saudi Arabia, the surveillance planes also did not carry the shark's teeth on their noses that flight crews had painted on the A-10s.

In any engagement with Iraq, the OA-10s, one-man jets manufactured by Fairchild Corp., would fly over enemy terrain and mark preselected targets with canisters of white phosphorous, which emit a wispy trail visible to the attack pilots.

The pilots spend an enormous amount of time studying maps and intelligence reports so that they can recognize a hostile missile site from the air.

''Once we locate the target, we put the smoke out on it so the ingressing pilots will have no trouble finding it,'' said Lt. Col. Bob George, 39, of Indian Rocks Beach, Fla., who commands the squadron.

The A-10s are used primarily to provide air support for army units on the ground and are known as ''tank crackers'' because their artillery is designed to detroy the enemy's armored vehicles. George said the surveillance mission of the OA-10s is particularly important because of Iraq's 5-to-1 numerical advantage in tanks.

''If I were the army, I'd want us pounding the heck out of those guys before I came in,'' George said.

In fact, all of the squadron's pilots spend about a month each year going on maneuvers with a corresponding unit and several would be assigned to stay with the troops to coordinate an attack directly with their colleagues above.

''The Army wants us to do this because we talk Air Force,'' George said, explaining that foul-ups have occurred in past because of misunderstandings between the two services.

Coordination is better now but some minor rubs persist with the other service, which considers the flyers who share their foxholes to be somewhat cocky.

For instance, the Army commander was not amused when he found Capt. Michael Beard, 33, of Bossier City, La., chomping down pepperoni pizza with two chums while they were supposed to be picking through standard Army rations with the rest of the unit during training in Hawaii.

''The commander goes, 'You can't eat pizzas back here. Jeez, typical Air Force.'''

Beard, who had ordered the pies from Domino's Pizza by field telephone to celebrate his promotion to major, said he wasn't fazed.

''We just laughed.''

(DEC. 18) UPI - Retail inflation rose three-tenths of one percent last month... after gaining six-tenths of one percent in October. The Labor Department says the slow rate of increase is thanks in part to what the government terms a ''sharp deterioration'' in energy prices. But consumers found little relief from rising prices at the grocery stores where fruit, vegetables and beef cost more. The bill for dining out increased three-tenths of one percent... while the tab of movies, sporting events and concerts rose one-tenth of one percent.

Another sign of solidarity behind the Bush administration's blueprint for dealing with Iraq. The 12-nation European Community decided today against meeting with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz until he sees President Bush in Washington. A tentative Aziz meeting with Bush had been set for yesterday... but NEVER took place because Washington and Baghdad are deadlocked over dates for a visit to Iraq by Secretary of State Baker. Baker earlier said it would be fine with him if Iraq's foreign minister met with E-C officials, providing NO ''mixed messages'' were sent.

The Houston company offering a for-pay sweepstakes that could send the winner into space for a week had more telephone calls yesterday than it could handle.

And that momentarily overloaded the special 900 telephone circuit that was set up to take names and addresses of would- be cosmonauts, charging them two dollars 99 cents for each call. Space Travel Services is paying the Soviet space agency to send the contest winner into space aboard one of its manned rockets in late 1992 or early 1993. It woN'T say what the cost is, but it reportedly is more than the 12-Million dollars a Japanese broadcast network paid the Soviets to put one of its reporters into space.

A warrant has been issued charging Indiana State University Professor Robert David Little with murder in the 1982 mutilation death of 23-year- old Stephen Agan. Little was named as a participant in the slaying by condemned killer Larry Eyler, who already confessed his part in the killing. Eyler says the library science professor urged him to kill Agan and took pictures of the murder. Eyler is a suspect in at least 20 slayings of young men in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio. He is under a death sentence in Illinois in the slaying of a Chicago youth.

If you're thinking of taking Fido or Fluffy on that holiday trip... think again. A Texas newspaper is reporting that more than 70 dogs, cats and other pets have died in U-S airline cargo holds this year, mostly because of heat stroke or suffocation. Other animals reportedly died or were injured in accidents that included pets being released on runways or being burned or crushed on airport conveyor belts. One pet advocate calls it the worst year ever... saying that ''Nothing is born to die in a cargo bin.''

DETROIT (DEC. 18) UPI - Mercedes-Benz of North America Inc. said Tuesday its goal is to maintain its U.S. sales at about 75,000 cars for 1991 despite a new tax on luxury cars and the doubling of gas guzzler fees next year.

But during a media briefing in Detroit, Mike Jackson, senior vice president of sales operations for MBNA, said it is too early to tell what effects the new legislation may have on that sales target.

Jackson also said Mercedes will support a coalition to lobby against the new taxes. "We're faced with tax laws that seem to penalize those who have been the leader in safety and technology," he said, adding that the effort will most likely be spearheaded by dealers of European luxury cars, since most domestic brands are still priced under $30,000.

That legislation includes an extra 10 percent tax on cars costing $30,000 or more effective Jan. 1., as well as a doubling of the owner-paid tax on cars with poor fuel economy.

MBNA officials said they expect the two taxes to add about 4 percent to the price of most Mercedes cars, which currently range from just under $29,000 for the 190E sedan, to $89,300 for its 500 SL roadster.

The U.S. marketer of the German automaker, headquartered in Montvale, N.J., also sought to dispel any notions that new luxury cars from Japanese manufacturers, like Toyota's Lexus and Nissan's Infiniti divisions, have hurt its sales.

"Their success has not come at our expense," said Jackson, adding that "the real culprits" behind MBNA's 24 percent sales slide since 1986 have been tax legislation that went into effect in 1987 and the declining dollar versus the German mark.

"It is not correct to attribute this to the advent of new Japanese makes ... implying those makes are stealing our customers," Jackson said, noting that while the Japanese have strived to compare themselves with European marques, the major portion of trade-ins have come from domestic brands.

Lexus' U.S. car sales for 1990 through Nov. 30 have totaled nearly 57,000 units, while Infiniti has sold just over 21,000 cars. Kenneth Moriarty, manager of market planning for MBNA, said Mercedes would most probably not have seen its sales rise had Lexus and Infiniti not entered the market.

"Buyers regard those cars as different from ours" he said, adding that by the mid-1990s, MBNA could have an opportunity to attract early Lexus and Infiniti buyers into the higher end of the luxury car market.

MBNA officials also said it is shortening its product cycle from ten or 11 years to between six and eight years - but insisted that general competitive pressures, not new Japanese offerings, is causing it to do so.

The company will introduce one new model each year during the 1990s, completely revamping its product offerings and expanding its line from 18 models now to 22 models by 1995.

One will be its first all-new large sedan in 11 years, to debut as a 1992 model this March at the Geneva Auto Show. Another is the 500E, a limited production sedan based on its mid-sized line but powered by a 326 horsepower, 32-valve 5.0 liter V8 engine. Also dubbed a 1992 model, it is expected to cost about $75,000. A V12 engine is planned for its roadster during the mid-1990s, MBNA said. On other matters, MBNA said:

- it will pay about $17.5 million in corporate average fuel economy fines this year, down from about $20 million in 1989. Jackson said the company would rather pay those fines than make compromises in safety features or new technology.

- it hopes to sell diesel-powered cars in California by 1993 because of technological advances that should allow it to meet standards on lower particulate emissions.

California represents about 30 percent of MBNA's overall U.S. diesel market - which would mean a significant sales expansion. Mercedes' diesel car sales in the 49 states for 1990 will be about 4,500 units.

(DEC. 18) UPI - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein said Tuesday he saw no need for his foreign minister to go to Washington if President George Bush was going to reiterate demands that Iraq withdraw from Kuwait.

Saddam's statement, in a Turkish television interview, came as European Community foreign ministers decided in Brussels, Belgium, they would not meet with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz unless he first holds talks in Washington with President Bush.

Secretary of State James Baker told the ministers earlier in the day that the United States would not oppose a meeting between Aziz and the EC, as long as Iraq did not receive ''mixed messages'' from the countries involved.

The U.S. Secretary of State, in Brussels for a meeting of NATO foreign ministers, also said he expected Iraq to attempt ''diplomatic sleights-of-hand'' in the coming weeks and reiterated that a partial Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait was unacceptable.

Proposed meetings between Aziz and Bush in Washington and between Baker and Iraqi President Saddam Hussein in Baghdad have been stymied as the two countries argue about appropriate dates, 28 days before the Jan. 15 deadline for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait.

In an interview released Tuesday in Ankara, Saddam told Turkey's state television, ''There is no need for us to go to Washington if Bush is to repeat to us the U.N. Security Council resolutions.'' The resolutions call for the complete withdrawal of Iraq from Kuwait, which it invaded Aug. 2.

The EC had earlier this month agreed that Aziz would meet with EC President Gianni de Michelis, the foreign minister of Italy, after his talks with Bush in Washington. The ministers said Saturday they would not change the ground rules for the proposed EC meeting.

Baker said the United States would not object to the Aziz-de Michelis talks and supported all diplomatic efforts toward peace.

''The one thing we do discourage are discordant messages, mixed messages or mixed signals,'' he said. ''The message thats going to go to the Iraqis must be a unifrom message, which is that they must comply with the United Nations resolutions in full.''

On Monday, Baker told the NATO meeting that Iraq may take the ''dramatic'' step of a partial withdrawal on or about Jan. 15, and urged the allies to reject it as a ''ploy.''

The United Nations has given Iraq until Jan. 15 to leave Kuwait, which it occupied Aug. 2, or face war with the U.S.-led multinational force in the region.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Disputing persistent media reports, Drug Enforcement Administration officials insisted Tuesday there is no connection between the agency and the 1988 terrorist bombing of Pan Am Flight 103.

Appearing at a House subcommittee hearing, DEA Assistant Administrator Stephen Greene said: ''I am here today to put to rest the lingering allegations, surfaced primarily in the media, of DEA's alleged involvement in the bombing of Pan Am 103.''

''I assure you,'' he said, ''that those allegations are unfounded and that DEA had no part in this terrible tragedy.''

As he spoke, family members of some of the 270 people who perished in the disaster over Lockerbie, Scotland, watched from the front row of a packed hearing room.

''They're only getting part of the story,'' said Joan Dater, a member of Victims of Pan Am 103. ''It's going to be misleading. It's not full disclosure.''

''We're calling for a full investigation,'' added Rosemary Wolfe, a member of Families of Pan Am 103-Lockerbie. ''We're concerned about airline security in the future.''

Only the DEA officials were called to testify at Tuesday's meeting of the House Government Operations Committee subcommittee on government information, justice and agriculture.

Committee Chairman Robert Wise, D-W.Va., cautioned that the purpose of the hearing was not to get to the bottom of the largest criminal investigation in history, but rather to determine if there was any DEA to the Dec. 21, 1988, bombing.

Broadcast reports last month said Pan Am flights from Frankfurt, West Germany, including Flight 103, had been used several times by an undercover DEA operation to fly informants and suitcases of heroin into Detroit. The flights were part of an elaborate sting operation to snare Middle East drug dealers.

The reports said drug operatives may have uncovered the top-secret operation and retaliated by slipping a bomb in the suitcase of Khalid Jafaar, a Lebanese-American said to be acting as a DEA courier.

The DEA has denied any involvement, but nevertheless conducted an internal review, as did the FBI, another branch of the Justice Department. Both agencies said there was no evicence the allegations were true.

''We have conducted an exhaustive internal review, which revealed that DEA had no ongoing investigation or operation in Europe during, or immediately before, December 1988 which even remotely resembled the one described in the media reports,'' Greene said.

He said the media reports run contrary to the way his agency conducts drug operations.

''The scenario described by the media is completely incompatible with the way DEA operates overseas,'' Greene said. ''Our overseas operations are conducted in complete accord with the laws of the host country in which we serve.''

In addition, he said, ''As a matter of policy, DEA does not conduct operations which circumvent airport security. Therefore, DEA would not have attempted to move drugs through a foreign airport without the knowledge of the host country's law enforcement officials and without compliance with applicable local security requirements.''

Investigators reportedly believe that the bombing was ordered by Iran, and orchestrated by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command, in retaliation for the U.S. downing of an Iranian Airbus jetliner over the Persian Gulf.

CHICAGO (DEC. 18) UPI - Widespread selling and the lack of export business pressured grain and soybean futures Tuesday.

Closing prices were lower in relatively quiet trading on the Chicago Board of Trade.

The lack of confirmation of Soviet purchases of corn and soybean meal contributed to the weakness across the floor. There were indications the Soviets had purchased meal from South America rather than the United States. But rumors continued they had bought a large amount of U.S. corn.

A dull export outlook for the near-term weighed on prices across the floor. The only news from exporters was that Algeria bought 85,000 tons of wheat and was in the market for another 100,000 tons.

Soybeans fell to their lowest levels in nearly three weeks, but came off the lows after midday as buying interest picked up.

The grains were lower on profit-taking and spillover weakness from soybeans.

Country movement was light to moderate.

At the close, corn was off 1/4 to 1 1/4, soybeans down 1/2 to 4 1/2, wheat off 1 to 3 1/2 and oats down 3 to 4.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Calling the lack of civil liberties in the workplace a ''national scandal,'' the American Civil Liberties Union called Tuesday for a Bill of Rights for Employees to protect workers exercising their constitutional rights.

According to a report prepared by Lewis Maltby, coordinator of a special task force to examine workers' rights, the fundamental values protected by the Constitution's Bill of Rights virtually stop at the factory gate and office lobby.

From the basic right of freedom of speech to the more sophisticated right to due process, the ACLU study found that American workers enjoy virtually none of the protections that are taken for granted in daily life.

''There is a crisis in the workplace of a magnitude unseen in many decades,'' Maltby said.

While the report said that organized labor and unions provide some protection for workers, it also noted that only 16 percent of American workers now belong to a union and most existing labor agreements do not include adequate protections.

According to the report:

-An estimated 2 million employees every year are required to take written personality tests that probe their sexual lives, bathroom habits and family relationships.

-Employers routinely listen in on the telephone calls of 1 million employees.

-At least 15 million employees are required to submit samples of their urine to be analyzed, frequently under conditions that amount to a strip search.

-A large and growing industry provides undercover agents to industry to spy on employees and report their actions to management and many companies have installed hidden cameras to watch their employees.

Equally alarming, according to the report, is a growing tendency of companies to seek to control the behavior and actions of workers when they are not at work or are at home.

''The first example of this Big Brother-type expansionism was urine testing for illicit drugs,'' it said. ''Almost half of American employers require their employees to submit to urine tests, despite the undisputed fact that urine testing does not measure impairment and despite all available evidence indicating that most people's use of legal or illegal drugs on their own time does not render them drug dependent or affect their work,'' the report said.

''Now, many employers are refusing to hire people who acknowledge using tobacco in their own homes and even terminating current employees who refuse to quit smoking,'' it said.

While the report said that free speech is perhaps the most cherished of all American values, ''there is no right to free speech in the workplace.''

''An employee who expresses any disagreement with company policy can be legally fired,'' it said. ''It does not matter that the disagreement was expressed in a courteous or professional manner, or that it was expressed within the organization and not to the outside world, or that the employee continuted to competently perform his or her job and even abide by the questioned policy.

''Any experssion of disagreement can be a ground for firing,'' it said.

And it said that firing could be legal even if an employee objects to a company practice that is illegal.

Maltby, at a news conference where he was joined by members of Congress, labor and religious officials, said the ACLU will work to pass - on both the federal and state level - laws implementing the proposed six-point Employees Bill of Rights.

The proposal includes protection for freedom of speech, the right to organize, the right to privacy - including bans on searches, drug tests or discrimination against workers for off-duty conduct - fair treatment, equal treatment and legal protection, including giving employees the right an ''an adequate and affordable legal remedy'' if they charge their rights are violated.

Rep. William Clay, D-Mo., has introduced legislation that would give the proposed statement of rights the force of law.

ORLANDO, FL (DEC. 18) UPI - The average price of gasoline has dropped 1.4 cents since Thanksgiving, the American Automobile Association said Tuesday in its Christmas Fuel Gauge Report. The nationwide average price of self-serve regular unleaded gasoline was $1.371 per gallon, AAA said.

Holiday travelers should also find plentiful supplies of gasoline. AAA said 84 percent of stations planned to maintain normal operating hours Christmas Day, and 33 percent would stay open 24 hours.

The price of self-serve unleaded was still 31 cents higher than on Aug. 1, the day before Iraq invaded Kuwait, but it was unchanged from a week ago, the motoring federation said.

The holiday Fuel Gauge Report was conducted for AAA by Computer Petroleum Corp. of St. Paul, Minn., based on a nationwide survey of 5,000 gasoline stations.

New England had the nation's highest prices with an average of $1.437 per gallon for self-serve regular unleaded. Other regional prices for self-serve unleaded were: West, $1.432; Mid-Atlantic, $1.413; Great Lakes, $1.373; Southwest, $1.321; Southeast, $1.319; and Midwest $1.298.

AAA said the nationwide average price for self-serve regular leaded gasoline was $1.361 per gallon, while the self-serve premium average was $1.53. At the full-service pumps, regular unleaded averaged $1.585 a gallon, regular leaded was $1.57, and premium was $1.722 per gallon.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - The Navy's A-12 Avenger bomber slipped deeper into trouble Tuesday when the Pentagon said it had told key contractors their performance was unacceptable and had given them until Jan. 2 to suggest a recovery plan.

Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams revealed that the department had issued a "cure notice," which is formal notification to the contractors "that the government considers contractor performance unsatisfactory."

Williams said the $4.7 billion contract could be terminated if St. Louis-based contractors General Dynamics Corp. and McDonnell Douglas Corp. fail to devise a remedy for the problems that have plagued the program.

"We'll see whether their way is satisfactory," said Williams of any new plan submitted for the ambitious attack aircraft project that is more than $1 billion over budget and 18 months behind schedule.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney told the Navy last week that it has until Jan. 4 to explain why the project should not be scrapped. Meetings between Defense Department officials and officials of the two giant defense contractors began on Tuesday. The U.S. attorney in St. Louis is conducting a criminal investigation of whether the contractors received partial payment for work that had not been done.

Also, a report Tuesday in the trade paper Defense News disclosed that an audit by the Defense Contract Audit Agency questioned the health of both contractors. The report said the audit's conclusion raised questions about the ability of the two firms to pay possible overpayments.

Williams would not discuss the financial condition of the contractors, but told reporters: "Obviously the health of the companies, the health of the contract, contract performance, all of that, is something we're going to discuss with the companies."

The program was rocked this month by word that one admiral was ordered to retire, a second was censured and transferred and a captain was censured over the fact that word of the plane's problems was not raised loudly enough to be heard by Cheney during a review of aviation programs. Cheney told Congress the A-12 was doing fine but later he was embarrassed when contractors said they were running behind schedule and over budget.

Last week, the Pentagon's senior procurement official, who was involved in relaying program data to Cheney, announced he would resign at the end of the year.

The A-12 is designed as a replacement for the aging A-6. It would fly off aircraft carriers, have stealth characteristics and would be able to conduct bombing missions at night. Williams said decisions needed to be made quickly because of the need to get the fiscal 1992 budget ready for Congress.

The spokesman said that while there were no other similar programs under development, alternatives to the A-12 were under consideration. But he declined to discussa the alternatives.

(DEC. 18) UPI - Iraqi President Saddam poured cold water on the idea of a meeting between his foreign minister and President Bush. In an interview released today in Ankara, Saddam told Turkey's state t-v ''there is NO need'' for such a meeting if all Bush will do is repeat the U-N demand that Iraq leave Kuwait.

If push does come to shove next month, the Pentagon says its troops are ready. Spokesman Pete Williams says the U-S forces in the Gulf region will be prepared to force Iraq out of Kuwait on January 15th... the day set by the United Nations as the day when force can be used. The U-S contingent is expected to grow to about 430-thousand troops by mid- January or early February. Iraqi forces in Kuwait and southern Iraq top 510-thousand.

The Washington State Labor Council is calling for a nationwide boycott of toys made in China. The state's biggest labor organization says many Chinese-made goods are produced using the forced labor of children and tortured political prisoners. Americans last year bought more than one-BILLION 700-Million dollars worth of Chinese-made toys, sporting goods and games.

A group of the nation's rich and powerful traveled to one of Washington's most economically diverse neighborhoods today to launch a new initiative to aid the homeless. The group, including Housing and Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp, told reporters in the Adams- Morgan neighborhood that the Corporate Housing Initiatives project will, for the first time, use the low-income housing tax credit to provide housing for the homeless. The Fannie Mae mortgage program is kicking off the new project with a 10-Million-dollar investment and will lead an effort to bring in more corporate investors.

Britain's housing minister announced says a new government plan will provide one-thousand new beds for the homeless in central London. Sir George Young says many new beds will be made available before Christmas in order to get those without shelter off the streets before the holidays. Some estimates put the number of homesless sleeping in London streets as high as three-thousand. An opposition Labor Party member of Parliament dismissed the initiative as ''Christmas wrapping around an empty package.''

President Bush today signed an executive order directing federal government departments and agencies to be closed for a half day on Christmas Eve, giving federal workers an extra half-day holiday. Under the order, certain offices and installations must remain open and some employees must remain on duty for reasons of national security or other essential public services.

The lawyer for a Texas third-grader who spends his school days in isolation for refusing to cut his skimpy ponytail says he hopes an appeals court will strike down the dress code as early as January. Attorneys for the Bastrop County school board today asked a state judge to dismiss a lawsuit filed by the mother of eight-year-old Zachariah Toungate. Last month, a Bastrop County state district judge upheld the school's dress code.

RIO DE JANEIRO (DEC. 18) UPI - The Third World's largest debtor, Brazil, has decided to end its year-and-a-half moratorium and resume interest payments to creditors in the first quarter of 1991, the Economy Ministry announced Tuesday.

The ministry said the government has decided to pay foreign bankers $490 million in the first three months of next year, roughly 30 percent of the $1.6 billion it should be paying then.

Brazil has the Third World's largest foreign debt, estimated at $118 billion, and it stopped interest payments in June of last year, alleging insufficient resources.

Economy Minister Zelia Cardoso de Mello, in statements released by the ministry, said Tuesday that the payments to be made next year "demonstrates we are interested in negotiating. Brazil reiterates its stand to make efforts to bring debt negotiations to a successful conclusion."

She said the government has not decided entirely what approach to take in refinancing the remainder of what is in arrears, which she said will contine to be negotiated."

"Brazil has made every effort in this period (of negotiation), but it was not possible to reach an agreement on arrearages," she said. She said that the expected payment next year of $490 million "respects our capacity to pay and does not signify paying debt with inflation."

Mrs. Cardoso de Mello made the announcement after the Senate approved a resolution that impedes the government from paying the $8 billion arrearage until next February.

The resolution, adopted unanimously just before the Senate went into recess until February, says the Senate must be consulted before payments on back interest are made. Since the Senate won't be in session until February, the end result of the resolution was a delay in payments. "This was a way to gain time," said pro-government Senator Jose Ignacio.

A delegation of Brazilian experts, headed by chief debt negotiator Jorio Dauster, has been in New York since Sunday discussing ways to refinance the debt with creditors. A month ago Brazil offered to pay creditors $940 million by the end of December, but the offer was rejected as insufficient.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - The government has failed to ensure silicone breast implants are safe despite evidence the devices may imperil women's health, a congressional committee was told Tuesday.

Although the Food and Drug Administration has been concerned for at least eight years about the health of millions of American women with breast implants, the agency has yet to require manufacturers prove the implants' safety.

''In our nation most people assume that these medical devices are very carefully studied by the Food and Drug Administration before they can be sold '' said Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., at a sometimes contentious, sometimes emotional four-hour hearing called to investigate safety concerns.

''Unfortunately, this is not true. The fact is that silicone breast implants have never been ruled safe or effective by the FDA,'' said Weiss, chairman of the House Resources and Intergovernmental Relations Subcommittee.

Since the 1960s, more than 2 million American women have received breast implants - about 85 percent to enlarge their breasts and about 15 percent to reconstruct a breast after mastectomy. About 130,000 women get implants annually.

Weiss accused the FDA of ''dragging its feet'' on regulating implants despite concerns by scientists inside and outside the agency, and suggested the FDA was ''under pressure'' to ''kowtow'' to plastic surgeons and implant manufacturers.

FDA officials defended their actions, saying they were balancing safety concerns against the value of implants to breast cancer patients. In addition, they said evidence indicates any adverse health effects appear relatively rare.

''I want to emphasize that these are all open questions, and current evidence cannot conclusively assure safety or demonstrate the extent of any risks,'' said Walter Gundaker, acting director of the FDA's center for devices and radiological health. ''If the questions were settled we would have acted prior to this time.''

Nevertheless, Gundaker said he expected the agency would issue a final ruling on the matter by March 1991, and that action would probably require companies to prove the implants are safe.

Both the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeons and the Dow Corning Corp. of Midland, Mich., which makes implants, defended the devices, saying they helped women recover from disfiguring breast surgery.

Before 1976, the FDA did not require companies to prove most medical devices such as implants were safe or effective. But a more recent law requires proof for new devices, and the agency began taking steps to examine the safety of the implants when questions were raised about the safety of silicone.

In addition to at least one study that found silicone gel can cause a form of cancer in rats, experts testified during the hearing that the silicone implants can leak or burst and there is evidence that the leaking silicone can trigger an immune system response that can produce serious illness.

''We believe that silicone has the ability to excite the immune system and in time the immune system attacks the person's body,'' said Dr. Frank Vesey, a professor of medicine at the University of South Florida College of Medicine in Tampa.

The hearing began with testimony from three women who received implants. While one woman said she was happy with the implants, two described serious health problems they attributed to their implants.

Janet Van Winkle, 47, of Kirkwood, Mo., choked back tears as she described years of medical problems stemming from the 1982 implantation of silicone following breast cancer surgery, including hives covering her torso, chronic fatigue, back and joint pain, severe headaches, chills and nausea.

''When I embarked on my journey through the halls of plastic surgery and breast implants I have never told that any of these thing could happen. It has left me broke and disfigured,'' she said.

All those testifying agreed more information should be made available to women alerting them to potential risks of silicone implants.

Dr. Joseph Arcarese of the FDA's office of training and assistance, acknowledged that a brochure about the implants had been delayed because a plastic surgeon's group has withheld endorsement because it includes a list of consumer groups patients can contact.

Arcarese said, however, that he was optimistic that a compromise would be reached soon, stressing that without the endorsement he was concerned doctors would not cooperate.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (DEC. 18) UPI - Ewing Kauffman, who has been trying to find a buyer or partner for the Kansas City Royals, announced Tuesday he will retain 100 percent control of the team.

The Royals were placed up for bid after 50-percent owner Avron Fogelman, a Memphis, Tenn., real estate developer, experienced severe financial problems. Kauffman lent Fogelman $34 million, with Fogelman putting up as collateral his half of the team and an option on buying Kauffman's half of the stock.

Kauffman said the bid process came about because of potential liability should Fogelman enter bankruptcy. Fogelman has until Jan. 3 to pay off the loan but Kauffman said he did not expect that to happen.

''We have concluded the auction process and the news is the Kauffmans will remain as owners of the Royals,'' Kauffman said.

Kauffman said more than 200 people showed an interest in buying the Royals, but the field dwindled to three, none with baseball ties or links to the Kansas City area.

He attributed the drop in interest to two factors: a poor economy and Kansas City's difficulty in supporting a major-league club.

Kauffman cited the lack of population base and television and a radio package worth just $5 million a year to the Royals. He said the team lost $6 million last year.

All three of the prime potential buyers were asked to submit non- binding bids for the team, but none came close to the figure Kauffman estimated he would need to break even on the deal.

''There would be around $80 million to pay back that we've put into the Royals and loaned to them,'' he said. ''So it would take more than that and the collusion charges came in at almost $11 million. So now you're at $ 91 million.

''The question was that did we want to match up. Well, we didn't have to because these people were smart enough to see that it was unfeasible to buy the ballclub.''

ANKARA, TURKEY (DEC. 18) UPI - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, in an interview taped by a Turkish television commentator, said he saw no need for Iraq to go to Washington for peace talks ''if (President) Bush is to repeat to us the U.N. Security Council resolutions.''

In an interview with Turkish TV personality Mehmet Ali Birand, the Iraqi president appeared to indicate he had abandoned the idea of direct talks with the United States aimed at finding a peaceful solution to the Persian Gulf crisis.

A transcript of excerpts of Saddam's interview was released to the Turkish press in Ankara Tuesday. Turkish state television TRT said the full interview would be broadcast Tuesday night but later announced without elaboration that it would only be aired Wednesday night.

TRT said the interview was taped in Baghdad but did not say when.

The Iraqi president said: ''There is no need for us to go to Washington if Bush is to repeat to us the U.N. Security Council resolutions.''

He was referring to a visit to Washington by Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz that had been scheduled for Monday but put on hold because of a deadlock over proposed talks between U.S. Secretary of State James Baker and Saddam.

Saddam insisted the reciprocal visit to Baghdad by Baker would take place Jan. 12.

The United States said that date was too close to the Jan. 15 deadline set by the U.N. Security Council for Iraq to pull its troops out of Kuwait or face possible military force. Washington proposed other dates that Baghdad rejected.

Security Council resolutions have called for Iraq's unconditonal withdrawal from Kuwait and imposed an economic blockade against the nation.

On Iraq-Turkey relations, Saddam called for concessions on both sides to enable them to resume the good neighborly relations that existed before the gulf crisis erupted Aug. 2 with the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

HOUSTON (DEC. 18) UPI - A company sponsoring a sweepstakes to win a trip to the Soviet space station Mir maintained the contest was valid Tuesday despite Soviet reports questioning the agreement.

Space Travel Services Corp. of Houston announced Monday the company had a contract to send an American on a week-long all-expenses-paid trip to the Soviet space station Mir.

The company said it was holding a sweepstakes to find the lucky winner and hopeful ''cosmanauts'' could enter the contest by spending $2.99 to call a 900 telephone number.

However, the official Soviet news agency Tass moved a story Tuesday saying Soviet officials had ''denied'' the reports that a U.S. citizen might fly on a Soviet rocket.

Soviet space officials who could be reached in Moscow Tuesday said they could confirm negotiations had been held with an American company but they were not sure if a contract had been signed. An official at the Soviet space agency Glavkosmos referred questions to the Energia enterprise, which makes Soviet rockets.

Vladimir Zenkin, deputy commercial manager for Energia, told United Press International ''there have been negotiations with the Americans,'' but he did not know if a contract had been signed. He said all other questions would have to be answered by his supervisor, who was unavailable Tuesday.

Space Travel Services Corp. issued a statement that said the company had letters from Energia officials confirming the arrangements. Space Travel Services said it had a contract with Space Commerce Corp., which in turn negotiated the contract with Energia.

The contract with the Soviets was negotiated by Houston businessman Art Dula, president of Space Commerce, officials said.

The Tass report was the second problem to confront the company since it announced the sweepstakes Monday.

Thousands of callers overloaded circuits for the 900 number late Monday. Technicians resolved the problem but another overload caused the number to go out again for about an hour Tuesday morning.

Space Travel Services offered a refund for people charged for the call even though they were unable to register for the sweepstakes.

''Frankly, we were overwhelmed by the public's response to the sweepstakes,'' said David Mayer, Space Travel chief executive officer.

''We apologize for the inconvenience this problem may have caused'' people interested in registering for ''The Ultimate Adventure,'' he said.

Space Travel Services said it had contracted with the Soviet space agency for a seat aboard a Soyuz rocket in late 1992 or early 1993. The seat will be filled by one of millions of Americans expected to enter their name in the contest by making the $2.99 telephone call.

The ''guest cosmonaut'' will be selected at random in December 1991 by an independent judging organization, the company said. The winner may take the trip or $1.5 million cash, Mayer said.

If the winner opts for the cash, a backup astronaut selected from a group of 20 would be offered the trip.

''The overwhelming response to the sweepstakes has been gratifying. We are very concerned, however, that people who have wanted to call in have not been able to,'' said Jim Davidson, company vice president.

Residents of New York, Florida and Rhode Island are ineligible because of restrictive local laws, organizers said.

Space Travel Services declined to say how much they will pay the Soviets for the flight, but said it would be more than the $12 million reportedly paid recently to send a Japanese television reporter into space with the Soviets.

The company hopes to recoup its costs and earn a profit through the fees paid by hopeful cosmonauts who enter the sweepstakes by calling 1- 900-258-2MIR. The line is active nationwide now except in scattered rural areas, Mayer said.

Callers charged for the 900 call but unable to leave their names and addresses may request a refund by sending a copy of their phone bill to: Space Travel Services Corp., 1100 NASA Road 1, Suite 503, Houston, Texas 77058.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Defiant in his reading of the law but conceding political naivete, Michael Williams, assistant education secretary for civil rights, said Tuesday he has met with White House officials and is reversing his ban on scholarships reserved for minorities.

Williams set off a firestorm of controversy earlier this month by announcing that according to his interpretation of civil rights laws and recent Supreme Court decisions, race-exclusive scholarships are illegal. The incident began when Williams gave unsolicited advice to the Fiesta Bowl on their scholarships for the teams playing in the New Year's Day football game.

Groups representing minorities and universities called Williams' ruling contrary to decades of legal advice. White House officials said they were not notified in advance of his ruling and, after a barrage of criticism from Cabinet members and top administration officials, Williams announced his new position.

''The position that we took is a position that is supported by the law, but there are obviously a lot of different ways to look at this and there is some legal merit to other ways of addressing it,'' Williams said.

''That letter (to the Fiesta Bowl), in the position of myself as well as the Office of Civil Rights, is legally correct, supported by current federal law. It is also consistent with the most recent practice of (the civil rights office). But it was indeed politically naive,'' William said.

Slipping in what might have been a faux pas, Williams continued, ''I am here to announce what is a new political, a new position of the Department of Education as it relates to the area of voluntary affirmative action in higher education,'' he said.

Under the six-point administrative policy he outlined, the Education Department will permit universities receiving federal funds to administer scholarships for minorities that are established and funded entirely by private persons or entities.

Also, Williams said the department has no jurisdiction over race- exclusive scholarships funded by state and local governments.

However, Williams said the Education Department has determined that private universities receiving federal funds may not fund race-exclusive scholarships with their own funds.

''Given the evident confusion among the universities ... the Education Department will provide universities a four-year transition period in order to permit universities to review their programs under Title VI (civil rights law) and to assure that any students under scholarship, or being evaluated for scholarship, do not suffer,'' Williams said, adding that during the four-year period the administration will not pursue a ''broad compliance review of minority scholarships.''

He said he could not predict what would occur when the four-year period has concluded.

President Bush said the issue of race-based scholarships may be challenged in the courts, although he could not predict the outcome.

''But I do know I am for affirmative action, and I am for trying to help the groups that have the most disadvantaged through scholarships, and that's what I think has been resolved in the Department of Education, at least for the forseeable future, and I hope it stands,'' Bush said, adding he has always been committed ''to this concept of minority scholarships. Clearly, it should be valid, privately.''

Bush also rejected suggestions that his administration flip-flopped on the issue, contending the White House had no warning of Williams' initial decision.

Reaction to the policy modification was mixed.

''We don't think much of what was done today,'' said David Merkowitz of the American Council on Education, which represents higher education institutions.

''They've created further confusion by trying to split some hairs by stating what's allowed and not allowed. In fact, they've continued to say that the tremendous bulk of scholarships available for minorities are illegal,'' he said.

Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the NAACP, said the department's change of heart ''helps put the genie back in the bottle. Unfortunately, the genie, once let loose, cannot be put back in the bottle entirely, but we must try.''

Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., retiring chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, still plans to hold hearings Wednesday on the issue, with Williams as one of the featured witnesses.

Williams said he held few discussions outside his office before announcing his original decision to prohibit race-based scholarships because he did not anticipate a controversy.

''We did not attempt prior to making the (Fiesta Bowl) decision to sort of weigh what was the feeling of people out in the community. We simply looked at the law very honestly and very straight forward. We had no way of knowing what I did would cause a firestorm that it did in fact cause,'' he said.

Williams, one of the few black conservative officials in the administration, was asked if he was a ''lackey'' for an administration run by whites.

''I haven't been a lackey for anyone. The position that I took, as it has been related on a number of occasions, was a position that I took because I thought it was right. If it happens to be a position that is inconsistent with any other people, that just happens to be the way it is,'' Williams said.

The controversy came at a time when administration relations with the minority community are strained because of President Bush's veto of the Civil Rights Act of 1990. Bush contended the bill would have established racial quotas.

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) UPI - Minority churches and non-profit agencies that lost hundreds of thousands of dollars when Freedom National Bank failed last month now face financial ruin unless confiscated deposits are promptly returned, officials said Tuesday.

Church leaders and agency heads told a Congressional hearing that the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. acted hastily when it closed down the troubled bank, and did not give community leaders enough time to try and save the bank, regarded as a landmark of black economic self-sufficiency.

Several witnesses accused the FDIC of using a racist double standard in its dealings with large white-owned institutions facing financial troubles and smaller minority-owned banks deemed to be fiscally at risk.

"We are on the brink of financial disaster," said the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, of the Canaan Baptist Church, which lost $641,000 when Freedom National closed its doors .

"We are not asking for welfare, but we're demanding what is rightfully ours. It is our money that a federal agency, the FDIC, has confiscated illegally and immorally," Walker said.

"Saddam Hussein has freed all the hostages. It's time for the FDIC to free all our money," said Walker, who was a member of the bank's board of directors from 1976 to 1986, the last year Freedom showed a profit.

The hearing was chaired by Rep. Charles Schumer, a Brooklyn Democrat, member of the House Banking Committee, and included Democratic Reps. Charles Rangel of Manhattan, Major Owens of Brooklyn, and Floyd Flake of Queens.

Federal regulators declared the black-owned Freedom National Bank insolvent and began paying back depositors Nov. 13 after a marathon session among Harlem leaders failed to secure $7 million in fresh capital needed to keep the bank open.

Depositors were insured up to $100,000 per account, and FDIC regulators said the process of identifying depositors with accounts greater than $100,000 who are covered by deposit insurance has been ongoing since the closing.

The bank, opened in 1964 by baseball star Jackie Robinson after he was discriminated against in lending, became "a source of comfort, convenience and pride" for black New Yorkers, Percy Sutton, chairman of Inner City Broadcasting and former Manhattan Borough president, told the hearing.

Sutton said his experience of being rejected by 63 banks before securing a loan to buy his first radio station was not unusual for blacks, and would continue if institutions like Freedom National do not survive to serve minorities.

Schumer said he was "profoundly disturbed" that Freedom's liquidation might undermine confidence in the whole banking system, especially for minorities. He also expressed concern about several "jarring contrasts" between how the federal government dealt with larger national bank failures and how it moved to close down Freedom.

Rangel said that of the 360 banks that were forced to liquidate in the last two years, only 15 were forced to pay off depositors, and three of those were black-owned, including Freedom National.

Grace Harewood, of the Fort Greene Senior Citizens Council in Brooklyn, said the FDIC and U.S Office of Currency "arbitrarily closed and discriminated" against Freedom National, and that churches and other agencies may be forced to close with it.

The Rev. Philius Nicolas, of the Evangelical Crusade of Fishers of Men in Brooklyn, said he personally made a deposit at Freedom's Brooklyn branch the afternoon before the FDIC announced the bank's closing, a decision that Nicolas argued should have been made public much earlier.

Nicolas said it was not right for the federal government to hold onto close to $157,000 in funds collected as donations from parishioners towards a new building. "It's the people's money," he said.

The federal government is in the "ludicrous" position, said Kip Lenoir, of the Harlem Interfaith Counseling Service, of confiscating funds awarded to non-profit agencies to run programs that local legislators have deemed essential to their constituents. "Do we ask these agencies for a refund?" Lenoir said.

Schumer said he would be proposing legislation in the next session of Congress that would require banks to let depositors know when their accounts exceed the amount insured by the government.

Many vowed to learn form Freedom's mistakes, and said moves to open another lending institute had already begun within the city's black community. "Freedom National will come back from the ashes," Rangel said.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 18) UPI - The U.S. economy has already entered a mild recession that will continue until late next year, the UCLA Business Forecasting Project said Tuesday.

The forecast, which expects the nation's real economic growth to post a feeble 0.9-percent gain this year, also projected a decline of 0.9 percent in 1991.

''While acknowledging the serious risk of a deeper recession, we remain hopeful that the recession will fall in the short-to-moderate range,'' said David Hensley, acting director of the project, in a presentation on the UCLA campus before about 400 economists.

Hensley also said the depth and length of the recession will be most affected by actions by the banking industry and the Federal Reserve Board. Under the most negative scenario, banks and the Fed could create a nationwide credit shortage, he said.

''We could see a much deeper recession if the credit crunch extends beyond real estate,'' Hensley said.

After the forecast was issued, the Federal Reserve Board announced Tuesday it was cutting its benchmark discount interest rate by 0.5 percentage points to 6.5 percent, effective Wednesday. Other interest rates were expected to fall as a result of the Fed's decision to ease credit.

The forecast calls for drops in economic growth of 2.9 and 2.1 percent for the first two quarters of next year, then an edging up 0.8 percent in the third quarter and a 5.3-percent jump in the fourth quarter of 1991 as the recession ends. For 1992, economic growth will rise 4.4 percent, then slow to 2.5 percent in 1993.

Hensley disputed the contention the Bush administration and others that the economy, which posted a surprising preliminary third-quarter growth of 1.7 percent, is not already in a recession. He said the reasons for pessimism include plunges in auto sales, industrial production and consumer confidence, a jump in uemployment to 5.9 percent and severely depressed housing market.

''We're fairly certain that we've been in a recession since summer,'' Hensley said. ''The activity has been bad across the board and it looks as if it is intensifying.''

The forecast assumes the United States will avoid a shooting war with Iraq, adding that the economic implications of going to war are unclear, but probably negative. The stimulus from higher defense spending would be marginal since it would follow the biggest U.S. military buildup in peacetime history.

''Moreover, the outbreak of war is likely to cause a temporary spike in oil prices, raising inflation expectations, which would drive long- term bond yields higher and further depress the economy,'' Hensley said.

Hensley correctly predicted the Fed will move to lower interest rates, since it appears that there is little threat of inflation. The government reported Tuesday that inflation at the retail level eased last month as consumer prices rose 0.3 percent in November after gaining 0.6 percent in October.

The forecast said the biggest problem would be that banks, hit hard this year by real-estate loan losses and increasing regulatory pressure to improve their capital position, may tighten lending even further. Loans to the real estate industry, which has an oversupply of product in the commercial area, have been drying up.

''The real fear is that the credit crunch might extend throughout the economy '' Hensley said. ''Even if the Fed does bring rates down, financial institutions might be so risk-averse that they will not lend money.''

If that happens, the resulting recession would last until early 1992, Hensley said, with the most severe downturn coming in real estate. Hensley said the forecast predicted a 30-percent chance of a ''deep'' recession.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Environmental groups urged the Bush administration Tuesday to include tough energy efficiency standards and the development of renewable fuels in its National Energy Strategy, which is expected to be released next month.

But the 16 organizations, joined by Sen. Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., feared that President Bush, a former oil developer, would exploit the Persian Gulf crisis to bolster oil exploration in environmentally sensitive areas in Alaska.

''We need a strategy representing long-term vision rather than a short-term response to the current crisis,'' Wirth said.

At the same time, Wirth and members of the groups, including the Wilderness Society and the Natural Resources Defense Council, used the gulf crisis to argue for conservation and fuel effeciency measures that would diminish the nation's reliance on foreign oil.

In a letter to Bush last week, released Tuesday, the organizations said the United States should adopt measures that would decrease energy costs, promote energy independence and slow the effects of global warming, which is caused by the emission of industrial and automobile pollutants that are trapped in the atmosphere.

The groups proposed reducing by 20 percent oil imports within 10 years. They also called for increasing fuel efficiency standards in new light vehicles by 60 percent within a decade, doubling the federal tax credit on research and development for renewable fuels and cutting energy consumption in buildings and homes by adopting tougher building codes and using existing insulation tools.

Representatives of these groups were unable to calculate the costs of these measures, which would fall disproportionately on industry and automobile manufacturers.

''I think ultimately it is going to save the American consumer money, '' Wirth said.

Dan Lashof, a scientist with the Natural Resources Defense Council, was more direct.

''I think we've learned that what's good for the United States is good for (General Motors) and not the other way around,'' he said.

Failure to adopt these measures, they warned Bush in the letter, would ''seriously weaken (the National Energy Strategy) and subject it to criticism from the conservation and environmental movement.''

But the criticism began in earnest Tuesday, when former Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., counselor to the Wilderness Society, said he ''Fully expect(s) that the president will use the Persian Gulf confrontation as an excuse to call for the exploration and development of some of the rarest and most fragile of our nation's vanishing wildlands.''

Nelson said Bush had already endorsed legislation that would open the coastal plain of the Alaska Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to oil exploration.

The organizations were equally critical of nuclear power, which they called wasteful, unsafe and inefficient.

''A policy based on a nuclear revival will threaten our safety,'' said Brooks Yeager, of the National Audubon Society.

The negative comments of these individuals seemed alsmost certain to presage a conflict between environmentalists and the White House, which in the past has favored a heavier reliance on traditional sources of nuclear power and oil.

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA (DEC. 18) UPI - President Frederik de Klerk, facing a surge of black impatience over the pace of apartheid reform, Tuesday launched his strongest attack yet on the African National Congress, accusing it of fanning ''the flames of confrontation.''

De Klerk, speaking on state-run television in a tough Christmas address to the nation, said he was disappointed that the ANC ''appeared to have reverted to outdated rhetoric and policies that form the flames of confrontation.''

He also promised new measures to quell the ''anarchy'' in war-torn black townships.

''The time has come for the ANC to decide what they want,'' de Klerk said. He asked if it sought ''peaceful and negotiated solutions'' or ''to revert to the confrontation and conflict of the past'' - a reference to ANC plans for increased protest and mass demonstrations aimed at speeding an end to white minority rule.

De Klerk accused the ANC of advocating ''outmoded revolutionary doctrines and radical methods,'' of demanding an immediate transfer of power regardless of preliminary negotiations, and of refusing to acknowledge ''that any fundamental change has taken place.''

Reacting to de Klerk's speech, ANC spokeswoman Gill Marcus said the movement had ''taken note'' of the content and was willing to clarify its policies.

''If there are areas or issues ... on which the government needs clarification or more information, such clarification would be provided in contact with the government at the initiation of either party,'' Marcus said in a brief statement.

The ANC, charging reform was slowing down and angry over alleged state involvement in factional black violence, gave the government an ultimatum at its national conference last weekend to speed up change.

The movement said it would consider suspending preliminary talks on ending apartheid if its demands were not met by April 30, 1991.

The ANC insisted Pretoria accede to a constituent assembly to precede a post-apartheid government, and as part of its ultimatum that de Klerk speed up the release of political prisoners and return of exiles, scrap all repressive laws, and end political trials.

The movement said it would intensify its mass protests until the demands were met.

ANC President Oliver Tambo also accused Pretoria of complicity in a wave of factional black violence that has killed more than 3,000 people this year, and linked government action in ending the violence to continuing the talks process.

Tambo returned to his home township of Wattville Tuesday after 30 years in exile with a call on blacks to fight apartheid without quarter.

''Let us hasten the dawn of freedom by intensifying the struggle,'' Tambo told some 1,500 cheering people at a welcome rally in the township, near the all-white town of Benoni east of Johannesburg.

''We must leave the enemy no quarter,'' he added.

The 73-year-old Tambo, frail after suffering a stroke in August last year, came back to South Africa last Thursday and spent Tuesday morning meeting relatives and friends he had last seen before leaving the country in 1960.

De Klerk, who has blamed the violence on traditional tribal differences, said the government would step up measures to quash the strife, South Africa's worst outbreak of urban factional fighting.

''The government shall not allow a state of anarchy in our country,'' he said. ''We will not shrink back from using all available resources to ensure stability.''

''With regard to both security action and positive initiatives, even more must be done,'' de Klerk said, noting ''certain additional steps and initiatives will shortly be taken'' to bolster police and soldiers patrolling the worst-hit black townships and supplement curfews and other emergency regulations.

''The maintenance of law and order is not negotiable,'' he said, but did not give details of what the government might do in the future to curb violence.

De Klerk called violence, intimidation, the ''increasing radicalization'' of youth, and incitement to racial hatred ''unacceptable,'' citing particularly the ''one settler, one bullet'' slogan of the militantly anti-apartheid Pan Africanist Congress.

''None of these unacceptable trends has anything to do with genuine democracy '' de Klerk said.

Recalling his reforms, launched February, he said the black opposition, including the ANC, had been legalized and all ideas could be discussed freely.

After two rounds of preliminary talks, Pretoria and the ANC agreed in August they had cleared the way to full-blown power-sharing negotiations.

The ANC suspended its 29-year guerrilla war against white minority rule in exchange for stepped up reform, including the release of political prisoners and the return of exiles by the end of next April.

But since the August agreement, fewer than 100 of an estimated 1,500 prisoners have been freed and the return of an estimated 20,000 exiles has bogged down in government demands that returnees declare political crimes of which they might be guilty.

The flare-up of factional violence in townships around Johannesburg in August added to ANC frustrations.

The movement has since repeatedly said substantive talks can take place only once the government makes further reforms and acts decisively on the conflict.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - The city council approved regulations Tuesday regulating horses that pull carriages past the majestic monuments and statues of America's capital city.

But angry animal-rights activists quickly promised to begin a petition drive designed to ban horse-drawn carriages from the city's streets. They said the horses are poorly treated and stabled under bad conditions.

''These regulations legalize cruelty to animals,'' said Cam MacQueen, a spokeswoman for People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals.

''They'll be able to be out in temperatures from 25 degrees to 89 degrees,'' McQueen said. ''At pavement level in the summer, it's often 25 degrees hotter than the actual air temperature.''

The bill that received final passage Tuesday was described as ''fairly comprehensive'' in regulating the hours and temperatures during which horses can pull the carriages. Stable conditions also are regulated, and horses must be registered and examined once a year by a veterinarian.

Last week, two city carriage-horse operators were arrested and accused of cruelty to animals after police were tipped off by inspectors from the Washington Humane Society. Four horses were impounded.

Animal-rights activists said they would try to collect 15,000 signatures on petitions to have an initiative placed on the ballot next year ''to ban horse-drawn carriages from the streets.''

There also have been controversies in New York and other cities over treatment of the horses, ranging from dehydration, lameness from overwork, rope burns, heat prostration, beatings from operators, and unsafe and ill-fitting harnesses.

Work hours and street access for the horses have been restricted in Chicago, Denver, Indianapolis and Louisville, Ky. City governments in Santa Fe, N.M., and Palm Beach, Fla., have banned the carriage-horse trade.

In Washington, two companies currently operate seven horse-drawn carriages. The horses generally trot past the Mall and past downtown hotels.

''New York City started 20 years ago with two carriage horse operators, just like Washington, but today New York has 68 carriage horse operators and 130 to 140 horses,'' McQueen said.

Despite the dispute, some in New York view the horses and their colorful carriages as a charming part of the ambiance of Central Park and the ritzy hotels that line its green expanses.

MOSCOW (DEC. 18) UPI - President Mikhail Gorbachev said Tuesday he is prepared to ''let them hang me on a cross'' in his battle to prevent the Soviet Union from disintegrating.

Gorbachev, surrounded by a throng of reporters and lawmakers at the U.S.S.R. Congress of People's Deputies, also said that his vast country's economic crisis has been exaggerated and that the Soviet people will not go hungry during the harsh Russian winter.

''I think there is no threat of hunger,'' Gorbachev said. ''We have the resources, and there will be the resources, for keeping food supplies at the necessary level.''

Gorbachev said that nationwide referendums on a new Soviet federation and on private land ownership, which he proposed Monday on the first day of the Kremlin gathering, should take place this winter.

Some deputies from the tiny southwestern republic of Moldavia walked out of the Congress, raising to six the number of the Soviet Union's 15 republics observing a full or partial boycott of the session promoted by Gorbachev as a unity meeting.

Three dozen lawmakers went to the podium in the Grand Hall of Congresses on Tuesday to debate Monday's state-of-the-union address by Gorbachev, who asked for more presidential powers and approval of a referendum in which people would vote on whether they want to remain Soviet citizens.

Nikolai Travkin, one of the country's most radical deputies, accused Gorbachev of reverting to dictatorial methods in the new powers he is seeking, which include putting the government directly under his control and creating new law-and-order agencies.

When Travkin finished speaking, Gorbachev leaned forward from his central seat at the front of the hall and extended what he said was a copy of his speech from Monday to the startled lawmaker at the podium several steps below.

''Since I have the impression that you didn't listen to or read my address, I have made some notations for you,'' Gorbachev said.

Gorbachev's plan to hold a national plebiscite on the fate of the union is a risky bid to appeal directly to the people, over the heads of rebellious governments in the republics and his own fractious legislature.

''Let the people decide such questions as the fate of the union and the land, which belongs to the people,'' Gorbachev told journalists and deputies during a break in the session.

But Rafik Nishanov, chairman of one of the Soviet Parliament's two chambers, said that even republics where a majority of people vote for secession will have to follow a complicated series of steps required by a national law passed earlier this year.

The steps include a waiting period of five years after the referendum, extensive negotiations with Moscow and final approval by the federal legislature.

Gorbachev, however, stepped up his campaign to keep the country from disintegrating in the maelstrom of his political and economic reforms.

''Let them kill me, let them hang me on a cross, but I will not abandon my position,'' he said. ''It is impermissible to pit peoples against each other. We must strive for unity.''

Nishanov said that nationalists in the northern Baltic region and other parts of the country have gone too far in demanding freedom from Soviet rule.

''We have a saying in Uzbekistan: If you are mad at a flea, don't burn your blanket,'' Nishanov said.

While Gorbachev and other top officials pressed their unity drive, Russian Federation leader Boris Yeltsin signed another bilateral accord with a separate republic.

Yeltsin, Gorbachev's main rival for power, signed an agreement on economic cooperation with Byelorussian President Nikolai Dementei, the latest in a series of such pacts between the dominant Russian republic and sister Soviet states.

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) UPI - The National League Tuesday named six finalists for its two expansion baseball teams in 1993.

The six cities are: Buffalo, N.Y.; Denver; Miami; Orlando, Fla.; St. Petersburg-Tampa, Fla., Washington. The two winning bids will be announced before Sept. 30.

The long list of expansion candidates had 10 cities with 16 prospective owners. The four cities dropped from consideration were: Nashville, Tenn., Charlotte, N.C., Sacramento, Calif., and Phoenix.

''All prospective ownership groups on the short list are the most qualified in terms of financial stability, significant community identification and long-term committment to a baseball club and their community,'' Dan Danforth, chairman of the NL Expansion Committee, said in a statement. ''The cities on the list are the best in terms of market size, government commitment to support baseball and stadium facilities in place or planned.

''We look forward to the next step in the expansion process, visits to the sites and final recommendations.''

The National League currently has 12 teams, two less than the AL. The last expansion teams to enter the major leagues were Seattle and Toronto in 1977.

The new franchises will pay $95 million each to join the NL. They will not be able to share in the league's television revenues for at least two seasons.

The expansion timetable calls for minor-league play to begin in 1992 with the player allocation draft in November 1992.

Of the six finalists, only Washington, a longtime member of the AL before the franchise moved to Minnesota, previously had a major-league team.

Florida, with three candidates, is a big favorite to land one team. Buffalo, which has broken minor-league attendance records, now seems uncertain it can afford a team.

The finalists for the two teams, with prospective ownership groups: Buffalo - Buffalo Baseball LP (the Rich family), Denver - Colorado Baseball Partnership (Stephen Ehrhart, John Antonucci, Michael Monus, Michael Nicklous, Cary Taraji), Miami - South Florida Big League Baseball Inc. (H. Wayne Huizenga), Orlando - Orlando Sunrays Pro Baseball Team (Richard DeVos), St. Petersburg-Tampa - Sunshine State Baseball Associates, Ltd. (Sidney Kohl, Allen Kohl, Stephen Porter, S. Joel Schur), Washington - Metropolitan Washington Baseball (John Akridge 3d).

Only hours before the list was announced, Buffalo squelched its chances when local lawmakers said they are reconsidering plans to spend $2.5 million on expanding the city's downtown baseball stadium because of recent uncertainties by the potential owners of an expansion franchise.

City councilmen said they may be forced to hold off on selling a $2.5 million bond for blueprints to expand Pilot Field because Robert Rich Jr., current owner of the Class AAA Buffalo Bisons and the principal owner in a group attempting to land the expansion team, has raised doubts about the financial feasibility of a big league club.

Rich, in a statement issued last weekend, said that while he is ''committed to bringing major-league baseball to Buffalo, we have said we do not believe in baseball at any cost.''

''The economics must make sense not just for us personally,'' Rich said, ''but for the city of Buffalo, County of Erie, and especially for our fans, too.''

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) UPI - The dollar fell across the board in New York trading Tuesday on a Federal Reserve Board cut in the discount interest rate, a widened trade deficit in October and a decline in the consumer inflation rate.

The Fed announced near the end of the New York foreign exchange session that it was cutting the discount rate, charged on loans to reserve system banks, to 6.5 percent from seven percent in a bid to lift economic spirits.

Barclays Bank corporate dealer Bob Hatcher said the market's reaction was to "sell the dollar off a bit, but we're recovering already." He called the Fed move "a lagging event" confirming lower rates. "It's not as if the Fed is breaking new ground here," Hatcher said.

Late in New York the dollar was quoted at 1.4775 German marks, down nearly a pfennig from 1.4865 marks, and at 132.70 Japanese yen, off from 132.85. Britain's pound sterling moved up almost a cent, to $1.9400 from $1.9305.

Other New York dollar rates: 1.2660 Swiss francs, off from 1.2740; 5.0390 French francs, down from 5.0580; and 1,117 Italian lire, off from 1,122.50.

Before the Fed announcement, Hatcher said, the dollar was recovering from the news that the U.S. trade deficit swelled to $11.6 billion in October, up $2.3 billion on costlier oil from $9.3 billion in September.

Also dollar-bearish was the news U.S. retail inflation had slowed to a 0.3 percent rate in November, vs. 0.6 percent in October. Participants saw that as clearing the way for more Fed interest-rate slashing.

Supporting the dollar was tough language from President Bush on Iraq's stance in the Persian Gulf impasse. "Bush continues to rattle the saber," Hatcher said. "That frightens people and they buy dollars."

Many international investors see the dollar, or dollar-priced assets, as the most secure investments if a Mideast warfare erupts.

In Europe, the dollar moved lower against most key currencies as participants awaited further U.S. and British economic indicators.

"The markets are hungry for fresh news on the steepness of the slowdown in the U.S. and U.K. economies, and in the absence of this news, the markets will remain in the doldrums," said Avinash Persaud, a currency analyst at securities house UBS Phillips and Drew.

The dollar declined in Frankfurt to 1.4830 German marks vs. 1.4910, while in Zurich it slipped to 1.2685 Swiss francs from 1.2755 on Monday. In London, the pound rose slightly, to $1.9350 from $1.9305.

In Brussels, the dollar slipped to 30.71 Belgian francs from 30.78 on Monday. The dollar was stronger in Paris, at 5.0625 French francs vs. 5.0600, and in Milan it was unchanged at 1,123.10 lire. But it slipped in Brussels to 30.71 Belgian francs compared with 30.78 francs Monday.

In Tokyo earlier, the dollar drifted lower against the yen in dull trading as market players kept to the sidelines ahead of the release of trade figures. It closed at 133.03 yen, down slightly from 133.10.

In Zurich, gold moved up to $377.50 an ounce from $376.50, while in London it finished higher at $377.50 an ounce vs. $376.75.

Silver in Zurich closed higher at $4.00 an ounce vs. $3.95. In London silver closed at $3.96 an ounce, unchanged from the previous day.

Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold at $375.25 an ounce, off from $377.25. The New York Commodity Exchange settled contract gold at $376.50 an ounce, down from $377.50 Monday.

Republic closed cash silver at $3.98 an ounce, up from $3.96. Comex silver finished at $3.96 an ounce, ahead from $3.956.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - The Federal Reserve Board lowered its benchmark discount interest rate Tuesday to 6.5 percent from seven percent, apparently in an effort to spur the nation's sagging economy.

Other interest rates also could fall as a result of the Fed's decision, making it easier to borrow money for everything from automobiles to homes and businesses.

But economists said the end result of the cut could be more psychological than real. The cut is likely to help shore up consumer confidence, which has been dashed in recent months and has been a drag on an already slowing economy.

"I think it is psychologically important. It sends a very strong message to the markets that the Fed is very concerned about the current state of the economy," said Hugh Johnson, chief economist at First Albany Corp. in Albany, N.Y.

The stock market soared just seconds of the announcement. On the New York Stock Exchange, the Dow Jones industrial average skyrocketed 27 points within 20 minutes of the cut.

Johnson said the discount rate cut could raise consumer confidence levels, which in turn might help lagging retail sales. But the reduction alone might not be enough to boost consumer faith in the economy. "This is one of the pieces in a vast array that can help consumer confidence," Johnson said.

The discount rate, the rate the Fed charges on loans to financial institutions is considered a symbolic tool of monetary policy that serves as the central bank's primary indicator of credit conditions.

But since the level of borrowing from Federal Reserve banks has been modest in recent months, relief form the discount rate cut might not be felt immediately by consumers, Johnson said.

The Fed said its action was taken "against the background of weakness in the economy, constraints on credit and slow growth in the monetary aggregates." "The reduction, in part, realigns the discount rate with market interest rates " the Fed said.

The Bush Administration has been urging the Fed to cut interest rates - a move Fed Chairman Alan Greenspan has resisted in part because of fears of heating inflation.

The cut came hours after the Labor Department reported that consumer prices rose 0.3 percent in November, an indication that inflation has eased somewhat from the overheated months following Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait. The White House welcomed the news.

"It should be helpful in promoting growth in the economy in the months ahead. This move appears justified by the budget agreement and the general slowdown," said White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater.

The Fed's action followed the regular meeting of its Federal Open Market Committee, which meets eight times a year to chart the course of monetary policy.

The Fed last changed the discount rate Feb. 24, 1989, when it was increased to seven percent from 6.5 percent. The last time the discount rate was reduced was in August 1986, when it was trimmed to 5.5 percent from six percent.

As a prelude to the lowering of the discount rate, the Fed recently moved to lower the interest rates it charges on inter-bank loans. That decision was also seen as the Fed signaling its approval of the agreement on cutting the size of the federal budget deficit reached earlier this fall.

The discount rate cut was requested by the boards of directors of the Federal Reserve Banks of Boston, New York, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, and Dallas. "This is a significant move," said Robert Dederick, chief economist at the Northern Trust Co. in Chicago.

The Fed's unanimous decision to lower the discount rate "will be a force pushing toward lower (interest) rates, and that should benefit consumers," Dederick said. "It won't do it by itself," he said. "If not accompanied by a move in the Federal funds rate, it won't mean anything." The Fed has eased its Federal funds rate three times in recent months.

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) UPI - The Federal Reserve's decision to slash the nation's discount rate by one-half percentage point propelled stocks broadly higher Tuesday as investors went on a late buying binge on the New York Stock Exchange.

The blue-chip Dow Jones industrial average, which slipped 0.49 points Monday, catapulted 33.41 points or 1.29 percent to 2626.73.

Among broader market gauges, the New York Stock Exchange composite index climbed 1.97 to 180.19 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 4.03 to 330.05. The price of an average share gained 34 cents.

Advances overpowered declines 971-581 among the 2,020 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Volume amounted to about 176,460,000 shares, compared with only 118,560,000 traded Monday.

About 30 minutes before the market closed, the Federal Reserve Board said it was slashing its key discount rate to 6.5 percent from seven percent effective Wednesday, in what market watchers said was an effort to bolster the nation's sagging economy. The move boosted stocks and volume as investors speculated that other interest rates would fall as a result of the Fed's decision, analysts said.

The discount rate, the rate the Federal Reserve charges on loans to financial institutions, is considered a symbolic tool of monetary policy that serves as the central bank's primary indicator of credit conditions. The Fed last changed the discount rate Feb. 24, 1989, when it was increased to seven percent from 6.5 percent.

The Fed said the action was taken "against the background of weakness in the econmy, constraints on credit, and slow growth in the monetary aggregates." "The reduction, in part, realigns the discount rate with market interest rates " the Fed statement said.

Trude Latimer, market analyst with Jesup, Josephthal & Co. in New York said the Fed's move "lifted investors spirits into the holiday mood." The speculation about interest rates surfaced "following the Labor Department report showing inflation at the retail level eased last month" Latimer said, as consumer prices rose 0.3 percent after gaining 0.6 percent in October.

The increase in the CPI was in line with the anticipation of several economists who expected lower oil prices to bring overall prices down. After gaining an average of 0.7 percent for the three months ended in October, November's increase reflected a "sharp deterioration" in energy prices, the government said.

Analysts said there had been some apprehension among professional investors that consumer prices would show the surprising strength that producer prices for the month did last week.

Last Friday the Labor Department reported inflation at the producer level rose 0.5 percent in November after posting three consecutive advances of more than one percent. Economists had expected prices to rise 0.1 percent.

That greater-than-expected jump in the PPI spooked investors and sent stocks skidding on worries whether the Federal Reserve would still be able lower interest rates to help pump up the faltering economy. Latimer explained that "relief that the CPI came in as expected allowed the market to resume the upward momentum on which it closed late Monday."

Market watchers said evidence of slowing inflation made it easier for the Federal Reserve's policy-making Open Market Committee to ease credit conditions. Latimer said she expected "activity to pickup by Friday, when the next quarterly Tripe Witching hour occurs."

The triple witching period refers to the expiration of contracts covering stocks index futures, options on such futures and options on individual stocks. While such expirations take place each month, the biggest ones by far come on the third Friday of the final month of each quarter, when the Standard & Poor's 500-stock Index expire.

On the trading floor, Citicorp paced the actives, gaining 3/4 to 14 1/8 after announcing it expects a loss in the fourth quarter and plans to reduce its dividend and expand its staff cuts to 8,000 jobs.

Manufacturers Hanover was the second most active, surging 1 7/8 to 20 7/8. Other banking stocks also gained sharply.

AT&T was the third most active issue, gaining 3/4 to 31 3/8. The nation's most widely held company launched a proxy fight against NCR after the company rejected AT&T's $90 a share, or $6.12 billion, hostile takeover bid. Meanwhile NCR eased 1/2 to 87 1/4 after its chairman told an Ohio State Senate Committee that NCR "is not for sale to AT&T or anyone else."

Elsewhere, Merrill Lynch & Co., the nation's largest brokerage firm, gained 1/2 to 22 1/2. The brokerge firm said it was raising by five percent the commission rates it charges individuals to buy or sell stocks on any order over $5,000.

Among some of the blue-chips, IBM remained unchanged at 113 1/8, General Motors gained 1 1/4 to 35 1/8, and General Electric climbed 1 3/8 to 56 3/4.

Volume of NYSE-listed issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 214,556,130 shares, compared with 152,764,610 shares traded in the previous session.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The Amex Market Value index gained 1.04 to 305.03. Advances topped declines 284-283 among the 839 issues traded. The price of an average share gained three cents. Volume totaled 11,960,000 shares vs. 10,200,000 traded Monday. Composite volume totaled 14,798,300 shares vs. 12,698,900 traded Monday. Jan Bell Marketing paced the actives, easing 1/8 to 7 3/8.

The National Association of Securities Dealers composite index climbed 4.43 to 370.15.

URBANA, IL (DEC. 18) UPI - The offer of agricultural export credit guarantees to the Soviet Union by the Bush administration is not likely to have a dramatic positive effect on grain and soybean prices, a University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist says.

"For the most part, those in the grain industry were disappointed with the magnitude of export credits being extended to the USSR in the $500 million to $1 billion range," specialist Darrell Good said Tuesday. "Expectations were for a package of $1.5 billion to $2 billion, and there were earlier reports the USSR would ask for $3.5 billion in credit."

Corn and soybean prices turned sharply lower after the announcement. Good said corn and soybean prices typically remain relatively stable during the winter months and that pattern is expected again this year.

The potential exists for additional trade concessions for the USSR as the marketing year develops. An improvement in the export pace, a high rate of domestic use, and weather uncertainties are expected to result in modest price improvements by spring, Good said.

"If current premiums for next year's corn and soybean crops are maintained, a spring rally would offer good forward pricing opportunities for those crops," he said.

The credits to the USSR were made possible Dec. 12 when President Bush announced a six-month waiver of the Jackson-Vanik amendment. He also indicated that the Soviet Union may gain most-favored-nation trade status if it changes its emigration policies.

"The decision to extend export credits was in response to threats of food shortages in the USSR this winter and in response to a slow export pace for U.S. grain," Good said. "Under terms of the long-term trade agreement the Soviets are still required to buy 600,000 tons of U.S. corn and 1.2 million tons of U.S. wheat by the end of December.

Details of the export credit program are expected to be negotiated by the end of the month with commodities probably shipped within two months after an agreement is reached.

"The relatively small credit allotment fueled concerns that corn exports would not reach the USDA's projection of 2.025 billion bushels, which is down 14 percent from exports of a year ago," Good said. "After 14 weeks of the 1990-91 marketing year, corn exports are 36 percent smaller than a year ago and total export commitments are down nearly 42 percent."

The USDA revised its soybean export projection to 590 million bushels, 20 million below last month's projection and 33 million bushels below last year's exports. Exports are currently running 26 percent less than last year and commitments are off 16 percent.

OTTAWA (DEC. 18) UPI - The Persian Gulf crisis must be viewed as a test case for maintaining world order and solving future conflicts rather than a unilateral move by the United States to protect its oil interests, the head of the prestigious Canadian Institute on Peace and Security said Tuesday.

''The United States was the only power which was ready, willing and able to step in rapidly and forcefully to ensure ... that the international community would stand firm against military agression,'' Institute director Bernard Wood told reporters.

The government-funded think tank, which focuses on international issues of peace and defense, said critics should ignore the history of unilateral American interventions and consider the U.S. administration's multilateral approach to resolving the gulf crisis.

Wood also rejected that oil, rather than world order, precipitated the U.S. response to the crisis. He said the crisis was neither disqualified nor diminished as a test of international order because of the ''perceived threat to the energy jugular'' of the industrialized and developing worlds.

The international community responded with ''remarkable skill and unity of purpose'' to the gulf crisis, Wood said, adding that there would soon be other such tests, though of lesser economic or strategic interest to the major world powers.

''If the new international security structure fails to respond with equal vigor and even-handedness ... the world will be plunged backward,'' Wood said.

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) UPI - The nation's home-heating oil inventories declined slightly last week and gasoline supplies rose in keeping with normal seasonal trends for this time of year, the American Petroleum Institute reported Tuesday. In the week ended Dec. 14, U.S. crude oil inventories increased and the nation's refineries stepped up operations, the oil industry trade group said.

Supplies of distillate, used primarily for home-heating oil and diesel fuel, moved down to 132.6 million barrels last week from 133.4 million barrels the week before and remained substantially above the 116.2 million barrels in storage in the same week last year.

Distillate production held steady at 2.9 million barrels a day, unchanged from the previous week but below the year-ago rate of 2.9 million barrels a day.

Distillate imports dropped to 162,000 barrels a day from 181,000 barrels a day in the prior week and 454,000 barrels a day in the corresponding 1989 week.

Gasoline stocks inched up to 224.6 million barrels from 221.7 million barrels the week before and almost matched the 226.5 million barrels on hand a year ago. Gasoline production slipped to 6.8 million barrels a day from 7.2 million barrels daily a week earlier and a year earlier.

Gasoline imports picked up to 474,000 barrels a day from 312,000 barrels a day in the preceding week and 361,000 barrels a day in the same week last year.

Crude inventories climbed to 341.5 million barrels from 332.1 million barrels in the prior week and nearly matched the 347.8 million barrels in storage at this time last year.

U.S. refineries operated at 83.8 percent of capapcity, up from 83 percent a week ago but substantially below the 89.2 percent rate recorded in the corresponding 1989 week.

Crude oil imports moved up to 5.1 million barrels a day from 4.7 million barrels a day in the previous week but trailed the year-ago rate of 6.4 million barrels a day.

Imports of petroleum products rose to 2.1 million barrels a day from 1.7 million barrels a day the week before but fell short of the 2.3 million barrels a day reaching U.S. shores a year ago.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - President Bush, bracing for the possibility of military action to force Iraq from Kuwait, reiterated Tuesday that any conflict in the Persian Gulf region will not become another Vietnam.

In opening remarks to a newsconference of regional editors, Bush said he favored a ''peaceful settlement'' to the crisis, but noted the fast approaching U.N.-mandated Jan. 15 deadline authorizing force to remove Iraq from Kuwait.

Bush said that he has ''looked into it enough to be totally confident to tell the American people tha this is not another Vietnam.''

He said his advisers have predicted ''all kinds of ranges on how quickly this guy (Iraqi President Saddam Hussein) would fold, but none that I know of are predicting anything like the long drawn out bitter experience of Vietnam.''

After years of indirect involvement, the United States committed combat troops in 1965 to battle communist forces in Vietnam. At its height in 1968, more than 540,000 U.S. soldiers were deployed in Southeast Asia. Before the final withdrawl of troops in 1973, more than 58,000 Americans had died.

Vietnam not only produced battlefield casualties, but also inflicted deep political and social wounds at home, creating some of the most bitter divisions in America since the Civil War.

''The agony of Vietnam is still with us,'' Bush said. ''People remember a protracted war. They remember a war where individuals were asked to fight with one hand tied behind their back in essence. This will not be, in my view, that kind of confrontation.''

The president said that he believed he has the support of the American people but it would erode if the United States got into a prolonged war in the gulf. ''I don't want war as an option. I want peace,'' Bush said.

Bush angrily took exception to reports that the main corps of the all-volunteer U.S. military is discriminatory because it is comprised of disadvantaged and minority youths.

''I reject that out of the whole cloth,'' Bush said. ''It's simply not true ... and I want to gun it down as hard as I can.''

The president said the army was made up of ''high achievers'' and ''I reject'' the argument of discrimination. ''It isn't some cop out in the armed services that they weren't aware of,'' Bush said.

As for asking Congress for a declaration of war, Bush said that he hopes ''I won't have to cross that bridge.'' He would not elaborate, saying it's impossible now to know if a declaration of war will be necessary.

At the Pentagon, spokeman Pete Williams said the U.S. forces in the Gulf region - which now total more than 270,000 - will be prepared to force Iraq out of Kuwait on Jan. 15.

He said the United States ''absolutely'' would be ready for offensive action on that day.

The U.S. troops now in the region are joined by about 220,000 allied forces, and the U.S. contingent is expected to grow to about 430,000 by mid January or early February.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Ralph Nader urged upset Americans Tuesday to telephone Vice President Dan Quayle and urge him to refuse to accept an ''unconscionable'' $45,000 pay raise.

Standing outside the Quayle's office at the Old Executive Office Building, Nader read aloud the vice president's telephone number - ''that's 202-456-2326'' - and urged citizens to personally complain about the salary increase.

David Beckwith, Quayle's press secretary, laughed nervously when told of Nader's deed and also said, ''The vice president will keep the pay raise.''

A few hours later, Beckwith reported that the vice president's office had received ''a couple of dozen phone calls'' from citizens.

''We listened and thanked them and promised to pass their opinion on, '' he said.

Nader led an unsuccessful campaign last year to block a proposed pay hike for members of Congress and other federal workers.

Beckwith said, ''In Washington, you win some and you lose some and Nader lost this battle earlier on in Congress. There are those who are gracious about defeat - and Nader is not one of them.''

Nader, speaking before a half dozen reporters and photographers on Pennsylvania Avenue, a half block from the White House, went on the offensive Tuesday.

He argued that by refusing the pay raise, ''the vice president can move from the status of buffoon to the status of bravado.''

President Bush ordered the pay raise for Quayle last Wednesday as part of a new and elevated federal salary structure authorized by Congress last fall over the objections of Nader and the American public.

The president's executive order authorized salary increases averaging 29 percent for the vice president, members of the House, the federal judiciary, Cabinet secretaries and top political appointees. He also ordered a 4.1 percent increase for all other civilian federal workers.

Effective Jan. 1, Quayle's salary will go to $160,600 from $115,000. Pay for members of Congress will climb to $125,100 from $89,500. Bush's salary will remain at $200,000.

Nader again called on Congress to roll back ''the unconscionable pay increases'' but aimed much of his fire at the vice president because, ''First ... he got the largest salary increase.''

''Second, he doesn't need it. He's a multi-millionaire. And third, he badly needs an opportunity to set an example for other politicians.''

Nader made a direct and pointed plea to Quayle in a two-page letter.

In it, he wrote, ''I urge you to do something that J. Danforth Quayle has never done in his career - take the lead and lead by example in announcing you will not take the nearly $45,000'' pay increase.

''And in making such an announcement, you can explain to the national media here in Washington, D.C., what tens of millions of citizens around the country have long understood - that government by hypocrisy is bad for democracy; that political leaders who make millions of people pay and pay and pay for the consequences of wasteful, inefficient, often corrupt government programs ... are leaders who have turned their back on the people.''

Minutes before Nader arrived for his sidewalk news conference, a half dozen of his staffers, many dressed in blue jeans and sneakers, paraded with placards reading, ''No pay raise for Quayle.''

They also chanted, ''One, two, three, four - Quayle deserves no more. ''

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) UPI - Mike Tyson Tuesday predicted his March 18 fight against second-ranked Razor Ruddock will be easier than people think.

Tyson will risk his No. 1 heavyweight rating at the Mirage in Las Vegas, Nev., in the first bout of his new deal with Showtime Event Television, a pay-per-view arm of the Showtime cable network.

The choice of Ruddock as an opponent is surprising since the 12- rounder will be a non-title bout. As No. 1 contender, former champion Tyson is in line to meet the winner of the April 19 Evander Holyfield- George Foreman title fight.

Tyson could have fought a lightly regarded foe or he could have waited for his championship shot. But he said Ruddock is not much of a risk.

''He's a good fighter,'' Tyson said at a news conference. ''I saw him have some impressive performances. But the fight's not going to be as hard as everyone thinks it is. I feel extremely confident about winning. ''

Holyfield, who won the title Oct. 25 from Douglas, was among those surprised at Tyson's choice of opponent.

''I'm very surprised,'' Holyfield said. ''It's a big chance Tyson's taking. Ruddock's a formidable oppoent.''

Tyson improved to 39-1 with 35 knockouts with a first-round knockout of Alex Stewart Dec. 8 at Atlantic City, N.J. It was his second first- round knockout since losing his title to Buster Douglas in February. Ruddock, 25-1-1 with 18 knockouts, knocked out Mike Rouse in one round on the Tyson-Stewart undercard.

His most impressive victory was a fourth-round knockout of former champion Michael Dokes last April in Madison Square Garden.

Ruddock, a native of Jamaica, did not attend the news conference because he was in his hometown of Toronto trying to obtain a green card to lessen his tax burden in the United States.

Tyson was to defend his title against Ruddock last Nov. 18 in Edmonton, Alberta. However, he pulled out claiming a respiratory infection and took on Douglas instead three months later.

Ruddock's promoter Murad Muhammad filed a $76 million lawsuit against Tyson's promoter Don King seeking damages from the canceled bout. Muhammad said he would drop the lawsuit after March 18 if the Tyson- Ruddock fight comes off.

The Tyson-Ruddock bout will be the first of a joint venture between Showtime and King. The partnership will feature weekly and monthly bouts promoted by King, including at least three major pay-per-view bouts a year.

King said the deal will bring Tyson eight to 10 fights worth $120 million but those figures seem wildly optimistic. Showtime officials say they have exclusive rights to Tyson fights for two years, with the purse of each bout to be negotiated seperately.

All of Tyson's fights since he won the heavyweight championship in 1986 were televised on Showtime rival HBO.

Industry sources say Tyson will earn about $8 million and Ruddock $3 million for their bout. Mirage owner Steve Wynne paid a $4.8 million site fee.

If Ruddock wins, he will assume Tyson's deal with Showtime.

''When Razor Ruddock wins March 18, I have $120 million and I don't have to do nothing,'' said Muhammad, then borrowing a line from King. ''Only in America.''

King said he hopes to add title bouts involving IBF welterweight champion Simon Brown and junior welterweight champion Julio Cesar Chavez on the Tyson-Ruddock card.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Tests show gasoline containing alcohol fuel additives can significantly reduce carbon monoxide and smog-forming emissions in car exhaust, auto and oil industry researchers said Tuesday.

The researchers, announcing the first preliminary data from a clean fuels study jointly sponsored by the two industries, said the potential air quality benefits of the gasoline additive MTBE - or methyl tertiary butyl ether, a derivative of methanol - were clearly demonstrated when tested in both new and old cars.

Adding 15 percent MTBE to gasoline reduced smog-causing hydrocarbons in tailpipe exhaust by five percent from 1989 model-year cars and seven percent from cars dating from 1983 through 1985. MTBE also reduced carbon monoxide pollution by more than ten percent from both sets of cars.

However, researchers with Mobil Oil Corp. and General Motors said it was not a sure bet that MTBE-related reductions would translate into cleaner air in smoggy cities. They said further research was needed to determine if MTBE produced other smog-causing contaminants that might offset the hydrocarbon cuts. "MTBE looks like a promising thing, but we want to get more results," said John Wise, of the Mobil Research and Development Corp.

MTBE and a similar additive, ETBE, which is made from corn-based ethanol, are likely ingredients for the cleaner-burning "reformulated" gasolines that were required under the clean air bill passed by Congress this year.

With motor vehicles estimated to contribute 25 percent of the emissions that cause smog, lawmakers required the oil companies to develop and begin selling the new fuel blends in the nation's smoggiest cities by 1995.

Oil industry officials have complained that Congress imposed those requirements without any solid scientific data on the cost or feasibility of achieving substantial emission reductions through cleaner-burning motor fuels.

While MTBE looks like a winner, the researchers said they got mixed results when they evaluated the potential environmental benefits to be gained from making other changes in the chemical composition of gasoline. For example, they said:

- Reducing the aromatic content of gasoline, which hurts octane ratings, resulted in lower carbon monoxide and smog-causing hydrocarbon emissions from 1989 model vehicles. But the same change increased hydrocarbon pollution from older vehicles dating from 1983 through 1985.

- Reducing the boiling range of gasoline from 360 degrees Fahrenheit to 280 degrees sharply cut hydrocarbons from 1989 cars, but raised their nitrogen oxide emissions, which also are linked to the formation of smog. For the older cars, that change slightly reduced hydrocarbon emissions while markedly increasing carbon monoxide output.

- Cutting olefins, a natural constituent of gasoline, lowered smog-related nitrogen oxide pollution from both new and old cars, but raised hydrocarbon emissions from both as well.

"The initial findings reveal that gasoline composition changes can favorably impact vehicle exhaust emissions, but they are not equally effective in all vehicles," said Joseph Colucci, of General Motors Research Laboratories. "This illustrates the complexity of the problem being tackled by this program."

The first results from the Auto-Oil Air Quality Improvement Research Program tested 16 different blends of reformulated gasoline in 34 vehicles, including 20 1989 models and 14 dating from the early 1980s. The researchers said they planned to release initial results from testing of methanol-gasoline blends early next year.

Environmentalists maintain blends such as M-85, a combination of 85 percent methanol and 15 percent gasoline, can achieve much greater pollution reduction than reformulated gasolines. They charge automakers and oil companies oppose introduction of those alternatives for cost reasons.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Environmental groups urged the Bush administration Tuesday to include tough energy efficiency standards and the development of renewable fuels in its National Energy Strategy, which is expected to be released next month.

But the 16 organizations, joined by Sen. Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., feared that President Bush, a former oil developer, would exploit the Persian Gulf crisis to bolster oil exploration in environmentally sensitive areas in Alaska. "We need a strategy representing long-term vision rather than a short-term response to the current crisis," Wirth said.

At the same time, Wirth and members of the groups, including the Wilderness Society and the Natural Resources Defense Council, used the gulf crisis to argue for conservation and fuel effeciency measures that would diminish the nation's reliance on foreign oil.

In a letter to Bush last week, released Tuesday, the organizations said the United States should adopt measures that would decrease energy costs, promote energy independence and slow the effects of global warming, which is caused by the emission of industrial and automobile pollutants that are trapped in the atmosphere.

The groups proposed reducing by 20 percent oil imports within ten years. They also called for increasing fuel efficiency standards in new light vehicles by 60 percent within a decade, doubling the federal tax credit on research and development for renewable fuels and cutting energy consumption in buildings and homes by adopting tougher building codes and using existing insulation tools.

Representatives of these groups were unable to calculate the costs of these measures, which would fall disproportionately on industry and automobile manufacturers. "I think ultimately it is going to save the American consumer money," Wirth said.

Dan Lashof, a scientist with the Natural Resources Defense Council, was more direct. "I think we've learned that what's good for the United States is good for (General Motors) and not the other way around," he said.

Failure to adopt these measures, they warned Bush in the letter, would "seriously weaken (the National Energy Strategy) and subject it to criticism from the conservation and environmental movement."

But the criticism began in earnest Tuesday, when former Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., counselor to the Wilderness Society, said he "Fully expect(s) that the president will use the Persian Gulf confrontation as an excuse to call for the exploration and development of some of the rarest and most fragile of our nation's vanishing wildlands." Nelson said Bush had already endorsed legislation that would open the coastal plain of the Alaska Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to oil exploration.

The organizations were equally critical of nuclear power, which they called wasteful, unsafe and inefficient. "A policy based on a nuclear revival will threaten our safety," said Brooks Yeager, of the National Audubon Society.

The negative comments of these individuals seemed alsmost certain to presage a conflict between environmentalists and the White House, which in the past has favored a heavier reliance on nuclear power and oil.

CHICAGO (DEC. 18) UPI - Taking a "long-range view" of prospects for the global oil business, Amoco Corp. said Tuesday it set a 1991 capital and exploration budget of $4.35 billion, up ten percent from the current year's budget. The 1991 budget also represents an 18 percent increase over the $3.7 billion the company estimates it will actually spend in 1990.

Chairman Richard M. Morrow said Amoco set its 1991 spending plans "based on our long-range view of the world oil business, rather than current oil prices. I cannot remember a time when the short-term price outlook was more uncertain, with prices fluctuating wildly depending on developments in the Middle East," said Morrow. "For our planning purposes, we based our budget on oil prices in the low-$20 range for next year."

A significant increase is planned for overseas exploration and production activities, he said, with 1991 spending forecast at 28 percent more than estimated 1990 outlays.

Worldwide exploration and production spending is expected to be up 11 percent compared to 1990, with about two-thirds of 1991 expenditures allocated for overseas and Canadian projects.

The Amoco chairman said capital spending for environmental projects would increase by about 150 percent to $350 million in 1991, mostly for projects required by existing regulations. Morrow said Amoco would continue to remain flexible in its capital spending next year as a result of the many uncertainties in world oil markets.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - The State Department said Tuesday that one of its employees was arrested last week for allegedly selling passports to members of a Jamaican-based gang who federal prosecutors said sold drugs in the United States and may be responsible for 10 killings.

The State Department said that Kenneth Weatherspoon, who had worked in the Passport Office in New York, allegedly sold passports to members of the so-called ''Gulleymen,'' a armed gang that moved violently into the drug trade in the United States.

State Department investigators said that Weatherspoon, allegedly in conspiracy with gang leaders, approved U.S. passports to 35 fradulent applicants.

Weatherspoon was a passport examiner beginning in 1984. He faces a maximum of five years in prison for passport fraud if convicted.

According to federal indictments handed up last week, the gang sold substantial quantities of heroin, crack, cocaine and marijuana in New York, Washington and Dallas. Prosecutors said the gang was responsible for at least 10 slayings in the United States.

The gang took its name from an area in the slums of Kingston, Jamaica, where guns and ammunition were readily available.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 18) UPI - A federal study to be released by President Bush on Wednesday shows a decline for the first time in the number of frequent cocaine users in the United States, sources said Tuesday.

Government sources also said that the survey by the National Institute on Drug Abuse found that overall drug use continues to fall as it has done so since 1985.

The figures will likely be used by Bush to buttress his contention that although it is premature to declare victory in the war on drugs, progress is being made.

Numerous big cities, however, continue to experience a rise in drug- related homicides. Police say many of the murders can be traced to battles between rival narcotic gangs.

Regardless, a federal source said the new study ''confirms the trend we've noticed in reports from hospitals and medical examiners. In most metropolitan areas, drug use is no longer spiraling out of control. It's beginning to ebb.''

''The big news is that frequent use of cocaine is down,'' the source said. Frequent use is defined as consuming cocaine more than once a week.

Sources declined to release specific figures in the new National Household Survey on Drug Abuse, but said they show a decline in both frequent cocaine use and overall casual drug use.

Previous NIDA studies found that from 1985 to 1988, the number of frequent cocaine users climbed from 647,000 to 862,000, and the number of casual drug users dropped from 23 million to 14.5 million.

Bush's national anti-drug strategy, now completing its second year, devotes about two-thirds of its $10 billion budget on law enforcement and interdiction. The remaining funds to go treatment and education.

In response to critics, the administration is expected to devote more resources to education and treatment in its revised strategy, which will be submitted to Congress in February.

William Bennett, as the first director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy, authored the comprehensive strategy. He resigned last month and Bush has recommended outgoing Florida Gov. Bob Martinez as his successor.

MOUNT VERNON, Mo. (DEC. 18) UPI - A group of religious activists Tuesday went to the hospital where a severely brain damaged woman is being allowed to die, but were arrested before they could enter her room in an attempt to force-feed her, hospital officials said.

Eleven of the protesters reached the second-floor unit of the Missouri Rehabilitation Center where Nancy Cruzan's room is located, hospital officials said. Security guards and police kept the protesters from entering the woman's room.

Cruzan's parents last week won a court order allowing them to remove the feeding tube that has kept her alive in a permanent vegetative state for nearly eight years. The tube was removed from Cruzan during the weekend and doctors said she would die within two weeks.

Sheriff's deputies arrested 11 women and eight men after the hospital's director complained that they were blocking fire exits and hallways, and disrupting the operations of the hospital, said Lawrence County Sheriff David Tatum.

''They were given an opportunity to vacate the premises or move into the chapel, and they refused,'' Tatum said. ''They were very peaceful, but we had to physically remove them. We used wheelchairs that were in the hospital.

''They were very cooperative outside of the fact that they didn't want to get up and walk.''

Tatum said those arrested were taken to the Lawrence County jail in Mount Vernon, where they were booked on misdemeanor charges of first- degree trespassing and unlawful assembly.

Bond was set at $500 for each of those arrested, the sheriff said.

''They apparently are refusing the bond, so we'll just see what happens,'' he said.

Other protesters who agreed to move into the hospital's chapel for a prayer vigil were not arrested, Tatum said.

Some of the protesters told hospital officials and police that two more busloads of demonstrators were en route to Mount Vernon, but that could not be confirmed, said .

Barbara Shoun, director of public relations for the hospital, described the protesters as ''peaceful, concerned people,'' but said they were not welcome inside the hospital unless they remained in the chapel.

Cruzan has been in a permanent vegetative state since a 1983 automobile accident. Her surgically implanted feeding tube, which had supplied her with food and water, was removed Saturday, one day after a Jasper County judge granted her family's request. Cruzan's condition was unchanged Tuesday, Shoun said.

About 35 demonstrators held a candlelight vigil outside the hospital Monday night, Shoun said. She said the protesters, who were opposed to the family's decision, stood in front of the hospital for more than an hour.

Protest organizer, the Rev. Joseph Foreman, had issued a statement saying, ''We are making an attempt to stand in solidarity with Nancy Cruzan, that if you reject her, you reject us. We are fasting and taking her name, and, if booked, we are calling ourselves 'Nancy Cruzan.'

''Ironic as it might sound, although Nancy Cruzan has been denied food and water ... and is left starving to death and dying of thirst while her family and the medical community looks on,'' Foreman's statement said.

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) UPI - Heavyweight champion Evander Holyfield and four Congressmen called for a federal investigation into boxing Tuesday and said they want a national commission to govern the sport.

''Normally, when Congress says it wants to help, people head for the exits,'' Rep. Thomas Downey of New York said. ''But if there's one group held in lower esteem than Congress, it has to be professional boxing.''

Downey was joined at a news conference by three other Democratic Congressmen - Jose Serrano and Edolphus Towns of New York and Representative-elect Jim Moran of Virginia.

Holyfield and his promoter, Dan Duva, began calling for the investigation last month when the World Boxing Council in Mexico considered stripping his title because he chose to next fight George Foreman instead of Mike Tyson.

Holyfield, who will earn $20 million against Foreman April 19, said he was also concerned about helping less fortunate boxers.

''Yes, I did make it,'' Holyfield said. ''But I'm concerned with the other people coming up who did not make it. There are a lot of fighters who work hard and train hard and some day end up with no money at all because somebody had taken advantage of them.''

Holyfield said he would like to see boxers earn title shots on merit rather than through connections with powerful promoters. Duva, one of the sport's top promoters, called for measures to regulate boxing and establish uniform rules and health standards.

''As long as I have been in boxing I have been a proponent of a national boxing commission,'' Duva said.

Boxing has been investigated in Congress in recent years, with no action taken. The Congressman at the news conference expressed confidence there will be hearings in the House as early as the spring, but refused to predict any tangible results.

Downey, who said professional boxing is driven by ''arrogance, ingnorance, inertia and greed,'' called a federal commission, ''a long shot, a very long shot.''

''There's been some hearings before, but never any actions,'' he said.

Moran, a former amateur boxer, said: ''We have an obligation to protect professional prizefighters from exploitation and greed. There is no question Congress should look into this problem without delay.''

The Congressmen said there was bipartisan support for investigating boxing. Newt Gingrich, a Republican representative from Holyfield's home state of Georgia, has informed the champion of his support.

Nobody at the news conference offered any concrete suggestions for improvement however. There was no sense of alarm that Holyfield and Duva are allowing a 43-year-old overweight fighter to battle for the heavyweight champions, either.

''He's being well rewarded,'' Moran said of Foreman, who will earn $12 million for his challenge. ''And he's in much better shape than many yuppies today.''

MIAMI (DEC. 18) UPI - The Office of Thrift Supervision filed a motion Tuesday requesting that David L. Paul, former chief executive officer of CenTrust Bank be held in civil contempt for failing to comply with a temporary cease and desist action against him.

In its original action filed Oct. 22, OTS sought to ban Paul from the banking industry and force him to pay restitution of nearly $31 million it said he had looted from CenTrust and had squandered. Paul was ordered earlier this month to comply with the OTS cease and desist order, but has failed to do so, the OTS request said.

The OTS charged that Paul has made no effort to provide any portion of the security required by the temporary cease and desist order and has not posted a bond.

The agency also said Paul has produced no meaningful accounting of his assets and has failed to supply certified financial statements as required in the OTS and court orders.

The contempt order filed by the Justice Department on behalf of OTS asked the court to require Paul to show cause why he should not be ''adjudged in contempt of this court.''

It also asked that the court order Paul to submit a sworn deposition by Dec. 28 so the OTS can identify and locate assets in which Paul or members of his immediate family have an interest.

BOSTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis Tuesday signed legislation allowing people to name ''medical proxies'' who would have the power to make crucial medical decisions for them in the event of incapacitating illness or injury.

The measure is designed to help doctors and the families of terminally ill or injured patients determine whether to carry on life- sustaining treatment.

''This is meeting an incredible need,'' Dukakis told an audience of predominently elderly people who attended the signing ceremoney at the Statehouse.

Dukakis said he intended to designate two such proxies for himself.

The ceremony was attended by Patricia Brophy, who fought a lengthy legal battle before winning permission from the state Supreme Judicial Court in 1988 to discontinue life-sustaining treatment for her firefighter husband, Paul, who doctors said was in a ''persistently vegetative state.''

''With the rapid advances in medical technology today it is possible for thousands of people to live longer, healthier, more productive lives,'' Brophy said. ''However, it is also possible to prolong people's deaths by artificial means - to keep them in a hopeless state with no chance of recovery.''

''I asked permission for treatment to be stopped,'' she said. ''The reply was, 'No,' - no discussion, case closed. It was frustrating and humiliating to have people I have never seen before telling me what was in the best interest of Paul Brophy, the man I love and have been married to for 25 years.''

The proxy forms will be made available through the Executive Office of Elder Affairs. Those designated as proxies must be named in writing and in the presence of two witnesses.

''We want the choices that physicians and others make about our lives to be consistent with our own personal values and beliefs,'' said Elder Affairs Secretary Paul Lanzikos. ''This is a practical, easy-to-use legal method by which a person's most significant wishes can be followed.''

BOGOTA (DEC. 18) UPI - A major Colombian drug figure surrendered to government authorities Tuesday to avoid extradition to the United States where he faces drug trafficking charges, his family said.

Fabio Ochoa, 33, was a high-ranking member of Colombia's infamous Medellin drug cartel, headed by former Colombian legislator Pablo Escobar Gaviria. Ochoa's brothers, Jorge and Juan David, also belong to the drug cartel.

''I have turned myself in as a gesture that I hope will lead to the betterment of Colombia,'' Ochoa said in a statement.

His family said Ochoa turned himself in to authorities under a new measure that reduces jail sentences and protects suspects from extradition to the United States.

''My brother wants to be judged by (Colombian) justice because he believes in it'', said one of Ochoa's sisters.

Ochoa, the youngest Ochoa brother, is wanted in Louisiana and Florida on charges of drug trafficking and hiring a hit man. Ochoa is accused by federal authorities of participating in the slaying of Berry Seal, a U. S. Drug Enforcement Agency informant.

Ochoa is the cartel's first kingpin to turn himself over to Colombian authorities. He was taken by authorities to an undisclosed location for security reasons.

Ochoa's surrender was filmed by a group of professional cameramen to provide national and foreign press members who did not see the event, his sister said.

Ochoa turned himself in to a Criminal Instruction Department official who traveled to a farm in the Caldas municipality, on the outskirts of Medellin, about 160 miles northeast of Bogota, to meet with the suspected drug trafficker.

Martha Hurtado, regional director of Criminal Instruction, and a judge met with Ochoa at the farm, the sister said.

The case against Ochoa will begin after U.S. authorities send the evidence needed to convict him for allegedly being the ''King'' of cocaine in Colombia and drug trafficking. The evidence is expected to arrive in Colombia within 12 months.

GALVESTON, Texas (DEC. 18) UPI - State district jurors planned Wednesday to enter their second day of deliberations on whether Marathon Petroleum Co.

should pay as much as $100 million in punitive damages for a 1987 acid spill.

The jury heard seven weeks of testimony about the October 1987 hydrofluoric acid spill that sent thousands fleeing their homes near Marathon's Texas City plant.

Jurors adjourned for the day late Tuesday without having reached a verdict, court officials said.

The panel of seven women and five men is considering whether Marathon or Westheimer Rigging and Heavy Hauling Inc. of Houston, or both, were negligent in their use of a crane to dismantle a chemical plant structure.

A crane operated by a Westheimer employee toppled, and the equipment it was lifting punctured a pressurized hydrofluoric acid storage tank.

About 1,000 people sought treatment at hospitals and another 3,000 reported health problems or property damage resulting from the caustic chemical spill.

Attorneys for accident victims claim Marathon was negligent. But attorneys for Marathon say many of the injuries were exaggerated and the case was pushed into court by attorneys hoping to dip into the company's corporate pockets.

John Boswell and A. Lee McLain represent almost 600 people who have filed lawsuits, and the jury heard evidence relating to 14 of those people. The outcome of the current case is expected to influence whether other cases go to trial or are settled out of court.

''You have to make this award huge enough to get their attention ... It's got to be large enough that no other oil or chemical company will ever do the things Marathon did,'' Boswell told jurors Monday in the courtroom of state District Judge Paul Ferguson, a retired judge from Brazoria County.

Boswell said a $5 million punitive award would be merely a slap on the wrist for Marathon, which has montly revenues of nearly $1 billion.

Westheimer attorney Reagan W. Simpson said the crane operator was following Marathon's plan when the accident occurred. Marathon attorneys blamed contractor firms who are no longer defendants in the case for the disaster.

The plaintiffs allege the accident was caused by Marathon's rush to finish a plant refurbishment.

Marathon attorney Walter Conrad of Houston told jurors medical testimony proved no permanent physical harm from the spill and that many of their problems stem from smoking, obesity and existing illnesses.

Three who claimed permanent serious lung injuries show no sign of the types of problems known to be caused by hydrofluoric acid exposure, he said.

''They simply do not have a chronic, long-term lung problem,'' Conrad said.

Marathon attorney Phil Werner of Galveston accused Boswell, McLain and other plaintiffs' attorneys of pressing the case against Marathon.

''The primary driving force behind this lawsuit are the lawyers,'' Werner said. ''This is not the people's lawsuit.''

Jurors first must decide whether either or both of the companies were negligent in their handling of the plant equipment. If so, they must decide what percentage of responsibility each must bear and how much in actual damages each plaintiff should receive.

If jurors find either firm negligent, they then must decide whether either was grossly negligent and liable for the huge punitive damages suggested by plaintiff's attorneys.

One crucial issue is whether Marathon created a hazardous situation by leaving the acid tank full while the crane was working on nearby structures.

Marathon Petroleum, of Findlay, Ohio, is a subsidiary of Marathon Oil Co., which itself is a unit of USX Corp., the Pittsburgh-based steel and energy conglomerate.

NEW YORK (DEC. 18) UPI - The National League Tuesday named six finalists for its two expansion baseball teams in 1993.

The six cities are: Buffalo, N.Y.; Denver; Miami; Orlando, Fla.; St. Petersburg-Tampa, Fla., Washington. The two winning bids will be announced before Sept. 30.

The long list of expansion candidates had 10 cities with 16 prospective owners. The four cities dropped from consideration were: Nashville, Tenn., Charlotte, N.C., Sacramento, Calif., and Phoenix.

''All prospective ownership groups on the short list are the most qualified in terms of financial stability, significant community identification and long-term committment to a baseball club and their community,'' Dan Danforth, chairman of the NL Expansion Committee, said in a statement. ''The cities on the list are the best in terms of market size, government commitment to support baseball and stadium facilities in place or planned.

''We look forward to the next step in the expansion process, visits to the sites and final recommendations.''

The National League currently has 12 teams, two less than the AL. The last expansion teams to enter the major leagues were Seattle and Toronto in 1977.

The new franchises will pay $95 million each to join the NL. They will not be able to share in the league's television revenues for at least two seasons.

The expansion timetable calls for minor-league play to begin in 1992 with the player allocation draft in November 1992.

Of the six finalists, only Washington, a longtime member of the AL before the franchise moved to Minnesota, previously had a major-league team.

Florida, with three candidates, is a big favorite to land one team. Buffalo, which has broken minor-league attendance records, now seems uncertain it can afford a team.

The finalists for the two teams, with prospective ownership groups: Buffalo - Buffalo Baseball LP (the Rich family), Denver - Colorado Baseball Partnership (Stephen Ehrhart, John Antonucci, Michael Monus, Michael Nicklous, Cary Taraji), Miami - South Florida Big League Baseball Inc. (H. Wayne Huizenga), Orlando - Orlando Sunrays Pro Baseball Team (Richard DeVos), St. Petersburg-Tampa - Sunshine State Baseball Associates, Ltd. (Sidney Kohl, Allen Kohl, Stephen Porter, S. Joel Schur), Washington - Metropolitan Washington Baseball (John Akridge 3d).

Only hours before the list was announced, Buffalo squelched its chances when local lawmakers said they are reconsidering plans to spend $2.5 million on expanding the city's downtown baseball stadium because of recent uncertainties by the potential owners of an expansion franchise.

City councilmen said they may be forced to hold off on selling a $2.5 million bond for blueprints to expand Pilot Field because Robert Rich Jr., current owner of the Class AAA Buffalo Bisons and the principal owner in a group attempting to land the expansion team, has raised doubts about the financial feasibility of a big league club.

Rich said he was ''thrilled'' after the Expansion Committee's announcement, promising ''that when major league baseball comes to Buffalo in 1993, it will be afforable for everybody involved.''

''Buffalo deserves this more than any of the four cities that aren't on the list... and more than any of the five cities that we're on the list with. ''We're committed to bring major league baseball to western New York. We're committed to bringing affordable family fun to the fans of this area,'' Rich said.

Bob Pincus, who heads the Washington group and and is president of Sovran Bank was equally pleased with the announcement.

''It's the holiday season, we're very thrilled. It's a gift that's been delivered to the metropolitan Washington area,'' said Pincus. ''It's just the beginning. We're going to bring baseball to Washington.

''I think the chances are excellent. I think the state of Florida will get one team. Then if you compare us to Denver and Buffalo ... the size of the metropolitan areas, we far exceed them demographically.''

HOUSTON (DEC. 18) UPI - Initial tests indicate that the oil-starved Philippines could be sitting on a major oilfield with reserves ''conservatively estimated at 1 billion barrels'' of oil, Vaalco Energy Inc. said Tuesday.

The company said its wholly owned subsidiary, Alcorn (Production) Philippines Inc., has completed the testing of the West Linapacan-1 exploration well offshore northwest Palawan.

During three tests the well flowed at a stabilized rate of 5,051 barrels of oil a day from three tests and yielded medium-quality crude.

''This well is a major discovery for the Philippines. Very preliminary calculations of the reserves of this newly discovered field are conservatively estimated at 1 billion barrels of oil-in-place,'' Vaalco said.

The field is in 1,150 feet of water approximately 250 miles southwest of Manila.

Vaalco said ''an all-out effort will be made to expedite this field's development.''

''On the basis of initial field parameters, recoverable reserves would most likely fall within the standard oilfield definition of ''major oilfield,'' 100 million barrels of crude oil or greater,'' it said.

Gruy Engineering Corp., a Houston-based independent petroleum engineering firm has been engaged to independently assess the field reserves. This report should be made available in mid-January, the company said.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (DEC. 18) UPI - A leader of Haiti's feared Tonton

Macoutes warned his group will fight the expected victory of populist candidate Jean-Bertrand Aristide who maintained a hefty lead in presidential election results Tuesday.

''The election went like a farce,'' said Roger Lafontant, leader of the Tonton Macoutes, thugs loyal to the former regime of Jean Claud ''Baby Doc'' Duvalier. ''We will fight and get the power legally and non-violently.''

Of the 96,540 votes counted, just under 5 percent of the total of Sunday's ballots, Aristide held 68.2 percent or 65,854 votes, the Electoral Council said.

U.S.-favorite Marc Bazin, a former World Bank technocrat, remained in second place with 12.2 percent or 11,820 votes.

Spokesmen for the Electoral Council said almost all the votes have been counted in the capital, but that results have to be released proportionately around the country.

Aristide, a charismatic 37-year-old priest who became the front- runner in presidential elections, had said he decided to run for president because of the threat represented by Lafontant and his group. In 1988, Aristide was expelled from the Salesian religious order for using his pulpit as a political platform and preaching ''class struggle. ''

The Tonton Macoutes, blamed for an attempted assassination of Aristide early this month, have been responsible for much of the terror and atrocities committed in the last 30 years in Haiti.

''Aristide is a communist terrorist, with a psychotic disorder who is not qualified, has no experience and no expertise,'' Lafontant told United Press International.

Lafontant, with a .45 caliber pistol clip resting on his desk, said he was committed to fighting Aristide's victory, and called the leftist priest ''a communist with Lybian backing who will rule the country like Fidel Castro or (former Nicaraguan President) Daniel Ortega.''

Election observers, including Bernard Aronson, U.S. assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs and former President Jimmy Carter, said Aristide would apparently assume office Feb. 7, 1991, as Haiti's first democratically elected president in decades.

International observers said the elections were fair despite some irregularities and confusion at polling stations.

Port-au-Prince returned to its normal pace Tuesday morning, with vendors peddling their wares for the Christmas season and traffic backed up on the narrow, poorly paved streets.

But the army denial of Monday's killing of a pregnant woman, after soldiers opened fire on a group of demonstrators celebrating Aristide's victory, cast a shadow of doubt over how long the country's fragile peace would last.

Americas Watch, a U.S-based independent human rights organization, said in a statement that the group was concerned about the violent death of the woman at the post-election celebration.

''The army's denial of any role in the incident is of grave concern and threatens to undermine the support so justly earned by the armed forces on election day,'' the Americas Watch report said. International observers had praised the army's role in providing security on election day.

A radio report Tuesday quoted police saying that officers had only shot into the air and that the dead woman had been run over by a car. Police said she was not hit by bullets.

But a doctor, who asked not be identified, saw the woman's body and said she died of a gunshot wound in the lower abdomen.

An Argentine member of the Organization of American States' observer team said the army and far right elements may again threaten a temporary peace.

''After what happened yesterday, we just cannot be sure all that we have worked to achieve would last,'' he said. ''The army and the Tonton Macoutes might still try to mess things up.''

SAN DIEGO (DEC. 18) UPI - A prison guard escaped with minor injuries Tuesday from two inmates, one a convicted murderer, who held him hostage for about 17 hours, officials said.

Donnie Houston, 29, a guard at the federal Metropolitan Correction Center since 1989, was treated for minor injuries, as was one of the inmates, Ernest Olivo Cruz, 32. Cruz was being held on federal charges unrelated to two life sentences for murder he was serving in Florida until escaping in 1988.

The second suspect was not hurt.

''We're very happy it ended in no serious injuries to anyone,'' said prison spokesman Gavin O'Connor.

The hostage drama, which took place in a six-cell high-security area on the fifth floor of the 12-story downtown prison, ended about 1:40 p. m., about 17 hours after it began.

Details of how Houston escaped or the injuries to the guard and inmate were not immediately released by a team of Bureau of Prison officials or FBI agents who negotiated with the prisoners.

The standoff began about 8:40 p.m. Monday when the inmates attempted to take two guards hostage. One guard, identified as Robert Gibson, 28, was able to escape.

Gibson, who like Houston joined the prison staff in 1989, was slightly hurt during his escape and was treated at a nearby hospital. Details on his injuries were not released.

It was not immediately clear if the two inmates, Cruz and Jose Rodriguez, 32, both of Cuban descent, were armed with weapons. Prison officials did not reveal whether the inmates had made any demands.

Cruz and Rodriguez had been charged in California with intent to rob a federal agent. Rodriguez had pleaded guilty to the charge and was awaiting sentencing. Cruz was awaiting trial, O'Connor said.

Authorities said Cruz, who was arrested by narcotics agents in San Diego in September 1989, had escaped in 1988 from prison in Raiford, Fla., where he had been sentenced for two separate drug-related killings in Miami and Hialeah.

Cruz, also known as Emilio Bravo, had been featured under that name on the television program, ''America's Most Wanted.'' A San Diego law enforcement officer saw the show and recognized the escapee as Cruz, who already was in custody at MCC.

Both inmates have been at the San Diego prison periodically since Sept. 23, 1989, O'Connor said. Cruz and Rodriguez also have been housed at various other federal prisons in California for security reasons, he said.

The downtown correctional center houses approximately 950 inmates, most of whom are awaiting trial.

O'Connor said routine operations inside the prison were able to continue with few interruptions because the inmates are generally restricted to their housing units and have their meals delivered to them.

(DEC. 18) UPI - Seven people are confirmed dead and more than 40 others injured in today's collision of a Chicago-bound Greyhound bus and two semi-trucks on Interstate 80 in Utah. One witness says it appears a big-rig truck heading west slid across the median into east-bound lanes, first striking another tractor-trailer rig, then the bus. The highway was ice-packed and swept by high winds. Another witness saw people standing alongside the bus, pulling victims out through the windows. Rescuers had to fight low visibility and the winds. Medical helicopters were UNable to land nearby.

A drug kingpin has turned himself in to authorities in Colombia to avoid being shipped out to face drug charges in Florida and Louisiana. Family members say 33-year-old Fabio Ochoa gave himself up. He was one of three Ochoan brothers who belong to the notorious Medellin drug cartel. Ochoa is the cartel's first leader to turn himself over to Colombian authorities and his surrender takes advantage of a new measure that reduces jail sentences.

The sheriff in Lawrence County, Missouri, says 19 people were arrested and charged today with misdemeanors stemming from their efforts to force-feed a comatose woman who is being allowed to die. Hospital officials say the demonstrators entered the Missouri Rehabilitation Center in Mount Vernon, and 11 of them reached the second-floor unit where Nancy Cruzan's room is located. But security guards and police kept the protesters from entering the woman's room. Cruzan's feeding tube was removed by court order last week.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader is urging Americans to phone Vice President Quayle and demand that he refuse to accept a 45-thousand- dollar pay raise. Standing outside the White House, Nader read aloud the vice president's telephone number, saying ''that's 2022326''. A Quayle spokesman laughed when told of Nader's deed and said ''that's the correct telephone number'' but that Quayle ''will keep the pay raise.'' President Bush ordered the raise for Quayle last week as part of a new salary structure authorized by Congress.

Quayle won't be in Washington to answer the phone, though. He and his family are spending Christmas skiing in Vail, Colorado. Afterward, the vice president plans to visit American troops in Saudi Arabia.

The White House today released a Christmas message from President Bush. In it, the president says the Christian message of hope and redemption ''continues to bring peace and joy to Millions.'' He says that certain ''events during the past year have given us a renewed sense of hope, yet in some parts of the world, peace remains an elusive blessing.'' Bush called on citizens to strive ''to make peace on earth a reality for all of God's children.''

(DEC. 18) UPI - President Bush says any war in the Persian Gulf will NOT become another Vietnam. At a news conference of regional editors in Washington today, Bush said he wants peace... but noted the fast-approaching January 15th deadline for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait. He says his advisers have forecast how quickly Saddam Hussein would ''fold'' and says- quote- ''None that I know

Amnesty International is calling on Iraq to end its human rights abuses in Kuwait. The London-based human rights organization accused Iraqi forces of torturing and killing hundreds of people... imprisoning thousands... and allowing more than 300 premature babies to die after ''looting incubators'' in three main Kuwait City hospitals. Amnesty says it documented 38 methods of torture used by the Iraqi military that included electric shocks, rape, shooting limbs, and cutting off ears or tongues.

Assistant Education Secretary Michael Williams is reversing his ban on scholarships reserved for minorities amid a firestorm of controversy over the ban. Williams conceded political naivete when he announced that according to his interpretation of civil rights laws and recent Supreme Court decisions, race-exclusive scholarships are illegal. The incident began when Williams gave unsolicited advice to the Fiesta Bowl on their scholarships for the teams playing in the New Year's Day football game.

President Bush today rejected suggestions that his administration flip-flopped on the issue, contending the White House had NO warning of Williams' initial decision. Bush said the issue of race-based scholarships may be challenged in the courts, although he could not predict the outcome. Groups representing minorities and universities called Williams' ruling contrary to decades of legal advice.

Utah authorities say the bad weather and icy road conditions could've been a factor in this morning's fatal collision between a Chicago-bound Greyhound bus and two trucks. A witness said it seemed a truck heading west slid across the median into the east-bound lanes... first striking another truck and then the bus.

Missouri authorities today arrested a group of religious activists who went to a Mount Vernon hospital in an attempt to force-feed a comatose woman who's being allowed to die following a lengthy legal battle. 11 protesters were arrested by police and security guards before they could enter Nancy Cruzan's room. (DEC. 18) UPI - Secretary of State Baker today warned European Community foreign ministers in Brussels that Iraq may try more ''diplomatic sleights-of-hand'' in the Persian Gulf standoff. Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams says the department welcomed the report and added- ''We consider the safety of nuclear weapons to be a matter of the utmost importance. NEW YORK (UPI) _ Financial News Network, the business cable TV channel, reported a loss of $72.4 million for fiscal 1990, essentially confirming its own earlier estimates, a government filing revealed Tuesday.

FNN disclosed its financial results for fiscal 1990, which ended June 30, in a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission that raised the possibility the company might have to seek bankruptcy protection.

FNN's new outside auditors, Coopers & Lybrand, said in the filing the company does not have sufficient cash flow to cover its operating costs or service its debt and is involved in several shareholder lawsuits.

These factors, the auditors said, ''raise substantial doubt about the company's ability to continue as a going concern.''

If FNN's asset sales, cost-cutting moves and continuing negotiations with lenders do not allow it to meet its obligations, Coopers & Lybrand said, the company may be forced to file for bankruptcy reorganization.

FNN is 47 percent-owned by Infotechnology Inc., which controls 97 percent of United Press International. FNN and Infotechnology together own 51 percent of The Learning Channel Inc., an adult educational cable network, and other media properties, such as Institutional Research Network Inc., a closed-circuit TV service for investors.

All the companies in the Infotechnology corporate family are on the sales block following the appointment of an interim management team charged with restructuring both Infotech and FNN debt.

In the SEC filing, repeatedly delayed because of an accounting dispute with FNN's previous auditors, the new auditors said FNN's losses had been caused by several factors. They cited leasing transactions, payments from FNN to UPI, investment to start up the new FNN:PRO investors service, and the adoption of a cash basis of reporting income associated with two major contracts.

The loss was just below the $72.5 million that the company had projected in late November.

The auditors also noted that the company is under investigation by the SEC for possible securities violations involving accounting practices, internal controls and transactions with related companies.

The auditors said FNN's lease transactions amounted to about $51 million during fiscal 1990 but the company placed a higher value on the leases than was later assigned to the equipment. Because of defaults on the leases, they have been counted as current liabilities.

Some of the proceeds from the leases were used to provide funds to UPI, resulting in a charge to FNN of about $17 million in fiscal 1990.

FNN also poured a total of $24.2 million into FNN:PRO, a news and information service for investors. Its success cannot be determined at present, the auditors said, because of the ''current major retrenchment'' in the brokerage and investment banking industry.

FNN took another hit because invoices to UPI and IRN, drawn up as a result of contractual obligations to both companies, were counted by FNN as revenue but now seem doubtful sources of that revenue.

''The company now believes that the collectibilty of these billings is in question because of the depressed financial condition of both UPI and IRN,'' the statement said.

UPI did, in fact, pay back $16.5 million of $17.7 million billed to it by FNN during fiscal years 1990 and 1989, the report said. But it said this could not be counted as revenue because the payments were made partly from funds received from the leasing transactions.

FNN incurred a $22.6 million charge from UPI in fiscal 1990. Of this, $17 million relates to proceeds from leasing companies for equipment sales where FNN ultimately become the lessee. The remaining $5.6 million was written off as uncollectible.

The leasing transactions, payments to UPI and IRN and the FNN:PRO start-up expenses together accounted for about $65 million of FNN's $72. 4 million loss Coopers & Lybrand said.

Based on the audit, FNN said it now believes that funds from bank and lease transactions were used to finance ''substantial operating deficits'' at FNN and its subsidiaries and to finance the FNN:PRO start- up.

FNN's long-term obligations to banks and leasing companies amount to about $47 million each.

During fiscal 1990, the company needed $43 million in cash to support operations and incurred more than $83 million in bank debt and lease financing obligations.

''Significant negative cash flows'' are expected to continue in 1991, the auditors said, and the company is seeking bank financing to continue operations.

''There is no assurance, however, that such funds will be forthcoming or that if received, will be adequate to enable the company to meet its obligations for the period in question.

''In any event, the company needs the continued forbearance of the banks and the leasing companies in order to continue operating,'' the auditors said.

Even if the company is successful in selling its principal operations, ''there can be no assurance if, when, or at what price, such sales will be consummated '' the statement added.

FNN's problems were compounded by an 11.3 percent drop in advertising revenues from fiscal 1989 to fiscal 1990, accounting for about a $2.8 million decline. However, revenues from cable TV affiliates rose about 30 percent to $2.5 million as FNN added stations and raised advertising rates.

FNN had no significant revenues from related parties, such as UPI and IRN during the fiscal year, since it decided to record such revenues on a cash installment method.

On the over-the-counter market in New York Tuesday, FNN stock ended the day unchanged at $2.125 a share, while Infotechnology stock plunged nearly 19 cents to finish at 56.3 cents a share.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 19) UPI - Smash hit ''Home Alone'' has passed the $100 million mark, hitting that benchmark faster than any other film this year, Twentieth Century Fox said Tuesday.

''Home Alone,'' which has led the nation's box office for five consecutive weekends, pulled in $100.2 million in ticket sales in the 32 days since its release.

New Line Cinema's ''Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles'' had previously been the fastest film to hit the $100-million barrier, needing 36 days.

Paramount's ''Ghost,'' the year's top grosser with $201.2 million, crossed the mark in 39 days, while Disney's ''Pretty Woman'' hit that level in 52 days.

''Home Alone,'' starring Macaulay Culkin as an 8-year-old boy accidentally left home while his family leaves for vacation, is one of just half a dozen other movies in the past decade that have grossed more than $10 million per weekend at the box-office during five separate weekends: ''E.T.,'' ''Return of the Jedi,'' ''Ghostbusters,'' ''Beverly Hills Cop,'' ''Batman'' and ''Look Who's Talking.''

For the year to date, the nation's box office has totaled $4.62 billion, off just $80 million from last year's $4.7 billion at the same juncture last year, Daily Variety reported Tuesday.

The year-end total for 1990 will probably be just under $5 billion. Last year's record-setting total was $5.03 billion.

The top 10 films of took in $47.2 million over the weekend, up 44 percent over the $33 million for the year-ago weekend.

For the week, the domestic box-office totaled $81.2 million, up slightly from the year-ago week's total of $80 million.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Hughes Aircraft Co. of Los Angeles and Spar Aerospace Ltd. of Canada have been selected to build two satellites for mobile communications services throughout North America.

The team's selection was announced jointly Wednesday by American Mobile Satellite Corp. (AMSC) in Washington, and Telesat Mobile Inc. (TMI) of Canada in Montreal.

Two contracts valued at approximately $100 million (U.S.) each call for AMSC and TMI to purchase jointly two of Hughes' newest line of satellites, the three-axis body-stabilized HS 601. Hughes, a unit of GM Hughes Electronics, will provide the satellite bus and Spar is responsible for the communications payload. The program is known as MSAT.

AMSC and TMI will each own and operate one spacecraft, which will be the most technologically advanced and most powerful ever built for commercial mobile communications. Each satellite has sufficient capacity to support up to 3,000 radio channels.

The satellites will cover the entire continental United States and Canada, as well as Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and 200 miles of United States and Canadian coastal waters, and will have the capability to cover Mexico.

Both operators will provide complementary mobile telephone, radio, data and positioning service to land, aviation and maritime users. Both also will provide each other with backup and restoration capacity. The spacecraft are due to be launched in early 1994, and they are compatible with most of the world's expendable launch vehicles.

The spacecraft will use the HS 601 multipurpose cube-shaped bus to operate three transponders: one linking feeder stations to mobile users via a Ku-band uplink and an L-band downlink; a reverse transponder linking mobile users to earth stations via an L-band uplink and Ku-band downlink; and one crosslinking earth stations via a Ku-band uplink and downlink.

Each MSAT spacecraft features an L-band payload of two six-meter-by-five-meter mesh reflector antennas and solid-state power amplifiers permitting reception and transmission via small, low-power portable terminals similar to cellular telephones. The Ku-band payload provides transmission between the satellite and the feeder earth stations.

This agreement represents Hughes' fifth HS 601 contract, and brings the total ordered in 1990 alone to 12. Other customers are Aussat Pty. Ltd. of Australia the U.S. Navy, Hughes Communications Inc. and Societe Europeenne des Satellites of Luxembourg.

SAN DIEGO (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Xytronyx Inc. (ASE:XYX), a biotechnology company, announced that the U.S. Patents and Trademarks Office has allowed claims covering its Ultraviolet (UV) Dosimeter Badge.

Xytronyx developed the UV Dosimeter in response to the increasing concerns over the harmful effects of excessive UV radiation exposure as a cause of skin cancer, skin aging, cataracts and impairment of the immune system. In spite of the use of sun screens, skin cancer is the most common form of cancer in the United States, with 600,000 new cases reported last year.

By registering calibrated color changes in response to cumulative UV radiation exposure, the Dosimeter allows a user to monitor personal exposure to these potentially harmful rays. The Dosimeter can be worn safely on clothing or the skin.

The UV Dosimeter recently received the Skin Cancer Foundation's ''Seal of Recommendation.''

Xytronyx is engaged in the development and commercialization of products based on biotechnological research primarily in the areas of medicine, dentistry and veterinary medicine.

PORTLAND, OR (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Electro Scientific Industries Inc. (ESI) announced Wednesday that it will begin worldwide marketing of a new laser bonding system, ESI Model 7100.

The system is based on technology developed by MCC (Microelectronics and Computer Technology Corp.), a research consortium based in Austin, Texas. The new technique, called laser tape automated bonding (TAB), is used in the packaging of integrated circuits.

Following the development of laser TAB, MCC signed a licensing agreement in February 1989 authorizing ESI to become the exclusive manufacturer of laser bonding systems using the new technology.

Under this agreement, the laser systems initially could be sold only to participants of MCC research programs. The first system was delivered to MCC in February 1990. As of today, ESI will begin open marketing of its Model 7100 Laser TAB System. MCC will receive a royalty from the sale of each system.

Work on the bonder began in 1985 when MCC's shareholders projected the need for new bonding approaches. The system incorporates an ESI patented laser to bond hundreds of leads from TAB tape to a chip quickly and precisely.

Laser TAB does not subject expensive ICs to high temperature and pressure, unlike the two IC packaging techniques now in common use. The first method, gang bonding, uses heat and pressure to bond all leads on a device simultaneously.

The second, single-point bonding, bonds each lead separately using a mechanical tool to apply heat, pressure and ultrasonic vibration. In contrast laser TAB requires no physical contact with the leads. The result is an extremely gentle, nondamaging process that is performed at room temperature with minimal pressure.

The December 1990 issue of ''Semiconductor International,'' a major semiconductor publication, named the ESI Model 7100 Laser System as one of the 20 best products of 1990. The award winning products were chosen because they meet or exceed advanced semiconductor fabrication needs.

MCC is a cooperative venture of 53 North American companies which conducts long-range research in microelectronics and computer technology.

ESI is a world leader in the production of laser systems for trimming and processing microelectronics circuitry and a major materials, precision instrumentation and equipment supplier to the electronics industry.

KANSAS CITY, MO (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - US Sprint will carry on a holiday tradition again this year by providing free calls to thousands of military personnel in the Middle East and around the world through Jan. 1, 1991.

US Sprint and the Military Affiliates Radio System (MARS) have worked together the past seven years to provide free calling to military personnel during holidays. Over Thanksgiving, several thousand calls were placed each day during a five-day calling period. ''This is a continuation of a program we have supported for years,'' said Ron LeMay, US Sprint president. ''Today, with so many military personnel in the Middle East and tensions so high, it takes on an even greater significance. Many military families have counted on Sprint to provide this service for holidays in the past and this holiday will be no exception.''

The MARS program uses radio frequencies from ships and ground-based MARS facilities around the globe to reach MARS operators in the United States. These operators then patch the calls on the Sprint network to reach loved ones.

US Sprint has been involved in a number of programs since the Middle East situation began. By calling a toll-free 800 number (1-800-676-2255) more than 43,000 people have received faxed news updates on Persian Gulf activities. Sprint also provides free Conference Line calling to two psychological counseling groups working with hostages and their families.

SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Sierra Real Estate Equity Trust '84 (OTC/NASDAQ/NMS:SETC) Wednesday reported increased Net Operating Income from its properties for the nine month period ended Sept. 30, 1990 of $3,694,993 as compared to $3,458,526 for the 1989 period, and Funds Used in Operations for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990 of ($399,092) as compared to Funds from Operations of $102,925 for the 1989 period.

The decrease in Funds from Operations was primarily due to legal expenses incurred in connection with litigation in which the Trust is involved and which the Trust believes is without merit. SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Sierra Capital Realty Trust IV (ASE:SZD) Wednesday reported increased net operating income from the trust's properties for the nine-month period ended Sept. 30, 1990, of $6,113,910 compared with $6,094,399 for the 1989 period, and increased funds from operations of the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, of $2,332,655 compared with $2,189,224 for the 1989 period.

''Funds from operations'' are net income under generally accepted accounting principles adjusted for non-cash items including depreciation, rent adjustments, amortization and excluding the equity in the earnings of its unconsolidated Dallas joint venture, but including Trust IV's share of funds from operations of its Dallas joint venture.

''Net operating income'' is rentals from real estate investment less property taxes and other property costs, but not including joint venture property. Equity in earnings of the unconsolidated Dallas joint venture was $26,289 for the period compared with $188,022 for the 1989 period.

Notwithstanding the positive operating results, the trust's trustees announced the omission of the trusts fourth quarter dividend due to the anticipated loss of two major tenants in 1991, other possible lease turnover, and the related turnover costs and loss of revenues.

They also took the dividend action in light of the obvious uncertainties caused by the current economic climate, including existing constraints upon the availability of capital to the real estate market, and determined to continue an on-going review of the trust's dividend policy.

It is anticipated that the trustees will consider and adopt a revised policy at their February 1991 meeting to conserve cash and enhance the trust's ability to meet its liquidity needs, including those for capital improvements, lease turnover costs, principal debt service and overhead.

If the revised policy is implemented, as anticipated, it is likely that cash dividends will not be resumed for the next few quarters.

While the trustees believe that their past application of the trust's current dividend policy has been in line with general REIT industry practice and prior conditions, they believe that the revised dividend policy recommended by the trust's advisor, and currently being considered for adoption, would be a more conservative policy and a prudent and responsible response to the current economic climate, which could worsen in the event of a national recession.

The trust's equity in the loss of the Scripps Ranch joint venture was $65,754, an improvement over the loss of $87,400 for the 1989 period.

The Trust's Trustees determined, however, that, in light of obvious uncertainties caused by the current economic climate, including existing constraints upon the availability of capital to the real estate market, and notwithstanding the Trust's performance, to continue an on-going review of the Trust's dividend policy.

SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Sierra Capital Realty Trust VI (ASE:SZF, SZFPr) Wednesday reported increased net operating income from the trust's properties for the nine month period ended Sept. 30 of $5,350,752 as compared to $4,672,768 for the 1989 period, and funds from operations for the nine months ended Sept. 30 of $2,110,399 as compared to $2,109,929 for the 1989 period.

Dividends for the trust's common and preferred shares for the months of October, November and December were previously declared by the trust in September.

However, the trust's trustees determined, in light of the obvious uncertainties caused by the current economic climate, including existing constraints upon the availability of capital to the real estate market, notwithstanding the trust's performance, to continue their review of the trust's dividend policy.

It is anticipated that the trustees will consider and adopt a revised policy at their February 1991 meeting to conserve cash and enhance the trust's ability to meet its liquidity needs, including those for capital improvements, lease turnover costs, principal debt service and overhead.

It is also anticipated that the revised policy, when adopted, will take into consideration income generated by additions to the trust's equity capital from a pending private placement and other sources of funds.

Applying these factors, the application of the revised policy could result in either a reduction of, or increase in, the trust's dividends. While the trustees believe that their past application of the trust's current dividend policy has been in line with general REIT industry practice and prior conditions, they believe that the revised dividend policy recommended by the trust's advisor and currently being considered for adoption would be a more conservative policy and a prudent and responsible response to the current economic climate, which could worsen in the event of a national recession.

DALLAS (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Spectrum Information Technologies Inc. (OTC) Wednesday made a series of announcements regarding the current status of the company.

The National Association of Securities Dealers (the ''NASD'') today informed Spectrum that its common stock will not be included in the NASD's Automated Quotation Systems (''NASDAQ''). The NASD has informed Spectrum that if the required equity capital can be secured by March 15, 1991, the common stock will be re-admitted for inclusion in the NASDAQ System.

Until that time, the common stock will continue to be quoted on the Over-The-Counter (''OTC'') market. The NASD had granted Spectrum a temporary exception from the capital and surplus requirement for continued inclusion of Spectrum's common stock in the NASDAQ System.

This exception, which was originally scheduled to expire on Dec. 10, was required by the fact that the net worth of Spectrum had fallen below the $375,000 minimum requirement.

The exception was granted based on an expectation that the required equity capital would be raised through the consummation of the public offering described in Spectrum's Registration Statement on Form S-1 (the ''Registration Statement'') filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the ''SEC'') on Sept. 7.

When it became obvious that this offering could not be completed by Dec. 10, as a result of the delay in receiving comments on the Registration Statement from the SEC, Spectrum requested an additional exception, which was denied today.

Spectrum has recently received comments on the Registration Statement from the SEC, and anticipates filing Amendment No. 1 to its Registration Statement with the SEC this week. Information regarding SIT will continue to be made available through Spectrum's filings with the SEC. Spectrum expects market quotes to be available through its marketmakers on the NASD Electronic Bulletin Board System.

Spectrum announced that due to delays in shipments to key customers and substantial one time write-offs, including the write-off of a note received from a shareholder, Spectrum expects a to record a substantial loss for the quarter ending Dec. 31, and a loss for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1991.

Spectrum explained that it expects to fulfill these delayed customer orders during the first fiscal quarter of 1991. The write-offs taken during the December quarter are all nonrecurring items. Spectrum anticipates the delivery of its newest generation of proprietary products, the BridgePlus and Smartcable, to begin volume shipments early in 1991.

Spectrum announced the approval by the U.S. patent office for its ''Portable Hybrid Communication System and Methods.'' This patent (U.S. Patent No. 4,972,457) is related to the integration of a portable computer, cellular/landline modem and cellular transceiver in a single unit, providing wired or wireless voice and data communications. Spectrum announced it has completed negotiations relative to the lease contract for its corporate headquarters in Dallas. The term of this new lease will save Spectrum is excess of $4,000 per month over it previous lease and will cut the term of its previous lease by three years.

Spectrum announced the opening of an office in New York City to enhance its ability to support its customer base and to expand its marketing efforts on the east coast.

Spectrum Information Technologies Inc., a publicly held integrated company, along with its subsidiaries, has the demonstrated capability to develop, deliver and support a wide array of state-of-the-art telecommunications and portable data products.

LAGUNA HILLS, CA (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - William & Clarissa Inc. announced Wednesday that it has entered into an agreement in principle with Scott Paper Co., expressing both companies' interest in forming a business relationship to market the KIDS WILLIAM & CLARISSA line of products.

The proposed terms were not disclosed. However, it was reported that the agreement calls for Scott to acquire all William & Clarissa trademarks primarily in consideration of potential future payments to be made based on product sales.

A William & Clarissa spokesman stated, ''This transaction, if consummated, will bring the support to the Kids William & Clarissa line we have been unable to provide because of our cash shortage.''

The transaction may not produce a return for William & Clarissa's common stockholders. However, the board of directors is studying alternatives, including a possible debt restructuring, to enable the company to pursue other non-competitive product concepts following consummation of the transaction with Scott.

Consummation of the transaction is subject to numerous conditions, including negotiations of a definitive agreement with Scott, and approval by the William & Clarissa stockholders. The consent of William & Clarissa's lenders is also to be obtained.

SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Pacific Bell customers will have additional savings on their phone bills starting in January.

The average residential customer, with about $30 in Pacific Bell charges, will save about 15 cents a month as a result of a decision today by the California Public Utilities Commission.

''The cost of living went up more than 4 percent last year, but the price of telephone service is going down,'' said Pacific Bell Assistant Vice President Bruce Jamison.

The rate cut will appear on customer bills as an increase in the billing credit they now receive. That credit is shown on the ''Rate Surcharge'' line in the ''Regulated Monthly Charges and Credits'' section of the Pacific Bell telephone bill.

In its decision Wednesday, the CPUC reduced Pacific Bell's overall rates by $114 million. This reduction is a result of the CPUC's new approach to regulating Pacific Bell. The company's overall prices are adjusted each year, based on a formula that sets prices 4.5 percent lower than the cost of living, and considers other special factors.

Inflation, as measured by the Gross National Product Price Index, was 4.3 percent from July, 1989 to June, 1990 -- the period used in the CPUC formula.

The company in October had proposed a $73.3 million reduction. Jamison said the company's figure differed from the Commission's because the two disagreed on how to account for several technical issues. The decision is expected to have a minor impact on net income.

Pacific Bell is a subsidiary of Pacific Telesis Group, a diversified worldwide telecommunications corporation based in San Francisco.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - L.A. Gear Inc. (NYSE:LA) announced the completion Wednesday of a new $360 million credit facility arranged by Bank of America as agent for itself and a syndicate of domestic and international banks.

This facility supplants the $325 million facility arranged in February of 1990. The company also announced that it had given notice of termination of its factoring arrangement, effective Jan. 22, 1991, and plans to discontinue factoring after that date.

As in the company's previous credit arrangements, this new facility is a one-year arrangement which incorporates working capital advances and letters of credit to finance international purchases, subject to certain limits and covenants.

The new facility will also continue to allow the company to borrow at a committed rate based, at the company's option, upon LIBOR, prime, CD, bankers' acceptances or at a rate determined by a competitive bid feature.

Robert Y. Greenberg, chairman, stated: ''We are extremely pleased to have successfully completed this financing and are excited to have upgraded our relationship with Bank of America which has been a participant in L.A. Gear's credit arrangements since March of 1989. Bank of America's strength, California focus and commitment to business similar to ours makes them an excellent business partner for L.A. Gear.

''We are also pleased to continue our relationship with other ongoing participants and to welcome a number of new banking institutions into the facility.''

Greenberg continued: ''The new credit facility will allow us to achieve our goal of bringing our receivables 'in-house' and eliminating factoring. We believe this step will lower our costs and allow us to better service our customer base. The increased amount of the credit facility should be sufficient to allow for a transition from the factor and otherwise provide for the company's financing needs for 1991.''

SAN DIEGO (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Kaypro Corp. Wednesday filed a report in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court detailing operations for the month of November.

The operating report is required by the court while the computer manufacturing company remains under protection of Chapter 11 bankruptcy.

The report showed gross sales of $880,000 and a net operating profit of $11,168. This is the third month that Kaypro has reported profitable operations since the installation of new upper management last August.

Kaypro filed for Chapter 11 protection last March following a lengthy period of financial difficulties. In June, the computer manufacturer's creditors supported a motion for Chapter 7 conversion, noting further financial problems. In August, Geoffrey W. Soule' was appointed the company's new president and chief executive officer.

A court hearing in October resulted in a dismissal of the Chapter 7 motion and citing positive financial progress, the case was taken off the calendar.

According to Soule', November's figures reflect the strong showing Kaypro made at COMDEX, the huge computer industry trade show that took place in Las Vegas last month. Kaypro previously reported receiving over $1 million in orders at the show.

''We are continuing to pursue the mass merchandisers and develop our dealer network,'' said Soule'. ''Although October's sales were off a bit due to postponed deliveries, we continue to see our sales and operational strategies beginning to produce some impressive results.''

Soule' further noted: ''We are keeping day-to-day operations very streamlined. We have begun to fill orders from a large local warehouse-type merchandiser which definitely will enhance December and January sales. The upward trend continues toward Kaypro's profitability.''

With nearly four decades of experience in the high tech/electronics industry, Kaypro is an internationally recognized brand name. Currently, Kaypro Corp. enjoys a user base of more than a half-million computer systems worldwide and markets a full line of microcomputers for businesses and individuals.

KANSAS CITY, MO (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - La Petite Academy Inc. (LPAI) announced that, based on the results for October and November, earnings for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1990 are expected to be below the fourth quarter of 1989.

Factors affecting the substantial change from analysts' projections involved both revenues and expenses.

The percentage increase in average daily revenues in the fourth quarter are below the levels anticipated based upon the percentage increase in average daily revenues for September.

Expenses for the fourth quarter are higher than anticipated as a result of facility enhancements and accelerated purchases of equipment and supplies in a majority of the child care and preschool education centers. In addition, wages have increased due to increases in minimum wage rates.

La Petite Academy Inc., the second largest system of child care and preschool education centers, serves approximately 81,000 children through its 747 centers in 33 states.

GREENBRAE, CALIF. (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Construction of the first 18-hole championship golf course and country club in the USSR is one giant step closer to reality today with the announcement by California-based American International Golf Resorts that it will enter into a joint venture with Upedika of the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Foreign Affairs, in completing the development of the Moscow Golf and Country Club, the first official 18-hole Soviet golf course and resort.

The 72-par course, located 18 miles from Red Square in Moscow, will stretch from 5,600 yards for beginners to over 6,800 yards for competitions.

Envisioned and designed over 15 years ago by Robert Trent Jones II, the driving force behind the project and one of the world's leading golf course architects, the golf course has been on the drawing boards since 1974 and is to be developed, initially, as a recreational living, sporting and entertainment complex similar to its American counterparts, primarily for the use of the foreign diplomatic corp and visiting businessmen.

Lisanti added that his firm's sights are set on a 1991 opening when the driving range, 18-hole course and 20,000-square-foot clubhouse are completed. AIGR will supervise the construction as well as assume all management responsibilities.

The joint venture funding, according to AIGR's Lisanti, will be used to:

a) Complete the championship 18-hole golf course designed by Robert Trent Jones II;

b) Operate the existing 175-bed luxury hotel complete with restaurant, bar, conference rooms, 300-seat theater, entertainment lounge and casino;

c) Construct a state-of-the-art communication satellite;

d) Construct and furnish the elegant two-story clubhouse complete with its own dining, recreational, conference and merchandising areas;

e) Install an enclosed sports center with large swimming pools, three tennis courts and workout and aerobic facilities;

f) Construct 50-plus individual luxury villas to serve both as home and office for international businessmen;

g) Launch a promotional membership drive throughout the world.

Although the golfing season in Moscow is only six months long, a marketing study has determined that 74 percent of the major world corporations in the area would join and use the Moscow Golf and Country Club facility on a regular basis.

The complex, including three lakes, has been designed with both privacy and comfort in mind, all within a fenced and gated area for maximum security. Located down a private one-mile road away from a major all-weather highway, the facility lies along a ''magnificent country-side and pine forest.''

Equipped with its own heating and sewage plants, this facility will be fully operable throughout the season.

As an added attraction to membership with the Moscow Golf and Country Club will be the ability to exchange privileges with outher AIGR resort facilities to be built throughout the Soviet Union.

BURBANK, CA (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - DAROX Interactive, the nation's largest producer of interactive videodiscs for the healthcare community, Wednesday announced the release of the first in a brand new series of programs marketed under the DxTER tradename.

DxTER's NURSING DIAGNOSIS No. 1 and No. 2 is the first interactive program dealing with the subject to come to market and is the first in a revolutionary series of discs dealing with Nursing Process, according to David Allan, DxTER founder and chief medical advisor.

The program teaches the diagnosis and treatment of human responses to actual or potential health problems that nurses are capable and licensed to treat, as well as clinical judgments about an individual, family or community derived through a systematic process of data collection and analysis.

Until now, the concept of NURSING DIAGNOSIS has been difficult to teach, and equally difficult getting nurses to use the concept in practice. DxTER program offers in-depth interaction with seven patients and provides immediate feedback regarding the validity of the learner's diagnosis through a realistic set of scenarios captured on video.

Aptly described as ''artificial reality,'' interactive video discs meld microcomputer, touch screen monitor, and 12-inch laser disc into an exciting learning environment that relies on instant decision-making for simulated real-time events.

Jodie Hulden, project designer for NURSING DIAGNOSIS, points out that her program is designed to give nurses ample practice in making multiple diagnoses whereas in an actual hospital setting such practice would be severely limited.

Over the next 18 months, DAROX Interactive will issue its new series of 36 interactive discs targeting medical and nursing schools, hospitals and the military, throughout the United States, Denmark and Japan. The new DxTER catalogue will include such ambitious topics as AIDS for Healthcare Professionals, Risk Management, and Coping With Death and Dying, greatly expanding DxTER's highly respected interactive library.

DAROX Interactive, now fully based in Burbank, will follow the release of NURSING DIAGNOSIS with NURSING CARE PLANS, and DISCHARGE PLANS, to round out its innovative series on Nursing Process. Subject Matter Experts for the series are Amy Rex Smith, clinical nurse specialist at Foothill Presbyterian Center in Glendora, Calif., and Ann E. Kelly, MSN, Veterans Adminstration Medical Center, La Jolla, Calif.

SANTA BARBARA, CALIF. (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - ExperTelligence announces record revenues for the year ending Sept. 30, 1990.

Revenues reached $1.2 million for the year vs. $875,000, for the preceding year ending Sept. 30, 1989. ''This is the first time our company has passed the million dollar mark in revenues, with a growth of 36 percent from the preceding year. This shows that there is a growing acceptance of our products and services,'' said Denison Bollay, the company president and chief executive officer.

During the year 1990, the company made very important strategic moves. Portable versions of Action! were developed on the native Macintosh, Sun and IBM PS/2. The Macintosh version was made available in June 1990 and works with Procyon Common Lisp (CLOS).

The Sun and IBM version will be available in the first half of 1991. For the first time, major applications were developed by large companies using ExperTelligence's development environment -- Chicago Board of Trade, Rockwell, McDonnell Douglas, Singer-Librascope and Ameritech.

In all these cases, applications were developed in only a few months vs. a few years initially planned. Talks were also initiated with potential and current investors to raise, through a ''private placement,'' $3 million in additional equity. This would bring ExperTelligence to a level where the company can be re-listed on the NASDAQ quotation system.

The net result for the year is a loss of $153,000 vs. a profit of $197,000 the previous year. ''This figure is in line with management's expectations,'' said John E. Forge, executive vice president and chief operating officer. ''It essentially reflects the emphasis put on accelerating the porting of Action! to Smalltalk and SPOKE and the extensions to the native Macintosh, IBM

SUN and other platforms.''

With its Action! product line, ExperTelligence offers the most advanced object-oriented development environment allowing developers to instantaneously port across platforms and graphical interfaces (''adaptive portability'').

IRVINE, CALIF. (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - The board of directors of Diceon Electronics Inc. (OTC:DICN) Wednesday unanimously recommended that Diceon's stockholders reject Calvary Holdings Inc.'s unsolicited tender offer.

The Diceon board unanimously determined that the $5.25 per share amount of the offer is inadequate and that, in light of the company's future prospects, Diceon's remaining an independent, publicly held company would be a superior alternative to acceptance of Calvary Holdings' offer.

In rejecting the Calvary Holdings' offer, the board relied in part on the opinion of Diceon's financial advisor, Kidder, Peabody & Co. Inc., that the price to be paid in the Calvary Holdings' offer to Diceon's stockholders (other than Calvary Holdings and its affiliates) is inadequate from a financial point of view.

The board also considered the belief of management that Diceon's recent restructuring and its related business strategy will produce greater values for Diceon's stockholders than a sale of Diceon at this time.

''The board does not believe that the offer price reflects the intrinsic value of Diceon today or the values that we believe our restructuring and strategic plan will, if successful, deliver in the future,'' said Peter S. Jonas, vice chairman and executive vice president.

''The tender offer is highly conditional and wholly unfinanced, and the board has substantial doubts that Calvary Holdings will be able to satisfy its own financing condition. In any case, we believe that now is not the time to sell the company. Diceon's management and employees intend to continue to operate our business and service our customers.''

The Diceon board of directors also determined not to take any action that would render the Delaware business combination statute inapplicable to the Calvary Holdings' offer and the transactions contemplated thereby.

The board also has determined to oppose Calvary Holdings' proposed amendments to Diceon's bylaws, which amendments would result in the disqualification of all of the existing members of the board.

RAHWAY, NJ (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Merck & Co., Inc., the world's largest prescription pharmaceutical company, Wednesday announced a $29 million expansion of its Kelco Division's biogum production facilities at San Diego, Calif., and Okmulgee, Okla.

Biogums, produced through fermentation at both plant sites, are used as stabilizing, suspending, thickening and gelling agents in food products such as salad dressing, as well as in various industrial applications, including oil and gas well drilling.

Manufacturing xanthan gum is traditionally extremely capital and energy intensive due to the requirements of the fermentation process.

Recent U.S. Food and Drug Administration approval for gellan gum and increasing interest from industry in applications for rhamsan and welan gums will also require additional capacity, Mosher said.

Kelco, a division of Merck & Co., Inc., is based in San Diego and is the world's leading producer of algin and biogums, including xanthan gum. The world's largest and only North American xanthan gum facilities are operated by Kelco in San Diego and Okmulgee. Kelco's biogum plant near Liverpool, U.K., supplies Kelco customers throughout Europe and the Middle East.

Merck & Co., Inc. is a worldwide research-intensive company that discovers, develops, produces and markets human and animal health products and specialty chemicals. The company has over 34,500 employees, 17 research centers, manufacturing facilities in 18 countries, and a 1990 research and development budget of $855 million. CINCINNATI (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - The City of Cincinnati and the Greater Cincinnati Convention and Visitors Bureau have signed a settlement with Hart Productions Inc., plaintiff in a $12 million lawsuit, to grant Hart and similar producers of large local events the opportunity to schedule date preferences for the Albert B. Sabin Cincinnati Convention Center five years in advance.

This was announced Tuesday by the attorneys for the defendant and plaintiff. Amount of the settlement was not disclosed.

The suit was filed 16 months ago by Hart Productions, a 31-year Cincinnati show producer, against the Bureau and City. The charges of bureau/city agreements to restrain trade and to monopolize use of the Convention Center were based on alleged violations of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

The Sherman Act, passed in 1890, prohibits restraint of trade. The settlement agreement provides that both defendants deny and continue to deny that either or both of them violated this law.

Under terms of the settlement, qualified producers of large local events now will be able to schedule date preferences for space at the Convention Center up to five years in advance.

Formerly, a local event could be pre-empted or ''bumped'' by any out-of-town convention or trade show up to 14 months before the date of the local event. Hart Productions claimed that knowing the exact show date only 14 months in advance made it impossible to effectively plan large local shows.

The settlement states that dates of large local events may be adjusted as long as the new dates are within the same general time frame.

Under the terms of the settlement, the City every three years can review and change the number of days reserved by large public events. Any such changes would be based upon shifts in the local economy as well as changes in the value of the local events to the City and community.

Hart Production's President Robert S. ''Chip'' Hart III has maintained that the priority of the Center should be the attraction of local public events as well as out-of-town conventions and trade shows.

In preparation for the litigation before U.S. District Judge Carl B. Rubin, Hart's attorneys at Taft, Stettinius & Hollister had commissioned a study which found that the real-dollar impact to the Cincinnati economy of Hart's 9-day 1990 Travel, Sports & Boat Show amounted to between $945,000 and $1,599,000 daily.

The study focused only on dollars added to the economy, as opposed to money simply re-allocated from one part of the economy to another, said Hart. It also took into consideration any event-related money taken away from Cincinnati. The study was conducted by Harold L. Bryant, Ph.D., and David R. Weinberg, Ph.D., both of the College of Business Administration at Xavier University, Cincinnati.

Hart said that other economic impact studies indicated that his shows generate financial benefit for the Cincinnati area equal to or greater than that generated by conventions and trade shows.

The Albert B. Sabin Convention Center is owned and operated by the City. However, the City assigned to the Greater Cincinnati Convention & Visitors Bureau the responsibility for marketing the Center to conventions and trade shows.

The Bureau is a member association founded by the downtown hotels. Some 90 percent of the bureau's funds come from public tax money collected on the use of all hotel rooms in Hamilton County.

Hart Production's began 31 years ago in Cincinnati by producing what is now called the Cincinnati Travel, Sports & Boat Show. It later added the Cincinnati Home & Garden Show, The Auto Expo, The Kitchen, Bath & Design Show and The Kroger Show, at the Convention Center. The Hart organization was founded by Robert S. Hart Jr., who currently is the organization's chairman.

LONDON (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - British Gas (NYSE:BRG) has entered into an agreement with Peterborough Power Limited to supply gas to the new combined cycle gas turbine power station at Peterborough.

The supply will be 200 million therms a year for 15 years and will start to flow in 1993 when the 360 Megawatt station is commissioned.

The two major participants in Peterborough Power are Eastern Electricity plc and Hawker Siddeley Power Engineering Limited. Eastern Electricity will absorb the entire output of the station and Hawker Siddeley will undertake the construction.

This is the second major power station which has taken its gas supply from British Gas and the company believes this transaction reflects the interest being shown in the long term interruptible gas options which have been made available.

FORT WORTH, TX (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Pier 1 Imports Inc. (NYSE:PIR), specialty retailer of decorative home furnishings and lawn and garden products Wednesday announced consolidated third quarter results for Pier 1 Imports and Sunbelt Nursery Group.

Pier 1 Imports acquired Sunbelt through the purchase of 50.4 percent of the outstanding shares on Sept. 25, 1990 and the later acquisition of an additional 46 percent of the total shares through a cash tender offer which closed Nov. 21, 1990.

Total company sales for the thirteen week fiscal third quarter ended Dec. 1, 1990 were $145,710,000, the largest third quarter sales in the company's history, up 10.9 percent from $131,349,000 reported for last year's fourteen week fiscal third quarter ended Dec. 2, 1989. Sunbelt contributed $15,538,000 to the sales total. Sales for comparable Pier 1 Imports stores declined by 5 percent while Sunbelt's comparable store sales were flat.

Third quarter operations for the combined companies produced a loss of $1,747,000 or 5 cents per share compared to net income available to common shareholders of $5,677,000 or 16 cents per share in the year earlier quarter. Sunbelt's share of the loss was 4 cents per share.

For the nine months ended Dec. 1, the company had sales of $433,733,000, up 14.1 percent from last year. Net income available for common shareholders was $8,432,000, down from last year's $19,565,000.

''The third quarter was characterized by disappointing sales growth in September and October for the Pier 1 Imports stores,'' said Clark A. Johnson, the firm's chairman and CEO. ''We experienced a solid pickup in November's business with same store sales increases for the first month since July, and that momentum has continued through the first 18 days of our Christmas season.

''Sunbelt produced a third quarter operating loss as projected. This is their weakest sales and income quarter and they too are experiencing a positive Christmas selling season.

''Indicators are that the sales shock which hit our company in early August shows signs of running its course and we expect our fourth quarter which ends March 3, 1991 to show a significant improvement in the bottom line.''

Pier 1 Imports operates 575 stores in 41 states and Canada. Sunbelt operates 96 lawn and garden centers in four Southwestern states.

Under the agreement, Fiserv has offered employment to the Boston Safe employees currently engaged in the ''NOW'' item processing service. ORANGE, CT (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - The board of directors of Hubbell Inc. (AMEX) Wednesday announced the declaration of a regular quarterly cash dividend and an additional stock dividend.

The company's regular quarterly cash dividend of 37 cents per share on Hubbell's Class A and Class B common stock will be paid on Jan. 11, 1991 to shareholders of record on Dec. 31, 1990. The annual payment rate of $1.48 per share includes the 8.8 percent increase, effected by Board in June of 1990, which marked the company's 30th cash dividend increase in the past 30 years.

The board of directors also declared a 5 percent stock dividend to be paid in Class B common shares. Shareholders will receive additional shares of Class B common stock equivalent to 5 percent of ownership of Class A and Class B common stock on the Jan. 11, 1991 record date. The distribution of the additional shares will be made on Feb. 1, 1991 with the value of any resulting fractional shares to be paid in cash.

In making the announcement, the company noted that the actions were taken as part of Hubbell's longstanding policy of increasing return to its shareholders. Since the quarterly cash dividend payment rate per share will remain unchanged after distribution of the additional shares, the effect for shareholders choosing to hold the added shares will be an increase in total cash dividends received.

NEW YORK (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Ceskoslovenske Aerolinie (CSA) announced in Prague Wednesday that J.P. Morgan will be the airline's financial advisor as it examines privatization options and implements the course of action eventually chosen.

The Augment products will be sold by the Augment sales organization.

Augment's family of fiber optic communications link products, called the AL

100 Series, are board-level products that use fiber optic technology to enable direct high-speed point-to-point links between VMEbus, Unibus, Qbus and Nubus based systems. The AL 100 Series provides interconnects by inserting one interface card directly in the computer backplane and another in the remote computer or specialized subsystem device.

''We are pleased to have Augment join our third party marketing program. Their AL 100 Series family provides our customers added benefits of high-speed data transfer with low cost/performance and ease of installation,'' said Pam LaBove, third party marketing manager at Concurrent.

''We view Augment's fiber optic link devices as key products for distributed measurement and control applications. The combinations of high-performance data transfer, noise immunity and a transmit range of 2KM enables customers to remotely locate data collection subsystems and transparently communicate back to the host Concurrent computer,'' said James M. Ciociolo, Concurrent's director of real-time technical systems marketing.

Augment Systems, Inc., headquartered in Bedford, Massachusetts, markets high speed fiber optic links that connect dissimilar workstations, high-end PCs and larger computers.

Concurrent Computer Corporation, headquartered in Tinton Falls, New Jersey, is the leading supplier of high-performance, real-time computer systems worldwide. The company's products, marketed through the Commercial, Simulation/Training and Real-Time Technical Systems Marketing Groups, provide real-time solutions to the financial, communications, public sector, technical aerospace and simulation markets. Its common stock (CCUR) is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System.

COLORADO SPRINGS, CO (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - The Hamilton Standard division of United Technologies Corp. (UTC) Wednesday announced it will build a 100,000-square-foot facility in the Garden of the Gods Industrial Park here for the manufacture, assembly and test of commercial electronic aerospace products.

The one-story building will be constructed on approximately 12 acres of a site owned by the division's parent company. The site is adjacent to the United Technologies Microelectronics Center, another operating unit of UTC.

Construction of the Hamilton Standard facility is slated to begin in the second quarter of 1991 with initial shipments scheduled for March 1992. Up to 250 fully trained and skilled people are expected to be employed when the facility becomes fully operational.

''This facility represents a commitment to position Hamilton Standard as a best-in-class electronics manufacturer as we go forward to meet the tough competition in the global marketplace,'' said company President Terry D. Stinson. ''With this new building, we will be furthering our goal to both expand our business and better satisfy the needs of our commercial aerospace customers.''

The Colorado Springs facility will involve the manufacturing, assembling and testing of environmental control systems and small electronic engine controls and accessories for the commercial aerospace market. The prime customer will be the Boeing Commercial Airplane Group, headquartered in Seattle, Wash. The new facility will provide environmental control systems for Boeing aircraft.

''Our Colorado Springs operation continues the company's strategy of utilizing a 'focused-facility' concept that organizes the electronics business around dedicated product lines and customer bases,'' according to Bob Kuhn, Hamilton Standard's executive vice president and general manager of its Aircraft Products business. ''Focused facilities, in conjunction with high-performance work teams, are the cornerstone for achieving best-in-class results in the 1990s.''

Nine architectural and engineering firms in the United States are currently being considered for the design phase of the project. Bidding on the construction phase will be done locally.

Hamilton Standard's major manufacturing operations are headquartered in Windsor Locks, Conn. The company has two Connecticut-based aerospace electronics facilities. At its headquarters facility in Windsor Locks, an Electronics Center is primarily focused on providing electronic engine controls and accessories for large commercial and military aircraft engines.

A second electronics facility, located in Farmington, Conn., is focused on providing flight, data and guidance systems.

Hamilton Standard employs more than 13,000 people worldwide, and in 1989 had sales of $1.1 billion. The company is best recognized for the space suit/life support system worn by space shuttle astronauts when they work in the harsh environment of space.

Other major products include digital electronic engine controls, aircraft environmental control systems, propeller systems, rotary wing flight control computers, aircraft data systems and space life support systems.

JACKSON, MI (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - Deposit Guaranty Corp. (NASDAQ:DEPS) has entered into an agreement to sell its $90 million credit card portfolio to Cleveland-based Society Corp., announced E.B. Robinson Jr., chairman of Deposit Guaranty Corp. and John D. Hancock, senior vice president of Society Corp.

They further announced an agency agreement whereby the cards -- Visa, Visa Gold and MasterCard, together with Deposit Guaranty's affinity cards groups which include the Univeristy of Mississippi Alumni Association, National Exchange Club, Phi Theta Kappa And Credit Women International -- will continue to be issued under the Deposit Guaranty name and logo. Society will also provide service for the 35 agent banks Deposit Guaranty has served.

Terms of the sale were not released. However, Robinson did indicate that as a result of this one-time gain, fourth quarter earnings could be positively impacted by a pretax gain of approximately $4 to $8 million.

Saying credit card vendors have saturated the market, Robinson described the sale is a strategic move that will bring positive results.

''The credit card industry is now a mature market, and opportunities for profitability are going to be limited in the future for smaller portfolios,'' he said.

''It's getting more difficult to compete with credit card vendors operating nationwide, who have greater economies of scale. We believe this is an excellent time to refocus our resources on more growth-oriented lines of business.''

Hancock, bank card administration manager for Society Corp., said Society is buying Deposit Guaranty's portfolio because ''it meets Society's high credit quality standards, and it has significant profitability potential when added to our existing program. Holders of Deposit Guaranty Visa and MasterCards will continue to enjoy the same high level of quality service they've received.''

Society Corp. is one of the largest bank holding companies in the Midwest with assets of $15.6 billion at Sept. 30. The acquisition will place Society's total bankcard portfolio in excess of $600 million. The holding company has 370 offices in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Florida.

Through its affiliates, Society engages in commercial banking, consumer banking, mortgage banking and leasing, and provides trust investment banking services.

Deposit Guaranty Corp. is a multibank holding company with over $4.7 billion in assets. Its primary subsidiaries are Deposit Guaranty National Bank, the largest bank in Mississippi, and Commercial National Bank, the fifth largest bank in Louisiana.

BRANFORD, CONN (DEC. 19) BUSINESS WIRE - For its first quarter of fiscal year 1991, ended November 30, 1990, Echlin Inc. (NYSE: ECH) reported net sales of $421.3 million, up 14 percent from last year's $371.0 million.

First quarter results were announced by Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Frederick J. Mancheski.

Net income in the first quarter totaled $11.1 million, an 18 percent decrease from net income of $13.5 million reported in the same period a year earlier. Earnings per share in the quarter fell from 24 cents last year to 20 cents this year.

Virtually all the sales increase resulted from additional sales of recent acquisitions. Unit sales of comparable operations (those part of Echlin for at least one year) were down about six percent on a year-to-year basis.

The drop in net income and earnings per share from the prior year's levels was mainly due to the unit sales decline. In addition, one of our divisions in Canada endured a labor strike for two months of the quarter, adding unanticipated expenses which further reduced profits.

''The industry-wide unit sales decline was showing signs of improvement prior to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, an event which triggered a sharp drop,'' Mancheski explained.

''Indicators of parts demand at the vehicle owner level have not significantly deteriorated, and we feel confident that later this fiscal year unit volume trends will turn positive. This, together with operational improvements, will help boost our earnings.''

WASHINGTON (DEC. 20) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows Trustbank Savings F.S.B.(TICKER: TRBK) announced it was notified by the Office of Thrift Supervision ("OTS") that its plan for achieving compliance with the FIRREA-imposed capital requirements is unacceptable.

The capital plan submitted to OTS by Trustbank projected capital compliance by Dec. 31, 1994.

As a result of OTS' rejection of the plan, additional operational restrictions now are applicable to Trustbank, the bank reports.

This makes the bank an "Association Subject to Greater Restrictions," and as such, it would be permitted to make new loans and investments only with the prior approval of the District Director of OTS.

Trustbank was given temporary authority, however, through Dec. 21, 1990, to continue making certain loans and investments, primarily first- and second-mortgage permanent loans and home-equity loans secured by one- to- four-family dwellings, without such approval.

The bank is authorized to continue all other normal banking operations.

PARIS (DEC. 19) - Airbus Industrie, which markets the European Airbus aircraft, said on Wednesday that the sale of 5 Airbus A340 aircraft and five options to Japanese All Nippon Airways (ANA), was a major step in the Asian market.

ANA announced the Airbus orders at the same time that it announced a decision to by 15 of the future U.S. Boeing B-777 aircraft and 10 options.

Airbus said that the order by ANA, the main competitor to Japan Airlines, was the first by a company in the Far East for the four-engined, long-haul 250-seat aircraft which is due to be launched at the end of 1992.

ANA would take delivery of the first airliners in 1996.

Airbus noted that the head of the ANA selection committee Keisuke Inui had said that the A340 was the best solution for long-distance non-stop flights and was ideal for routes with moderate traffic between Europe and North America where ANA was rapidly developing flights.

BEIRUT (DEC. 19) - Lebanese Prime Minister Selim al-Hoss on Wednesday offered the resignation of his government, official sources said.

Education Minister Omar Karami (eds: correct) has been tipped to form a new cabinet but his appointment must await consultations between President Elias Hrawi and his deputies.

The resignation had not been unexpected, as official Lebanese television reported Monday that Mr. Hoss wanted "to rest after four years of service during a time of crisis."

Mr. Hoss's latest government was formed November 25, 1989, shortly after parliament endorsed the Arab-brokered Taif accord.

The agreement, initially approved in Taif, Saudi Arabia, called for a new government of national unity and granted Moslem political figures greater political clout.

The first Hoss cabinet was named in June 1987 following the death in a helicopter explosion of Prime Minister Rashid Karami, the brother of Omar Karami.

Prime Minister Hoss recently presided over the reunification of Beirut after 15 years of factional strife, a move made possible after secular and religious militias agreed to withdraw militarily from the capital.

HARARE (DEC. 19) - Zimbabwe's cost of living rose by 16,9 per cent in the first seven months of this year, 3,6 per cent more than during the same period last year, the lastest issue of the Zimbabwe banking corporation, Zimbank, economic review reported on Wednesday.

According to the review the sharpest price increases of 22,2 per cent and 20,1 per cent occurred in clothing and footwear respectively. The cost of household stores and foodstuffs was reported to have rocketed by 17,1 per cent.

"Prices have accelerated progressively in virtually every month this year," said the review, adding that the easing of price controls from January had seen increases in the prices of several foodstuffs, including milk, bread, meat and sugar which went up by between eight and 55 per cent.

Rail and bus fares were put up by a minimum of 21 per cent and petrol and diesel prices by 45 per cent, while medical aid costs went up by 25 per cent.

Because price controls have been further eased, the review predicted that another fuel hike seemed unavoidable, as there was currently no solution in sight in the Gulf.

"With growing production constraints and rising consumer demand, consumer prices look certain to be rising by between 17 to 18 per cent by early next year," the review added.

GENEVA (DEC. 19) - United Nations aid officials on Wednesday strongly criticised the international community for failing to provide aid for Liberia, where "the greatest human tragedy of our time" was underway.

U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar's call for 13 million dollars to finance immediate aid to the war-torn West African country had brought no specific contributions so far, said Frank Verhagen and Bryan Larner of the U.N. Disaster Relief Co-ordinator's Office (UNDRO).

Meanwhile the United States, which has a special relationship with Liberia, was "waiting for a political settlement" to end the civil war before providing aid.

They said there was an "embarrassing silence" about Liberia, where "the greatest human tragedy of our time" had been unfolding for the past year, since rebels led by Charles Taylor launched a bid to topple President Samuel Doe, slain in September by dissident rebels.

So far, the only help getting through from traditional donors was aid siphoned off from programmes for neighbouring countries, the officials said.

Food aid was available, but if this were to be interrupted in the next few months, it would take five or six months to resume shipments because of difficult access to the country.

They described the situation in Liberia as "volatile and fragile".

Out of a population of some three million, 800,000 had become refugees and displaced people, while 1.5 million were suffering from devastation that had caused lack of food and medicine, among other problems.

Although the U.N.'s 20 staff in Monrovia were able to help the 400,000 people who "depend entirely on external aid", it would be difficult and dangerous for them to leave the capital to evaluate aid needs in rural areas, the officials said.

BERLIN (DEC. 19) - The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) is to open an aid centre in Romania next year that will mark the agency's return to eastern Europe after nearly 40 years, UNICEF executive director James Grant said Wednesday.

The centre, to be opened by early February, will be staffed by an Irishwoman, Rosemary MacCleary, with local help, he said. Funded to the tune of 3.5 million dollars over the next two years, it will set up four regional centres to advise Romanian authorities on child care and pay for exchange trips between Romanian child helpers and those from other countries.

In addition, 1.5 million dollars have already been allocated this year as emergency aid for Romania, he said.

Mr. Grant also unveiled the agency's annual report, which reveals an alarming incidence of child malnutrition and declining education standards in the newly-democratised countries of eastern Europe, where governments have been forced to slash social budgets.

UNICEF was set up after World War II to care for orphaned and needy children in Europe. In the 1950s, its mandate was changed so that the agency's efforts were directing to helping children in developing countries. It has no aid centres in Europe, although it sometimes provides emergency aid.

Mr. Grant also warned that increasing numbers of children are threatened by social cuts in the western industrialised countries and new risks from drugs and acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS).

"In effect, there is a Third World in most industrial countries," he said.

The UNICEF report challenges developing countries to reduce their military budgets in order to help pay for a care programme launched on September 30 by the "World Summit for Children" in New York.

The summit, attended by 71 heads of state and government, pledged to end all child deaths and child malnutrition, on today's scale, by the year 2000.

The 22-point programme will cost around 20 billion dollars a year, of which around two-thirds will probably have to come from the developing countries, the report estimates.

Half of the 20 billion could be made available immediately if those governments ordered a mere five-per-cent cut in their military budgets, which now outstrip their education and health spending combined, it says.

Mr. Grant said that India and Pakistan, together with "Middle East" countries that he did not name, were the biggest culprits in military over-spending.

"India and Pakistan can no more afford their continued arms race through the 1990s than could the USSR and the United States continue their arms race through the 1990s," he said.

MOSCOW (DEC. 19) - More than 50 Soviet personalities, among them officers, deputies and the Patriarch of All Russia, on Wednesday urged President Mikhail Gorbachev to consider emergency rule in cases when law and order threatened to break down, the Interfax news agency reported.

The message was signed notably by deputy Defence Minister Valentin Varennikov, Interior Ministry troops commander Yuri Shatalin and Patriarch Alexei II.

It said presidential rule and state of emergency should be declared in "zones of major conflict" in the event of "failure to exert effective consitutional pressure on separatists, black market dealers and of armed units continuing to shed human blood".

The Soviet Union was facing the threat of "losing its social system which has been preserved despite all the cataclysms of the past 70 years," the signatories said.

Government and social structures were "falling apart" and threatening to bring about "hunger and chaos", while "calls for civil war have been heard from the media", they added.

Reform had been held up by "the criminal shadow economy groups" which are "anti-national and anti-socialist in essence" and which were out to destroy the country.

Mr. Gorbachev could rely on support from the communist party and "the world's leading politicians", the message said.

Those figuring in the list of 53 names also included Leningrad communist party boss Boris Gidaspov, Navy commander Admiral Vladimir Chernavin, the chief of the general staff, General Mikhail Moiseyev and Culture Minister Nikolai Gubenko.
